To comprise this travelling art show, each town will have its own local art exhibit which will include local artists as well as all amateur painters in the district.

Professional painters in the travelling art exhibition are as follows in order of the towns in which they will be shown: Belleville, Napanee, Kingston, Picton, Trenton, Warkworth, Campbellford, Hastings, Madoc, Bancroft, Haliburton, Lindsay, Peterborough, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle and Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne and Brighton.

PLANS NOW COMPLETE

Plans for the local art exhibit are now complete. All amateur artists in the district are eligible and most welcome to submit their paintings. All pictures must be brought to the Arts and Crafts Room, King George School, Monday, March 14th, where they will be hung and judged by competent judges. The local exhibit open to the public will be Friday, March 18th, when it will be announced whose pictures have been chosen for the travelling art exhibit.

The judging procedure will, of course, be taking place in all the other towns and the best pictures in each centre will make up the travelling art exhibit.

The following set of rules has been drawn up:

1. Any one in the district is eligible.

2. Entries to be the original work of amateur artists—that is

Ont. Tomatoes Up 50 cts. a Ton From Last Year

CHATHAM (CP)—The 1955 price for Ontario tomatoes has been set at 50 cents a ton higher than last year, the Ontario vegetable growers marketing board announced Tuesday.

That boosts the price of No. 1 grade tomatoes up to $37 a ton and No. 2 grade up to $25 a ton.

The board also announced that John Litschko, Raleigh township farmer, has been named the top tomato grower in the province on the basis of a 19.56 ton-per-acre yield and a 705 average grade.

Passenger Diesels Speedily Serviced at Belleville Stop

Moira-Schuster Ltd. of Belleville, dealers in diesel and domestic fuel oils, made speedy work of refueling a Canadian National Railways diesel operated passenger train during a test run on the Montreal-Chicago route several weeks ago. They stop only twice for fuel on the inter-city run—at Belleville and Sarnia—and at the latter only eight minutes were taken up as approximately 800 gallons of special diesel oil were pumped into engine tanks during the stop at the C.N.R. coal chutes for fuel and water.

Divisional railway officials were on hand to check the time consumed in re-fueling at the Belleville stop. Shown in the picture taken after the passenger diesel on its initial trial run are: Gerald Dawson, marine terminal manager for Moira-Schuster; A. G. Wilson, C.N.R. divisional superintendent; W. A. Easton, assistant superintendent; Lorne Reid, C.N.R. fuel department, Toronto; A. McLean Haig, president Moira-Schuster Ltd., and R. D. White, C.N.R. locomotive foreman at Belleville.

Preparatory to an expected switch from coal burning locomotives to diesel power for passenger trains, a series of tests is currently being conducted by the Canadian National Railways on many of its main lines to determine just what a switch to diesels might mean in saving of time and money.

Several weeks ago the first test of a converted passenger train was staged on the Montreal-Chicago run and although trains adhered to the present schedule, preliminary reports indicated the elapsed time for the inter-city run could be shortened if a switch to full time diesel operation were made.

A. G. Wilson, divisional superintendent at Belleville, emphasized that the diesels were being operated on passenger service on a test basis only and operational data would be gathered before any decision was made to switch exclusively to diesels.

Diesel passenger trains make regular stops for water but on the Montreal-Chicago run only two stops are made for fuel. One of these stops is at Belleville and the other is at Sarnia.

SPLIT SECOND TIMING

Split second timing is required for fueling of the diesel locomotives in order that the trains may be on their way as quickly as possible and with the least loss of time.

At the Belleville stop for fuel the diesel passenger train on its initial test run was held up for only eight minutes as something like 800 gallons of special diesel oil were pumped into the waiting engines. Moira-Schuster Ltd. supplied the diesel fuel.

For the initial test the Moira-Schuster truck delivery men were ready with a truck hose lines waiting and even before the train pulled to a complete stop caps on engine fuel tanks were off and fuel was being pumped into the tanks.

To save time two trucks were used —one for each of the two diesels hauling the 12-car train—and in just eight minutes, refueling was completed and the train was on its way.

Leading Broker Voices Confidence In Stock Market

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leading Wall street broker in a prepared statement has voiced confidence in the health of the stock market in the wake of Tuesday's $3,000,000,000 tumble in stock prices.

Winthrop H. Smith, managing partner of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane, attributes the 18-month-old market boom mainly to public confidence in the country's future.

His testimony for the United States Senate banking committee was that "there appears to be a greater feeling of confidence at this time than there has been for a long time."

Smith's testimony was prepared before Tuesday's selling waves on the New York Stock Exchange one of the year's worst breaks. But there was no indication after the break that he planned to alter his statement.

RECORDS HUGE DROP

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $3.10 a share Tuesday, roughly equivalent to a total of $60,000,000 in the market valuation of all listed stocks.

Some analysts have linked the American market's jitters with Tuesday's Senate testimony by Harvard economist John K. Galbraith in the committee's "friendly study" of the market and the stock price boom.

Galbraith urged "strongest precautionary measures" to guard against the boom's getting out of hand and winding up in a collapse. He proposed that the government step up margin requirements to 100 per cent to stop stock buying on credit and curb what he described as too much speculation.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) said he doubted that the market break had any connection with Galbraith's testimony or with the banking committee's inquiry. But he did comment that Tuesday's market performance only "demonstrated the wisdom" of Galbraith's words of caution.

TAKES DELIVERY

KINGSTON (CP)—Dr. M. A. Rauf, India's high commissioner to Canada, Tuesday took delivery of the first of 120 locomotives built by the Canadian Locomotive Company in Indii under the Colombo plan.

Six Retiring CNR Engineers Honored by Brotherhood

Canadian National Railway engineers who retired during 1954 were honored by members of the local Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at a banquet and dance held Tuesday evening at the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans' club room on Front street.

Approximately 130 persons, including engineers and their wives and special guests attended the function, heard addresses from regional and local railway officials and saw six retiring engineers and their wives presented with gifts.

Retired engineers honored by the Brotherhood included N. Williamson, Hugh Singer, Casey Hensey, W. H. Doran, H. C. Bachelor and N. H. Robb. Missing from the group was William Gardiner who died suddenly a short time after his retirement last spring.

Chief Engineer A. Clarke made the presentations on behalf of the Brotherhood with retiring engineers receiving a wallet and their wives cups and saucers.

L. "Doc" Daugherty was master of ceremonies for the banquet program. The toast to the Grand Chief was the first of the toasts proposed by J. Cunningham with response by R. Campbell, assistant Grand chief; the toast to retiree power was proposed by F. Gilchrist, response by J. Payne, master mechanic.

TOAST TO GRAND LODGE

R. Jones proposed the toast to the Grand International Auxiliary with response by Mrs. R. Wilson. The toast to the engineer retiring last year was by E. Goodman with F. N. Robb responding.

Brief addresses were given by A. Clarke, chief engineer, Mayor J. Bolti, Roadmasters Mr. L. Stobbard H. G. McKay were introduced along with W. A. Easton, assistant superintendent.

Top notch entertainment by local artists was enjoyed. Vocal solos were given by Ann Davidson who sang "The Lord's Prayer", and by Ed Brown whose rendition of "Danny Boy" and a rollicking Irish number were well received. An accordion solo was given by Miss Jerry Jerome, while Miss Margaret Slavin, Grade XI H.C.I. student, received a big hand after she demonstrated the art of black magic. The capable assistant for Margaret was her sister Ruth.

Concluding the banquet program was a draw for prizes donated by local merchants.

GAZA REVIVES ARAB ALLIANCE

The United Nations mixed armistice commission has charged Israel with deliberate aggression, alleging that Israeli forces deliberately attacked Egyptian forces in the Gaza strip last week.

If the charge be true, Israel may rue the day it violated the 1949 Palestine truce agreement in this manner.

This is not, of course, the first violation of the agreement. There have been myriad border incidents, many of them of a minor nature but some, like the Gaza incident, resulting in serious loss of life. Feelings between the Jews and the Arabs run high. Between them there is a long history of strife and unforgiveness, as may be imagined. It is not reasonable to suppose that either side is wholly to blame for these incidents which have marred the truce. Nevertheless, the Gaza incident comes at a most inopportune time.

The defence agreement between Turkey and Iraq, recently signed, had announced its purpose to disrupt the Arab League. Arab nations such as Egypt and Syria saw in it an attempt to link the Arab League with the coalition of western nations against Communism and these Arab nations desired to remain neutral in this conflict. Turkey, of course, has defence treaties with the west and, when Iraq, a member of the Arab League, joined Turkey in a defence pact, Egypt, in particular, was alarmed and annoyed. The Egyptians immediately announced their intention of forming a new Arab bloc and Syria and Saudi Arabia have met some difficulty in this task. The Gaza attack, however, has changed that. If anything can unite the Arab nations it is their hatred of the Jews and their distrust of Israel.

When the United Nations security council met last week, all the council members indicated that, on the basis of preliminary reports, they held Israel responsible for the Gaza incident. The sole exception was Russia. What this silence portends, if anything, is difficult to say. Amongst all the nations of Europe, Russia has the blackest record of anti-Semitism in the days of the Czars. That changed when the Communists came to power, but of recent years there have been repeated charges that the Jews are once again being subjected to persecution in Russia. This might have led one to expect that Russia would take a firm denunciation of Israel, especially as Egypt and the other Arab states have wedded themselves to a policy of neutralism in the struggle between the Western democracies and Communism.

Perhaps the Russians believed that they had little to win by supporting the Arabs; that Britain, the United States and other members of the security council would not be able to overcome the distrust with which the Arab nations regard them and that, on the other hand, the condemnation by the western powers, however richly deserved, might turn Israel toward Russia. In that hope, we are convinced the Russians are doomed to disappointment. Israel, however, would do well to act with greater restraint in future, no matter how great the provocation. She can ill afford to lose, as she everything to lose, by alienating the sympathies of the western world, which naturally went out to the Jews as they endeavored to re-establish themselves as a nation in their ancient homeland after the terrible persecutions they suffered during the Second Great War.

SEAWEED FLOUR

What are the nationalistical characteristics of Norwegians? There is a nasty story which circulates in Northern Ontario, where there are numerous residents of Scandinavian descent, that Norwegians are Swedes with the brains taken out. This canard is effectively answered by a little item appearing in "News of Norway," issued by the Norwegian Information Service. It reads in quote:

"A growing number of bakeries in Western Germany are enriching their flour with Norwegian seaweed meal. Containing valuable elements and vitamins, it is now being used by 50 major bakeries.

Are the Norwegians a revengeful race? Is this their vengeance for Hitler's invasion of their country? The idea of enriching flour with Norwegian seaweed meal is so strange that a Canadian might be pardoned for regarding it as a rather cruel jest at the expense of the West Germans. Probably, though, it is the best bread from this seaweed enriched flour we should be forced to admit that this was just another example of the aptitude which scientists have for making a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

Actually, the edibility of seaweed is not a matter of discovery. We seem to have heard someplace that seaweed is considered a delicacy by the Chinese, but we have always paired it with Irish moss as not a good thing to eat. The world's best cooks can mix a strange broth upon occasion. From the Encyclopedia Americana, though, we learn that "some species (of seaweed) are edible, as notably the so-called 'Irish moss' of the Atlantic coast of America and Europe, from which is made the delicacy known as blanc mange." This strained our credibility somewhat, as the only blanc mange with which we have had an eating acquaintance was a shivering white mass of jelly which obviously had a greater affinity with cow's milk than seaweed. But perhaps that was the original blanc mange. At it was, it just proves that seaweed is versatile. You can make it into pudding, or bread, or you can burn it and receive 5 per cent of its weight as potash salts, especially carbonates and sulphates of sodium and potassium.

You're the one to give the word
Who children should be seen
And at table seldom heard.

Tell her when you call her down
To not pass the task to me,
It is yours beyond a doubt,

Mr. Newton Thompson has received word from the headquarters of the Ontario Boys' Work Board that the Alpha Tuxis Square of which he is a member, won the Dominion championship as a result of the Indoor Athletic Competition which was held last season. Tuxis Square also won the Ontario championship by securing the highest points during the same competition. Of a possible six hundred points the boys won five hundred and sixty nine points. This is a record of which to be proud. The following have by each receive a special medal for winning the highest honors in the competition: Jas. Dodging Moore, Edgar Buchanan, Murray Hall, Alex. Weir, Albert Miles and Charlie Galway.

Miss Rupert of this city has returned to Toronto where she will resume her duties at the Bible Training School.

It is reported that the prospects are bright for the reopening of the rolling mills. Here's hoping.

In a hockey match between the 15th. Regiment team and the Bankers' team the latter team won, the score being 5 to 3. The following composed the teams: Bankers, — Williamson, Horton, R. Hamilton, Wylie, W. Hamilton, Tassie and Allen; Fifteenth Regiment — Walker, Carman, Allen, McFee, Burke, Wallbridge and Fish. The referee was Will C. Grainger and he handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

Coming Soon Cars for Men!

(Ottawa Citizen)

As if things aren't bad enough, a United States automobile executive has predicted that by 1965 there will be cars for men only, and the U.S. will have two cars. The executive, Mr. George Romney, president of American Motors', envisions the move. Two cars! May by the merger of Nash-Kelvinator with the Hudson Motor Car Co. being his forecast on the trend. One would be a compact and semi-rural living. Progress can't be stopped, and if the trend is toward two-car families, then it is too much to expect the tandem to be reversed. Mr. Romney's statement does however, provide food for thought.

The way things stand now, it is possible at certain hours of the day to see quite considerable a walk a whole city block without touching the sidewalk or pavement, simply by progressing along the roofs of cars awaiting an opportunity to move. Two-car cars to every other family will not ease the congestion. Nevertheless, the dark prospect is not unrelieved by some light.

At least a new market will be opened up, with manufacturers able to appeal to husbands exclusively. Some cars, aimed largely at the husband market which will generally would likely come in black, blue, or grey, with engineering qualities emphasized. At the same time, the women's large market could continue to absorb the many models being built to match a new dress and accessory line, tailored a pink, lilac, maple leaf or elephant ivory with lines described as "swinging." Mr. Romney's prediction is not entirely discouraging.

Dictators Little Men

(Charlotte News)

We have just come to the happy conclusion that J. Raymond Mackenzie-Kippler, who died, will never be a dictator. He's too big.

The Wisconsin senator measures 6 feet 6½ inches. Nobody someone asked him once why he wore wedgies. He explained sincerely that twas on account of war wounds. (his one "war wound," you may recall, was that he had to be fell off a ship's ladder.)

But Mr. Kippler's size from the point of the story, which is that dictators are little men, pressure-determined to be "big men" in other than physical proportions.

Harrison Salisbury, long time New York Times correspondent in Moscow, who has just written a fascinating account of life in Russia, says that the Russian junta now rules the Red roost. It is comprised of Malenkov, Khrushchev, Molotov, Bulganin and Mikoyan, all of them are about 5 feet 4 inches.

That makes them about the height Stalin was. Hitler was at the most, a couple of inches taller. Mussolini was shorter, about 5 feet 3, while Napoleon's height is doubtful.

So don't worry about the big demagogues. But watch those little rascals.

Britons Top Tea Drinkers

(Ottawa Journal)

Once again Britons are the undisputed champion drinking champions of the world. Announcing the vice-chairman of the India Tea Board pointed out last year consumed 600,000,000 pounds of tea—half the world's total production. This is easily a power effortlessly, and compares with 473,000,000 pounds consumed here in 1953.

No other nation can approach Britain's tea drinking record. Canada comes a poor second, drinking less than 10 pounds each. Britain's tea consumption for 1954 works out at about 10 lb. per head of the population. A statistician calculates that this means everyone has 10 cups of tea a day.

But it seems more likely that the average Englishman drinks several cups of tea in the pot morning and night, and about 25 percent of Britain's tea goes down the sink.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Cigarets are for chatter: cigars are for talking big and wise; pipes are for reflection and talking hardly at all.

You seldom see a cigar or pipe at at cocktail party or at any similar gathering where the conversation is on the same level as sparrows chirping. At quick counters and those restaurants where it is the custom of the house to eat and run, the cigaret is the smoke. In the theatre lobbies, at intermission, in motor cars, and along the crowded streets at rush hours, the cigaret goes with the hurry and tone of the occasion.

But in the stateler restaurants where men dawdle over their meals, discussing wide and deep, debating large issues instead, solving problems of state, impressing one another with the amount of time they have on their hands not to mention their wisdom, sagacity and wealth of information, the cigar is the thing. Cigars lend themselves to the postures of statesmanship. They accent the personage. A big man's big, gold, initialled cigar, half-shut eyes through the blue haze of the cigar. A little man feels even bigger. A cigar has there in it, which cigarets lack entirely. I mean dignity. Cigarets are frivolous. But I am told that in board rooms, cigarets are a big part of the act. In behind a cigar, a financier feels camouflaged.

But a pipe is a homely, honest, easeful symbol. You never think of a man with a pipe in his mouth as being busy, acquisitive, on-the-make. A pipe imparts the sense of a philosopher at least instantly. It does the sight of a fresh-shirted man with a glass of whiskey held stiffly about waist high identifies him as a man of distinction. Pipe smokers are also generally good listeners. They are not sitting-forward men, they are leaning-back men. Unlike cigaret smokers, they are not externally snatching impatiently for the next words to speak; nor do they, like cigar smokers, lean the weight in their jaws and talk wise out of the other side. No. Pipe smokers take their ease. They are contemplative. They laugh, briefly. And then put them back in, to continue listening, eyes thoughtful.

Liking for Oysters

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

One of the best understatements of the year so far was made by a visitor to Melbourne, Australia. After swallowing 480 oysters in an hour he made claim to a new world's record and remarked: "I must be fond of oysters."

Hurricanes Named Again

(New York Herald-Tribune)

Feminine nomenclature for hurricanes seems to be an established part of the American meteorological scene. The Weather Bureau in Washington has just promoted its list of names for the hurricanes expected in 1955, ranging from Alice to Linda. The fact that there are 36 names in the list precisely related to the number of letters in the alphabet than to the expected number of tropical storms.

Adoption of the system of feminine listings evidently means the defeat of those citizens who regarded the policy of naming hurricanes for girls as a rather unchivalrous act. It evidently is hard to see what other name could be given a calling hurricanes by male names such as Al, Bob, Chet and Dave obviously fails to convey the coldness and excitement of these great storms; and merely assigning them numbers, such as Hurricanes One, Two and Three, lacks the personal touch. It is a difficult approach.

It's not even easy to find girls' names for hurricanes these days. The 1955 listing includes such names as Carol, Edna, Hazel, Ursa, Verna and Xenia, all of which belong to an earlier era, a romantic novel rather than storms. All in all, the Weather Bureau is doing pretty well as can be expected. One suggestion: Let us hope that by the time the list is used up, the public will have proven to be of the most distant type.

Eggs' Tastes Vary Widely

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

How do you like your eggs? To put it another way, what kind of eggs do you like?

There's a great scientific project under way at Cambridge University in England, and its object is to gather evidence to settle controversies about eggs. In the last five years, the scientists have eaten 144 varieties of eggs and then taken a vote on how they tasted.

The consensus is that ostrich eggs are "fine," though you'd better not crack one unless you're having company to help you clean the dish. Penguin eggs, on the other hand, are a big disappointment, inferior to an ordinary hen's output. Pureed and bodgerized, are parakeet eggs, too, are hardly the sort of thing you'd want to serve to your guests—unless, perhaps, they are looking to get rid of them.

The research obviously has possibilities and we'd like to see more of all the eggs we've tried so far. How do duck eggs rate? Goose eggs? Guinea and turkey eggs? Or turtle eggs?

Fish eggs are widely eaten—sturgeon eggs, or roes, are caviar, cron eggs, and shad and herring eggs. Indians have tried robin or bluebird or meadowlark eggs, eagle or seagull or snipe eggs, and even bat eggs, or curlew eggs or peacock's eggs.

But that isn't the only egg-laying creature. There is the snapping alligator or iguana or horned lizard eggs, or cobra or anaconda or gartersnake eggs, and so on for scaly eggs?

The scientists haven't tried all of these, we gather. The alleged preference of their project is to find out whether the color of eggs is related to the taste. In that case, they might have a go at Easter eggs.

PRESCRIPTION FOR SPIRITUAL RECOVERY

Dr. Edward L.R. Elson, pastor of the Washington Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C., is chaplain to President Eisenhower and the man who received the President into membership of the church.

Dr. Elson has recently written a book entitled "America's Spiritual Recovery" (Fleming H. Revell Company) in which he outlines the moral lapse, the new awakening, the challenge of communism, the recovery of our foundations, the necessity for intolerance with evil, and the maintaining of spiritual disciplines. It is a great book for all Americans to read because Dr. Elson, with the true spirit of a Washingtonian, believes that the nation's capital is the symbol of a great world spiritual awakening. He summons Americans and believers in democracy everywhere to a realization that a nation is great only to the extent that its spiritual values are sound and genuine.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the apparent public interest in books on religious topics. This book by Dr. Elson, priveliged as he is to be close to the throbbing pulse of world affairs, is one of the inspiring products of a man who believes in a spiritual America, and who is giving all he has to the maintenance and strengthening of the nations's spiritual life.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON TAKING LEAVE

A note of sadness comes over us as we leave a place that has contributed to our happiness. We are bound to leave something of ourselves behind, as well as treasuring bits of information and memories which we cannot help but wedded us to a place.

There is a sadness in a statement that Ernest Hemingway made in a recent article by Marlene Dietrich. He said he never returned to any place except reluctantly. What a multitude of sins may be in the same feeling. Under the glass of my desk is a statement that says: "When we leave Hartshorn we are little." I have never talked with anyone who has been to those enchanted islands, who didn't land on them in a daze of wonderment, to leave them reluctantly but with a firm decision to return if possible. They have a meaning that no other there—Aloha! Welcome and Goodby.

TREATMENT O F SYPHILIS

Medicine was making vast strides back in the days when Topsy was a colt, in Penn Yan, that is; and I was, believe it or not, so besotted that Mickey, Lulla Rook's Topsy, and I, or anyway Mickey and I, nearly starved. For instance, when I was little boy assure a man, upon thorough examination, that he was perfectly healthy he refused to pay my fee because I had not given him any medicine. The man might have been happier had I given him $3 worth of iodized or ultraviolet treatment twice a week for a few months. And we might have kept out of jail.

What seemed at the time to be the greatest single stride medicine had ever made was Paul Ehrlich's discovery of the one-shot cure of syphilis. It was a compound known as "606," salvarsan, arsphenamine, or, in its modified white, salvarsan promised just one injection would destroy all the syphilis germs (Spirochaeta or Treponema-pallidum) present in the body. Before the introduction of "606" into practice nothing quite so effectual had been achieved.

It was not long before physicians realized this breakthrough was dangerous—destruction of the germs in the body without endangering the life of the patient—was only a dream. Medical authorities have, to their lasting regret, two or three successive injections, later seven or fourteen and finally a annual course of treatment with salvarsan or one of its derivatives, most of the remedy, for the "control" of syphilis.

Apology Demand Stirs Debate In Legislatures

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Demands for apologies and charges of false-accusation rang out in three provincial legislatures Tuesday.

A Progressive Conservative resolution calling for a judicial inquiry into government land deals brought a hot denial of wrongdoing from Alberta's Social Credit government.

Paul Brechen asked for the inquiry. The Progressive Conservative member for Calgary charged earlier that a man who kept horses in the same stable as a cabinet minister had made an "excessive profit" in transactions for land for a proposed new provincial jail near Calgary.

Premier Manning said any insinuation that a middleman was tipped off about the land transactions was "impossible and malicious, baseless falsehood."

SIDESTEPS DEMANDS

In the New Brunswick legislature, Liberal W. J. Gallant sidestepped demands by Edgar Fournier, chairman of the power commission, that he apologize for saying Mr. Fournier overcharged the government on his car milage allowance.

Mr. Gallant earlier said Mr. Fournier charged a flat 10 cents a mile when he was only entitled to nine, then eight cents after a certain number of miles.

Mr. Fournier said last Thursday he was entitled to 10 cents for all miles as a member of the provincial cabinet under an act passed in 1948. He demanded Mr. Gallant apologize, resign or be censured.

Mr. Gallant replied Tuesday that the power commissioner is not a minister of the crown. He said Mr. Fournier was appointed under the Electric Power Act, which did not provide that the chairman be a member of the executive council.

ASKS APOLOGY

The British Columbia government is demanding an apology from Liberal Leader Arthur Laing for statements attributed to him in newspaper reports. Mr. Laing was quoted as saying the Social Credit government sank $25,000 into a bankrupt irrigation company in the Kamloops district as part of an election campaign.

He refused to apologize for his remarks when they were brought up Tuesday night in the legislature's committee on public accounts. The committee censured him and turned the matter over to the legislature.

Education Week

Replace Hickory Stick Tune With March, Song and Cheer, Teach Much More Than 3 R's

Reading, writing and 'rithmetic aren't taught to the tune of a hickory stick nowadays. Modern sound effects include Friday night jazz bands, school orchestras, glee clubs and cheer leaders.

Cadet parades have replaced the "three mile walk" to the little red school house; Daniel Boone never saw the day he could shoot as well as the modern collegiate's rifle team; Shakespeare and Gilbert and Sullivan are well known authors of high school plays and operettas; the clubs do everything from lettering "boys" and "girls" signs to painting technicolor Christmas murals; and high school writers publicize their schools in weekly newspaper columns and on radio broadcasts.

Extra-curricular activities include everything from junior service clubs to reinvesting interform sports, learning Morse code and mastering the intricacies of dismantling and re-assembling a machine gun.

Through it all schools continue to teach students languages, biology, natural and social sciences, history, geography and the three R's.

TERM IS MISNOMER

Extra-curricular activity is a term loosely applied to all activity engaged in by students outside regulation school hours. It is, to some extent, a misnomer, as so-called "extra-curricular" activity is associated with curricular activity and because it lengthens the school day and encroaches on the lunch hour.

Its 18 school clubs encompass almost every facet of student interest not included in the regular curriculum. Basketball, hockey, football and track and field squads visit all parts of the district for inter-school and inter-zone competition.

MANY CLUBS

Would you like to join a club? BCI has art, camera, science, radio, library, dramatic, glee, athletic, and service clubs. There is a band, a signals club, a rifle team, stage crew and United Nations clubs.

Operettas commandeer the services of many clubs for staging, costuming, publicity and advertising. Singers gain practical experience before live audiences. The band has a chance to accompany a musical production.

Plays use technical skills as well as dramatic talent. The art clubs does posters for all clubs and members learn not only the finer points of art but gain practical experience in how to sell events through poster advertising.

Kampus Kapers, held last week, is a first rate revue calling on the brains, brawn and skill of scores of students.

Cadet training, compulsory in Ontario high schools, not only marches students about in the open air, if instills discipline as it teaches the finer points of signalling, weapon handling and drill.

The social side of school is tuned to the popular melodies of the week's top ten tunes as played on juke boxes or by bands providing music for regular school dances. The Friday night gymnasium dances are topped by two or three annual formals.

Slightly more strenuous pastimes include inter-school and inter-form rugby, basketball and hockey. Boys' and girls' athletic societies preside over the multitude of teams that play volleyball, badminton, floor hockey and softball, as well as over members of the boxing club and the cheerleaders.

COMPLEX SOCIETY

This varied and complex student society is presided over and administered by a students' council — top members of which are duly nominated and elected following a school-wide election campaign complete with posters, slogans and vote-getting speeches.

Being a student in high school these days is hectic, vigorous and sometimes almost impossible.

magazine, Editors, attended sympathetically by a staff adviser, start work the day school opens, and if BCI wrap up their year's efforts with the publication of "The Elevator" in the spring.

This year-long chore includes the compilation of material about everything of importance to students that occurred during the preceding year, editing of copy, make-up of the magazine, negotiations with printers, photographers, advertisers, and engravers, and finally, with the distribution of the magazine, collection of subscriptions and auditing of accounts.

TO LAUNCH MAGAZINE

Last year's "Elevator" ran to 144 pages. This year Quinte Secondary School will launch its student publication to record the multiplying activities of its growing student body.

School magazines, reflecting student activity faithfully, leaves the straight record of work with a healthy and robust serving of humor. The "new look" in education has a smile on its face. That students have fun in a scheduled life that includes as much extra effort is a credit to their interest and stamina. They not only have fun, they pass examinations too.

ON TUESDAY, MARCH 15th., YOU WILL BE ASKED FOR A CONTRIBUTION TO THE CANADIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY. $19,000.00 IS NEEDED LOCALLY TO PUT THE DRIVE OVER THE TOP. EVERYONE KNOWS THE GREAT WORK THE CANADIAN RED CROSS IS DOING IN CANADA? BUT DO YOU KNOW? DO YOU REALIZE THE TREMENDOUS JOB YOUR LOCAL RED CROSS BRANCH IS DOING IN BELLEVILLE AND VICINITY.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION TO THE RED CROSS DRIVE

THE RED CROSS HOMEMAKERS' SERVICE

During 1954 Homemakers were placed in one hundred and ninety-nine homes. Three hundred and ninety-one children were cared for, and the Homemakers worked one thousand, six hundred and eighty-four days. The supervisor made six hundred and nineteen visits. Seventeen educational meetings were held. Used clothing and bedding was given to twenty-one needy families. The supervisor spoke to three pre-natal classes and to one church group. Ten Homemakers were active, and one full time supervisor. The total days of service ranked second among the 28 branches in the province that carry on this work.

DISASTER AND EMERGENCY

During the year, new bedding, clothing, food, etc., were supplied to several families who had been burned out. Emergency medicine supplied; milk to a family of seven children. In several cases diapers and clothing were supplied to needy babies. In one case where sickness had taken the bread-winner, the Red Cross supplied needed articles to the mother and children. In the last week in February, blankets were supplied to a burned out family near Madoc.

THE RED CROSS LOAN CUPBOARD

The loan cupboard now has eight wheel chairs and three hospital beds in use continually. The chairs were loaned to 21 families and beds to 5 families. Other equipment for the sick such as bed rests, bed tables, braces, crutches, back rests, etc., were loaned to people, who needed them during the year.

THE RED CROSS VOLUNTEER HOME NURSING

During the year the Belleville branch sponsored a class in Home Nursing at the Army Camp, Picton. Twenty-two received their pins. A supplementary civil defence course will be conducted in the spring for the class who had completed the course in Home Nursing. A manual on First Aid was distributed to interested groups.

WELFARE AND RELIEF

In the past year several appeals for relief were received and attended to. An ambulance was supplied for patient to hospital clinic, also supplement weekly food and drugs for several months. Supplied shoes, galoshes, clothing, medicine, milk to needy persons. Helped family whose belongings were delayed in transportation. Supplied cod liver oil capsules to school children.

BLOOD DONORS

In April of Red Cross Blood Donors clinic with 97 donors attending was held, and 90 bottles of blood were forwarded to Toronto for processing into gamma globulin. The importance of donating blood has been stressed in a number of ways.

WOMEN'S WORK COMMITTEE

During the past year 56 miles of flannelette were made into babies' garments and more than six tons of yarn knitted into sweaters and socks by Canadian Red Cross volunteers. In Belleville 375 articles including girls' tunics, blouses, nightgowns, overalls, infants' sleeping bags, knitted wear for boys and girls, men's socks and quilts, etc., were made by volunteer workers and shipped to Red Cross headquarters. Four groups in the churches are organized and work regularly in making clothing.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

During the year, Junior Red Cross groups in our schools raised funds for needy families, supplied toys for distribution at Christmas, canned goods were sent to victims of Hurricane Hazel, and donations made to Crippled Children's Fund and other worthy needs. Health talks and rules were stressed in the primary division. The coat of administration and supervision has been met by the Red Cross.

Christ Church Parish Guild Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of the Christ Church Parish Guild was held Tuesday afternoon in the parish hall with Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott, president, presiding.

Mrs. Fewtrell gave the devotional.

Following the reports from various committees, Mrs. Wonnacott introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. Orr, who gave a most interesting address on Baptist Missionary work carried on in India, Bolivia and Africa.

Mrs. M. Bolton tendered a hearty vote of thanks on behalf of the Guild.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Contact Club Prepares For Tea, Sale

Christ church parish hall bustled with activity Monday evening as preparations got under way for the forthcoming Contact club tea and sale. Sewing machines stitched away and willing hands busied themselves in turning out pretty garments for little folk. Heaps of sewing could be seen everywhere, giving promise of many busy hours yet to come.

While members worked, a short business meeting was conducted by president Marguerite Cooke. An interesting and complete report of the recent vestry council meeting was given by club representative, Margaret Shapen.

At the close of the evening, members enjoyed refreshments, served by hostesses Alice Wonnacott, Doris Stewart and Isobel Murray.

Pr. of Wales H-S Assoc. Buys Recorder

The March meeting of Prince of Wales Home and School Club, being the form of Fathers' Night, on Tuesday, March 1.

Mr. J. Sproule was the chairman of the meeting as Mr. Peter Murray was unavoidably absent.

The treasurer of the evening, Mr. Hunter, reported a balance of $142.30. The membership was 109.

Mr. Slack read the correspondence.

Mr. Lockyer's room won the attendance banner for the most parents present.

An announcement regarding the Toronto Philharmonic Choir at Bridge Street Church on Saturday, March 19, being brought to Belleville by College Street United church choir, was given.

A discussion took place about a tape recorder for the school. The uses were music festivals; reading; recording programs; making records; programs played back for Home and School entertainments.

It was decided that a committee composed of Mr. Durrant, Mr. Sproule and Mrs. Slack buy a tape recorder.

The school is going to take on the project of putting new curtains on the stage. The girls of grade VIII announced $2.76 from the proceeds of selling candy towards this end.

Mr. Hagerman, of James Texts, kindly printed the programs for the March meeting.

Mrs. Harry Elvins and Mrs. Jim McBride were co-operative workers in the Valentine tea and euchre.

The program included two films: a comedy, "Down With Cats", and a travelogue, "Highways of Canada," showing the historic spots of Quebec, under the able direction of the program convener, Mr. T. Burns.

Mrs. Grey with her able-bodied committee of men, served refreshments bringing another helpful ad instructive program to a close.

BABY'S COLDS

Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science finds there is one way each thing as a cure for colds—only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's approach, remember Vicks VapoRub.

See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the throat are thoroughly cleaned of harmful worms. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system, remember Dr. Hand's Cod Liver Oil Worm Tablets. Mild, yet set promptly to getting rid of irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish.

One Nova Scotia Mother says: "My baby is a lot happier since I started to give her Baby's Own Tablets and now that I read of worse than ever before, I certainly am for Baby's Own Tablets. Never a cold. Equally good for restlessness and peevishness resulting from constipation, for relieving simple colic and for preventative use during other minor infant troubles. These good vet are easy to take! Get a package today.

Community Concert Assoc. Holds Banquet

To mark the opening of campaign week, last evening the annual banquet of the Belleville Community Concert Association was held in Holloway Street United church.

Some 75 workers and executive members were present.

Mrs. W. Pinkie brought greetings from Miss Loona Riggs, whom she had visited in a recent trip south, and welcomed the group to the meeting.

Following the president's remarks, Mrs. E. Buchanan, membership chairman presented a report in which she pointed out that this year there are still openings for 60 more memberships. She expressed the hope that the workers would make this fact known to the many friends of the association, who are eager to purchase memberships.

Mr. Clifford Templer introduced Miss Camella Campbell, New York representative of the Community Concerts Association.

In her remarks Miss Campbell stressed the shortage of outstandingly talented performers in relationship to the increasing demand for good music), concerts throughout the country.

This year marks the 22nd series of concerts in Belleville, and a hard-working group of volunteer ladies is working throughout this week at the Quinte Hotel re-registering memberships and adding names to a waiting list of Belleville music lovers, all of whom will probably secure membership in the association this year. The campaign ends on Saturday.

'Candide' Discussed By Book Club

"Candide" by Voltaire was the subject of discussion at the Great Books club at Corby Public Library on Monday night. The president Dr. John Martin, was in the chair and Mr. C. Lundy was leader for the evening.

The writers, Shakespeare, Milton, Locke, Voltaire, Lavoisier and Gibbon are represented for the period from the early 1600's to the end of the 1700's with the book above written about the middle of this period. It is said to be a satire on the philosophy of optimism. It succeeds in showing up, by inclative ridicule, many of the abuses of the times.

All members present had read the text and an interesting discussion filled the usual two hours.

Women's Activities

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S. of West Huntingdon United Church was held in the home of Mrs. Russell Sills on Wednesday and opened by giving the call to worship and singing the hymn "Blessed Assurance."

Mrs. Hammond offered prayer and Mrs. Lainson read the Scripture lesson.

Thirteen members were present. Business was dealt with and Mrs. George Ashley gave a piano solo.

The study book was interestingly prepared by Mrs. John Moorcroft and given by Mrs. W. Grant.

Mrs. Russell Sills gave a reading. For Bible study this year the W.M.S. is using the "Beatitudes," the first one being given by Mrs. Mac Sarles.

Mrs. Sills and her helpers served refreshments.

Saskatchewan Couple Feted By Relatives

Last Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lilly, of Foxboro, entertained in honor of the former's sister, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell, of Saskatchewan, who have been visiting in the vicinity for the past month. The occasion was the 36th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and family presented the happy couple with a beautiful chime mantel clock.

The evening was spent in dancing, after which Mrs. Kelly served refreshments.

Women's Institute

MOIRA W.I.

Moira Women's Institute was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Frederick Regenaburg.

Plans were made for the dinner to be served at the Sales barn in conjunction with Fuller Presbyterian church.

The program was under the direction of Miss Bessie Holbert, convener of Historical Research.

Mrs. Earl Thompson spoke taking as her topic "The Life of Sir John A. Macdonald".

A historical contest followed and refreshments were served by the hostess.

World Day Of Prayer Held By W.M.S.

Plainfield W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Wesley Bradshaw on the Day of Prayer service with a goodly attendance. Mrs. Fred Hall opened the meeting by reading Joseph Dedham Smith's poem "Abide in Thee". The pianist, Mrs. Will Sills, played quiet music, and Mrs. Hall read of the life and work of Pastor Jorgelina Lozado author of the World Day of Prayer service.

The ladies taking part in the responsive readings were: Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Clayton Hall and Mrs. Jack Skelly. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Will Sills, Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Clarence Hall, and Mrs. Jack Salmon.

Mrs. Clarence Hall gave a splendid address on "Prayer," which was much appreciated.

Mrs. Les Brennan sang "Open My Eyes that I May See" which was enjoyed by every one.

Offering was received and amounted to $3. After the meeting was closed, Mrs. Bradshaw, served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Club Activities

UNITED CHURCH M.B.

FRANKFORD — The Mission Band of Frankford United Church met on Wednesday afternoon in Rose Lowery hall under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Conley. The meeting opened with the lighting of the candles and the Mission Band Purpose. Scripture, taken from Psalm 23, "The Lord is My Shepherd," was read by Margaret Sine. Colleen Chase led in prayer and Mrs. J. Beach taught a new song, "God Sent Us the Warm Spring Sun."

A short business period was conducted. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Colleen Chase and roll call showed seventeen members and two visitors present.

Elaine and Janie Sharp sang a duet, "Let the Sunshine In." The children sang a number of songs with actions and the meeting closed with a new closing prayer.

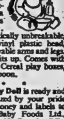
Shine Silver with SODA

Cover bottom of large enamelled pan with aluminum foil. Add 1 teaspoon soda to each quart of water, heat to boiling. Immerse silver as it touches foil. Tarnish disappears quickly. Rinse thoroughly and dry with soft cloth. For a high lustre, polish with a thin paste of soda and milk applied with soft cloth.

Bringing Up Baby



Hints Collected by Mrs. Anne Gardiner (mother of 3)

"Comparisons are odious," says the old saying. A good thing to keep in mind when it comes to your baby. Try to avoid comparing your child with other children . . . either to his advantage or disadvantage. Love and cherish your child as an individual, in such a way that he knows you are all for him. All babies blossom under the warmth of affection and parental championship.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HIS WIFE FINDS RADIO ROMANCES MORE SATISFYING THAN HER OWN LIFE

"My wife is greatly fascinated by the soap operas she hears over the radio," writes a man who signs himself "George" and goes on to say: "Unlike plain, everyday folks, the characters in these stories are always romantic and emotionally over-charged.

"The trouble is that she, and many other women I know, compare such fabricated romances with their own everyday lives, and then decide we men are not romantic enough. Because of this, there is a continuous quarrel in the house.

"How can I make her see the realities and the purposes of this God-given life?"

Well I'm sure there are a lot of women who like to daydream about the highly fictionized romances they hear on the radio, and I think George's question is a very good one. Such women might as well, of course—and many do this, also—daydream about their pleasant life would be if it could be like the stories they read in novels and magazines, or see in plays on the stage.

If I were George, though, I would avoid any quarrels on this subject but, instead, put a little more thought and effort into showing his wife how much he loves her.

It's a very easy thing for husbands or wives, after they have been married a few years, to fall into the habit of taking each other's love for granted, and so neglecting a lot of the things that they used to do, in courtship days and early married life, to prove their love. Perhaps, without knowing it, George may have fallen into this habit himself, and his wife feels it. She may not even realize that she feels it, but I would be inclined to bet that if he began to show a new attitude toward her, she would soon stop taking the make-believe romances so seriously.

Let me ask George a few questions:

1. When he leaves the house for work in the morning, does he just give his wife a quick, routine kiss and dash out? Or does he make his goodbye a warm and loving one that will, without words, tell her he loves her and will miss her during the day?

2. When he gets home at night, is his kiss a mere peck on the cheek? Or is it one that says: "My, but I'm glad to see you Honey"?

3. Does he ever bring home a few flowers, a box of candy, or some other little gift for no good reason except to carry the message: "I love you"?

4. Does he make a point of keeping an eye out, when at home, for little things he might do to help around the house, or does he just sit around, taking his ease, and never think of lending his wife a hand?

5. Does he plan something nice for the two of them to do occasionally in the evening, like going out with friends, going to movies, attending a show, or even just going out for dinner to give his wife a change from cooking endless meals at home?

Somehow I have an idea that George, and other husbands who find their wives comparing their own lives with make-believe ones, may have slipped a little in their attentions to their wives, and I believe they can do a lot themselves to remedy the situation. In fact, I wouldn't be at all surprised, if George will set earnestly and sincerely about such a program as I have recommended, if his wife didn't soon begin to feel that she wouldn't exchange her own husband for a single one of those she hears about on the radio.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARE OF THE COMPLEXION

Some skin ills are the result of neglect. Many complexions are not only neglected, they are mistreated.

There is, for instance, the careless young lady who puts on powder and rouge in the morning, has a retouching session during the day goes to bed without washing her face. Terrible!

The skin may be fairly suffocated with cosmetics and atmospheric dust is forced into the pores by the powder puff. Our misguided girl need not be surprised if she develops a flock of blackheads and blotches.

Cleanliness is the first law of gratitude, one that brings the greatest rewards. Soap is fairly effective antiseptic. Usually the skin accepts it. There must be discrimination in the choice of soaps, as even the best and blandest will not agree with all skins.

Soda must be removed, so rinsing should not be casual. If a cream is to be used afterward, cold water should not be used for rinsing as cream performs better on a warm surface.

The correct routine is to remove make-up with a cleansing oil or thin cream. Then fluff up a rich, thick lather on a cloth and go over the face lightly. After a rinsing and gentle drying, cream should be used again, removed with tissues before make-up is applied.

If blackheads are present, it is advisable to use a complexion brush. The bristles should be firm enough not to soften when moistened, but not so firm as to prove irritating to sensitive skin.

Beauty is by no means only skin deep. It is made or marred to a certain extent by the functioning of the digestive motors. Exercise in the open air is necessary for good circulation, and that means a delicate, lovely coloring in the cheeks.

The Protective Foods

By Mary Moore

There are some public school teachers of my acquaintance who are in a constant fret because the mothers of some of their pupils allow their children to come to school (they even send them) with runny noses.

The teachers have the overpious duty of sending these innocent little victims of sheer carelessness back home.

Everybody knows (but these mothers evidently) that colds are infectious. When one mother sends her child to school with a cold she automatically exposes thirty or forty other children to it. That is why her child has a cold!

Young children can't be expected to isolate themselves or protect their schoolmates or playmates from their germs. Mothers have to make it impossible for their sneezing little ones to contact the next child.

A child with a cold should be kept home from three to five days for four reasons: (1) so he may have his mother's constant attention (2) so he may have extra rest (3) so he will not contact others (and this means care in not contacting other members of his own family) and (4) so he may be taught hygienic habits (such as using disposable tissues to sneeze and cough into and disposing of them at once and washing his hands.—these two single precautions would appreciably reduce the incidence of reinfections, and infecting other members of the family).

Then start on a new program of protective foods in the whole family's diet so they have so much immunity they won't catch colds when exposed.

THE PROTECTIVE DIET

No single food can supply the answer to the search for an ideal protective diet. Only a varied, well-balanced diet, containing all of the essential foods can provide all the nutrients necessary for good health.

But there is a specific, foolproof and excellent list of Vitamin A Foods that should receive your undivided attention.

Vitamin A foods are needed (1) for growth, reproduction, lactation (3) for increasing resistance to colds and other respiratory infections (3) help the eyes to adjust to changes in light (4) to help keep the skin healthy (5) to aid in using iron and calcium.

Vitamin A foods are found in liver, cream, butter, whole milk, cheese made with cream or whole milk, egg yolk, margarine fortified with Vitamin A, green leafy vegetables, yellow vegetables, fish-liver oils.

Vitamin B2 is another highly protective factor and it is needed to increase vigor at all ages through its influence on the nerves, digestion, skin and general body resistance, and to help prevent degenerative changes in the eyes.

Vitamin B2 foods are found in milk, liver, heart, kidney, green leafy vegetables, eggs, cheese, fish, whole-grain breads and cereals (and in enriched breads and cereals).

Fruits—especially the citrus fruits—should be added in liberal quantities to the daily diet.

Give these suggestions a conscientious trial and watch the incidence of the common cold in your household show a distinct downward trend.

GOOD MANNERS

APARTMENT NUMBER CORRECTLY USED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm about to order some printed greeting-and-letter-paper. I'm following the directions you gave for this in your column not long ago. But I have a question about the printing of the return address on the envelopes. Instead of using my name, I'd like to use my apartment number (followed, of course, by the street-address, city, zone number, state). Is this correct?

— A.W.

Yes, entirely correct. Many people prefer to do this, rather than "broadcast" their name on the envelope. (Same thing holds true of a private house . . . only the street-address, not the name, is often used as the return address.)

W. I.

The February meeting of the Demorestville Woman's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Dufferin Folkard. The president, Mrs. Hollett Gorsline, was in the chair.

Letters of thanks were read from those receiving boxes of fruit.

An exhibit of fancy aprons was held, the prize going to Mrs. John Vanskiver for a crocheted apron.

Refreshments were served by the committee and a social half hour was spent.

CBC 'WALLOWING'

The CBC was not simply a competitor of private stations. Such an organization protected individual liberty, especially freedom of speech. It was responsible to members of Parliament who were able to insist that all sides of any question should be broadcast.

Rev. E.G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) maintained, however, that both sides are not heard.

He said Canada would be better off if there were no CBC radio talks and commentaries. The opinions expressed had all the color of facts, whereas they were only propaganda. Any replies made on the air were in a "very modified version."

AGREES WITH FC

Mr. Hansell agreed that Mr. Fleming that there should be an independent regulatory body for radio broadcasting.

The three opposition party spokesmen were among a number of members in a day-long debate on CBC matters stemming from a government motion to establish a 26-member committee to review CBC operations and policy. The motion was still under debate at adjournment.

Mr. Fleming demanded that Canadian Communists be denied CBC free radio time. Communists, who received free time during the 1953 general election campaign, should not be allowed to "spew forth their filthy propaganda" on CBC facilities provided at public expense.

Mr. Fleming also objected to government policy of not granting private television licences in main centres where the CBC has TV stations. He said the government has "picked the plums" for the CBC. The policy had delayed development of television in Canada.

Mr. Knight said that private broadcasters who argue they are curbed by CBC regulations have a wrong conception when they consider themselves an industry. They were a public service which should be supervised in the public interest.

CLAIMS EMPHASIS MISPLACED

The emphasis should be not on commercial control of broadcasting but on provision of programs which would advance Canada and its people.

Mr. Hansell said CBC officials are "men of honor operating a wrong policy."

Culture could not be developed by any broadcasting company. Culture existed before radio; it could be developed only over a long process of time and could not be stereotyped.

Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) said if CBC talks and commentaries were abolished Canada would move "very far into a thought-control state."

Canadian Tobogganist New King of Switzerland Run

By JOHN MYERS

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (Reuters)—A slender, dark - haired Canadian businessman who took up tobogan racing only three years ago at the late age of 33 is the astonishing new king of the Cresta run—the world's most dangerous packed-snow speedway.

Douglas W. Connor of Montreal this season shattered all solo records since the Cresta run was built 71 years ago. He won the 1953 world crown and 12 out of the 13 open competitions. He also captained the winning team in the four-man bobsled race for the Heaton Gold Cup.

The comparatively - unknown newcomer eclipsed in the solo events the record of American Billie Flake who joined the Royal Air Force and was killed in the Battle of Britain.

Connor is a wartime bomber pilot and is still in the air business. He is president of a company which operates an airfield near Montreal and heads another which overhauls aircraft engines at Croydon, England.

SCIENTIFIC APPROACH

Connor approaches tobogganracing with the cool courage and technical skill of a wartime pilot. Fairchilds Macarthy, veteran U.S. rider and present secretary of the Cresta club, says Connor's scientific approach and temperament are the reasons for his successes.

The lanky ex-pilot, who has a classic Roman nose and piercing eyes, concentrates on racing as if he were piloting a plane.

"It is the only sport I know on which I can concentrate solidly for two months," he says. "That means steering clear of night life in St. Moritz so as to be able to compete with youngsters in their 20s."

The Cresta season lasts only through January and February. Racing is possible only between 6 a.m. and 11 a.m. before the sun softens the carefully - prepared trench of hard-packed snow and ice.

The run, banked like a "wall of death" at its right-angle broken snakes down the little Cresta valley for 1,320 yards from St. Moritz to Celerina for a total drop of 574 feet.

"The Cresta run gives you the thrill of speed and it needs technical skill," Connor told a reporter. "Accidents? Nothing really serious. I had to have the top joint of a little finger amputated after the world championships—it got caught under the runners.

"No one I have only nine fingernails to clean."

The Cresta run is so dangerous that women have been banned from it since 1922. The contestants whiz down the run at more than a mile a minute in tobogganskneeas "skeletons".

Connor shattered Flake's 1948 record of 56.7 seconds with the remarkable time of 56.1. His toboggan and his style differ from those of other racers.

After much technical research, Connor developed a tobogganslightly heavier, lower and shorter than others, with a seat which slides further forward. The distance between the two steel runners is also a fraction less than others.

Dressed in the traditional leather jacket, spiked "brital" boots, crash helmet and goggles, he hurls himself face-downwards for a flying start and swoops down the course like a swallow skimming the lake.

His legs do not flail widely to stay below the rim of the banks. He steers around the "death" curves at the precise height calculated ahead of time to give him the maximum advantage.

"Dosg is a cool customer," Macarthy said. "His risks are all nicely calculated and he can always pull just that little winning extra out of the bag in a close race."

Loyalty to Princess Margaret 'Unquestionable'--Townsend

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Sketch quotes Group Capt. Peter Townsend as saying he knows of no "pending announcement" about his rumored romance with Princess Margaret.

Daily Sketch correspondent Peter Stewart says Townsend, British air attache in Brussels, told him: "I cannot answer questions about my friendship with Princess Margaret. This is my private life."

He is also quoted as saying that he took the Brussels appointment in 1953 "because the position was impossible for both of us—particularly for her." Before that he was acting comptroller in the household of the Queen Mother.

His final words, as quoted by Stewart, were: "There can be nothing said until the time is ready or somebody does something."

Editorially The Daily Sketch commented: "Every woman will feel deeply for the princess as she confronts her decision, for whichever way it goes it must be painful. But they will wish her well."

The London News Chronicle says "The current resurgence of talk about the princess and the group captain must impose a grievous strain upon the Royal Family and upon Mr. Townsend," but added: "There is up to now no authentic, live and conclusive information to be imparted on the subject."

Senate Approves Bill to Build Bridge or Tunnel

OTTAWA (CP) — Approval in principle was given Tuesday night by the Senate to a bill authorizing formation of a company to build either a bridge or a tunnel over or under the St. Mary's river at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., to connect with Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The measure, which will provide for formation of the St. Mary's River Bridge Co., was sponsored by Senator Thomas A. Farquhar (Liberal—Ontario). It now goes to a Senate committee for study.

Senator Farquhar said increasing traffic between the Ontario and Michigan centres presents a growing problem. A bridge seemed the best solution.

Senator Farquhar said the area is vital to international defence because of the locks there and a bridge would be a great aid to this defence.

Mining Report Sparks Trading

TORONTO (CP) — A northern Ontario mining report which set off the heaviest day's trading in two years on the Toronto stock exchange kept the Canadian trend Tuesday from following a huge share tumble on the New York market. However, the Canadian markets eased as a whole in sympathy with the New York slump.

Brokers said Tuesday's activity was sparked by a report late Monday of a good drilling by Consolidated Denison in northern Ontario's Blind River uranium district, midway between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie.

Denison jumped 90 cents to $7.10 but, like almost all issues that turned over heavy volumes in the speculative surge, suffered profit-taking by the close. It ended ahead 40 cents at $6.60.

Cornwall Colts Edge Memos 5-4 To Even Semi-Final Series At Two Each

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

NEW SERIES!

Now, they start all over again. The Memos and Cornwall Colts are all even and from here in it is a best-of-three with the Colts having the edge, for two of the games will be played in their corral.

The teams battled to another sizzling overtime tussle before the record crowd of the season, over 1800—and it looked, with some 80 seconds to go, as though the fray would end in a four-all stalemate. Then came a costly penalty and the opportunist Colts took full advantage of their extra manpower and rammed home the winner. Other penalties proved costly, too, for three of the Colts' goals were scored when the Memos were a man short.

However, it was another thriller that had the large crowd on the edge of its seats, especially when the Memos made a fighting comeback in the third period, thanks to the deadly stick of Ted DeGray. They were two goals down when Marse Ted fired home the margin-cutter and later, with three minutes to go, slung in the tying goal.

From then on it was anybody's party with both goalies, especially Piquette in the Colts' net, playing sensationally. How that boy kept the Memos off the score sheet in the third period when the Memos buzzed around him like a horde of hungry bees, will never be known.

However, it is now water under the bridge and a new series dawns. It is going to be a tough one and the Memos will have to give all they've got to pull out with the series. These Colts are dangerous at all times and take advantage of every opportunity tossed their way. That was proven last night. The fifth game is slated for Cornwall tomorrow night —and much depends on the outcome for both clubs. Sixth tussle here Friday.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

During July, 1954, Avery Brundage, boss man of the International Olympics Committee, made a trip through Russia, on invitation, and attended the annual sports parade of the Soviet Union in Moscow.

Mr. Brundage, you will remember, is the gentleman who has very definite ideas on what an amateur athlete should be. It was he who was instrumental in taking away the automobile Athlete, gave Barbara Ann Scott after her Olympics triumph. Yes, Mr. Brundage has very definite ideas of amateurism, as under the Olympic code. And apparently Mr. Brundage forgot to remove the Russian wool from his eyes before embarking on his tour. For he told the Rum head of physical culture that the USSR so far had been quite correct in their relations with the Olympic organization.

Now listen to the story of Alex. Stermac, which appears in the Current Sports College Research Guide, under the heading "No Amateur Sport in Russia." "Mr. Stermac was a member of the Yugoslavian Olympic water polo team in 1948 and coached Olympic and European swimmers. He is now a coach in Toronto.

Mr. Stermac says Russia may outclass the United States and other western nations in the 1956 Olympics. "There is a tremendous difference between our approach to competitive athletics and the approach in the Soviet Union. Their methods and attitudes are widely opposed to ours."

"In effect, there is no amateur sport in Russia." "Standards of living in the Soviet Union are very low for everybody except a privileged few.

"An athlete, even members of junior teams in small provincial cities and villages, receive various benefits, some of which are also extremely attractive in their pursuits. They receive double or triple food ration cards. They are called several times a year to government sponsored training camps, which helps the family's budget. They travel to championships at government expense, and see their own country. Their parents could not hope to provide for this sort of expense. Athletes also receive preferential treatment in studies and work.

"Every trip to Western Europe offers a chance to acquire goods and merchandise which they will sell on the black market, enabling their families to cope with bitter reality on more even terms.

"Once they reach an international standard, athletes are moved to big centres and join either army clubs or clubs operated by one of the large factories or trade unions. Some enroll in university, but whether they complete their studies in four years of ten years is nobody's concern. Others get jobs in factories or become army officers. Their time, however, is fully devoted to training.

"Naturally, this enables Russia to do such things as send a water polo teams to stay for six months in Budapest to train with Hungary's world champions. Sometimes the best runners from Hungary or Czechoslovakia, such as Emil Zatopek, spend six months training under ideal conditions during winter months in Crimea. Speed skaters may spend from October to May in the Urals."

The above in contrast to the Russian guff swallowed by Brundage, handed to him by one Nicolai Romanov, aforementioned physical culture boss of the Soviet. Here 'tis:

1. "We know, believe in and respect Olympic rules.

2. "We have and want no professional athletes in the U.S.S.R.

3. "We operate no special training camps for the athletes in the U.S.S.R.

4. "We give no special inducements, cash prizes or other material rewards to our athletes."

5. "We believe champion athletes have moral and social responsibilities as well, that they should keep up with their work and studies first, and that they should set an example for the youth of the country.

6. "We do not believe in mixing sport and international politics."

Oleksuik Blasts Home Winner With Seconds Left in Overtime; Memos Penalties Prove Costly

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Erwin Duncan's penalty with one minute, 28 seconds left in overtime paved the way for Olly Oleksiuk's blast that gave the Cornwall Colts a 5-4 victory over the Belleville Memos here last night and squared their senior "B" semi-finals play-offs at two games each.

The teams clash for the fifth game in Cornwall Thursday night with the sixth of the best-of-seven scheduled for Belleville Friday. The seventh, if necessary, will be played in Cornwall on Sunday.

A record crowd of nearly 1900 fans witnessed a typical, sizzling playoff battle between these clubs, a hard-checking, fairly clean affair that saw the Memos again wipe out a two-goal Cornwall lead to send the game into overtime with minutes to go in the third period.

Sparked by Ted DeGray, who scored three goals, the Memos split a pair in the first period, were outscored two-one in the second and again reversed the score in a blazing third period.

Again it was a battle of goalies with both Piquette for Cornwall and Peril rising to heights with sensational play. The Memos came up with some scintillating defence play in the first period when they held out the Cornwall offensive with two men short.

Both teams resorted to the hard checking style of other games with both Piquette and Peril tested early. Gould drew an elbowing penalty at 3.27 as the crowding Memos could not dent the Colt's defence. At ten minutes Duncan threw a perfect mouth pass to Peter Jones who missed by inches.

Muckler got the gate at 9.01 and had just stepped on the ice when Savard slid a perfect pass to Connelly who blasted the puck home for the first score of the game.

The Memos reared back and Piquette kicked out Jones' drive from close in from Macey's pass. Peter slid a slithering puck along the ice at 13.10 that missed one Colt and slipped in the net for the tying score.

On a return drive O'Brien raced in the clear but was beaten at the goalmouth by Parisi. Then the Memos hit a penalty disaster, Muckler followed Davy Jones off within a minute and the Memos played two men short. Hub Macey, Red Doran and Bob Wilson put on a dazzling display of penalty-killing with the crowd giving them an ovation. No damage was done and the Colts played with both teams checking fiercely.

MAINTAIN TEMPO

The clubs hit the same fast tempo in the second period with both teams featuring surging power plays. The Colts had an edge if anything holding the Memos in their own end in the early minutes.

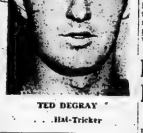
The Memos opened up a ganging offensive and DeGray put them one up on a neat passing play with the Duncan boys at 7.02.

Connelly drew a penalty 30 seconds later and the Memos swarmed around the Colts' net. Doran went in alone and missed the net. Dugan and Macey drove rubber at Piquette and the Memos battled the Colts in their own end.

The Colts surged back and the Memos were hard put to stave off their offensives. Henri, Belmore and Morris spearheaded a Colt's drive and Henri scored the tying goal on a screened shot from well out at 11.13.

Play swept up and down the ice with time running out, then Erwin Duncan drew a costly penalty at 19.29. The Colts drove in hard with the man advantage and eight seconds later Connelly took Savard's pass to give the Colts a 3-2 lead.



The third period produced the best hockey of the game with both teams checking fiercely and driving hard for the opposing nets. Cornwall went two up after seven minutes when O'Brien on a neat passing play with Payette and Gould worked his shake for count 4-2.

The Memos got back into form and Ted DeGray smashed home a rebound on a foray with Ed Duncan and Jake Wade to cut the margin to a goal. Savard got the gate for holding and Coach Boucher of the Memos sent four forwards, Goyer, Peter Jones, Dugan and Doran with a defenceman to the ice.

The Memos turned on terrific pressure and swarmed around Piquette in a blazing siege. How that guy kicked 'em out no one knows. The Memos were finally rewarded when Ted DeGray whipped home his third goal high in a corner from a pass by Ed. Duncan to tie the count and the crowd roared to its feet.

The game went into overtime and the teams battled at the same speedy tempo with the Memos having an edge. They could not beat Piquette and it looked like a stalemate until Erwin Duncan got the gate with 88 seconds to go. The Colts raced in with the man advantage and Oleksiuk became a Cornwall hero when he drove the puck past Parisi on a play with Savard and Gould to score the winning goal.

Teepees Oust Irish With Fluke Goal

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines TeePees and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors are making an annual habit of turning out fantastic playoff series in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Last year St. Catharines had to go through eight semi-final games to eliminate the battling Majors before going on to win the Memorial Cup. Tuesday night they ended Majors' hockey season in another almost-unbelievable semi - final windup.

TeePees narrowly edged out St. Michael's 3-2 in the tying seconds of overtime to take the best-of-seven set 4-0 with one game tied. The victory came off a goal that wasn't really a goal.

Majors had taken goaltender Dennis Riggin out of the nets late in the overtime period. They needed a goal to stay in the running. Another tie, repeating the 3-3 overtime deadlock of their fourth game on Sunday, would have meant elimination.

With Riggin out, St. Catharines' forward Bob Butler lobbed an easy shot from centre ice. As the puck slid toward the open net, Dick Duff threw his stick at it. The puck was deflected slightly in the goal crease and hit the goal post.

But referee Hugh McLean ruled it a goal because Duff's stick touched it when there was no netminder in the cage. Butler was given credit for it and 3,830 fans went wild.

Marlies Swamp Biltmores 7-1

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores have run smack into their first real opposition so far in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs.

After posting three straight victories over Hamilton Cubs in a quarter-final series, they were swamped 7-1 on home ice Tuesday night by Toronto Marlboros in the first game of a best-of-five semi-final.

Gary Collins, who sparked Marlboros' victory over Hull Blues here in an earlier series, again led his team to victory. He scored two goals in the final eight minutes of play. Gary Aldcorn also counted two and assisted on another. Bill Harris, Ken Girard and Bob Pulford were the other Toronto marksmen. Two of Marlies' goals came while Bills were a man short.

Dutchies Trounce Windsor 'Dogs' 7-1 In First Game Senior 'A' Finals

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, who easily swept through their semi-finals, gained their fourth straight playoff victory Tuesday night by trouncing Windsor Bulldogs 8-1 in the first game of the best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association senior A title.

Rightwinger Jack McKenzie scored three goals, all in the first period. Playing coach Clare Martin and Jack Hamilton also scored to make it 5-0 after the first 20 minutes.

Reg Abbott accounted for the lone Bulldog goal at 15:28 of the second period. Bulldogs, who were forced to extend their semi-final series with Stratford Indians to seven games plus two overtime periods, found Dutchies too hard to handle. They got only 16 shots at netminder Dennis Brodeur.

Dutchmen disposed of Owen Sound Mercurys in five games, winning their semi-final with ease. Second game of the finals is scheduled for Windsor tonight.

McKenzie scored two of his goals while Windsor was shorthanded. Windsor's only goal came while they were playing five men to six. Each team was tagged for six minor penalties.

ANNOUNCE RETURN BOUT

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fight promoter Norm Rothschild Tuesday announced the signing of Chico Vejar and Billy Graham for a return bout here on April 1. Vejar beat Graham in a split decision in New York City Friday night.

Three Provinces Tied for Top In Canadian Curling Tourney

By WILF CHESLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — If precedent means anything, four and possibly six rinks go into the fifth round of the Canadian curling championship today without a hope of winning the big basket that goes with the title.

The championship rarely in recent years has been won by any rink suffering two or more losses in the 11 rounds of play and all rinks entered that lost-cause stage with completion of the fourth round Tuesday.

After four rounds Alberta, the defending provinces, and New Brunswick each had four losses; Newfoundland had had three out of three; Quebec had one win and three losses and British Columbia and Prince Edward Island had each won one and lost two.

Unbeaten and tied for first place with four straight wins were Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Northern Ontario, favored pre-game choice Ontario with a single loss in four games, followed by Nova Scotia with two victories and a loss.

Ontario was toppled from the unbeaten list in the fourth round, losing 10-7 to underdog Nova Scotia. Saskatchewan defeated New Brunswick 16-6, Manitoba won 11-8 from British Columbia, Northern Ontario trimmed Alberta 16-4 and Quebec won 11-10 in a 13-end game with Newfoundland.

Curlers Tuesday night attended a banquet and heard an address by Canadian author Hugh MacLennan of Montreal. The fifth round was to open at 1 p.m. (MST) after the annual meeting of the Dominion Curling Association. The association was expected to hear—and possibly accept—a request for a change in rules limiting the length of the slide.

The Campbell brothers, representing Saskatchewan, favored to win the title, had trouble with the St. Pierre's New Brunswick rink until the eighth and when Skip Garnet Campbell took out St. Pierre's shot rock on a light draw and counted five.

Northern Ontario skipped by Rudy Sieniki was tied with Hugh Brownell's Alberta rink 3-3 at the seventh end. The North 'Bay rink counted two four-enders in a three-ender for a commanding lead.

Northern Ontario moved in front with a four-ender on the seventh, but Brownell's rink shot rock to the back of the house. Alberta counted one in the eighth.

Ontario's upset also was caused by big ends. Andy Grant of Coldwater, leading Ontario rink, Hec Mastlime rink 6-3 until Glinz counted two three-enders in the eighth and ninth ends. Glinz made two sharp draws to take out the shot rock. He had no trouble maintaining his lead.

The Ontario rink displayed an exceptional take-out game and never was in trouble in dropping Reg Stone's B.C. rink here 15-5 in third round. Ontario had a four-ender on the 11th end and held Stone to singles in each of the two-counts on the first, sixth and eighth ends. The Martimers were held to singles throughout.

About Penticton's Champions

ISERLOHN, Germany (CP)—A fighting Canadian Army all-star team bowed 11-3 decision here to Penticton Vs Tuesday night but had the satisfaction of scoring as many goals against the newly crowned world champions as the best of their rivals in last week's world championships.

The Vs drove to a 6-2 lead in the first period, were held on even terms in the second as each side scored twice, and drove home three more tallies in the finale.

Penticton playing coach Great Warwick paid tribute to the losers after the game: "You could tell they were Canadians—they put up a great fight."

A crowd of 2,000, including 60 German youth who got in free, watched the army score their three goals—a total matched only by Czechoslovakia during the tournament, in which the Vs allowed their opponents a total of six goals in eight games.

MONTREAL (CP) — Managing director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens said Tuesday he can see no point to a game between Penticton Vs and the Montreal National Hockey League club.

Selke said suggestions had been made that the Vs play against Canadiens or other NHL clubs when the Vs return to Canada.

"Just what good purpose would be served by playing them and knocking them off?" he asked in an interview. "What could the Vs gain through such a game? They won the no-called world championship, and all credit to them, but why have them play a big league game?"

GOOD WILL ONLY

Selke said he would consider sending Canadiens to eastern Europe only in the nature of a goodwill tour.

"We could show how we engage in sports both in Canada and the United States, how we can meet in competition and try to beat the bejabbers out of each other. When it's all over, that's that.

"The Russians don't know sportsmanship as we know it. . . .

"I wouldn't want any part of stretching where hockey is used for terrorization or spite or eagerders political squabbles. Here sport is organized for the players and the people who enjoy it."

Word from Clem Bird, manager of the world hockey team now in Germany, said the hockey players who beat Russia 3-0 Sunday will welcome any other kind of Toronto celebration provided that it can be crammed into a 30-minute early-morning stopover here next week, probably March 18, at suburban Malton airport.

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians early today saw the victory that regained the world hockey championship for Canada.

Welshman Takes European Title; Turpin Wins

LONDON (AP)—Dai Dower, a 21-year-old Welsh coalminer, won a split 15-round decision over Nazzarene Giannelli of Italy Tuesday night to win the European flyweight title.

Dower weighed 111 pounds, Gianelli 111½.

It was Dower's third champion-ship bout in five months. In addition to the crown he won Tuesday night, he also holds the British and Empire titles.

Giannelli, 30, won his title last September when he defeated Britain's Terry Allen in Milan.

Dower now wants a shot at Pascual Perez of Argentina, present world flyweight champion. Promoter Jack Solomons has told Dower that he thinks he can arrange that match within the next six months.

TURPIN WINS

In another bout in the same card, Randy Turpin of Great Britain won.

Turpin, the former world middleweight king, who lost Spanish heavyweight champion Jose Gonzales in 2:32 of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round bout.

Turpin, at 171½, thus took another 4-0-3 along his comeback campaign. It was his first appearance in a London ring in 12 months.

CANADIAN TEAM 67

MONTREAL (CP) — Fred Whittall, general manager of Canada's team in the Pan-American Games at Mexico City March 12-26, says it numbers 67 exclusive of 16 listed in various official capacities.

Previously planned representation in three sports—boxing, gymnastics and cycling—has not materialized. There were comparatively few entries in each.

Entries in the various sports are: Swimming, 30; synchronized swimming, 17; track and field, 14; basketball, 13; fencing, 2; wrestling and equestrianism, one each.

Sunday by Penticton Vs over Russia in the final game of the tournament at Krefeld, Germany, was shown on the CBC-TV network last Tuesday night and early today. The telecast started at 11:15 p.m.

The films reached Montreal at noon Tuesday after the 4,000-mile flight from Krefeld.

A copy of the film will be supplied to all TV stations in Canada not linked with the CBC and a special print of the game will be presented to the mayor of Penticton for the city's archives.

National Hockey League Costs In Excess of Half Million

By JIM HASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Big-league hockey teams spend small fortunes every year in search of a trophy that cost only $50. But the regular 70-game schedule ends March 20. Then the playoffs start. Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins are in them. New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks are out.

These first four clubs will battle for the cup, North America's oldest trophy for professional athletes.

It was donated in 1893 by Lord Stanley, then governor-general of Canada, as the championship trophy to be competed for and held by champions of recognized senior leagues.

It was strictly for amateur clubs then, but in 1910, that it over exclusively in 1926 when New York, Detroit and Chicago joined the league.

Since 1926, Leafs, Red Wings and Canadiens have had a stranglehold on the Stanley Cup. Maple Leafs have captured it seven times, Detroit six and Montreal five. Canadiens also took it in 1916 and 1924.

This year, Canadiens and Wings are the favorites, with the first-place Montreal sextet given the edge.

No games are scheduled until Thursday, when Leafs clash with Canadiens at Montreal and Hawks go against Bruins at Boston.

Bruins and Canadiens, Leafs and Leafs sent a man back to the minors to switches Tuesday.

Boston, trying to overhaul Leafs for third place, acquired Floyd Smith from Canadian junior ranks to bolster their forward line. Smith is 19-year-old right-winger from Perth, Ont., record. The goalie with 19 assists in 42 games with Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series this year.

Leafs ordered rightwinger Gerry Foley back to their farmhand Pittsburgh Hornets in the American League. Foley was brought up Feb. 1 to substitute for the injured Eric Nesterenko. General manager Hap Day of Leafs said he wasn't sure if Foley would be recalled.

Sasky Riders Sign Tackle

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders Tuesday announced the signing of giant tackle Leland Kendall, biggest lineman ever used by Oklahoma A and M.

Kendall, who stands six feet, seven inches and weighs 345 pounds was a fifth-round draft choice this year of Chicago Bears.

Parker, Walls Decision Will Be Appealed

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Daly and Tex Peite, co-managers of James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont., who almost won the Canadian heavyweight boxing championship, said Tuesday they will appeal the decision to the Canadian Boxing Federation.

For five minutes Monday night Parker and 6,500 fans thought he had taken the title from champion Earl Walls of Toronto. Ringside bets were paid and the fighters had left the ring.

Ring announcer Tommy McClure awarded the fight to Parker after adding up the points on the three score cards—163½ for Parker and 163 for Walls.

Then boxing commissioner Merv MacKenzie pointed out an error in the interpretation of the judging. One judge gave the fight to Parker, the other to Walls. Referee Billy Burks called it a draw.

The majority decision of the judges, not aggregate points, decides the winner, said MacKenzie. Parker had not won the fight and Walls was still champion.

Player Fined, Quits Team

QUEBEC (CP) — Rightwinger Ralph Buchanan was reported to have quit Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League Tuesday following a fine handed out by general manager George Imlach last week.

Imlach, who reported Buchanan failed to show up for practice Tuesday, said he has suspended him indefinitely.

Buchanan was fined for failing to show up for practices and for missing a game last week.

Dusty Still A Pinch-Hitter

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Being the batting hero of the world series hasn't brought Dusty Rhodes any closer to being a regular outfielder with the champion New York Giants.

Dusty isn't too happy about it, yet the fact remains—he's the team's best pinch-hitter, but he won't be playing regularly in the outfield since his defensive ability has drawn no rave notices.

Fight Tonight For Banty Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Raul Macias of Mexico, the No. 1 contender, and Chamvera Songkitrat of Thailand, rated the No. 2 boy, battl. at the Cow Palace tonight for the world bantamweight boxing championship.

California has refused to give world title status to the bout but the National Boxing Association will present a championship belt to the winner. The scheduled 15-round match was cut from the usual 15 by the state athletic commission.

Macias, a 2-to-1 favorite, is unbeaten in 11 successive bouts since turning professional. This will be the 20-year-old fighter's first appearance as a pro outside a Mexican ring.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

With most bridge hands your responsibility ceases after your first response. Then there is no need for having a picture of what your partner holds. Just it is fun to figure out anyway.

Hold the north hand shown here:

♥ Q 6 4 2
♦ 6 4 3 2
♣ Q 9 8

Let the bidding go like this:

South	North
1 Spade	1 No-trump
3 No-trump	Pass

What is your partner showing you? What is he asking you to do about it? What should you do about it? Review in your mind what his three no-trump bid shows and you have the answers.

Some north players might have responded with a bid of one diamond in answer to an opening club bid by south. But the diamond suit is not biddable and there is no need to lie about it.

Your response of one no-trump promises three high cards (no-trump tricks). At the same time it denies having a true biddable suit of your own. It also denies having support for a club assist.

Your south partner has heard you say you have three high cards. If he can jump to three no-trump it means he has the other card that will be needed for a game of three no-trump.

The fact that he did not bid another suit or rebid clubs gives you a picture of an evenly distributed hand. So, with his six high cards you may be quite certain every suit is stopped between you.

If you had something more to show, this picture of what is held by partner might stone in handy. But your pair is already in game and you have nothing more to add. So, pass and let it go at that.

A jump bid forces to a game but not beyond. If you have an idea that a jump to game in no-trump asks you to bid again, forget it.

"HE WAS ROBBED"

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Miami Beach boxing commission has ordered Kid Gavilan, former welterweight champion, and his trainer, Mundito Medina, to appear before it next Friday and threatened to suspend Gavilan if he doesn't show up. Chairman Flamen Adae said the commission wants the two men to explain remarks made to the press after Hector Constance of Montreal outpointed Gavilan in the Miami Beach Auditorium Feb. 23.

Adae said they shouted "crooks" and "robbers," apparently aiming the remarks at the judges and the referee who gave Constance a unanimous decision.

Marlon Brando Is Strange, Fascinating Young Man

By BOB THOMAS

He is a strange and fascinating young man and a highly complex one. His talk is intelligent, full of humorous asides.

Some of his best friends compare Brando to a child. He has wild enthusiasms, can be easily hurt, is addicted to pranks. He is honest, often to the point of bluntness.

But there are signs that he is maturing. He no longer attacks the "commercial" film producers; he plans to be one himself. He is more tolerant and seems to have his own professional future settled. Friends say the change is due to the successful application of psychiatrics. He has undergone analysis and seems to be greatly helped, as far as his adjustment to his profession is concerned.

How does Brando live?

Judging from his publicity, you'd think that he wears only a torn T-shirt and jeans, drives a motorcycle wildly and lives in motels.

In reality, he has become a sharp dresser. He gave up the motorcycle years ago, and he lives in a comfortable, cliff-hanging house atop the Hollywood Hills. The rented place is furnished in a style Brando describes as Calcutta circa 1927.

He lives alone and meals are cooked by himself or his secretary, Celia Meredith, who has been with the Brando family 14 years. His best weight is around 165, but he has been as high as 190.

He likes music and reads a great deal. His hobbies are drawing and rhythm. He has a set of bongo drums that he likes to thump until late in the evening.

He sees few movies and hates TV. "I always feel sorry after watching it," he says. But he does watch the boxing matches and informative programs.

As for the future, he is greatly interested in the play, "Teahouse of the August Moon." He plans to get it in on the road this summer and it dickering with MGM to do it on the screen.

Sometime this summer he plans to marry Josiane Mariani, a French girl he met in New York.

March Theatre Diary

By Robert Tanner

After the interest and excitement of the Regional Drama Festival here this week, there is little if the month of March may be a little quiet in Belleville, dramatically speaking, that is. The success of the festival is now history, but many of us will long have pleasant memories of the friendly, busy atmosphere of that week, of the excitement of a new play every night, of the challenge of the French language performances, and above all of the incisive yet constructive adjudication of Mr. Van Gyseghem.

But if the festival has little to offer here, the Crest Theatre in Toronto continues its ambitious program of unusual and interesting plays. Their current production is the Russian farce, "The Diary of a Scoundrel," by Alexandrovsky, adapted and westernized by Rodney Ackland. The title role is played by William Hutt, whose smooth performances both at Stratford and in the Canadian Players' "Saint Joan" have won him much acclaim. Amelia Hall, Barbara Chilcott, Barbara Hamilton and Eric Leighton, all names well known to Belleville theatregoers, take the parts of the women in his life. Direction is by Michael Langham, described by Tyrone Guthrie as the most brilliant of London's younger directors, whose first Canadian production it is. Later this year, Mr. Langham will go to Stratford where he is assisting Dr. Guthrie.

NEW PLAY

Following "The Diary of a Scoundrel," the Crest Theatre is presenting "Meeting at Night," a comedy by James Bridie one of the few plays by this famous author which has not yet been seen by Toronto audiences. This, in turn, will be followed by a new Canadian play, "The Gift of the Serpent," by Stanley Mann, whose work has often been presented on CBC radio and television programs.

The Royal Alexandra is at present in the middle of its 6th Annual Opera Festival in which a predominantly Canadian cast of singers and dancers is presenting three favorite operas, "Die Fledermaus," "The Marriage of Figaro" and "La Traviata." Over 100 artists will take part in these performances, which will be accompanied by a symphony orchestra under the direction of Nicholas Goldschmidt and Ernesto Bini.

The festival closes at the end of this week, and is followed on March 21st, by another musical show of a very different kind. "The Pajama Game," described by Life Magazine as the season's best musical, is an amusing story on life in a mid-western pajama factory and includes such well-known tunes as "Hey There," "Hernando's Hideaway" and "I'm Not At All in Love."

STRATFORD ALIVE

Meanwhile, news releases are arriving thick and fast from Stratford as preparations for the 1955 season get into high gear. The latest information is that the mail order box office opens on March 28th, and in view of the heavy advance enquiries, early booking is probably advisable. The seating arrangements have been modified somewhat and the highest price has been reduced to $5.000, while the provision of a block of "rush" seats, available on the day of the performance only, at 75c will give special encouragement to students.

The full playing schedule of the three plays, Julius Caesar, "The Merchant of Venice" and "Oedipus Rex" should be available shortly. The season runs this year from June 27th to August 27th, while the inaugural session of music, featuring Boyd Neel and the Hart House Orchestra with such guest artists as Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, Isaac Stern, Lois Marshall and Glenn Gould, day. The match was originally will run from July 9th until postponed Jan. 4 because of a August 6th. Football Association cup tie.

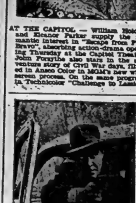
Lalande Wins Scoring Trophy; Sleaver MVP

GALT (CP) — Forward John Sleaver of Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Tuesday was awarded the Bellmore Trophy as the team's most valuable player. Sleaver, who finished with the Racine Trophy as the highest-scoring Hawk player in 1954-55 with 79 points from 31 goals and 48 assists.

Both Sleaver and Lalande are on the negotiating list of the parent Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. The junior Hawks lost out to Toronto Marlboros in the league quarter-final playoffs.



GRIMSBY WINS

LONDON (Reuters) — Grimsby Town beat Carlisle United 3-0 in a rearranged soccer match in the English League's third division, northern section, at Grimsby Tuesday. The match was originally postponed Jan. 4 because of a Football Association cup tie.

AT THE McCARTHY — Virginia Mayo starring in Warner Bros. "The Silver Chalice", in Cinemascope and Warnercolor, now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Also featured are Pier Angeli, Jack Palance and introducing Paul Newman and Virginia Leith. Lorne Greene.

AT THE CAPITOL — William Holden and Eleanor Parker support the romantic interest in "Escape From Fort Bravo", showing at the Capitol Theatre, Belleville, also again in the adventure story of Civil War days, filmed in Agfa Color by the new Ansco color process. On the same program in Technicolor "Challenge to Lassie."

AT THE CAPITOL — A foreign power's secret agent prepares to assassinate a key country, New Germanium, in the United Artists release, "Operation Manhunt", showing currently in Canada. Also showing at the Capitol Theatre, Belleville, is the Technicolor film "Escape From Fort Bravo" starring William Holden and John Agar. Both hits are first showings.

SETS RECORD

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—By riding three winners Tuesday Willie Shoemaker set a San Anita Park record with a total of 76 at the meeting. He has two days of racing here remaining in which to better the new mark.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Concentrate on either new projects or old ones, as long as they are matters of immediate need, during this stimulating period. Give good ideas a chance.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Practical application of high principles and God-given privileges should tide you over the rough spots and bring you fine results now. Checking facts so as to avoid mistakes will also help.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Favorable outlook gives some sound insurance of good progress if your efforts are sincere. Meet urgent tasks with faith. Be open to suggestions from friendly sources; blessings will be yours.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may have to make some concessions to those in authority, superiors do so in a pleasant manner and in the end you will have achieved. Review your intended course of action for possible flaws.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may have to work, act, or think under circumstances you don't especially like now. But go about it in sensible fashion; realize it's all part of life. Keep good humor strong.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo) — Today try for variety, a change of pace or just a revising of the order in which you do things — to revivify ambition. Incentive. Some physical exercise will help, too.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may find some difficulty with your system unless you watch and double-check. Without strain, keep tempo even and steady, and note the improvement.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Look up and out to the better things of life. Define your endeavors clearly so others will also know what you are about. Fight for right principles.

November 23 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Unsatisfactory incidents, problems, have often led to better ideas, paths of achievement. Be receptive to new, intelligent methods; heed those in the know-in order to better your chances.

December 24 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Aspects of business and personal life ask immediate attention. Better relationships bring more gainful results, so aim that way now.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Vibrations are encouraging, so look beyond the surface. Push ahead but shrewdly plan action for the day. If honorable and progressive you will win.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — During today and tomorrow take some time to finish incompleted tasks that must be done before next week. This does not mean to overcrowd yourself, but do skip trivial matters.

YOU BORN TODAY are sensitive, intuitive and have an agreeable disposition. Pisceans make fine companions, seldom quarrel (unless necessary) or try to best the other fellow; make affectionate lifemates, devoted parents; have high ideals, are honest, and interested in good ideas; can make splendid headway in artistic or scientific endeavors, at a trade or any other occupation. Try not to have too many conflicting interests, however, lest you scatter energy, talents too widely and eventually have to worry about results. Trust in God and be happy. Birthdate of: Dudley Buck, Amer. composer.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH

KISSING a girl in the dark might be alright for the boy who is doing it, but who else knows about it? The excellent gift can become an old maid if she doesn't circulate, or display her charms. Likewise your house may be a mysterious secret to all prospective purchasers if it isn't displayed intelligently and consistently. That's another reason why WHALEN REAL ESTATE sets quick action results.

Village of Fish Shacks Dwindles As Pickerel Move

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton's village of fish shanties has dwindled to less than half the size since the pickerel started moving to the spawning grounds below No. 1 dam.

At one time in February a count of the ice fishermen's shacks stretching across the mouth of the river and extending virtually to the south shore of the Bay of Quinte showed more than 80 houses were in place, the largest number in recent years since the sport became popular again. In the days before the Second World War the shanty town at the mouth of the Trent in the winter time was much larger because residents fished out of necessity rather than for the fun of the sport.

Catches this year have been spotty and in the last month reports of good-sized specimens were few and far between.

Veteran river fisherman, John "Sunfish" Anderson, however, claims that the sport has been holding. But, as one of his friends says, when does he ever return home empty-handed.

Hockey Game Will Depend On Weather

Whether the fourth game of the best-of-seven series between Carr's Admirals and the Point Anne Crescentmen is played here tonight depends on the weather.

Sponsors of the locals, Lyle Carr said today that he wouldn't let his team play on water-covered ice. At noon the natural ice in the Trenton area was still holding. The temperature is supposed to drop to freezing tonight and the rink keeper hopes the surface will be hard enough for the play.

Team sponsor Carr may have extra strength in his line-up since he expects to have a star-ward defenceman Cal York back in harness. Also back on ice with a separated shoulder. His services were to have been missed by manager Carr only too well knows.

Standing to date between these two teams, Flinton and the Follwell cup and the Trent Valley League South Division championship: Point Anne, 2, Trenton 1.

Mrs. H.B. Weller New President Of Golf Club

TRENTON — (Special) — At a recent meeting of the women golfers of the Trenton Golf and Country Club Mrs. H. B. Weller of Carrying Place was named president of that section of the club for the forthcoming year.

Other members of the executive are: secretary-treasurer, Miss Lottie Nidderry; secretary, Mrs. D. Kinney; treasurer, Mrs. J. Utley; social, Mrs. H. Chambers, Mrs. W. Cory, Miss B. Simpson, Miss B. Hutchinson; games captain, Miss M. Bowen, Mrs. J. Farrell, Mrs. A. Bates, Mrs. D. Black and Mrs. McDonald.

The ladies decided to devote their spare time to promoting the annual fashion show held in the clubhouse tonight starting at 8.30 p.m.

May Call Federal-Provincial Meeting of Chiefs in April

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal-provincial meeting of government chiefs, preliminary to a general fiscal conference later in the year, may be called for April.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is reported to be proposing late April as the time for a federal-provincial conference, with the federal government open to receiving provincial suggestions for inclusion of unemployment on the order paper.

Primary purpose of the April meeting, government informants say, would be discuss implications of the federal government's recent action in reducing by 10 per cent the federal liability of personal income tax payers in Quebec province.

Quebec is the only province with its own personal income tax and the only one that has not signed the tax rental agreement with the federal government. The Quebec tax cut will be offered to any other provinces wishing it.

Since a federal-provincial conference had been scheduled for this year for the start of renegotiation of the rental agreements expiring at the end of 1956, the preliminary conference also will work out a general agenda for the full-dress meeting to be held later. This probably will be in early summer.

Unemployment will be dealt with on the initiative of the provinces, federal informants say.

Orphans Lose To Combines

MARMORA—Marmora Orphans playing Madoc Combines in the fourth game of the Hastings-Addington play-offs on the Madoc rink on Monday evening lost out by the score of 9-4. The scorers for Marmora were Sabine, E. Courtney, L. Brooks and W. O'Neill. The standing of the teams is Madoc 4, Marmora 1. It being a "four out of seven series," the game in Madoc this Wednesday evening is a critical one for the visitors to take part in.

AVERY STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal mediator said Tuesday an agreement has been reached between officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its Transport Workers Union, forestalling a strike called for last Sunday and then postponed in an effort to come to a settlement.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

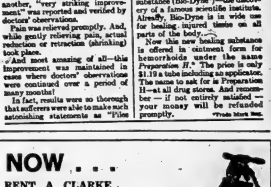
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without surgery.

In each hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And while really relieving pain, such reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!



In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very large majority of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue in all parts of the body.....

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name is not for a Proprietary. It is not an all drug store. And remember — if not entirely satisfied your money will be refunded promptly.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop says anything in the world is his private chair, and I said, Gosh shang the luck, pop, I lost a dime out of my pocket today. Heck, why does everything have to happen to me? I said.

No doubt you feel poor temporarily, but as a matter of fact you are the richest person in the family, pop said, and I said, Like how I am, I haven't even got the dime.

You've got the most of life's most valuable possession, pop said. You've got the most time ahead of you. With time and effort, anything is possible to you. You can write immortal poetry that the children of future generations will be forced to learn by heart in school, he said, and I said, Aw, who wants to spend their time and their life doing that?

You can be a famous engineer and build a 6 lane superhighway over lakes and marshes that cars of 200 horse-power can travel over at 10 miles an hour because of the congested traffic, pop said, and I said, I'd rather be a cowboy.

You can be a successful bluesman and save and spend golden hours every day sawdying a large, family with deep frozen soda and a swimming pool and tribe to Borneo, and still afford an expensive specialist to treat your run down condition with miracle drugs, if you invest your time wisely, pop said, and I said, Oh boy, pop, I've still got a half an hour before I have to be in bed. I'll invest it by fooling upstairs and practicing my music, I said.

Here you got music? pop said, and I said, Sure, I found out I can play tunes in my throat when I gargle.

Bronze Bust Of Miss Macphail Is Unveiled

OTTAWA (CP)—A bronze bust of Canada's first woman member of Parliament stands in a Commons corridor as a memorial to Agnes Macphail's pioneering for politicians of her sex.

It was unveiled in a unique ceremony Tuesday, but outside the Commons chamber where she served between 1922 and 1940, to the accompaniment of tributes to the one-time Ontario country school teacher.

The Commons dropped its business for an hour and gave over its chamber to an informal meeting at which Miss Macphail was eulogized. Her relatives sat on the floor of the House and a sister talked to the assembly of commoners and senators.

Eight of the nine women now serving in the Senate and Commons were present. They constitute a record number of women in Parliament, in contrast to Miss Macphail's single-handed representation for several years after her first election.

UFO AND CCF

Miss Macphail, who died last year at the age of 61, was elected from Grey South East as a United Farmers of Ontario member and later sat with the CCF group. Following her defeat in 1940, she became a member of the Ontario legislature.

The memorial was unveiled—before some 400 persons crowding the corridors of Parliament's corridors by her sisters, Mrs. Meredith Reany of Palmerston, Ont., and Mrs. Hugh Bailey of Toronto.

Earlier, Mrs. Reany spoke for the family before the group in the Commons, saying her sister would be happy to know she was being remembered by the people of the country she loved and served.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, who led the two sisters to the unveiling, described Miss Macphail as an able parliamentarian who had given outstanding public service.

OTHER TRIBUTES

Other tributes came from Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin and the deans of the four parties in the House. These are Hon. C. G. Power (L—Quebec South), Hon. W. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe), Angus Maclnnis (CCF—Vancouver Kingsway) and John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge).

Mrs. Reany and Mrs. Bailey sat between the prime minister and Opposition Leader Drew at the right of the Speaker's throne.

Speaker Beaudoin, talking from the floor like the other speakers for this occasion, said the Commons is thankful Miss Macphail spent most of her public life in that House. She contributed largely and effectively to the welfare of the country, he said, and well deserves the rare distinction of a bust in the Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Power, dean of commoners in years of service, lauded Miss Macphail as a "kindly, considerate and sincere woman."

"Neither flattery nor cajolery nor intimidation could change her attitude towards legislation," he said.

"FEARLESS CHAMPION"

Mr. Rowe, whose riding adjoined that of Miss Macphail's Grey South East, called her a "fearless champion of the political rights of women."

"She never faltered in her allegiance to principles that she believed would serve her fellowmen" he said.

Mr. MacInnis, with whose party Miss Macphail sat in the Commons, said she will always be remembered, not only as the first woman member, but as a great humanitarian and outstanding Canadian.

"She was a reformer and a progressive through and through," said Mr. Blachmore.

About 400 persons crowded the northwest corridor of the centre block for the unveiling. The memorial stands only a few feet from the entrance to the lobby (antechamber) of the Commons) of the opposition groups, the one Miss Macphail knew in all her years in the House.

Three Airmen Killed Near Trenton

Smithfield Trio Dies Instantly In Road Accident

Car Hits Brewery Truck Head-on in Dense Fog

TRENTON (Special)—Three RCAF personnel from Station Trenton died instantly this morning in a head-on car-truck collision in dense fog on Highway No. 2, one-and-one-half miles west of Trenton. The crash took place at 7.30 a.m.

Dead are: Leading Aircraftsman Georg Wetson, 40; AC-1 Alvin Graham Corson, 22, and AC2 Ralph Pater son Smith, 31, all of Smithfield, and all were stationed at the main RCAF station at Trenton. They were on their way to work when the accident occurred.

Cpl. Watson, a photographer with the photographic section at Station Trenton, is believed to have been the owner and driver of the car in which the three airmen were riding.

George Edmunds, 500 Carlaw Ave., Toronto, driver of the O'Keefe's Brewery tractor-trailer transport that collided head-on with the Watson car, was uninjured.

All three airmen died instantly in the twisted wreckage of the Watson car. The force of the impact drove the car's engine into the front seat and flattened the car like an accordion to the depth of the front windshield.

Police said that the westbound transport, apparently had moved into the centre of the highway to skirt a transport parked on the shoulder.

TRAFFIC TIED UP

The crash tied up traffic on Highway No. 2 for more than half an hour and set off a chain reaction of accidents involving five other vehicles. Approximately 400 feet east of the scene of the fatal accident there was a second collision involving two cars and a truck. A third accident involved two cars. Damage in both accidents was slight and no serious injuries were reported.

Mrs. Fred Little, sleighing in her home about 75 feet from the scene of the multiple fatalities was awakened by the noise of the crash but could, see nothing in the fog.

The three deceased men were married.

When the Davidsons were heard returning, the men took positions in the pantry and covered the cook as they answered the door.

Police said the four were locked in a closet and told to remain there 15 minutes. Four of the wires on three telephones when they left.

Wendels managed to struggle free after 20 minutes and reconnect one of the lines to phone police.

Police said at one time Mrs. Davidson became angry and was knocked to the floor when she attacked the men.

Masked Bandits Tie Up Quartet, Flee With $8,000

MARKHAM, Ont. (CP)—Masked bandits escaped with more than $8,000 worth of loot, Wednesday night after leaving a wealthy steel company executive, his wife and two servants, bound hand and foot in a closet of their home.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bruce Davidson and two household servants were held at gunpoint for 1½ hours while the burglars ransacked the house.

The thieves made off with an estimated $8,450 worth of goods including two mink coats, jewelry and cash.

Mr. Davidson is president of Eastern Steel Products Limited, a partner of Davidson and Company, members of the Toronto stock exchange and heads several financial concerns.

Police said the Davidsons were cut when the thieves entered the large home. Two servants, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wendels, were at the back of the house.

THREE OR FOUR MEN

Police said witnesses were not certain whether there were three or four men.

When the Davidsons were heard returning, the men took positions in the pantry and covered the cook as they answered the door.

Police said the four were locked in a closet and told to remain there 15 minutes. Four of the wires on three telephones when they left.

Hamilton Man Killed

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Roger Aubut of Hamilton was killed today and two others were injured when their car went out of control and crashed near Peterborough, 25 miles east of here.

Reg Cowan of Fenelle, suffered severe head—injuries and Joseph Morrison, 30, of Hamilton, suffered multiple bruises. They are in hospital at Peterborough.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are sunny over southern Ontario this morning. However a disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving rapidly eastward and skies are expected to cloud over this afternoon and light rain is forecast for tonight.

Cloudy skies and cold air covers southern Ontario and more will spread across the northern regions this afternoon.

Little change in temperature is forecast for the province Friday.

PROBE OF SPREAD IN BEEF PRICES SAID ILLEGAL

Minister Says Inquiry Out of The Question

OTTAWA (CP) — An opposition bid for a federal investigation of price spreads in beef marketing found support from all C.C.F. benches but Agriculture Minister Gardiner said such an inquiry is out of the question.

Mr. Gardiner listened to three hours of debate on the subject Wednesday. Then, five minutes before adjournment, he said an investigation "would be the legal duty of the federal government."

Provincial governments, he said, are responsible for 90 per cent of the grading and marketing of meat products. The federal government supervised only meat going into export and into interprovincial trade.

The resolution sponsored by Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) dealt with the difference between what a consumer pays for beef and what a farmer gets for his cattle.

GRADING SYSTEM

Mr. Fulton said the price spread is created by the present system of beef grading. The system hurt farmers and gave no benefit to consumers. The evidence suggested it operated mainly for the benefit of meat packers.

His proposal gained support of six opposition members and two Liberals—although some did not vote, with his views before Mr. Gardiner ruled out an investigation.

The resolution did not come to a vote. Debate was adjourned while Mr. Gardiner was speaking and the question is not expected to be revived this session.

The debate brought out opinions from a number of members with personal experience. Clarence A. butcher, a meat packer and several farmers.

Western farmers Henry Magg (L. — Qu'Appelle) and William Irvine (CCF—Selkirk) said an investigation would be welcomed.

Mr. Bryce said meat packers are "not a charitable institution."

John A. Charlton (PC — Brant-Wentworth) said he is concerned about prices for prepared meats and meat loaves. He thinks a modern investigation is interested. Pre-cooked sausage, needing only to be warmed, is sold for 97 cents a pound.

"We have to protect the consumers against themselves," he said. "If they are willing to pay that, there's no law to stop them from doing it."

Charles Tull (SC — Jasper-Edson), a former merchant of Barrhead, Alta., upheld the present system of beef grading. But he accused packing companies of "indiscretions," including connivance on the prices they offer farmers.

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Using his bare hands and a rock to batter open the plastic cover of a burning Sea Fury, Lieut. Douglas A. Muncaster of Montreal saved the life of Sub. Lt. J. V. Searle of Woodstock, Ont., Wednesday.

Searle, who suffered second degree burns and shock, was trapped inside his single - seat Fury after-it stalled, flipped over on its back and crashed through a grove of trees before falling to earth in two pieces. A fire started at the plane burst into flames that quickly engulfed the aircraft.

Muncaster jumped eight feet from the helicopter to the ground and scrambled through the wreckage of the downed plane to the cockpit.

"Searle should have been dead by then. The cockpit was jammed into the ground. I guess the only thing that saved him was hitting the trees. They broke his fall."

Searle had already started to break his way out, Muncaster said, and "it's a good thing he was conscious.

"The two of us might both have been killed if I had tried to pull while he was unconscious. The whole plane seemed a mess of flames, but I managed to batter a hole in the canopy large enough for Searle to get out.

"We ran like hell fearing the tanks would explode."

Lt. Cmdr. Flak hovered above the scene in the helicopter and dropped a rescue line which could be picked up Searle and took him to hospital. Muncaster walked for the second trip.

Naval authorities said the crash of the Sea Fury was an accident and apparently stalled while he was executing slow aerial manoeuvres.

The crash was the second in the Maritimes Wednesday. Earlier in the day F/O. C. D. Cuthbert of St. Leonard, N.B., parachuted to safety when his RCAF F-86 Sabre jet fighter crashed near the Chatham airbase.

Menzies Calm After Mishap As Plane Lands at Ottawa

Mr. Menzies, starting a five-day visit, seemed undisturbed Wednesday when the RCAF's Jetliner C-5 airliner, taxiing to a stop at Uplands airport, scraped its left wingtip against a hangar.

"We seem to have given you a scrape against the terminal moments later as Prime Minister St. Laurent greeted him.

It was the first accident to the C-5 in its five years, during which it has flown royalty and other V.I.P.s in five royal flights in Canadian travels. Jetliners would like to get stop-over rights in Montreal.

Saskatoon said the nosewheel locked as he approached the hangar and the plane skidded on the slippery snow. The hangar was undamaged apart from a strip of scratched paint.

A few inches of the wing tip were crumpled.

Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, who questioned the pilot, said later he did not believe the accident was rendered holding an official court of inquiry.

"The wing tip can be repaired very easily," he said.

One of the purposes of Mr. Menzies's visit is to discuss landing rights in Canada for a proposed Australian air service to the United Kingdom. It was learned the Australian government has already approved the improved immediately.

Investment Program Over $700,000,000 To Create Jobs For 175,000; No Tax Hikes

Amusement Tax Reduction, Exemptions Are Promised

TORONTO (CP)—The public investment program in Ontario this year will exceed $700,000,000, Premier Frost said today. He estimated it will create, directly and indirectly, more than 175,000 jobs and "make a notable contribution to the alleviation of unemployment."

In his budget address to the Ontario legislature as provincial treasurer, the premier said there is no peace-time parallel in Canada for the huge program which covers capital investment, repair and maintenance work by all provincial authorities as well as municipalities.

Text of the premier's address distributed to the press in advance of delivery, promised there will be no new provincial taxes nor tax increases this year. It announced some tax reductions, effective April 1.

He sliced one-fifth off the amusement tax for hospital purposes cutting it to 10 per cent from 12½. Tax exemption on amusement tickets was raised to 25 cents from 15. To encourage cultural entertainment, amusement taxes were wiped out on theatrical productions with all-Canadian talent. Municipal debentures were exempted from tax on security transfers.

REPORTS SURPLUS

Mr. Frost reported his 12th consecutive surplus since he became treasurer in 1943 with a margin of $704,000 in current revenue over expenditures in the fiscal year ending next March 31. He forecast his 13th surplus, $565,000, for the new fiscal year which ends March 31, 1956.

Actually it was the 14th consecutive budget speech for the premier, who, now sets an Ontario record for a consecutive term in every year. But one of his 14 was a "no-budget" in a year when the legislature held two sessions.

This year's was the most formidable budget in size. It filled a full text ran 89 typed pages, about 17,000 words, plus another 10 pages of graphs. The actual speech occupied 38 pages, a little more than 11,000 words. In addition to the budget proper, he tabled in the legislature a 24-page report of the work of works projects for the year. They ran another 187 typewritten pages.

The $704,000 surplus for the year just ending compares with a forecast a year ago of $539,000. It was achieved after distributing $15,162,000 of current revenue in supplementary grants, providing $17,500,000 in debt sinking funds and paying $38,500,000 into a highway reserve account.

Hamilton Man Facing Charge Of Wounding

COOKSTOWN, Ont. (CP) — A Hamilton man Wednesday was accused of wounding a restaurant manager in this village, 30 miles north of Toronto, because the manager wouldn't help him get his car out of the ditch.

Police said Frank Lake, 38, faces three charges in connection with the early-morning shooting of Frank Kristoff, 31, who was wounded in the leg.

Kristoff told police the man had been drinking.

Lake was arrested standing beside his ditched car. He was charged with wounding with intent to kill, assault causing actual bodily harm and carrying a concealed weapon.

Three Overcome By Coal Gas

HORNEPAYNE (CP) — Three young men who were overcome Wednesday by coal gas in a construction company bunkhouse at Hillsport, 42 miles west of here, were reported Thursday to be improved. The men were reported earlier to have died of asphyxiation.

One of the men was tentatively identified as Vincent Morrissey, brother of his brother, both in their early 20s, and the third as a man about 30.

Toronto Polish Woman Is Overjoyed As Reds Grant Her Plea, Free Sons

TORONTO (CP)—An old woman living in lonely seclusion in Toronto's western outskirts was overjoyed Wednesday when she learned two of her sons were released from prison in Communist-held Poland.

Fourteen months ago Mrs. Lucy Greenwood sent a plea to Premier Hnat Pulaski. He is an old Polish lady and I am heartbroken. Would you have the heart to take my two sons—my only companions—before I die? Will you release them and reunite us?"

Wednesday a cablegram was received by another son, Edward, a Boston wool merchant, saying that her two sons, Stephen and Peter, had been released from prison. He forwarded it to Toronto warning gently to be heart to new sorrow if his brothers will be allowed to leave Poland.

But 11 months of waiting had broken the old woman's spirit. She was bedridden and ill now and hesitated to break the news to her.

But since Mrs. Anna Kramer finally decided to tell her and Mrs. Greenwood was excited and encouraged she improved immediately.

"I think the news may speed her recovery," Mrs. Kramer said today. "She is so excitedly looking forward to seeing her sons if they are allowed to emigrate to Canada."

Stephen, 61-year-old British subject imprisoned since 1953, told Reuters news agency in a telephone conversation from Lodz, Poland, early today that he and his 56-year-old brother Fred were released Monday.

It was early one morning in March, 1951, that the Greenwoods, mother and two sons, awoke to find state police swarming through their home, a fine old mansion in Lodz.

A Communist officer pointed to a collection of 18th century plates and the two brothers were charged with espionage of armed conspiracy. Stephen was sentenced to six years in prison; Fred to four.

Mrs. Greenwood was escorted to Warsaw and placed aboard a plane bound for Britain. Her crime, police told her, was the possession of "foreign literature."

Mrs. Greenwood's husband, Stephen, was born in Lodz, then Russian, England, and established a prosperous firm that manufactured leather goods in Lodz's land. He died in 1922. The business went to the sons. All retained their British citizenship.

Frost States Moira Project Up to Dominion

TORONTO (CP) — Four flood control projects, costing $4,100,000 were completed in Ontario in 1954, Premier Frost reported today.

In his budget speech in the Ontario legislature he said total investment in flood control and conservation projects now amounts to $47,308,629. One project, the Cosntogo dam in the Grand river system, has been approved for 1955 at a cost of $2,400,000.

In addition, plans have been completed or approved for schemes involving capital investment of $29,400,000 and preliminary field surveys have been completed on other projects which would cost $24,900,000.

Thirteen flood control projects await a decision by the Dominion government at a total cost of $14,000,000. Dominion and province each would pay $5,250,000 and the three conservation authorities concerned $3,500,000.

Most of the 13 projects are on the Moira river at Belleville, costing $6,000,000; the Thames, five costing $200,000, are on the Humber in the Toronto area.

BC Plans to Increase Highways Speed Limit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A bill which would allow the minister of highways to increase the speed limit on British Columbia highways by more than 10 miles an hour was introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Under the proposed bill the government could increase speed limit by order-in-council if the works minister Gaglardi said he would recommend the speed limit be increased to 60 miles in some stretches of highway.

COURSE IN WATER SAFETY, SWIMMING TO BE STAGED

An advanced course in swimming and water safety for instructors will be held at Albert College during Easter Week.

The course, sponsored and directed by the Red Cross, will attract more than two dozen swimming instructors from all parts of Ontario.

DELEGATES NAMED TO ANNUAL MEETING

Five delegates and two alternates have been named by the Belleville branch of the Red Cross Society to represent the local unit at the 25th annual meeting of the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society in Toronto March 23rd and 24th.

Delegates appointed are: Mrs. J. E. Marsh, Mrs. C. E. Argue, Mrs. M. E. Wigle, Mrs. F. J. McQuaid and W. N. Hurst.

Alternates are Mrs. Elmer Judge, J. C. Anderson and A. M. Haig.

The Ontario president will address the meeting in the world-wide activity of Red Cross and business session will include visual demonstrations of Red Cross programs.

SERVICE PLACED SECOND IN UNITS

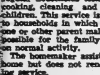
The Homemakers Service of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society placed second among 20 such units in Ontario in the amount of service rendered in its community last year.

Last year, the score of homemakers in the service worked in 1,189 homes in Belleville for a total of 1,694 days.

Service includes discharge of regular household tasks such as cooking, cleaning and minding children. This service is available to households in which illness or age or other parent makes it impossible for the family to carry on normal activity.

The homemaker assists in the home but does not render nursing service.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB PURCHASES TRAILER



Quinte Amateur Radio Club now has purchased a trailer for conveying of the club's generator which powers radios in the field.

This was reported by the club following its monthly meeting in the City Hall last night.

The club's next field day is scheduled for June 4th and efficient supervision and conducting of the event was thoroughly discussed at the meeting.

Radio gear, assembled by members also was exhibited during the meeting.

Two Niagara District Men Hurt in Crash

Two Niagara district men suffered severe facial and scalp lacerations, fractured facial bones and possible skull fractures shortly before midnight Wednesday night when their car clipped the side of a transport then left the highway and struck a tree.

The two men, William Garrett, 30, of 15 Catherine Street, Merritton, Ont., and Melvin G. Palmer, 36, of St. Catharines, were taken to Belleville hospital in Bush's Ambulance where their condition this morning was said by Dr. J. Stock to be fair.

The accident occurred on No. 2 highway just west of the C.P.R. crossing. The car in which the two men were riding and said to be driven by Garrett had turned out suddenly to pass a car transport when it clipped the side of the truck then left the highway and smashed into a tree. The car was almost a complete wreck with damage estimated at approximately $2,000.

Slippery pavement conditions were believed to be a contributing factor in the accident. Both vehicles involved in the accident were westbound.

Provincial Police officers Cpl. R. Kowal and Constable J. McNutt investigated.

Board Chairman Grateful For Hospital Grant

An announcement by the Ontario government that it will make special grants to all public hospitals in the province at the rate of $200 per bed will mean $37,200 for the Belleville General Hospital.

The announcement was made by Premier Leslie Frost in his budget message to the legislature today.

This special grant is being given hospitals to help increase bed capacity in service as of Dec. 31st, 1954, and has been earmarked "for the purpose of assisting with the procurement of special equipment and facilities."

Special grants to the Belleville General Hospital in the past were $54,000 in 1953 and $41,700 in 1954.

The 1953 and 1954 grants were given for the renovation of buildings and the purchase of equipment. The money could not be used for the payment of operating deficits.

J. N. Yanover, chairman of the board of management of the Belleville General Hospital, said this morning, "we are grateful for the special government grant because of the assistance it offers us in purchasing new equipment and apparatus. We had hoped that the special contribution would be more because the hospital is in desperate need of funds to complete its recent building program."

Grants received in 1953 and 1954 will be used for renovation of existing buildings and for conversion of certain accommodation to hospital services. The new wing, when completed, will be used chiefly for patient accommodation.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

MRS. EVELYN LUELLA ROBINSON

The funeral of Mrs. Evelyn Luella Robinson was held Wednesday, March 9, from the Grant Funeral Home. Rev. Ray Rowley conducted the service.

Bearers were Percy Thompson, Harold Putnam, Randall Nelson, Cecil Blackburn, Harold Longford and Gerald Blackburn.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE W. HAGERMAN (Sibling E.E. 3)

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. George W. Hagerman, wife of the former Emily Amma Sprague, was held on Tuesday afternoon, March 8th, from Trinity United Church and was largely attended by a host of relatives and friends. A large number of members of the Women's Missionary Society formed a guard of honor before and after the service and sat in a body in recognition of Mrs. Hagerman's loyalty to the Missionary Cause.

Her pastor Rev. Arthur Parkman conducted the service and brought a message of comfort to the bereaved. He was assisted by Rev. R. J. Wallace, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and Rev. W. G. Fletcher, minister of Rawdon United church.

During the service Mrs. Cecil Macklin and Mrs. Russell Stapley sang "God Is Here and Good Morning up There".

The bearers were Messrs. Walter Carlisle, John Carlisle, G. B. Redden and Ernest Hagerman. Intervice closed with "Now the Laborer's Task Is O'er". Interment was in Stirling Cemetery vault. Her first husband, the late Hagerman was buried there over fifty years ago. She leaves to mourn her aged husband, two daughters and a son. Mrs. Hagerman has been a member of St. Paul's United Church for over forty years and she attended practically all of the recent centennial services.

DAVID HENRY WEESE

David Henry Weese, College St. E., R.R. 8, Belleville, died Wednesday, at the home of his son, Clarence Weese, after a lengthy illness. He was 79 years of age.

The deceased was born in Ameliasburg Township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weese, and lived in Malone prior to his residence in Belleville nine years ago.

He is survived by one son, Clarence, of Belleville; a daughter, Mrs. Harold (Stella) Long, of Belleville; seven grandchildren and six great grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife, the former Annie Arthurs, in 1948. He was the last of his family.

The funeral was at the interment of the United Church.

JOHN CHARLES WALKER (Shannonville)

John Charles Walker, Shannonville, died in Wednesday, March 9th, at the home of his niece, Mrs. Alvin McKenzie, after a brief illness. He was 84 years of age.

The deceased was born on the Tyendinaga Reserve the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker and lived all his life in the district.

He was predeceased by his wife, the former Lillie Marjorie. He was the last of his family.

The deceased was a member of the Anglican Church.

Three Persons Escape Injury At Devil's Elbow

Three persons escaped injury shortly after midnight Wednesday night when a transport trailer jackknifed on the Devil's Elbow in the west end if the city and slammed into an approaching auto.

Driver of the transport was given as a possible cause of the accident.

The transport driven by Howard Johnston of Dorchester was westbound on Highland Avenue when as it was about to round the curve at the Devil's Elbow the trailer jackknifed to the left into the path of an approaching auto driven by John S. McEachran of Sarnia.

The driver and two passengers in the auto were shaken up but otherwise escaped injury although their new model auto was damaged to the extent of about $800. Only minor damage resulted to the transport trailer.

$1,500 Damage To Two Vehicles At Plainfield

Damage of approximately $1,500 to two vehicles resulted Wednesday evening at Plainfield, when cars driven by Len Taylor of Tweed and Harry Harrison, Thurlow township, collided on No. 37 highway. No one was injured.

Mr. Taylor was northbound on his way home to Tweed, while Mr. Harrison had stopped in a driveway on the east side of the highway to allow a southbound truck to pass. After the truck passed Harrison emerged from the driveway and turning left into the highway collided with the left front of the Taylor vehicle. Both cars were damaged to the extent of $700 to $800.

Strange Light Rays Seen In Western Sky

Many city residents commented today on the peculiar formation of light rays which swept across the sky a short time before midnight last night.

The strange light rays, which appeared in definite beam-like patterns had their apparent origin point low on the southeastern horizon, the faint rays of light emanating in all directions and sweeping across the entire sky.

The moon apparently had nothing to do with the light rays as the moon was riding high in the sky high above the south horizon. Northern lights also appeared to be ruled out due to the focal point of the light rays also due to their steady pattern and undiminishing luminosity.

The strange light pattern was real enough but no one forwarded any suggestion as to its origin. The period during which the rays could be seen was not determined. They were visible enough at 11 o'clock but apparently had disappeared by midnight.

Ralph Swan Will Head County Junior Farmers

Ralph Swan of Corbyville, was named president of the Hastings county Junior Farmers' Association at their annual meeting and pot-luck supper held at the Carmel United church hall.

Approximately 80 junior farmers representing the various junior farmer club in the county attended the meeting and heard an address on "The Junior Farmer, Today and Tomorrow," by J. M. Purvis, Ontario Agricultural Englith teacher at the O.A.C. at Kemptville.

Mr. Purvis talked on the responsibilities of junior farmers, both as individuals and as club members.

Vice-president of the Association for 1955 is Kay Homan with Lola Armstrong as secretary and Rona Bateman as treasurer. Last year's president Grant Richardson acted as chairman for the evening program. The 1954-55 year's book containing stories and pictures of last year's activities was presented at the meeting.

Past president Grant Richardson was named as publicity director for 1955.

HONOR AGNES MACPHAIL

Mining of Iron Ore at Marmora Expected to Start End of Month

First mining of iron ore from the Marmora property of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation is expected to get underway some time before the end of March, it was stated yesterday by Harold Olsen, mines superintendent.

"We plan to start mining ore during March, but there are a lot of it's, and's and but's, which could delay the actual start," Mr. Olsen said in a telephone conversation with The Ontario Intelligencer.

Mr. Olsen noted, however, that the 130-foot thick limestone cap covering the ore body had been practically removed and construction of the ore mill at the mine property has been completed. The transport of the ore building are ore loading dock on the C.N.R. Quinte subdivision.

The Marmora property contains an estimated 18,000,000 tons of medium grade magnetite ore which will be mined by the open pit process at the rate of about 1,200,000 tons annually.

The ore will be elevated by conveyor out of the open pit mine and processed at the concentrating mill where it will be ground into fine powder. Magnetic separators will separate the ore from the rock.

The resultant powder, about 60 per cent iron, will be formed into small pellets and will be shipped by rail in this state to the company's specially designed loading dock near Picton.

Ore reserves at the Marmora mine are felt to be sufficient to allow open pit operations for a period of about 20 years. Company officials state there is additional ore to the deposit but it is still to be determined if open pit mining operations would be profitable below a certain depth.

Point Anne Whips Admirals

Point Anne Cementmen last night whipped Trenton Admirals 6-2, to take a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven series playoffs in the Trent Valley Hockey League, Southern section finals.

The two clubs slowed down by soft ice on the Trenton arena, saw-toothing action on the part of the Cementmen with the puck being held well up in the Trenton zone through most of the game.

Council Rejects Wage Demands

WINDSOR (CP) — Board of control Wednesday rejected demands for increased wages from police, fire and city hall employees. The demands, placed before the board several weeks ago, were for increases of $200 to $250.

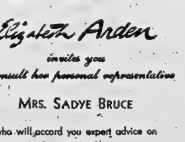
Controllers said because of the city's present financial position the wage increases "were out of the question."

Police and firemen associations have said they will take their demands before an arbitration board.

Against Importation

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Middlesex county council Wednesday joined five other Ontario counties in demanding that the federal government limit the importation of foreign dairy products into Canada.

The other counties are Grey, Oxford and the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.



They contend the imports of cheese or other dairy products would destroy the price structure of all Canadian dairy produce and undermine government self-help programs in Ontario.

Both Legs Broken

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Howard Smith, 44, had both his legs broken Wednesday when a toppling log struck the car he was attempting to flag down in order to get aid for his wife, injured when their car went off the highway.

Smith was thrown 20 feet by the impact and taken to hospital in critical condition. The driver was unable to avoid hitting him, police said. Smith's 39-year-old wife suffered minor injuries.

Tweed Brothers Offered $15,000 For Violin

TWEED, Ont. — (CP) — Two Tweed brothers said today they have a violin for which they were offered $15,000 by Chicago interests ready to accept the instrument sight unseen.

Percy and Orval Conley said they have two offers, one for $10,000, the other for $15,000. They refused to name the interests.

The brothers believe the instrument is a Stradivarius because of an inscription reading "Antonius Stradivarius-Cremonensis faciebat—1716" Latin for made in Cremona in 1716, Stradivarius lived in Cremona, Italy, from 1644 to 1737.

Tweed is 20 miles northeast of Belleville.

Fair Practices Act Violated Says Paper

TORONTO. (CP)—The Varsity University of Toronto undergraduate daily newspaper, says the Ontario government is violating its own Fair Practices Act.

In an editorial page article Wednesday, the paper said the National Employment Service is distributing application forms studded with "illegal questions" to students seeking placement with the Ontario department of highways and the Ontario hydro. It said applicants are required to state their birthplace and religion.

A letter to the editor, printed in conjunction with the article, suggests the Ontario government may be "breaking its own law".

C. Stanley Collins, Toronto director of the NES said Wednesday the Ontario government "claims it is entitled to discriminate if it pleases." He said he was told by the civil service department that civil servants do not come under the act.

Labor Minister Daley of Ontario said he will make enquiries concerning the forms now being used. He said the employment service should not have forms containing such questions.

JAILED FOR FALSE CHARGE

THE BATTLE "ROYAL"

What's in a name?

Entirely too much, judging from the controversy caused by the naming, or failure to name, a CPR trans-continental train. The CPR, inaugurating a new trans-Canada schedule with new equipment, originally planned to call the train "The Royal Canadian."

The federal government advised that the word "Royal" be dropped from the title since the consent of the sovereign had not been secured. The CPR, which had not asked for the sovereign's consent, substituted the train "The Canadian" and put it into service. The railway lost about $40,000 worth of advertising with the rechristening.

Dropping the word "Royal" from the name of the train has caused much comment in Commons and in newspapers. Some persons profess to see in this a calculated move on the part of the government to withhold from Canadians from the Crown. It is said that blocking the naming of the train is just one more in a series of moves than changed Canada to Canada, Government of Canada, replaced OHMS with a simple G on government stationary and made the Supreme Court of Canada, not the Privy Council, the court of last appeal.

This gratuitous speculation is entirely misplaced. Naming a train with the word "Royal" neither enhances nor diminishes the average Canadian's feelings about his relationship to the throne. Spotting a diesel engine and a string of passenger cars flash past a level crossing or listening to its sonorous whine in the middle of the night as it speeds across the countryside is hardly the sort of thing to stir sentiments about Canada, the Crown or anything else.

Even passengers are likely to be unmoved emotionally about the name of the train which they are riding.

Naming trains, boats and planes is a harmless company practice designed to add a little more distinction than a serial number.

"The Royal Canadian," after all, is a well known title, commonly associated with a popular musical aggregation in New York which continues to prosper under its aegis even though Canada and most of his band have since become American citizens.

Since there is no royal Canadian, unless one wishes to apply the adjective "royal" to those distinguished Canadians who have achieved a certain loyalty through public service, the title "Royal Canadian" is a misnomer. "The Canadian," without adjectives, is appropriate, though dull. However, if there is any purpose in the parliament on naming trains, perhaps members would find it more interesting and more entertaining to debate the advisability of giving the title "Canadian" to anything as mundane as a passenger train.

EVERY WEEK EDUCATION WEEK

Education Week is with us again.

One must not imply, from its title, that this is the one week in the year when education is important. It merely means that this week, March 6th to 13th, has been set aside for more penetrating inspection of education—the aims, methods, facilities and personnel—than is usually accorded. At this end, parents particularly and the public in general, are invited to visit schools, to inspect classrooms, to meet teachers and principals, and to view exhibits of student work.

It is in this viewing the mechanics of education at first hand, that those not directly concerned with the educational process as teachers, board members or students will take a more personal interest in education, its needs and its methods.

"Education is everyone's business," is one of the slogans being used this week to drive home this important truism. Even the bachelor, whom personal contribution to the educational process is limited to paying his taxes, has a vital interest in education.

It is redundant to discuss the importance of education.

It is important, however, to realize that education is a process that continues from the cradle to death and that compulsory attendance at formal lectures is merely the groundwork for adult education. However, viewing the scene of juvenile and adolescent conflict with ignorance can be destructive and even educational.

Education Week serves a useful purpose if it reminds us that every week is education week.

KICKAPOO TALE

Followers of Al Capp's L'il Abner comic strip are familiar with the awesome concoction known as Kickapoo Joy Juice, manufactured by some of the more disreputable residents of Dogpatch. Most of us had pretended that Capp had dragged that tradename out of the air, that it was, so to speak, the pure product of genius. A little note in the Encyclopedia Americana suggests that this may not be true. Here we learn that the Kickapoos were a tribe of Algonquin Indians formerly occupying a portion of the Illinois valley. If they manufactured a joyjuice, their descendants may well have grounds for a libel suit against Capp for it is doubtful whether their product ever enjoyed quite as potent as that brewed by Hairless Joe and his Indian pal, Lonesome Polecat.

THE TYRANT

Uneasy lies the tyrant's head.
He has so many foes
He trusts the slightest word that's said
By one who may oppose.
And should a subject laugh aloud
At any little jest,
Soon says that's lurking in the crowd
May order his arrest.

His friends he cannot fully trust.
Suspicious of them all,
At the slightest doubting, then soon he must
Their lifeless bodies fall.

The tyrant has to train the youth
To yield the power of might.
He lives in constant dread of truth
And everything that's right.

He lives afraid of church and school.
The children when they play
Are taught the tyrant's every rule
Their whole day long.
Through life they must obey.
Since God and freedom he forsook
By every harsh command
The country men could love he makes
Their enemy and hated foe.

WE MUST HAVE A STANDARD

My watch went haywire recently and I had a miserable time of it. As a result, I was either too late or too early for every appointment. My schedule gone mixed up. I was ready for the observation ward by the time I got to the office. I had no standard to guide me chronologically.

There are people who go through life with no moral standards to guide them. Or, if we may change the figure of speech somewhat abruptly, they are like the folks who play by ear, improvise; and what is more they people are very blatant in their declaration of their moral code. They are a lot better, they claim, than the hypocrites who crowd into churches, and certainly they are as good, if not better, than their neighbors. They just try to go along day by day, going by the golden dead or the square, tolerant of everybody, giving every guy a break, et cetera and blahdidah.

No, my friend, we have to have some kind of standard to live every thing we do. The carpenter has to have the standard of a foot rule, and the sailor has to have sextant and the scientist knows there are certain laws to which he must conform or else give up his research. The moral law is as inflexible as the physical. The necessity of standards remains imperative.

Or shall we humanize them by watch went haywire—the whole blissful existence turns into confusion—a confusion of the kind which the psychiatrist thrives.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NEVER LESS THAN THE BEST

Honest brand names, or trademarks, often speak volumes. They accompany the character and integrity of the ones who first sponsored them. Among the greatest stores and manufacturing plants in the world are those that have stood generation after generation.

The business house that never gives less than the best in its products is sure to succeed gradually. This same principle applies to all services rendered to the public. The greatest worker is that one who gives never less than the best of all that he has to give.

In my town there is a very successful eating place that is run by a couple—"Frank and Bill"—they call it. This and the one at Miami Beach, Florida, are internationally known, with friends and customers literally the world over.

Why? Because they refuse to give less than the best. It must be the best. Newspaper man Paul Brunn, writing of this famous restaurant said of the pair: "Unless they can invent in each generation a couple who will not include it in their menu, thus assuring the guest only the finest." No wonder customers have flocked to their places—many the same ones—for years and years!

I want no one to tell me that full value in business, and integrity, are not the key to success today. They are the safest on earth and keep paying bigger dividends year by year. In fact, such people as "Frank and Bill" in the restaurant business are so inspiring that their example actually stimulates digestion when eating their food. "Never less than the best!" is their motto!

He Is Averse To Exercise

(Ottawa Journal):

A neighbor we have quoted in this column as observing, perhaps a bit smugly, is not a great what exercise any man needs through watching the funeral processions of his athletic friends, drops in to report on his winter's inactivities.

He says that thanks to the repeated warnings that this nobody over 30 (or is it 40 or 60?) should shovel snow he has escaped practically the type of physical effort. He has developed a pretty knack at bringing into casual conversation the case of a man who dropping dead over his snow shovel in Moose Jaw or Kamloops, mentioning it as his wife wishes the postman wedding through the kitchen to the door, and he says she shows a commendable skill at this. In health and exclaims "O John, you mustn't; do any shovelling! We'll get a man in to do it."

Well, that has worked all this winter of abundant snow, and our caller confesses to have thrived on the exercise involved in his daily trips from the kitchen to his attached garage, but he is beginning to worry about summer. He thinks he could find a reasonable shortagreed items about middle-aged men, in spring cleaning the lawn mower. He confronts masses of well-organized propaganda from sporting goods quarters intended to persuade him that for health's sake 10 miles before breakfast, play golf or tennis all afternoon, and keep himself in trim by vigorously pushing those flabby muscles into something resembling the sylph-like partner's physique, and it worries him.

Our friend's idea of a perfect summer afternoon is to rest on shady nook and a comfortable chair, his feet on a hassock, with his shaded eyes on a book, while somebody else cuts his grass, digs and plants, waters and weeds, rides his bicycle. He is able to manage the winter counterpart of this arrangement, thanks to the chaps who get their names in the papers as heroes by shovelling the snow, but he wishes we would print something he could spring on his family friend towards autumn when they begin to make remarks about the fact that he ought to work on the lawn before the grass becomes hay and the weeds take over.

We promised to see what we could do. A man who has the nice practice of masterly inactivity deserves to be encouraged in an era when he is vilified in the conformity is so marked, and we shall keep our eyes open for word of casualties associated with lawn mower or spading fork or any of the gear. Meanwhile the snow shovel has served and serves him well.

Aborigines Have Solution

(Hamilton Spectator)

A report in the news columns last week described a war between two tribes of Australian aborigines following the witchcraft death of a member of one of them, a conference between tribal elders (statesmen) produced the usual result—war, but war with a difference.

The opposing armies ranged themselves in battle array on an open space, hurled spears, next boomerangs and then engaged with mulla nullas (clubs). The affair went on for some days with intervals for rest for meals and rest), when a humorless party of police on the scene, who had three men with spear cuts and boomerang bumps to take to hospital, and a number wounded tended their own hurts.

This suggests a possible solution to the problem occurring between of war among the "civilized" nations of the world. Let the warring sides sponsor aboriginal tribes to fight for them. Some suitable spot could be drawn up to govern such affairs and the tribesmen would be delighted to settle their country or enjoy an uninterrupted scrap and be paid for it in addition.

The rules, of course, would have to ensure that the tribes fought only with such weapons and that no sponsoring nation paid its representative more than a mutually fixed fee. Umpires, Under-the-wrapsstand payments would be in order. Conscientious objectors from the sidelines by visiting marshals and generals would be strictly forbidden. Post-war settlements could be based on the number of dead and wounded.

If adopted, this plan would ensure hostilities ending with only a few casualties, the total was tributed between the rival aggregations and the desolation of battle would be confined to what would become a thing of the past. Only a few would suffer each year by war. In fact, such people as "Frank and Bill" in the restaurant business are so inspiring that their example actually stimulates digestion when eating their food.

Would Control Tombstones

(Edmonton Journal)

We live in a regimented age, and it seems there are limits to what we can carry this regimentation even to the grave. At a church conference in London last week, proposals were made for standardizing inscriptions on tombstones, and eliminating flights of fancy by the deceased or his relatives. One speaker strongly suggested that nothing be permitted except the name of the person buried there, and the date of his birth and death. The conference did not adopt these suggestions, but they are perhaps an omen of things to come.

In the good old days, a movement to censor epitaphs in this fashion would have been bitterly resisted. To our ancestors, the large blank surface of a tombstone presented an irresistible and irresistible temptation to self-expression—not merely expressions of grief, but even frank appraisals of the deceased, solemn warnings to the public, and rude philosophizing. This is what gives a peculiar fascination to old churchyards, often in Europe but in some parts of Canada and the United States.

In a cathedral in Brittany, for example, there is an inscription which has been there since the legal profession for six hundred years, yet somehow has survived the centuries. It reads, in part, as follows, in rough translation from the original French:

Yves, a Breton, is buried here.
He was a lawyer, but no crook.
At his death the poor mourned greatly.

Equally frank is this one from eighteenth century Wales, in which the villagers paid their respects to a departed neighbor:

Underneath this pile of stones
Is all that's left of Miser Jones.
Where he went to, the Lord forfares. Nobody knows and nobody cares.

Our own favorite, though, is in an old New England graveyard. It is an epitaph for a wife whose long battle to make her husband more prompt in his habits finally overcame his inertia in mid-April. Then follows the simple inscription:

Shed No Clout Till May Is Out.

Most people nowadays are too self-conscious to think of writing epitaphs like these—but it would be a good thing if they were actually forbidden by laws and regulations.

Love-Making On the Wing

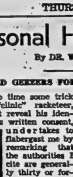
(National Geographic Magazine)

Winged creatures have many ways of saying "I Love You."

As an evening glow, a glow, a penguin with a stone in its bill all manifest Nature's vast diversity.

Usually the male does the courting, but there are exceptions. For instance, the female phalarope (a small shore bird) presses courtship on the male. Her more highly colored male. After mating and eggs have been laid, both help, and is said to have the faculty of shooting off for a season without the least difficulty at any time or in any place. When faced, the male bird, with the same example of Edison, who was reputed to sleep only four hours a night, when asked replied that we did not have to sleep anywhere near enough, and it might be that the famous inventor was really having a quiet nap when he was supposed to be sitting deep in thought.

The Packsack can only repeat what it has said time after time in the past few years. If we live to be sixty, and sleep eight hours a day, we have spent twenty years of our life unconscious.



Sleep may have a lot to recommend it. The vast majority of mankind loves it. In poetry and prose, it has been praised ever since Biblical times. But it is still the neglected business of all. A person asleep usually looks like a dope. Mouth open, expression blank, limbs sprawled in all directions, the sleeper is practically helpless. But no one would dream of laying anybody out looking as bad as that. Eyes closed, arms tied, mouth taped and sealed, the subject would be considered dead. Even then, though there was an answer. On both bones in the body's anatomy, handwriting were the words, "Do not touch."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

OLD GREEKERS FOR EVER HARD BACK

Dr. Brady

From time to time some trick specialist or "clinic" endeavors to assured I'll not reveal his identity without his written consent.

I and it takes to fibergeat me by my reminding that the authorities I cite are generally thirty or fifty years behind the times and suggesting that I—junk my old medical library and purchase a few textbooks of recent vintage.

My copy of Osler is the sixth edition, published in 1906. It is battered, tattered, dogeared and marred by marginal notes — notes! Heck, they are arguments and rhetorical questions. Whenever I consult a modern, 34 years after his demise, is still the world's greatest medical teacher—I wish I had not destroyed my copy of the third edition.

In the chapter on lobar pneumonia Osler said:

"As to the close association of pneumonia with exposure there can be no question. Cold has long been regarded as the most important etiological (medicalese for causative) "factor. The frequent occurrence of the initial chill has been one reason for this widespread belief. We often see disease occur either promptly after a wetting or a chilling due to some unusual exposure. . . . Cold is now" (that was about forty years ago) "generally held to be a factor in lowering resistance."

In the margin alongside is Brooke: "And yet we are told that as frequently, no illness follows such a wetting or chilling." And alongside the bunk about lowering resistance I wrote: "We should say increased power of overcoming." I can't remember whether I tried then to point out the difference between immunity, which is real and to be desired, and resistance, which is fanciful and purely hypothetical. That is, no germ-resistant man is immune in any instance whether the individual has ever been wet or cold, nor is any physician known whether cold, dampness, fatigue or other everyday "exposure" will in one more or less susceptible to respiratory disease.

Osler's statement to the contrary, notwithstanding, there is, today, at any rate, considerable doubt about the association of pneumonia with exposure. In fact the question must inevitably arise in the medical student's mind when he reads Osler. First, cold has been for years regarded as a factor. Then, the initial chill has been one reason for its belief. Next, pneumonia prevails equally in hot and cold countries, and yet Osler noted that in Egypt there were not so many cases in January, the coldest month of the year, as in other winter months, likewise in Munich and New York City.

No acute disease has other acute disease, that is) is an initial chill so constant or so severe," said Osler, and added that the temperature taken during the chill" (that is, at any moment in the course of the chill) "shows that the fever has already begun."

There you have it, doctors and public, clear, if you have anything besides fat above your auditory canals. The early symptom of pneumonia, the chill, which the old-timers mistook for the cause, really is actually no more responsible for the illness for which it is early symptom of the disease.

Unfortunately, Dr. Osler, 43 years old when the first edition of his Practice of Medicine was published, died before his opinion as expressed in the book and never mustered its forces.

Even at the onset of his last illness in Oxford, although he only took to bed gentleman complained that he had a headache and pains in a lecture hall which was not sufficiently heated.

Dear dear knucklehead. If your mind is set like plaster of Paris, you will, like a young Doctor Osler, who agreed with old Doctor Osler, that there can be such things as resistance to cold, damp, unsufficient clothing, exposure, fatigue, worry and stress whatever indisposition or illness befalls. But who cares? Nobody, that's who. Here's the chance you happen to wield influence, you have me thrown out on my ear. That possibility is my concern whenever I write on this theme, for I do want to do as much as I can for young people to make up, in a small way, for the harm nineteenth-century medical health teachings have done them.

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the best-known child psychologists in Canada has ventured out of his field to make a bet respecting that the after-lunch rest period familiar to nursery schools and kindergartens will in due time be recognized as a huge benefit we all ought to have. He envisages the factory of the future having a nice dormitory full of couches off to one side of the machine shop, where the workers, right after lunch, will file in and be soon fast asleep for forty winks.

He quotes Churchill as the striking example of a man of great energy and greater accomplishment who, it is said, always lies down for an hour after lunch and before bath, and is said to have the faculty of dropping off for a season without the least difficulty at any time or in any place. When faced, the male bird, with the same example of Edison, who was reputed to sleep only four hours a night, when asked replied that we did not have to sleep anywhere near enough, and it might be that the famous inventor was really having a quiet nap when he was supposed to be sitting deep in thought.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Women's Hospital Aux. Holds Idyllic Spring Fashion Show

Lovely as a spring idyll was the fashion show sponsored last evening by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary in the Collegiate auditorium, which was filled to capacity for the occasion by fashion-conscious members of the fair sex.

Against an attractive setting of a French salon with its backdrop of massed evergreens and spring flowers accented by gorgeous simulated chandelles of gleaming metal-tinted, pale yellowish satin ribbons and tall, white standards of pink and rose colored snapdragons, pink carnations, white narcissi, and sprays of salal and British Columbia huckleberry, the lithe and lovely models displayed to advantage the delightful spring fashions in shimmering silks, gleaming cottons, filmy illusion tulle, tweed mixtures, luxurious furs, dressmaker suits, and all-purpose ensembles.

Mrs. J. L. Smith, president, welcomed the gathering, and Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon, as a chic Madame of the salon, from her advantageous view-point, described to the mother and daughter patrons, the outstanding textures and weaves, and silliest points of the various items modelled.

SOFTNESS AND EASE

Softness and ease might be called the keynote of this year's spring styles, with a special accent on deep v-necklines, and crinoline effected skirts, whose length tended to drop below the knee touching the larger portion of the calf. The co-ordinated costume look was apparent in both casual and other styles. Hair generally were tiny, head-hugging, and in most cases carried out the color of dress, or were in white. The large hats were on the picture type, and quite chic, with accent on white.

The show began with the utility type all-purpose coat of water repellent cotton poplin, with flowered, silk lining having the motif of two birds sitting on a branch, under an umbrella. This was worn with a matching cap and box suit with red purse, bag and gloves. An attractive ensemble.

BLACK WATCH TARTAN

A Black Watch tartan from the land of the heather lent considerable interest with its tailored sleek skirt, and vest, and its delightfully designed jacket.

For the teen-ager there was shown a touch of Paris in the British tweed ensemble with its two useable pockets and eye catching lining in the same shade or tissue as the dress. A white costume choker, white hat, with navy shoes and hand bag completed a catching costume.

INTRIGUING TWOSOME

An intriguing twosome was in mint green pure silk, which could be worn with or without the jacket. With the jacket removed a turn of intricate embroidery was revealed in Chinese print, in allover patterns of leaves interwoven with delicate shell pink. This was complemented by a tiny white hat.

A must in any wardrobe was the casual coat, and the one shown was of camel hair with deep stitched lapel, and billowing back. A fine addition to any dress.

LUXURIOUS FURS

Among the luxurious furs shown was a lovely mustrat dyed blue with flowing back, and rolled collar, and deep cuffs. A jet black Persian lamb of moderated cut was flat of back with shawl collar and had buttons of Persian lamb. Others included a sealskin jacket with tapered sleeves and rolled collar; a China mink, lovely, worn with either a suit or dress. This was accented by split skin panel front; Canadian beaver with a flared back in two tones was a delight to the eye; grey lamb was shown with boxy effect, neat shawl collar, and the new tapered sleeves; Scotch muskrats, that ever favorite because of its suppleness, was shown with rippling back, wing collar and push-up sleeves.

The Russian squirrel, and mink were in silver tips and "Brush of Spring," shades were a favorite color. Another outstanding fur coat was that of the Russian grey of lamb in 40 inch length, with a delightful lining of grey satin accented by pink bands.

PARTY DRESSES

Party dresses held the spotlight with their shimmering illusion net; one in saure blue illusion was accented by satin ribbon bands, a fragile frock with billowing skirt, and strapless bodice. Another dream of Chantilly lace with silver stencil in pink illusion with molded bodice was fairy-like and of cocktail length.

Besides these mentioned there were tailored suits, travelling ensembles, and those for the larger figure carrying out the same tailored torso effect as those for the younger woman.

WEDDING SCENE

Climaxing the show was the wedding scene in all the beauty of color, while billowing illusion nylon tulle, and shimmering satins. The wedding guests were in attractive gowns, one in plain suede lace with navy and taffeta trim, with long torso effects; the other in fine linen, hand-embroidered with chenille thread and chalk white beads. This was a sheath dress, with neckline heavily encrusted with brilliants; crystal, which was repeated at the sleeve edges.

Another guest wore a gown of pure silk Chantilly lace with sculptured neckline. This was woven on a starch net ground, which kept its shape. Bows with brilliants accented the back of the torso.

The matron of honor wore a Grecian gown of lovely shimmering Baroness satin, in honey beige shade, encrusted with irridescent sequins and crystal beads, while the bride's mother was also in a Grecian gown in soft shrimp and pale green organza. The bridegroom's mother was gaitred in pure silk organza in muted grey tone, highlighted with silver beads. The two bridesmaids were gowned alike in pure silk Crystalline in shrimp shade, with molded jewel-encrusted bodices, and full skirts with cummerbund waistlines.

PICTURE OF LOVELINESS

The bride, a picture of loveliness, in her billowing illusion nylon net gown over satin, with Chantilly lace motif, flowing veil and diamond tiara completed a charming and colorful picture.

The bride's mother, and bridegroom's mother, as well as the matron of honor, complemented their ensembles with wrist corsages, while the bridesmaids carried nosegays matching their gowns. The bride carried a bouquet of calla lillies.

Preceding the bridal scene, the choir boys of Christ Church, accompanied by Mr. John Croyden Withers, organist of the church, sang "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven." They also favored with another selection at the conclusion of the scene.

MODELLING

Those modelling were: Geraldine Carscallen, Helen Buchanan, Phillipa Faulkner, Jane Forrester, Tinko Robb, Kathleen Pinder, Margaret Arnott, Mrs. B. H. Downman and Mrs. E. McLean. Mrs. Bruce Bishop was the lovely bride.

Appreciative thanks are tendered the following exhibitors: J. A. McNabb Ltd.; J. S. Barber and Sons; Ronald Keel; McIntosh Bros; Ashley Furs; Leslie's Shoe Store; Doyle's Drug Store; the "Hat Box"; and the Braemore Beauty Salon, for their kindly assistance in making this Spring Fashion Show one of loveliness, and success, and to the Christ Church choir boys; to Phillippe Faulkner; William Jardine for the stage setting; to the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, for ushering; to Mr. George Greatrix for transportation; to the Walker Hardware, and to Miss Vita Keaton and Miss Annette Roper, nurses; to Mrs. W. P. Warham, for music, and to Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon for a hard task well done.

The fashion show committee included Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, convener; Mrs. J. Buchan, Mrs. F. Deacon, co-conveners; Mrs. L. Fonger, Mrs. B. Burley, Mrs. E. G. Porter, Mrs. B. Robertson, Mrs. P. Faulkner and Mrs. E. Doolittle.

RED CROSS REPORT

Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson read a brief report of the work of the Red Cross and the fine assistance they are giving to the people; its loans of wheel chairs, beds, and donations of miles of flannelette for baby layettes, all of which attested to the wonderful work the society is doing.

Names of door prize winners will be published in Friday's paper.

Musical Tests Held at R.M.T. Assoc. Meeting

The regular meeting of the Belleville Branch, Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held recently at the home of Miss Bessie Handley, with Mrs. L. Dandenesu, the president in the chair.

After a short business session, the meeting was turned over to Miss Handley, as a special feature, Miss Handley conducted test examinations which were marked by all the members and later compared.

The candidates for these demonstration examinations were pupils of Mrs. McKay, Miss Handley, Mrs. F. E. Symons, Mrs. Harold Elliott and Mrs. L. Dandenesu.

These five girls acquitted themselves in a creditable manner, and their work was praised by all.

At the conclusion of the meeting tea was served by the hostess.

Education Triangle Discussed At Collegiate H-S Association

A new note of interest was struck in the Belleville Collegiate on Monday evening at the March meeting of the Home and School Association when principal Arnold Orr conducted a panel discussion on the subject, "Triangle of Education."

The discussion took the form of audience participation with teachers and parents together developing the various phases under the axis guidance of Mr. Orr as group leader. A regrettable part of the whole proceeding was the acute absenteeism of parents. Of the 1200 students and 183 members of the Association a mere handful attended the outstanding meeting of the year.

The triangle consists of teacher, parent and pupil, these being the main ingredients in the education program. There are many other important factors such as School Board and taxpayer, which could be discussed at future meetings but the main interest of a Home and School group would be this triangle.

CHARACTERISTICS NEEDED

The panel first developed the characteristics the group wished to see most in a teacher. Example ranked at first among the requisites, followed by dedication to teaching and the love of young people. Patience and judgment were given prominent places on the list. Knowledge was considered from three facets: knowledge of the child, subject and teaching. Appreciation of the student's potentialities and the insistance upon high standards of performance provided lively discussion material.

Today's teacher finds the problem of discipline rather difficult. Many former methods have been discarded for psychological reasons, leaving only discussions between principal and student, curtailment of extra-curricular activities and co-operation between parents, student and teacher on necessary corrective action.

SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS

At this point Mr. Orr pointed out the acute shortage of teachers. A recent survey of one of the leading newspaper revealed 326 advertisements for teachers. To supply the increasing demand during the next ten years 60 per cent more qualified teachers will be required in Ontario.

The theme was analyzed from the standpoint of his responsibility toward the other two corners of the triangle. In this respect the parent must cultivate a knowledge of the student and of the teacher and they must develop a point of common interest, thus producing students of higher calibre. The panel then went into discussion on the problem of parental interest in school affairs. Too many parents neglect their opportunities to learn at first hand what goes on in their schools and what is being done to help prepare their children for the future. Lively, well-organized, informative programs, such as the one being reported, would help to stimulate interest in Home and School and in the school itself.

PARENT REQUISITES

Honesty and a sense of moral values was one of the requisites for a good parent; too many parents make trivial or false excuses for the absence of their children from classes. The panel deplored the waste by the students of precious training time and the lack of interest on the part of offending parents. Parents must be an example to their children and appreciate the value of education by the insistance upon regular attendance.

"One of the most difficult places in the handling of pupils both by parents and teachers is the new tendency towards self-discipline. Pupils are given too lenient and over-protective? Division of parental authority does a great deal of damage to student morals and in many cases between homes are another cause for difficulty.

DESIRE KNOWLEDGE FIRST

"The student should first desire knowledge with a willingness to do his best." It is not so important to be at the top of the class as it is to do as well as he possibly can, both scholastically and socially. We must realize that there are various levels of mentality. The main responsibility is to recognize when a student is giving his maximum effort. Co-operation is also by Carroll-line Embury. This part of the meeting closed with "Tell Me the Story of Jesus," and the roll call a verse from the Bible.

The program convener, John English, presented the following program: a story "David's New Friend," by Mrs. Demille; poem, "If I were a Pig", Caroline Embury; "Hiding" by Sharon Baudet, Eileen Reilly and Shirley Pascoe.

Mrs. McMechan gave the story from the study book.

Recreation and a treat of candy were then enjoyed.

CENTRE, REDNERSVILLE, VICTORIA W.M.S.

The March meeting of Centre, Rednersville and Victoria W.M.S., was held last Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Herb. Palmer, with the president, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, presiding.

Mrs. Townsend, introduced the Worship service. Scripture selections were read by Mrs. Roy Wannamaker and Miss Audra Brickman and Mrs. Townsend followed with a poem and prayer.

The roll call was answered by 14 members and one visitor. Calls made, cards sent and missionary books read since the last meeting were recorded. The April meeting is invited to the home of Mrs. Clarence Vancleaf. It was arranged that contributions for the sale for Overseas Relief be brought to this meeting.

The W.M.S. will have charge of the church service Easter Sunday morning at Centre Church at 11 a.m.

Mrs. Bert Redner gave a reading "Gambling or Stewardship"- Why does our church frown on the "take a chance" ways of raising money even for a good cause? If gambling is wrong devoting the proceeds to charity does not make it right. The good end does not justify the poor means. Gifts to good causes should be made from Christian acceptance of the Stewardship way of life, based on the conviction that time, abilities and possesions are a trust from God to be used in His service.

A solo "As Comes the Breath of Spring," by Mrs. Leon Ward, was much enjoyed.

The theme "Let's Adjust Our Attitudes", based on the last two chapters of the study book. "The Church in India" was given by Mrs. Frank Townsend.

The Rev. T. F. Townsend pronounced the benediction after which refreshments and a social time were enjoyed.

Canadian Actress Crashed International Cafe Society

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Blonde Lois Maxwell, Canadian actress who crashed the portals of international cafe society, reverts to a good old Hollywood cliche to describe her acquaintance with Prince Aly Khan.

"Really, we're just good friends" she said, sipping coffee in a mundane newspaper canteen.

"It was at a motor car rally that I first met Aly. I've had about 20 dates with him, and we often write to each other. He's the one responsible for introducing me to foie gras and vodka, and now they're my favorite dish."

STAR IN ITALY

Adventuresome Lois — "there's a wild streak in me"—was born in Kitchener, Ont., 27 years ago and ran away from her home in the Lawrence Park area of Toronto at 16 because she wanted to be an actress.

Now she has, in a sense, run away again—this time from Italy where in five years she became a top star, earning $4,000 a film and learning the Italian language "without a lesson and without a dictionary."

She says she came to Britain because she wants to hear the sound of her own voice again. In Italy, actresses' voices are dubbed because southern Italians can't always understand the dialect of those from the north.) More seriously, she hopes to broaden her experience with some straight theatre work.

Her plans include a tour of provincial theatres, some television work, possibly a west end part. There's also a film deal cooking in which she would play the part of a Swedish girl in an Italian-Japanese production.

IMPULSIVE NATURE

Looking back, Lois thinks her "impulsive" nature fitted in better in Italy than anywhere else, and she wonders sometimes why she left.

"I had a lovely apartment, I had a big car and I responded to the expansive Italian way of life. I loved it, but it wasn't enough. When I started thinking of taking a course in political science, I knew something must be wrong. So I had a long talk with myself, and decided to move on."

Lois would like to go back to Canada—"I've tried talking people into a boat trip up the Peace river, but nobody seems interested." Her parents are divorced and her only close relative is a sister, Mrs. Florence Whiting, who lives at Fort Erie, Ont.

First time Lois ran away from home she joined the Canadian Army show, but was sent back when her real age was discovered. So she ran away again, won a scholarship at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and appeared in a west end play, "Fit for Heroes." This led to a film contract in

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE HAS TROUBLE WITH HER MOTHER; MAYBE IT'S NOT ALL MOTHER'S FAULT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl only 13, who has a problem with her mother.

Every time I have to call a girl friend of mine about something very important, she gets mad and starts griping, and if I tell her anything that she likes (plans me). Then, when I haven't even started my homework, she wants me to help her in the kitchen.

She never seems to appreciate anything my sisters and I do for her, and my two sisters agree that I should write to you. What can I do about this?

S.M.M.

Dear S.M.M.:

First, let me ask you two things. Are you sure that what you call your girl friend about is always "something very important!" And are you quite certain you don't spend too much time on the phone just chattering? After all, you probably see this girl friend in school everyday, and no doubt your mother thinks you have plenty of opportunity to say anything necessary then. Perhaps you tie up the phone so that she has a hard time getting a chance to use it herself, or to have her friends call her.

Have you ever given these points any real thought? If not, it would be a good idea to do so, and to talk it over with your sisters.

In regard to the homework, why don't you ask your mother if she will set a time when she thinks it would be best for you to do it, so that you can be free to help her when she needs you? She will probably be a lot different towards you if she sees that you are really thinking about her convenience.

In general, try to help your mother all you can, and show her in all the little ways you can think of that you love her, as I am sure you really do. We human beings usually treat other people the way they treat us, and if you treat your mother as thoughtfully and affectionately as you can, she'll probably show the same spirit towards you.

BE WORTH KNOWING, THE PEOPLE WILL WANT TO KNOW YOU!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I like a boy very much who doesn't know me. He doesn't know any of the kids I go around with, and I'm not acquainted with any of his friends.

I wish you would tell me some way in which I can get to know him. — L.

Dear L.:

The best way I can think of for a girl to get to know a boy under such circumstances as you describe, is for her to let him see that she is so attractive, and so popular with the friends she already has, that he will take the initiative in finding a way to get to know her.

This means that you will make every effort always to look as well as you can; to take an active interest in all the things that go on at school and among your crowd; that you will be friendly with everyone, and a good sport on all occasions. Such a girl has little trouble attracting those she would like to know, because those who aren't already acquainted with her, feel they are missing something if they aren't her friends, too.

Salads for Connoisseurs

By Mary Moore

While the memory of the making and the flavor are still fresh in my mind, with your kind permission dear friends, I will describe the Waldorf salad we had for dinner.

Walnuts in the shell had been brought home in the grocery order and Peta settled down, at once cut-cracker in hand, to a little feast of them just before dinner. I had visions of Peta spoiling his appetite for the chicken I was trying (at chance!) so casually asked him to crack me some for a salad. It was the just-cracked freshness of these walnuts that made the salad so good and hence won it a place here today.

WALDORF SALAD AT ITS BEST

The ingredients are apple, celery and nuts and mayonnaise. It is the quality and the proportions of these ingredients that determine its excellence. I will use equal parts of hard red Spy apples, unpared, cut into pieces about 1-2 inch long by 1-4 inch thick, and inner celery stalks cut into 1-4 inch slices and freshly cracked walnuts. One large apple made about 1 cup so I used 1 cup celery and 1-3 cup broken walnuts. I used just enough mayonnaise to moisten all the pieces. The celery and nuts should be prepared first, apples added, and mayonnaise mixed in quickly to prevent apples browning. . .

NOTE. . .

(1) Blanched almonds may be used instead of walnuts, and cooked salad dressing diluted with a little cream instead of mayonnaise.

DEAN'S CABBAGE SALAD

(Dean had always shunned salads, calling them rabbit food, horse-fodder and saying instead of feeding me you'll soon be putting me out to grass. Then, once because he was starving hungry he ate this salad. He flattered his hostess into telling him how to make it. It was his job to prepare dinner one night, so among other things he produced this. From that day to this the smile on his wife's face has never come off.)

Shred new green cabbage (or old green cabbage when you have to) into as fine shreds as possible with very sharp knife. Soak it in ice water for 10 minutes then drain it and wrap in heavy towel and chill in refrigerator until crisp. To each 3 cups or it sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt and add 1 or 1-1-4 cups well-drained cut-up canned pineapple. Moisten with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing modified with cream. This salad should be served as soon as it is made or it becomes soggy. It is a great favorite with the gentlemen.

Ever since Shrove Tuesday we have had a run on pancakes in this house because we had a 25 cent tin of maple syrup to use up and because we have an electric table grill which is still something of a novelty. Last Saturday night with pancakes we served smoked sausages and

BECOMING COLORS ENHANCE APPEARANCE

Whatever the fashions of the moment, basic principles of color and line and their effect upon the head and figure remain the same. There will be trends in color, but the color for you to wear is the one most flattering.

If rich, beautiful colors appeal to you, excite your imagination, chances are you will always be beautifully dressed. For the clothes you wear can impart a wonderful pictorial quality. They can help galamorize the complexion, bring out the loveliness of the hair, accent the best points of the silhouette.

While black is always fashionable, there are some women who should never wear it. It drains the skin of coloring and make-up doesn't seem to help. The true blonde can wear it with splendor. It forms a contrast to her golden tresses and delicate skin. It is also a safe color bet for the redhead.

White is difficult. It belongs strictly to youth. Now that lovely white sweater is coming back, to give that feminine touch that is so captivating, see that your little fripperies are of a creamy cast instead of dead white.

Pink, the favorite color of Mamie Eisenhower was made for dark-eyed dark-haired lovelies. A deep, lucious rose is charming on the white-haired woman with a fresh young complexion. This type can wear dove grey and delicate mauve tones, but never steel gray; it's cold.

Consider the figure. The heavyweight will appear less robust in dark colors. The pint-size girl is gained to the pastel tones. They are hers by color rights—faint rose, turquoise, daffodil and orchid.

THANKING HOST OF HOME, WHEN THERE IS NO HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter has just been invited for a week-end visit (there's to a Saturday evening dance) to the home of a classmate of hers in a school in this city. The girl's home is in a suburb very near here, and at the city school she is a 5-day boarder. She lives with her father, who is a widower. I've always been very definite about our children' writing prompt bread-and-butter letters, but in this case we are wondering to whom she would write her bread-and-butter letter, since there is no hostess in this home, only her father and a housekeeper, who is cook and general maid. — Reader

Your daughter should write a bread-and-butter letter first to the girl's father, the host of the home . . . then another note of thanks to the girl, her classmate. And, if I were you, I would write a note of appreciation to the girl's father, thanking him for his hospitality to your daughter, telling him what a happy time she had, and thanking for planning to take her to such specials events" as the dance. You might end your letter on the gracious note that you and your husband hope that soon you will have the pleasure of meeting him. (Such graceful gestures make for good social relationships!

PROBLEMS OF DAUGHTER'S FAR-AWAY WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our only daughter, who has been teaching school for the past five years in a city a great distance from here, is to be married in that city the last of next June, after the close of the school year. Her fiance lives with his family in that city. We have asked our daughter to make all the arrangements for the kind of wedding and reception she wants, and we will pay all expenses, just as we would if the wedding were to take place here. There are, of course, problems about the fact that, because of the distance, very, very few of our relatives and friends can be present. Concerning this our daughter writes that arrangements are to be made to have some of the groom's relatives and friends stand on the bride's side of the church, to even up the number. But then I wrote to her suggesting that at the reception the groom's mother (rather than I, the bride's mother) might be asked to stand first in the receiving line (so that she could more conveniently introduce the guests to me), she most emphatically disagreed with me, saying that such a procedure would look as if the groom's mother were the hostess and that the groom's family, not our family, were paying the wedding expenses. What do you think about this? — M.B.S.

Your daughter is so right! You, the bride's mother, are the hostess of the wedding, and as hostess, you must stand first. You should write the groom's mother at once, inviting her, as the woman guest of honor, to stand next to you . . . that will make it convenient for her to make the introductions. (Naturally your daughter is proud that you and your husband have boats of her wedding, and are paying all expenses . . . and she wants this clearly indicated, clearly understood by all.)

MEET GUESTS IN PRIVATE LUNCHEON ROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband has recently been transferred to this city, and we have rented a small apartment, too small to entertain in. I'd like to give a luncheon for several women who have been wonderfully hospitable, and I have heard of a small private dining room in a very fine hotel here. If I give the luncheon there, should I meet my guests in the hotel entrance itself or in the dining room? — E.D.M.

Make definite arrangements to receive your luncheon guests inside the entrance to the private dining room (not, please, in the hotel entrance). Make clear to your guests in the invitations, whether written or telephoned, that they are to come directly to "the Rose Room on the Mezzanine Floor of the Style Hotel."

Education Bill To Be Increased By $12,300,000

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's bill for education next year will total $92,400,000, an increase of $12,300,000. Premier Frost said today in his budget address to the legislature.

Grants to school boards in 1955-1956 will be $71,000,000, an increase of $9,000,000 over what the province contributed this year.

Maintenance grants to universities will amount to $7,300,000. Supplementary grants, voted in this year's estimates, will add $5,600,000 to the amount, making the total $12,900,000.

Supplementary grants include $1,800,000 to the University of Toronto for construction and deferred maintenance; $1,000,000 to the University of Toronto for the faculty of dentistry; $600,000 apiece to Queen's University and the University of Western Ontario and $300,000 to Hamilton College of Medicine; University for construction and deferred maintenance; $300,000 to the University of Ottawa for the faculty of medicine, $200,000 to Carleton College, Ottawa; $200,000 to Assumption University, Windsor, for the Essex College capital account, $600,000 to the Ontario College of Art at Toronto for extension of building.

MAINTENANCE GRANTS

Maintenance grants are: $4,700,000 to the University of Toronto, $470,000 to the Ontario College of Education, $675,000 apiece to the University of Western Ontario and Queen's University, $225,000 to Hamilton College of McMaster University, $223,000 to the University of Ottawa, $145,000 to Carleton College and $150,000 to the Ontario College of Art.

"Our educational program also assists deserving students of ability and industry who are financially handicapped. Introduced in 1943, the program has expanded rapidly until in the current academic year bursaries or awards have been paid to nearly 7,800 students to enable them to carry on with their studies.

"We have proposed to the federal government that a new joint project, widening the scope of our assistance, should be initiated. The province has been conscious of the need for more scholarships of the type made possible under this plan which supplements those provided from the funds we make available to the Ontario research council."

LIBRARIES ASSISTED

Assistance to libraries has been increased in 12 years to $800,000 from $45,000. Classes for retarded children were meeting a real need. There were about 24 classes in operation with enrolment of more than 500. Grants of $250 a pupil are paid to parent groups which run classes in affiliation with the Ontario Society for Retarded Children.

"Funds will be provided to extend the full benefits of the 1954 amendment to the Teachers' Superannuation Act to the 2,000 teachers who retired on pension before the passing of that amendment.

"In addition, provision will be made for a monthly allowance of $25 to approximately 350 widows of teachers who died before the passing of the 1949 amendment which inaugurated the payment of dependants' pensions from the superannuation fund."

The widows' allowance will date back to April 1, 1954.

"Unquestionably one of our most important problems is education, that is, providing the schools and teachers for the rapidly growing number of children in the province.

CLASS ROOMS NEEDED

"Last year I pointed out that we needed additional classrooms to accommodate 60,000 more pupils, and we must September we will need facilities for an increase of about 70,000 pupils, at which time we will have an enrolment in our elementary and secondary grades of 1,050,000."

Premier Frost said during the last year accommodation had been provided for 59,000 new pupils at a cost of $48,000,000. But over a decade, school accommodation for nearly 350,000 new pupils had been provided at a cost of more than $250,000,000.

"Through our provincial grants we have financed a substantial part of that expansion."

Plans to Extend Electrical Power To Rural Areas

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario plans to extend electrical power to 31,176 new customers in rural areas this year.

Premier Frost, in his budget speech today in the Ontario legislature, tabled details of plans for construction of 1,442½ miles of new line serving 8,317 new customers at a cost of $8,715,000 plus adding 23,459 customers to existing lines at a cost of $2,970,000.

The following list gives name of each rural operating area, number of miles of new line to be built and number of new customers to be added in each:

EAST CENTRAL REGION

Bancroft, 39.11 miles, 379 customers; Belleville, 6, 186; Bowmanville, 6.90, 147; Cobourg, 7.86, 212; Fenelon Falls, 16.72, 347; Frankford, 13.49, 130; Kingston, 41.00, 756; Lakefield, 22.1, 435; Minden, 28.66, 338; Napanee, 6.55, 189; Norwood, 18.03, 217; Oshawa, 5.53, 211; Peterborough, 14.80, 365; Picton, 3.11, 158; Tweed, 112.87, 181.

More Butter, Less Cheese Turned Out

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario creameries turned out more butter and less cheese last January than in the same month of 1954.

The Ontario department of agriculture said Wednesday in its monthly dairy report the butter output was 4,211,700 pounds, or 9.1 per cent more than in January, 1954. Cheddar cheese production dropped 10 per cent, from 1,447,800 pounds to 1,291,900.

Road Work, Grants To Hospitals, More Rural Power Promised In Budget

Ontario Hydro Giving Power At Low Cost

TORONTO (AP) — The expansion program of Ontario Hydro for involved a capital investment of more than $1,200,000,000 which had been raised largely in the Canadian money market, Premier Frost said today.

The premier, in his budget address to the Ontario legislature, said the province's government has either borrowed for Hydro through the issue of its own bonds or has guaranteed the payment of interest and principal on Hydro's own direct issues. In this way the province has made a significant contribution to the maintenance of low-cost power rates in Ontario.

The province had also paid Hydro substantial sums to enable it to extend lines and equipment into rural areas at a low rate.

"Over the last dozen years the electric power booms paid by the province have totalled nearly $72,000,000. This year it is $8,300,000 and next year it will be $6,000,000."

SUPPORTS RESEARCH

The province was also giving encouragement and support to Ontario Hydro's research in nuclear power development. "It is recognized that many technical problems remain to be solved before these are costly. But the peaceful use of atomic energy is in itself an important goal and it is right that our endeavor to keep Ontario in the forefront of development."

In the last 11 years Hydro generating capacity had been increased by more than 1,000,000 horsepower.

With the completion of projects now under construction, the dependable peak capacity by the end of 1960 will total 3,000,000 horsepower. Purchased power will bring the total available to Ontario residents to more than 7,000,000 horsepower.

"The remarkable increase in the supply of low-cost hydro - electric power in the last 10 years has been a key factor in the expansion of our modern industrial capacity, the electrification of our farms and the widespread use of labor-saving appliances in the home."

Public General Hospitals Will Greatly Benefit

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government, through the medium of the current fiscal year March 31, will pay capital grants totalling $8,300,000 to public general hospitals, Premier Frost said today in his budget address to the legislature.

The grants, to be used to buy special equipment and separate units are being paid at the rate of $200 a bed, Biggest grant, $278,000, goes to Toronto General, the province's biggest hospital. The smallest, $400 goes to the small hospital in the Haliburton hamlet of Wilberforce, some 45 miles north of Peterborough.

"In addition to these payments a special grant of $500,000 will be paid to St. Michael's Hospital because of its unique work in the treatment of accidents in downtown Toronto and the provision of X-ray and outpatient services.

"A special grant of $300,000 will be paid to the Salvation Army Grace Hospital to assist it in carrying on its welfare work related to the care and treatment of mothers and children."

EXPERIMENTAL GRANTS

Two additional grants are to be made on a experimental basis, one of $250,000 to vaccinate children in the province against poliomyelitis, the other $100,000 to the Ontario Cancer Foundation for research into the cause and cure of heart ailments.

The Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation gets $1,400,000, bringing its total grants to $7,300,000. Another $1,000,000 will be made available for expansion of the dental college of the University of Toronto, Mr. Frost said he hoped the Dominion government would assist the dental college since it trained dentists from other provinces.

The department of health asked for an appropriation of $2,532,000 for 1955-56 compared to $48,813,000 last year. Expenditures during the current year will total approximately $57,682,000, including the supplementary grants which were not included in the estimates.

Expansion of facilities for care of the mentally ill made rapid progress. The number of beds increased by 1,822 in two years. Another 2,120 beds will come into service this year—300 at Smiths Falls, 320 at Port Arthur, 300 at Toronto, 300 at Orillia and 800 at Brockville.

220 Million Dollars Earmarked For Highway Work This Year; Gear Paving Jobs to Capacity

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said today Ontario is embarking on the greatest public investment program in the history of any Canadian province, to provide an efficient administrative machinery it has ever had in the department of highways which would handle operating or roadbuilding $220,000,000.

In his budget address to the Ontario legislature, the premier said that reorganization of the department, under Hon. Gordon Conant, minister, and Hon. Leslie Frost, department and prompt steps were taken to see that they could not be duplicated.

The government had solved overpass No. 20 crossing — a problem that had plagued governments in Canada and elsewhere for a long time. Under methods that pre-cast concreting and post-audit engineering have been introduced, highway contracts were given under a system of competitive bidding.

HIGHWAY PROJECTS

In the fiscal year now closing, the province spent $173,700,000 on highways by actual construction and construction. Three major projects were completed — the $18,000,000 pass, a 17mile road from Highway 59 to the Trans-Canada highway in the southwest of Peterborough and the 75-mile Atikokan highway in northwestern Ontario.

During the year 289 miles of pavement were added, completing 1,000 miles of gravel road paved with hot mix, 170 miles surfaced with low-type bituminous and 30 miles road graded and 30 new bridges constructed.

Work started on bypasses at London, Ingersoll, Woodstock, Toronto, Thorold, Oakville, Kingston, Washago and Brockville. Other projects on which work is continuing include the dual highway east of Windsor and relocation of highway No. 2 near Iroquois and Cornwall to make way for the St. Lawrence seaway and power development.

Last year, 31 miles of the trans-Canada highway were paved. In the coming fiscal year contracts were to be let for 125 miles of paving, 66 miles of grading, five miles of gravel and 12 new bridges.

FUTURE PROGRAM

Total provincial appropriation for highway work in the coming year would be $175,000,000, including about $43,700,000 in municipal road grants which would bring expenditure of another $45,000,000 by municipalities. This would make total expenditure for the period about $220,000,000.

The province planned to spend $37,160,000 for maintenance and administration, $16,000,000 on repayment of loans for existing highways, $101,000,000 on new capital construction and $1,300,000 for forestry and access roads. The paying program was geared to capacity of the province's construction plants.

At a pre-budget press conference, the premier said some of the road projects in northern Ontario this year included: Further extension of highway No. 17 north of Sault Ste. Marie; work on the Kirkland Lake road outlets for both Haileybury and Nakina, a link between Cochrane and Timmins and Matthews, a start on a link between Killarney and highway No. 69 and Parry Sound, start on a road between Fort Frances and Atikokan.

NEW CAPITAL WORKS

An appendix to the budget listed following expenditures on new capital works by areas, for the fiscal year for 1954 in brackets:

Southwestern Ontario (Chatham, London, Stratford and Owen Sound divisions): $17,125,000 ($7,181,000).

Central Ontario (Hamilton, Toronto and Port Hope divisions): $19,225,000 ($12,000,000).

Southeastern Ontario (Kingston, Cornwall and Bancroft divisions): $10,623,000 ($8,187,000).

North central and northeastern (Huntsville, Parry Sound, Sudbury, New Liskeard, Cochrane and Blind River division): $12,158,000 ($8,320,000).

Northwestern Ontario (Fort William, Kenora and Dryden divisions): $10,250,000 ($2,262,000).

Under the budget statement, the premier tabled details of road construction projects prepared by Hon. Leslie Frost, Minister Also, $46 jobs—grading, paving, bridges, approaches and so on. It gave no cost estimates.

Many Public Works Projects Being Planned

TORONTO (CP) — An unprecedented amount of $36,775,000 has been placed in capital account for public works in the province, Premier Frost said today in his budget address to the legislature.

"Of this amount $20,000,000 will be allocated for new works planned. Much of this work will be of a continuing nature, extending over several years, and will require the assurance of a substantial degree of construction stability in this field."

The premier said the province is not under compulsion to invest in projects for public work because of the accumulated backlog of work left over from the war years and the rapid growth of the population since then.

"Our problem continues to be one of selecting from the long list of useful and desirable projects those having the greatest urgency and highest priority," he said. "During the year ending March 31, 1955, $22,000,000 was spent on new construction and extensive capital rehabilitation of buildings for the Ontario hospitals and the Ontario Agricultural College, teachers colleges and other projects. Some had been completed; Mimico Correctional Camp for women, and others would be carried on into the new fiscal year."

A record of $36,775,000 went into capital accounts in the fiscal year, with $20,000,000 of it for new construction, compared with $22,000,000 in the year just ending.

The new budget is Ontario's biggest with a total expenditure estimate of $502,019,000 made up of $385,032,000 on current account and $183,987,000 capital. The previous record budget was last year's total of $137,203,000 capital. Based on 10 months actual and two months estimated figures, the province is likely to hit $528,710,000 of which $407,213,000 is on current account and $121,487,000 capital.

REVENUE SOURCES

Chief sources of revenue in the new year are expected to be Dominion tax agreement, $126,100,000; gasoline tax, $92,500,000; highway tolls, $38,000,000; motor vehicle licences $28,700,000.

Revenues for the year just ending, totalling $407,917,000, outran estimates by $35,735,000. Biggest increases were shown by liquor sale profits of $45,000,000, up $9,000,000; succession duties on estates $25,000,000, up $6,500,000 and gasoline taxes $92,000,000, up $3,000,000.

Revenue from two natural resources also showed increases over estimates. Forests yielded $18,540,000, up $1,521,000; and mines with $5,277,000, up $752,000.

Supplementary grants to hospitals, not in estimates but to be made from the current fiscal year's revenue, totalled $5,300,000. The grants were: $52,500,000; hospitals, at the rate of $200 a bed, to be used for equipment and separate units; Toronto General Hospital, $400 to the two-bed hospital at Wilberforce 45 miles north of Peterborough to $278,000 for Toronto General.

Universities got the biggest supplementary grant, $5,600,000; University of Toronto, $2,000,000; another $1,000,000 for expansion of its dental college; Queens University at Kingston and University of Western Ontario, London, $500,000 apiece; Hamilton College at McMaster University at Hamilton, $400,000; University of Ottawa, $300,000; Carleton College, Ottawa, $200,000; Assumption University, Windsor, $200,000 for Essex College capital account; Ontario College of Art, Toronto, $400,000.

OTHER GRANTS LISTED

Other supplementary grants: Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation, $1,000,000, bringing the government's total grants to the project to $7,300,000; teachers superannuation fund, $4,000,000; province's public welfare pension fund, $1,000,000 apiece; St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, $500,000; Salvation Army Grace Hospital, Toronto, $300,000; $250,000 to provide polio vaccine to all Ontario children in school grades 1 and 2; Ontario Society for Crippled Children, Variety Club Research Fund, $18,000 for a special project to determine the cause of cerebral palsy; Toronto Academy of Medicine, $10,000; Royal Botanical Gardens at Hamilton, $100,000.

Education takes the biggest single bite out of estimated current expenditures of $385,032,000 for the new year with an appropriation of $92,400,000, an increase of $12,000,000 over last year's estimate and an amount larger than the government's entire budget before the Second World War.

The premier outlined the progress being achieved in Ontario's population increase. Next September, facilities would be provided for additional 70,000 pupils who would bring total enrolment in elementary and secondary schools next year to 1,050,000. Over the last 10 years, number of students has increased from approximately 330,000. In 1945 grants to school boards amounted to a little under $4,000,000. This figure is $71,000,000 of the $92,400,000 education budget.

Other educational grants, provincial assistance to municipalities in the province now amounted to $144,900,000, 37 per cent of the province's net ordinary expenditures, which were up to 42 per cent of the 1954 municipal tax levy. Grants to school boards alone reach $137,100,000, with substantial increases for schools and roads. Municipal grants are responsible for municipal civil defence. Unconditional grants to municipalities have grown by $800,000 to nearly $12,500,000.

RETAINS AGREEMENT

On Dominion-provincial relations, Mr. Frost said the Ontario government planned to enter the five-year tax agreement with the Dominion government which expires March 31, 1957. On receipt of a letter from Prime Minister St. Laurent said that any province could withdraw on one year's notice. The letter followed an arrangement that gave Ontario 10 per cent from five the federal income tax credit allowed in a province which levies a personal tax.

Speaking of the provincial debt, Mr. Frost pointed out that for the first time in more than 25 years the Ontario government had been forced to borrow public investment, totalling $86,800,000 in 1954-55, without guarantee of Hydro bond financing in which it participated during the year was to guarantee payment of principal and the Ontario Hydro issues, totalling $185,- 000,000, which were marketed in Canada.

Although the province's net capital debt rose by $630,000,000 March 31, 1954, from $490,500,000 March 31, 1945, it declined on a per capita basis to $125.47 from $127.76. In 10 years the province's net debt per $1,000 of the province's assets worth $547,000,000 and had declined from 89 cents to 80 cents of the total from current revenues.

The premier spoke in glowing terms of the province's expansion. Population was increasing by 150,000 annually, the birth rate being three per cent, was higher than the rest of Canada and almost double that of the United States. In 12 years it had added 1,250,000 population to the present total of 4,400,000. By next rate it would reach 6,000,000 by 1960.

In 1953, 442,000 new job opportunities were created. Average weekly wages in that year had increased 113 per cent. Consumer expenditure was up 178 per cent. Number of homes with electric refrigerators increased by more than 600,000 while more than two times. Ratio of persons per passenger auto droped to 4.3 from 5.1.

Employment last year was higher than ever before although new job opportunities did not open up sufficiently to absorb all the increase in the labor force.

Dislocations resulting in loss of employment were to be expected in a dynamic, swiftly - moving economy. The task was to make sure that the new jobs and industries were contracting others were expanding to absorb displaced and moving forward. This could not be done in a spirit of recrimination. Ontario could not in the next 12 months expect to maintain gains as in the last 12, if the government observed four rules: 1. Maintain a favorable climate for investment and private initiative that if we want more public services we must be prepared to pay for them; 2. Maintain public confidence in our securities and our government's financial housecleaning; 3. We should keep taxes at reasonable levels; 4. We must take the great development works that will increase the efficiency and productivity of our workers.

Hastings, Belleville Included In Municipal Road Program

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's farm cash income in 1954 amounted to $373,000,000, an increase of $49,000,000 over 1953, Premier Frost said today in his budget address to the Ontario legislature.

The total was the second highest in the province's history behind the record $786,805,000 of 1951. Mr. Frost termed the increase encouraging since it represented a downward trend in cash income to farmers.

Despite decline by one - third in its labor force during the first 25 years, the province's farm industry had kept production on the increase by mechanical devices and electrical devices and through introduction of scientific methods of raising livestock and crops.

The Ontario government had sought to help farmers by extending rural hydro - electric service. At the end of last year 90 per cent of farms in the province had been publicly owned Hydro power system was serving 230,617 rural customers and by the end of 1955 others would be added this year.

TELEPHONE EXTENSIONS

Activities of the Ontario telephone authority were being extended by establishment of the Ontario development corporation with borrowing limit of $15,000,000 to acquire, construct, operate, maintain, sell and buy and sell shares in rural telephone systems.

"Our whole object in setting up the corporation is to bring the telephone service of those living in the rural parts of the province," he said. "Community Centres had brought notable benefits to rural communities and legislation had been passed in 1948, the province had assisted in the financing of 28 community halls and fields, 14 skating arenas, 9 outdoor rinks, 36 recreational centres and 12 artificial swimming pools.

The junior farmers establishment corporation was also serving valuable purpose by providing funds for young farmers to get started on their own farms. The corporation had approved loans involving payment of $7,800,000.

INVESTMENT

The premier gave no detailed breakdown of the $700,000,000 capital spending next year but did give startling next April 1. However, he said that in addition to direct government spending it includes expenditures planned by the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario on the St. Lawrence development and other projects and the $1,000,000,000 which Ontario Hydro's share was estimated at $563,000,000 by 1960-61.

The biggest direct government spending will be on roads with an appropriation of $175,000,000 but the amount includes $43,700,000 in subsidies to municipalities, and $45,000,000 expected they will spend another $45,000,000 bringing the total to $220,000,000. Other spending: road spending to $220,000,000 of which $101,000,000 is for new capital construction and $119,000,000 for maintenance.

A record of $36,775,000 went into capital accounts in the fiscal year, with $20,000,000 of it for new construction, compared with $22,000,000 in the year just ending.

The new budget is Ontario's biggest with a total expenditure estimate of $502,019,000 made up of $385,032,000 on current account and $183,987,000 capital. The previous record budget was last year's total of $137,203,000 capital. Based on 10 months actual and two months estimated figures, the province is likely to hit $528,710,000 of which $407,213,000 is on current account and $121,487,000 capital.

REVENUE SOURCES

Chief sources of revenue in the new year are expected to be Dominion tax agreement, $126,100,000; gasoline tax, $92,500,000; highway tolls, $38,000,000; motor vehicle licences $28,700,000.

Revenues for the year just ending, totalling $407,917,000, outran estimates by $35,735,000. Biggest increases were shown by liquor sale profits of $45,000,000, up $9,000,000; succession duties on estates $25,000,000, up $6,500,000 and gasoline taxes $92,000,000, up $3,000,000.

Revenue from two natural resources also showed increases over estimates. Forests yielded $18,540,000, up $1,521,000; and mines with $5,277,000, up $752,000.

Supplementary grants to hospitals, not in estimates but to be made from the current fiscal year's revenue, totalled $5,300,000. The grants were: $52,500,000; hospitals, at the rate of $200 a bed, to be used for equipment and separate units; Toronto General Hospital, $400 to the two-bed hospital at Wilberforce 45 miles north of Peterborough to $278,000 for Toronto General.

Universities got the biggest supplementary grant, $5,600,000; University of Toronto, $2,000,000; another $1,000,000 for expansion of its dental college; Queens University at Kingston and University of Western Ontario, London, $500,000 apiece; Hamilton College at McMaster University at Hamilton, $400,000; University of Ottawa, $300,000; Carleton College, Ottawa, $200,000; Assumption University, Windsor, $200,000 for Essex College capital account; Ontario College of Art, Toronto, $400,000.

OTHER GRANTS LISTED

Other supplementary grants: Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation, $1,000,000, bringing the government's total grants to the project to $7,300,000; teachers superannuation fund, $4,000,000; province's public welfare pension fund, $1,000,000 apiece; St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, $500,000; Salvation Army Grace Hospital, Toronto, $300,000; $250,000 to provide polio vaccine to all Ontario children in school grades 1 and 2; Ontario Society for Crippled Children, Variety Club Research Fund, $18,000 for a special project to determine the cause of cerebral palsy; Toronto Academy of Medicine, $10,000; Royal Botanical Gardens at Hamilton, $100,000.

Education takes the biggest single bite out of estimated current expenditures of $385,032,000 for the new year with an appropriation of $92,400,000, an increase of $12,000,000 over last year's estimate and an amount larger than the government's entire budget before the Second World War.

The premier outlined the progress being achieved in Ontario's population increase. Next September, facilities would be provided for additional 70,000 pupils who would bring total enrolment in elementary and secondary schools next year to 1,050,000. Over the last 10 years, number of students has increased from approximately 330,000. In 1945 grants to school boards amounted to a little under $4,000,000. This figure is $71,000,000 of the $92,400,000 education budget.

Other educational grants, provincial assistance to municipalities in the province now amounted to $144,900,000, 37 per cent of the province's net ordinary expenditures, which were up to 42 per cent of the 1954 municipal tax levy. Grants to school boards alone reach $137,100,000, with substantial increases for schools and roads. Municipal grants are responsible for municipal civil defence. Unconditional grants to municipalities have grown by $800,000 to nearly $12,500,000.

RETAINS AGREEMENT

On Dominion-provincial relations, Mr. Frost said the Ontario government planned to enter the five-year tax agreement with the Dominion government which expires March 31, 1957. On receipt of a letter from Prime Minister St. Laurent said that any province could withdraw on one year's notice. The letter followed an arrangement that gave Ontario 10 per cent from five the federal income tax credit allowed in a province which levies a personal tax.

Speaking of the provincial debt, Mr. Frost pointed out that for the first time in more than 25 years the Ontario government had been forced to borrow public investment, totalling $86,800,000 in 1954-55, without guarantee of Hydro bond financing in which it participated during the year was to guarantee payment of principal and the Ontario Hydro issues, totalling $185,- 000,000, which were marketed in Canada.

Although the province's net capital debt rose by $630,000,000 March 31, 1954, from $490,500,000 March 31, 1945, it declined on a per capita basis to $125.47 from $127.76. In 10 years the province's net debt per $1,000 of the province's assets worth $547,000,000 and had declined from 89 cents to 80 cents of the total from current revenues.

The premier spoke in glowing terms of the province's expansion. Population was increasing by 150,000 annually, the birth rate being three per cent, was higher than the rest of Canada and almost double that of the United States. In 12 years it had added 1,250,000 population to the present total of 4,400,000. By next rate it would reach 6,000,000 by 1960.

In 1953, 442,000 new job opportunities were created. Average weekly wages in that year had increased 113 per cent. Consumer expenditure was up 178 per cent. Number of homes with electric refrigerators increased by more than 600,000 while more than two times. Ratio of persons per passenger auto droped to 4.3 from 5.1.

Employment last year was higher than ever before although new job opportunities did not open up sufficiently to absorb all the increase in the labor force.

Dislocations resulting in loss of employment were to be expected in a dynamic, swiftly - moving economy. The task was to make sure that the new jobs and industries were contracting others were expanding to absorb displaced and moving forward. This could not be done in a spirit of recrimination. Ontario could not in the next 12 months expect to maintain gains as in the last 12, if the government observed four rules: 1. Maintain a favorable climate for investment and private initiative that if we want more public services we must be prepared to pay for them; 2. Maintain public confidence in our securities and our government's financial housecleaning; 3. We should keep taxes at reasonable levels; 4. We must take the great development works that will increase the efficiency and productivity of our workers.

FOREIGN-FLAG FREIGHTERS

To the people who live in Great Lakes ports and along the St. Lawrence River, small foreign-flag freighters are a familiar sight. When the St. Lawrence seaway is finished the numbers and size of such freighters bringing cargoes into the heart of North America, will be sharply increased. Here a Norwegian freighter passes a German ship in the Cornwall canal. Between them can be seen a Canadian laker. (CP Photo.)

INUNDATED TOWN

For 50 years—ever since the St. Lawrence seaway was first suggested—the people of Iroquois, Ont., have talked about the day when their community would be flooded. Now with the seaway-power project well under way, the town's 1,100 inhabitants know it will be under water in three years. This aerial photo shows Iroquois as it is today and the new site on higher ground picked out for it by Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The new water line will be well back of the town's present site and Highway No. 2, main route between Toronto and Montreal, will be relocated. Caldwell Linen Mills, Iroquois' only industry, expects to move to higher ground this spring. Faint black lines with numbers in the photo are contour lines showing the height of the land in feet above sea level. The St. Lawrence River at this point is approximately 200 feet above sea level. 6,000 Riverside Residents Will Be Forced to Leave Homes

Overtaken by the St. Lawrence seaway project will be some 6,000 riverside residents who will be forced to leave their homes. This story deals with the plight of a typical farmer.

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP) — Smoky Johnson likes to sit at the kitchen window of his comfortable old farmhouse at nearby Iroquois Point with binoculars and watch the freighters ride the river, their wash lapping his back acres.

Smoky has been looking at them for most of his 55 years on the family farm. But he has probably turned the glasses on the last he'll ever see from his observance post beside the coal stove.

For Smoky must leave the farm where he was born, probably before the opening of navigation this spring. And eventually the freighters will be slicing right through the rich Johnson land and exactly through the spot where the homestead rests now.

Gerald (Smoky) Johnson's fortune happens to be that of around 6,000 persons who will be forced out of their homes by the St. Lawrence River seaway-power project, he will be the first to go, along with a brother and sister who help him farm the family property.

The Johnson acreage of mixed farming and dairy pasture land sits directly in the path of the Iroquois canal, Canada's proposed $14,000,000 entry to the upper end of the huge 40-mile power-water pool that will be created on the river's international section.

"I just don't know what I'm going to do," said Smoky, pounding a wool-socked foot against the coal burner, dropping the binoculars to run stubby, calloused fingers through thinning grey hair.

"You see," he said, "this property has been in the family 75 years now. I was born here, our parents died here, and Charlie and Irene and myself have always farmed the place."

He pointed out the window to a squat, obviously ancient building of time-weathered stone. "See that smokehouse? Must be anywhere from 150 to 200 years old. I wouldn't know. Somebody's always farmed here, from the days of the first grants to settlers."

WELL IRRIGATED

It's good land, too. The Johnsons come up with excellent crops and plenty of milk from the herd even in poor years.

Perhaps that's because the point where the farm is located thrusts its triangle into the flow of the St. Lawrence and gets the full flood of its irrigation.

But that very fact now is the bad luck of the Johnsons. Their land is little more than a quarter of a mile from the United States' Rockway Point, and a regulating dam for the seaway project is to be built between the two spits.

To get the shipping past the dam, Canada will cut a ditch with a lock across Iroquois Point. Smoky won't be flooded out—like those downriver—but the canal will cut through his farm and he'll have to go, soon.

Canada is rushing the Iroquois construction. International political factors are involved in the hurry. It's unfamiliar stuff to the Johnsons, but the brothers and sister are caught up in them.

Officials say they probably will have to get out by spring, so that the engineers can start digging that mile-long channel across the point.

"I expect we'll find they'll do all right by us in the end," said Smoky. "I'll miss the farm, the boats, though."

He rubbed his stubbled chin. "What we'll do, I don't know. I just don't know. I don't think about it yet."

First Tourists To Visit Nepal

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuter)—Thirteen Americans and two Canadians were among the first party of tourists from the western hemisphere ever to visit Nepal. The party arrived here Tuesday for a one-day stay. They visited ancient Buddhist and Hindu shrines.

A chartered plane carried the tourists into Nepal (sandwiched between India and Tibet) as a side trip on a round-the-world cruise.

The tourists reported finding the Royal Hotel comfortable. It's a converted palace which has a stuffed leopard, tiger or other wild animal in every room.

Night School Classes Come To a Close

HILLIER SOUTH — Last Monday evening the Hillier Hall was the setting for the closing session of the night class held under the management of Mr. Don Taylor, agricultural representative for Prince Edward County, Mr. Jack Taylor was master of ceremonies and on behalf of the class members, presented Don Taylor with a Kodak slide.

There were 5 separate classes, three for the men, electric welding, tractor maintenance, and lead crop improvement. Special speakers attended to give lectures.

For the ladies, two classes with 22 members enrolling. Mr. Pougnet of Trenton, was instructor for the class in "Home decorating". He had a wealth of knowledge concerning this topic to impart to the class members by way of lectures and illustrations.

He was also presented with a suitable gift at the close of the last class meeting.

Miss Baun, of Picton Collegiate, was supervisor of the sewing class and also was presented with a remembrance from the sewing class group.

Hillier community has had the privilege of attending night school for 1954 and 1955 and no doubt other communities will be in line to accept these advantages.

RAWDON

Hastings County Linked With Smooth Rock Falls, Ontario

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

RAWDON—It may be news to many Rawdonians that 25 tons of limestone is used daily at the Abitibi plant at Smooth Rock Falls, Ontario, this stone is shipped from the limestone quarries at Marmora to Hastings County.

Your correspondent is indebted to the Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of Trinity United church, Smooth Rock Falls, Ontario, for most of the information used in this article. The manager of the Abitibi plant checked the story and the figures are authentic. We are sure that a number of readers will be interested. We also received a copy of "The Quarter Century Edition of Abitibi," filled with lovely photographs and stories of employees. This year 100 men and two women became quarter century members and received tangible gifts along with banquets and words of appreciation.

Abitibi claims to manufacture the best paper products and the bleached sulphite pulp is used for the finest grades of paper. Then, too, there is a full story with pictures of the paper-making industry of the Tasman Pulp and Paper Company of Auckland, New Zealand. The book runs some 50 pages closes with a Bible picture, courtesy of Scarboro Missions and a quotation part of which reads—"In 1953 I resolve to see in every stupid question a human soul groping in the dark for truth; and in every listener the hunger and likeness of God."

1,200 EMPLOYEES

In the community surrounding Smooth Rock Falls in Northern Ontario, 1,200 men work in the bush-forest operations and from temperatures down to 50 degrees below zero. At the great Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company mill, 210 tons of bleached sulphite pulp is produced daily. Day after day scarcity trucks, many of them pulling huge trailers, travel distances ranging from eight to 40 miles hauling four inch spruce logs from company camps. The wood lots and the loads vary from four to ten cords each.

These produce mountainous piles of pulpwood in the company mill yard. Stockers reaching 125 feet high, as well as unloading cranes on the ground are employed in the piling operation.

HUGE PULPWOOD PILES

These huge piles of pulpwood, together with an equal quantity dumped on the frozen upstream reaches of the Mattagami River to be waterborne to the company dam at Smooth Rock Falls, supply the mill with a year's material until the next cut of logs begins in September of each year.

The mill manager is Mr. W. J. Plant, who was born at Norwood, Ontario. He has been with the company for 36 years and is a veteran of World War I. He served with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in France and Belgium.

Smooth Rock Falls can take its place in one of the best organized and serviced municipalities in Ontario. Mr. J. Hunderup, native of Denmark, is manager of the Wood Department. Mrs. Hunderup was born in Norham, Northumberland county.

TOWNSITE

The townsite of Smooth Rock Falls is three miles distant from Smooth Rock Station on the C.N.R., which it is connected with the Mattagami Railway, "an Abitibi subsidiary." This railway is three miles in length and is said to be the shortest steam and gauge railway in the world, and it uses diesel power. The townsite contains 325 dwellings, which, with few exceptions, are owned by the company and occupied by its employees.

The Hudson Bay Company operates the only general store in the town. There are many paved roads, good sidewalks, landscaped boulevards, and spaced shade trees. The streets are well serviced by drainage, snow cleaning, tree pruning, and the spraying of insecticides. The elimination of mosquitos and fly nuisances is furthered by the tri-weekly collection of garbage, and all containers are disinfected after each collection.

The town has water and sewerage disposal services which regularly supply all the buildings. Hydrants and fire-fighting equipment along with trained firefighters are readily accessible.

NO FENCES

The prohibition of fences, facilitates deliveries by wide lawns at the rear of all the residences. It also affords maximum sunlight to the small kitchen gardens adjoining almost every property. A curfew sounded each evening at the o'clock requires all persons under 16 years of age to be off the streets, unless accompanied by adults. The population is about 1,500 people. Another 1,-500 people live in the bordering township of Hendry. This area is defined by Mooreville, Unionville, and Cloudyville, and one small post office serves the entire area.

ABITIBI DAM

The Abitibi dam at the falls of the Mattagami River not only regulates the flow of the river en route to Arctic seas, but it also turns the turbines which generate the power, which provides electricity for the company and for domestic use. The dam also channels the water supply for all mill and townsite needs. The massive concrete pillars of the dam also support the river crossing for the transcontinental highway number 11 which actually crosses the mill yard.

Two churches, Trinity United and St. Gertrude's Roman Catholic are the only places of worship, and are sufficient for all religious needs.

Two primary schools, public and separate, provide education for 550 children.

A secondary school serves all public school graduates, and includes the most modern equipment including household science and shop work class rooms.

The public school equipment is up-to-date and includes a piano, recorder, and a public address system. The Union Jack is flown on the public school grounds every school day.

MODERN HOSPITAL

There is a modern hospital with a regular capacity for 15 beds, but they often accommodate a great many more by using beds in the corridors.

There are two fully qualified full-time doctors on duty, as well as an excellent staff of nurses, technicians and assistants.

Smooth Rock Falls Hospital has an enviable record for successful surgery and patient care. The hospital also includes offices for the dental surgeon and for the baby clinic.

A motion picture theatre is of approved modern construction with cinemascope screen. Current city films are shown twice weekly (four nights). The company maintains an imposing inn or hotel with accommodation for numerous guests and there is an annex for summer tourists. Intoxicating beverages are obtainable at the provincial liquor store only.

A large ice arena built by volunteer labor with thousands of dollars worth of material supplied by the Abitibi Company provides for hockey and skating with a separate surface for curling. School children enjoy free skating periods several times weekly.

CLUB HOUSE

The Abitibi Company provides a club house. There is a good library. The Sea Scouts own their hall and the Vets built and own an up-to-date Legion hall. The municipal building has dignified furnishings and rooms for council, court and committee meetings.

The provincial police maintain an office which serves a wide area. The town itself has two police officers, however within the townsite there are few crimes.

The mill is a massive structure which receives the pulp logs by conveyors which unload them to debarking machinery. The logs then pass through chippers which cut them into small chips. These chips are then blown into huge silos or cookers, capable of holding 60 tons each.

The processing is done and as a result of the heat and chemical action, the chips are reduced to a substance which resembles a wood flour. In this operation 35 tons of limestone are used daily. This stone is shipped by rail to Smooth Rock Falls from the limestone quarries at Marmora.

Both Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker and Rev. W. S. Irwin wish to be remembered to all their many friends in this district. They are busy with church activities.

25TH ANNIVERSARY

Trinity United church celebrated their 25th anniversary on February 13, with the Woman's Circle providing a turkey dinner and following Sunday. The C.G.I.T. were in charge of the anniversary "Family Service".

During the Lenten season, special appeals amounting to 30 per cent of any amount given will be used for "The Home for Senior Citizens" at New Liskeard; Albert College, Belleville, and the Church Extension Fund.

The White Gifts at Christmas were given to the Salvation Army at Timmins and their offerings to "The Home for Aged Civilians", men and women of Northern Ontario at New Liskeard.

"The Cobbler of Fairyland", operetta, under the leadership of Rev. A. E. Baker, A.R.C.T., is being presented two nights in April in the separate school auditorium with 600 sittings available.

A memorial window is to be placed in Trinity church in memory of the late Rev. Samuel H. East, a beloved pastor. The reproduction in stained glass will be Holman Hunt's famous painting "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock", at an estimated cost of $2,500.

Several folk from Rawdon, Sidney and Stirling, visited at Smooth Rock Falls last year and many others are going by using bed in the corridors.

There are two fully qualified full-time doctors on duty, as well as an excellent staff of nurses, technicians and assistants.

Britain Appears Convinced Princess Margaret Will Wed Hero of Battle of Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain appeared convinced today that barring a last-minute change of heart, a marriage will be arranged between Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Lack of official confirmation from Buckingham Palace did nothing to deter the growing conviction that the royal romance is the real thing, and that an announcement will be made before too long.

Official court circles insisted that "nobody knows what's going to happen except the principals," but the fact that Buckingham Palace consented to talk about it at all merely strengthened the supposition of those who are sure the 24-year-old princess will marry the 40-year-old Battle of Britain hero.

CASE IS MADE

In the absence of any confirmation, the romantically minded have made this case:

Rumors of the reported royal romance, first noted in July, 1953, have suddenly recurred after an interval of nearly two years. This may indicate that official quarters, such as Buckingham Palace, are not averse to preparing the public for possible further developments.

It is recalled that in the abdication crisis of 1936, the present Duke of Windsor's romance with a divorcee was allowed to burst upon the British public like a bombshell. This time, it is argued, the people are being gently prepared.

Townsend, a father of two children, was granted a divorce in 1953 because of misconduct by his wife, the former Rosemary Pawle.

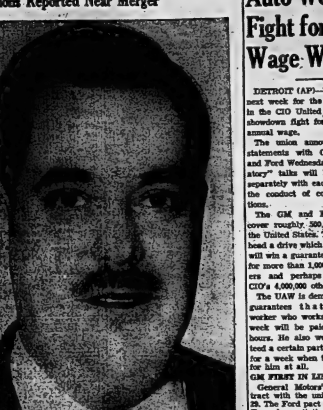
Another pointer is considered to be the recent change in attitude of Townsend. Two years ago he was transferred abruptly from London to Brussels, where he served as air attache at the British embassy, Until last week, he had always given reporters the brush-off.

SOMETHING IN WIND

Now he has started talking to newspaper men from the popular London dailies, and though his "quotes" could mean anything or nothing, they are nevertheless deemed another sure sign that something is in the wind.

In Britain, those bellwethers of opinion—the writers of "letters to the editor"—greeted the latest with "Go ahead and good luck." appears the tone of the first letters to appear on the matter, in today's tabloid Daily Mirror.

Princess Margaret, 24-year-old princess, who has been the busiest member of the Royal Family during the last six weeks, took four days away from official duties to go to exposition in a good deal of the brief holiday with the Queen and the Queen Mother at the royal lodge in Windsor.



DINES WITH FRIENDS

The princess began her brief rest, after her month-long Caribbean tour, by dining with friends in a private room at Mirabelle's in West End hotel Wednesday night. Her next official engagement is here Tuesday night when she attends the consecration of St. Philip's church in Platstow.

Two Main Blocks of Canadian Labor Unions Reported Near Merger

A. R. MOSHER, CCL PRESIDENT

CLAUDE JODOIN, TLC PRESIDENT

Top men in Canada's two great union bodies, the 600,000-member Trades and Labor Congress and the 400,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor met in Ottawa Wednesday to discuss merger. If the merger occurs it will be in line with the recent marriage in the U.S. of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, of which the TLC and CCL are affiliates. The present discussions in Ottawa, in which Claude Jodoin, TLC president, and A. R. Mosher, CCL president, are taking part with six other top-ranking union officials, appear to be the culmination of a series which has been going on intermittently for the past two years. —Central Press Canadian Photos.

Auto Workers' Showdown Fight for Guaranteed Annual Wage Will Open Next Week

The union announced in joint statements with General Motors and Ford Wednesday that "exploratory" talks will be held there separately with each company—on the conduct of contract negotiations.

The GM and Ford talks will cover roughly 500,000 workers in the United States. They will spearhead a drive which the union hopes will win a guaranteed annual wage for more than 1,000,000 auto workers and perhaps many of the CIO's 4,000,000 other members.

The UAW is demanding contract guarantees that any seniority worker who works any part of a week will be paid for a full 40 hours. He also would be guaranteed a certain part of his full wage for a week when there is no work for him at all.

GM FIRST IN LINE

General Motors' five-year contract with the union expires May 29. The Ford pact runs out June 1. Formal negotiations with the two biggest producers in the industry are scheduled to begin in early April. The union has provide for a start of negotiations 60 days in advance of expiration, but earlier agreements are not ruled out.

R. W. Anderson, GM's vice-president in charge of personnel, and J. W. Livingston, GM's vice-president and director of the union's GM department, said in their statement that the General Motors negotiations will open "during the week of Monday, March 14."

"There will be no collective bargaining at all these preliminary meetings. The parties expect to present their formal demands for changes in the current five-year agreement on or about March 21, to provide for a new with terms of that agreement."

Ford and the UAW announced that their representatives will open a preliminary meeting in Detroit next Wednesday.

House Debates Television

BONN, Germany (CP)—Debates in the West German parliament have become a feature on television in recent weeks, since earlier radio broadcasts of the sessions showed there was a large and steady audience.

Radio and television broadcast of the Bundestag now has become something of an institution. The federal government's information office says the custom, as a "bridge" between parliament and the voters, "is considered a valuable contribution towards the growth of civic responsibility in the young democracy."

The first radio broadcasts were an experiment. Radio experts were not sure how listeners would react to the heavy fare of a complete sitting. They were also unsure about the effect on members of parliament themselves, wondering if they would "play to the gallery" with a large number of citizens listening around the country.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

The reaction of parliament, with their audience suddenly increased by several millions, did not materialize because it was observed," says the report. "And the quality of radio listeners tuning off their sets was no larger than usual."

When parliament was also put on television, one particularly important change was that the interesting scene was scheduled to run to 8 p.m. At that hour, deputies pick up a theatrical performance.

The TV station, however, decided to show the conclusion of the debates, and switched over to the theatre performance 45 minutes after the play had begun. This decision, according to the information section, was approved afterward by 90 per cent of the television audience.

Sessions are selected for television on the basis of the parliamentary order of business, with debates on essential topics. Since last autumn television has brought 14 complete sittings to the audience.

Radio has been carrying selected sessions since 1949, which first prepared a large audience for the newer television service. The program is broadcast by the federal radio stations at Bonn, Bremen, Munich, Hessen, Baden - Baden and West Berlin.

VOTE FOR CARRIERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives armed services committee Wednesday voted 34 to 0 for a fifth supercarrier and a $1,000,000,000 navy shipbuilding program for the year ending in mid-1956. The vote was unanimous in the committee during which top navy officials called the giant flattops indispensable for modern fleet. Some Congressmen have called them unnecessary in the atomic era. lack, a statement the navy denies.

Steel Producers Find Scrap Iron Growing Scarce

NEW YORK (AP) — American steel producers are worrying about scrap as the year's first quarter nears to rise, and March is likely to set an all-time record for steel production. Iron Age, the national metal-working weekly, says.

Mills are operating this week at 92.5 per cent of rated capacity, up one point from last week's revised rate.

A mounting demand for scrap from Europe has added to the aggravating the scrap situation, says Iron Age, reporting as follows:

The export market has been a factor in the current tight scrap. The Iron Age scrap composite for Philadelphia $3 cents to $37.58 this week.

Leaders of Two Main Blocks Of Canadian Labor Looking Forward to Unity of Groups

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of the two main blocks of Canadian labor, their prospective amalgamation of 1,000,000 workers rolling almost aircraft speed, looking for unity of all legitimate unions in this country.

While still working on preliminaries of their own merger, officials of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor Wednesday issued a declaration of principle calling for the widened amalgamation.

Eight TLC and CCL officers, meeting as a "unity" committee, got down to firm merger negotiations for the first time. They went a long way in a one-day meeting, taking action officials later said will help clear the decks for a single TLC-CCL congress by early 1956.

FOLLOW U.S. LEAD

In this, they will be following the lead of American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, expected to be held in the United States later this year.

The basic principles for a unified constitution adopted by the committee Wednesday, subject to ratification by the TLC and CCL, provide that an objective will be eventual unification of all genuine labor groups in Canada.

Communist-dominated and company-dominated unions would be barred, but the way would be open for Quebec's 180,000-member Catholic and Catholic Confederation of Labor, the rail-running trades with about 50,000 and miscellaneous unions.

However, officials said it is too early for approaches to have been made to any of these.

15 PRINCIPLES

Meanwhile, the committee adopted a 15-point set of principles. These do not take in procedural technicalities of the amalgamation. Approval by governing bodies of the two congresses is regarded as virtually certain.

After that, the timetable would run this way:

Drafting of a constitution by the unity committee; approval of the constitution by the councils of the TLC and CCL; submission of the constitution to the TLC convention at Windsor starting May 30 and to the CCL's convention in Toronto Oct. 10; if the TLC-CCL conventions ratify, a joint "founding" the project convention in early 186.

Quebec Senator Against Widening Divorce Grounds

OTTAWA (CP)—A Quebec senator said Wednesday divorce is a social evil and that dissolution of marriage in Canada should be made even more difficult than now.

Liberal Senator Paul Henri Bouffard, Quebec City businessman and father of three children, spoke during debate on a bill which would widen divorce grounds —adultery in all provinces except Nova Scotia, where cruelty is a second condition.

In advocating tighter divorce law, he said:

"A more painstaking inquiry, less trust in those always adulterous, closer questioning of the parties requesting divorce and their co-respondents, would appear to me a better way of correcting abuses than the broadening of the grounds for divorce, which will have all other effect than increasing the number of cases based on simulated evidence, which is all too frequent at the present time."

Senator Bouffard said Canada should learn the grim lessons taught by the United States, Britain and France. Broadening of divorce grounds in those countries had led to a flood of the law and more divorces.

Another Liberal, Senator George G. Burchill of South Nelson, N.B., also a married man, joined Senator Bouffard in opposing the bill.

He suggested a special committee be appointed to go into the whole question of divorce, test public opinion and hear evidence from judges, social workers and other experts. The Senate should go very slow in any move to change divorce law.

WARN OF THUGS

WELLAND (CP) — Police said Wednesday a gang of well-known safecrackers met in a nearby Crowland township house Wednesday morning, possibly to plan a series of robberies. Police said ten men left the house in three cars and were followed by cruisers. Police lost them in heavy traffic. Police through the province later were warned.

Legislature Adopts Address In Reply to Throne Speech 70-7

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Wednesday night voted 70 to 7 in favor of adopting the address in reply to the speech from the throne and by the same margin defeated a motion for an amendment to the address.

The amendment, moved earlier in the session by Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver, was in effect a motion of non-confidence in the provincial conservative government.

The amendment: "But this House regrets that the health program of the government has not been broad enough to make use of all the federal government funds made available for health purposes in Ontario."

Mr. Oliver was absent when the 7 to 70 division was determined.

Agriculture Minister Thomas, the last speaker before the vote was taken, said he will introduce legislation during the session which will be the most modern farm marketing legislation yet drafted.

He was confident the legislation, with support of the federal government, would permit the province to provide for farm products marketing in the manner desired by farmers, consumers and the trade.

Mr. Thomas reviewed the agriculture industry for the last year. Erratic weather conditions in the southern part of the province and a drought in the western part resulted in some spoilage. However, the year was fairly satisfactory.

He said gross production of field crops was down from $308,000,000 in 1953 to $290,753,000 in 1954 but in many cases increased farming efficiency helped bridge the gap.

He said Canadian and particularly Ontario livestock continued to attract foreign buyers during the year. "Perhaps the most spectacular transaction resulted in the shipment of eight bulls by aircraft to Spain."

Sales were also made in Italy, he said, the main factor for the preference of foreign buyers for Ontario cattle was high health standards established by the province.

Aurele Chartrand (L — Ottawa East) said the provincial government had failed to provide adequate housing, alleviate unemployment or assist municipalities by taking over a greater portion of taxation.

Speaking on the amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, Mr. Chartrand said Ontario has lagged behind other less wealthy provinces in the provision of basic public health services.

"The records show that over 72 per cent of the population in rural and semi-rural areas of Ontario do not have any health unit services."

Sportsmen's Show Ready to Open At Coliseum

TORONTO (CP)—Fishing reels spun, outboard motors sputtered and hammers thumped at the Coliseum in Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition grounds today as preparations rumbled forward for the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

The eighth annual exhibition officially begins Thursday when R. Douglas Stuart, United States ambassador and the 48th Highlanders pipe band will be on hand. The show grounds will be open to the public Friday morning.

Proceeds from the show, sponsored by Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association, are used for an extensive conservation program. Officials said about 200,000 persons are expected during the eight-day exhibition.

SQUIRRELS RUN MIDWAY

Mike's event will include a large boat and marine show, an international motor show, cottage and travel shows, a midway operated by squirrels and three dog shows.

Bowlers from Hamilton, Orillia, Kingston, Kitchener, London, Otawa, Bowmanville, Welland, Toronto and Windsor will trundle during the eight days for trophies and about $14,000 in cash awards.

Fishermen will have a chance to see the largest small-mouth black bass ever caught in Canada, nine-pound, 13-ounce, beauty landed by Eager Anderson of North Tonawanda, N. Y., at Birchbark lake, near Kinmount, Ont.

One Teen-ager Killed in Crash At Port Credit

PORT CREDIT (CP) — A car carrying seven Toronto teen-agers crashed into the rear of a transport truck on the Queen Elizabeth Way Wednesday night, killing one and injuring six of the others.

Dead is Albert Webster, 16, in hospital were James Lovewell, 17, the driver, Norman Pelayter, 18, Frank Fiscelli, 15, Barbara Dalton, 13, Mary Heyle, 14, and Mary Stevenson.

Lovewell, Webster and another passenger were pinned in the wreckage and had to be removed by police.

Church, Temperance Leaders Oppose Brewing Co. Centre

TORONTO (CP)—A controversy has been stirred up here over a brewing company's plan to build a culture and convention centre in the downtown area.

Some church and temperance leaders have opposed the plan because they feel that it will help to "perpetuate the name of a brewing industry."

Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor offered through O'Keefe's Brewing Company, which he and his associates control, to build the centre if the city would help get the land.

Cost of the centre would be about $12,000,000 and it would be known as "The O'Keefe Centre."

City council agreed to help although the United Church of Canada asked council "to refuse in any way to be party to any brewery-sponsored civic project in Toronto."

When a member of council hinted that a private bill before the Ontario legislature which would permit the city to expropriate the land for the centre be sent a letter to Premier Frost asking him to deny permission. Toronto or to any other municipality to expropriate land for any purpose in which a brewing or beverage alcohol business has an interest.

Convention and music officials say such a centre is long overdue. Seating capacity of Toronto's two largest culture centres, Massey Hall and the Royal Alexandra, is limited and they aren't suitable for ballet or opera. Massey Hall, seating 2,765, can be used only as a concert hall and the stage at the Royal Alexandra is not big enough for many larger productions. It seats only 1,500.

Larger buildings such as Maple Leaf Gardens and Varsity Arena are not suitable acoustically.

Those opposed to the project object chiefly to the use of the word to "perpetuate the name of a brewing industry."

Penal Expert Says Flogging Will Not Reform Prisoners

OTTAWA (CP) — Physical punishment does not reform criminals, a prominent penal expert says. And while flogging may deter others it leaves no permanent bodily injury, it sears prisoners mentally and spiritually.

This opinion was expressed Wednesday by J. Alex Edmison, assistant principal of Queen's University, Kingston, to the Commons Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

Mr. Edmison, long associated with penal reform and past president of several such associations, also gave the committee an insight into the lives of an average criminal and the "average" prison guard.

He said he has known possibly 100 prisoners subjected to flogging. It had a devastating effect on them, he said, and others.

How, then, could a prisoner be punished in a manner which is objectionable without ruining chances for his rehabilitation?

Mr. Edmison said long terms in solitary confinement are bad, but short periods on bread and water allegies can be very effective.

The solitary, he said, bore the cell and the treadmill had been discarded as a form of punishment; yet both contemporary-corporal punishment—still was retained in Canada.

He said this is a source of embarrassment to Canadian prison officials because international experts regard corporal punishment as outdated.

Most criminals came from a "quite unsatisfactory home—usually broken—left school at the tracks" and had no proper preparation for life in society, he said.

In most cases, he said, they had a hard time in school and left with a sense of failure. Penal church connection or interest and never belonged to such groups as the Boy Scouts and the YMCA or participated in team sports.

Mr. Edmison said that despite his 25 years of interest in criminology and penal reform he still had formed no definite conclusion on the merit or otherwise of capital punishment: Hanging.

But he gave to the committee the opinion that "I am strongly in favor of the electric chair, not only on the ground of humanity, but it is safer, cheaper way and it is instantaneous."

RAWDON

Y.P.U. Presents Three-Act Comedy

RAWDON—The three-act comedy entitled, "The Hot Water Hero", was presented in Mount Pleasant Church hall on Friday evening under the auspices of Rawdon United Circuit Young People's Union. The play was well received and was based on a double romance.

The cast was composed of Tom Williams, Bob Hoard; Joe Harper, George Scott; Alfred Hindson, Craig Watson; Ida Lane, Ruth Sharpe; Avis, Joyce Reid; Mary, Betty McConnell; Benjamin Williams, Wally Wrightman; Loras Williams, Ruby Bateman; Park Hurst, Ralph Johnson; Rowena, Richie Bolton.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, was Master of ceremonies; and Miss Betty McConnell was piano accompanist for duets and quartets.

Misses Ruth Linn and Ruth Sharpe were heard in vocal duets while Messrs. Craig Watson, Ralph Johnson, Glenn Watson and Edgar Graham sang two selections.

Almost $50 was realized at the door. The group plans to present their play elsewhere in the near future.

RAWDON — Institute friends will be interested to read of the engagement of Miss Anna F. Lewis, Director, Women's Institute Branch and Home Economics Service, Toronto, and Professor W. T. Erwin, O.A.C., Guelph. The wedding will take place on April 16th.

Miss Marguerite McMullen spent a recent week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Galloway, Trenton.

Two deaths occurred on Saturday in the Mount Pleasant community. James Alex. Sharp, aged five months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sharp, died in Belleville General Hospital, early Saturday morning. Mrs. G. W. Hagerman, an aged resident, died late that evening at Green Road Home. The funerals, held on Monday and Tuesday, were both largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke and sons of Markham, spent the week-end with the Sharp families.

Mrs. Harry Ketcheson attended River Valley W.I. on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ernest Carr and brought greetings from Bethel-Zion W.I.

Mr. Raymond McConnell is entertaining the mumps.

Mr. James Menzies is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

BAGGY BOUCLE SUITS present an expensive problem. Avoid such catastrophe by never, never hanging up your boucle suit. Instead, fold neatly and place in a drawer with other knitted apparel.

WHO LIKES ROCK-HARD LUMPS OF BROWN SUGAR? Annoying, isn't it, to have to hammer out hardened brown sugar? Solution to this problem is easy—just keep sugar in jar with tight-fitting top and keep in refrigerator!

QUICK-DRYING PIN CURLS! When you have to do a rush hair-do for yourself, try dampening each curl with cologne. You'll find it dry in a flash, and with a lovely fragrance.

OLD VIENNA 3720-P

Three Counties Want Hunting On Sunday

TORONTO (CP)—The Conservation Council of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties Wednesday asked the provincial government to make Sunday hunting legal in the area.

A brief presented to the legislature's fish and game committee by A. M. Lebano of Cornwall said Ontario is one of the few provinces which do not allow Sunday hunting. All other forms of recreation and sporting activities were permitted.

"It is a form of unwritten law that people in the northern part of the province hunt and shoot on Sunday without too much interference by officials of the department of lands and forests," the brief said.

The council also asked for an open season on deer for archers in the three counties. The archers' season would come before that for gun hunters.

COURSE WANTED

A resolution from the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters asked that the department of education of the province prepare an accredited course in conservation which would provide a full credit toward a first-class teacher's certificate.

The federation brief, presented by H. V. Sutton of Ridgetown, secretary-manager, suggested the course be prepared in co-operation with the department of lands and forests.

Federation resolutions on deer hunting asked that the lands and forests department maintain deer checking stations 24 hours a day during the deer season; guides not be permitted to carry firearms while guiding hunting parties, and that the system of using metal tags for tagging deer be resumed.

BAN ON FERRETS

Pheasant hunting season should start on a Saturday to allow the majority of workers to hunt at the start of the season, the federation said. Possession of ferrets should be illegal in or near the natural habitat of rabbits and by hunters except on their own property.

The department of lands and forests was asked to encourage the supervised use of poison for talking wolves; prohibit use of dogs in deer hunting in the Kenora-Rainy River district; issue groundhog licences for use only in southern Ontario and require all big game non-resident hunters to make headquarters at licensed outfitters.

UNDER CANAL

Work on the St. Lawrence seaway-power project is going ahead almost in the backyards of the people of Cornwall, Ont. This photo shows two access tunnels which run under the Cornwall canal out to Barnhart island on the United States side of the St. Lawrence River. Through these tunnels will go materials for building the great installation which will eventually pump 2,200,000 electrical horsepower into industries of Ontario and the eastern U.S. To build the tunnels, a section of the canal had to be gouged out. It will be restored before navigation resumes next month. The smaller tunnel will house a conveyor belt while the larger will allow passage of men and trucks. (CP Photo).

TANGIBLE SIGN

The 17,500 people of Cornwall, Ont., who expect their city will grow to 75,000 within 10 years as the St. Lawrence seaway develops, see tangible signs every day of its coming growth. Here steel cables are pulling down the 60-foot limestone clock tower of the old post office, local Cornwall's best-known landmark. The tower stood at Cornwall's busiest corner, Pitt and Seconds Streets, where a seven-storey building to house the seaway authority will be built. (CP Photo).

East Ontario Having Problems With St. Lawrence Seaway

More hydro power and better navigation facilities from the St. St. Lawrence seaway beckon industry along the path. This story deals with possible effects on eastern Ontario, apart from their main development.

By JOHN LESLANG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — What with hopeful $13-an-hour gravediggers, eastern Ontario is having its problems with the St. Lawrence seaway. But it expects to come out on top.

Relatively - undeveloped eastern Ontario, straddling the rich Quebec and southern Ontario markets and alongside the seaway, figures it's a shoo-in to get the big benefits from the $800,000,000 electricity-navigation project.

But that's still a major question mark.

PEOPLE FLOCKING IN

About all a reporter can determine, on a seaway survey, is that the development is going to benefit Canada generally and that areas within its radius will benefit, too. Who will get the biggest advantage? That's anyone's guess.

Meanwhile, a lot of people are flocking into this eastern Ontario district early to get in on the ground floor. Industry is scouting the area that will be right next door to 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity.

Some of the newcomers are construction men, vanguard of an expected 15,000 eventually to work on the four-year navigation and power job.

Then there are the gravediggers. Several cemeteries that are to be flooded by the seaway will be shifted to higher ground. The grapevine had it that laborers' pay would be $12 an hour. So the transients are floating in here, though the graveyard pay will be just normal and won't start for months anyway.

CITY EXPANSION

Cornwall brushes off these hopefuls with a night's free sleep in the jail and goes on figuring how to get the best out of the development at its back door. The 17,500-population city is just below the power site on the St. Lawrence river and hopes to cash in on cheap and plentiful electricity.

"We expect a 75,000 population in about 10 years," says perennial Mayor Aaron Horovitz. "After this development is well under way, Cornwall should be the biggest city in eastern Ontario, beating out Kingston."

Now, Cornwall is just a mile square. In its ambition to get set for the seaway, it is trying to multiply its corporate area tenfold by annexing a great chunk of the neighboring township which would double its population immediately and give it four miles of choice waterfront that could be used by ocean ships traversing the seaway. A hot fight is on over the issue.

POWER DISTRIBUTION

Actually, eastern Ontario—in the view of some experts—can't look for any overwhelming advantage from the seaway-hydro project as against the southern part of Ontario.

Eastern Ontario itself has a general hope that it will benefit from geography in that it is right up against the spot where 1,100,000 horsepower—Canadian share of the hydro development—is to be turned loose. The fact is that the horsepower will be fed into the grid serving Ontario's whole south, including the highly - industrialized southwestern area.

Attempts have been made quietly to have a block of this power allocated to eastern Ontario, a 10-county area with a population of 200,000 that lacks power. They have been turned down by Ontario Hydro.

However, Hon. Lionel Chevrier, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, is optimistic over the seaway's impact on what he terms a "industrially neglected" eastern Ontario.

"I am sure eastern Ontario will develop," says the former transport minister from this city. "Apart from the benefits power which should affect eastern Ontario generally, ports are bound to develop along the river as deepsea shipping moves in. This could be not only at Cornwall but at other communities."

The February meeting of the Elsie Mission Band met at the Johnstown school recently. The Scripture was found in St. Matthew 5:32, read by Sharon Sellers. After receiving the collection a poem was read by Evelyn Harry, "Thank God For Everything". Rosemary Bush favored with a piano solo. Stephane McDonald sang "Jesus Loves Me". Mrs. Ferguson read another chapter of the "Boy Friday."

Musical chairs was played by the children with Evelyn Harry and Bob Hamilton winning.

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

The Johnstown W.A. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush on Thursday afternoon, with a nice crowd. The meeting was opened with a poem, by the president, Mrs. Jack Ferguson, who welcomed the visitors and said she was glad to see such a number of members present.

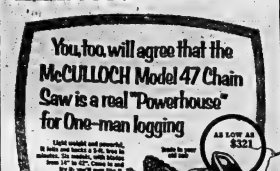
The installation of officers was then held by Mrs. Puttenham, who reminded the W.A. that when one accepted an office one should be proud to be chosen for the sacred task.

The Scripture found in Mark 14:32-42 was read by Mrs. Earl Stickle. The "Lesson Thoughts" were given by Mrs. Clayton Curtis. The roll call found 16 members and five visitors present.

At the business session Mrs. M. Mallory paid for quilting a quilt. A poem "The Man in the Glory" was given by Mrs. M. Mallory. It was moved that the insurance on the church and some bills be paid.

Mrs. Clapp and Mrs. A. Myers were delegated to attend the executive meeting at Bridge Street church on Tuesday.

Mrs. M. Mallory and Mrs. E. Bush offered to clean the church this week, as all are to take turns. Mrs. Clayton Curtis and Mrs. E. Bush are to sing at the Easter W.A. meeting at Alkens church as Johnstown's share of the program. As the W.A. is invited to Stella the Alkens' W.A. on April 7th, and Johnstown's W.A. meeting falls on the same day, the latter will hold its meeting a week later on April 14th.



A poem "Your Lost Words", was given by Mrs. E. Bush. A piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Glen Stickle. "Be Careful What You Say", was given by Mrs. Puttenham.

It was moved that the bill for advertising the play be paid.

This program was put on by Mrs. E. Bush and next month Mrs. G. McLean and Mrs. Ken Stickle will supply the program.

More Alcoholics Developing Than Can Be Treated

TORONTO (CP) — H. David Archibald, executive director of the Alcoholism Research Foundation of Ontario, said Wednesday there are more new cases of alcoholism developing each year in Ontario than a complete network of specialized treatment services can handle.

Mr. Archibald's statement was included in the foundation's annual report tabled in the legislature.

"Clearly the establishment of even a large number of special treatment services, although essential, will do little more than a palliative job."

Mr. Archibald said it was essential that such persons as family physicians, clergymen, social workers and community leaders take part in the attempt to control and prevent alcoholism.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ross Douglas Heads Chamber For Second Year

CAMPBELLFORD — The Campbellford Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting on Friday night, and re-elected Ross Douglas as president. Mr. Douglas reported a good foundation for the selection of new industry had been laid, and that the Santa Claus parade, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, was a credit to the community. He also spoke of the new road signs that would soon be erected at the entrances to the town.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Gerry Grady; second vice-president, Donald Meyers; secretary, Frank DeCarol, and treasurer, Austin Putnam. Directors are W. F. Scott and R. D. McDonald.

Mr. Putnam reported a surplus of $300. Mr. McDonald spoke on the work of the industrial committee, saying a lot had been accomplished and that the committee had to keep plugging. Negotiations, he said, necessarily must be kept secret, but a lot more was being done than was known by the man on the street. He said he considered the advertising in European magazines and newspapers a good thing, and felt that their representative, Alex. F. Wales, was doing a good job and expected results in the near future. Mr. McDonald said that work on the survey progresses, properties on the "front line" would, no doubt, become more expensive and that taxes in that area would probably be assessed higher, which condition would also assist towns, such as Campbellford, to locate new industries.

SPEAKS ON ADVERTISING

Mr. Weatherwax spoke on advertising generally, and said that advertising makes for better merchandise at lower prices through mass production. This raises living standards. He cited the ordinary electric light bulb as an example. In 1905 bulbs cost about $1.05 each. Now the same bulbs cost 50 cents, and they are of a much better quality. He also cited certain gelatin desserts which used to cost 12 cents, but now with the company spending literally millions of dollars on advertising, the product has been reduced to nine cents through wider acceptance.

Advertising pre-sells nationally known products, and salesman's costs are greatly reduced. Stores merely stock the products and the customers ask for and expect to find it in the stores.

National Hockey League Teams Pick Up Amateur Prospects For Trials

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

LETTUCE BE JOYFUL!

Maybe it is the magic word "playoff" with the gold of a championship gleaming over the hockey horizon, that is responsible for an upsurge in attendance in the four cities of the district senior "B" loop now engaged in "death-or-glory" efforts for the group title.

In the last two games played in Belleville between the Colts of Cornwall and the Memos of this village, two attendance records were broken. The first game saw 1600 click the turnstiles and on Tuesday the fans exceeded the 1800 mark, an all-season record.

Down Kingston way, the Goodyears who played to an average of 2500 over their 24-game schedule, are now enticing between 3300 and 3400 to their playoff games with their "sire" brethren, the Whitby Dunlops.

Up Whitby way, the faithful have rallied to the Blairmen and it was reported that some 2900 fans cheered the Dunnies in their last clash with the Goodyears. That figure may be wrong but in any event the arena was packed.

The Cornwall Colts, it seems, is the only club which has not noted any great upsurge in ticket sales despite a driving publicity campaign. They say around 1000 attended the Memos-Colts games, which is slightly over the average for the scheduled fixtures.

The Kingston Goodyears will prove the league's "sugar-daddy" as far as the post-season financial melon is concerned. The seven clubs will likely garner a fair amount of the cash to help realize the extra five per cent. allowed for travelling expenses has not bitten too deeply into the exchequer, but it will in no wise reach the proportions of the split last season, when, we were informed, the teams took home something like $2500 or better.

The Goodyears drew 61,300 fans during the twenty-four game home schedule, or an average of around 2,550. Their lowest gate was 1648 against the Clinton Comets, while the schedule "high" was 3438, with the Cornwall Colts as guests. In their two semi-final playoff games at home they averaged around 3300.

DOUBLE DOSES BEST

It appears that single penalties are far more costly to the Memos than those that come in double doses. On Tuesday night the opportunist Colts took full advantage of Memo indiscretions and sent a single player to the boxes,one, but they didn't get very far when the Bouchermen had two taking an enforced rest. The two sentences to Edwin Duncan and Johnny Mosdell opened the path for three of the Cornwalls goals but a back-to-back pair in another duo of players paved the way for one of the finest penalty-killing performances seen here this season. Bob Wilson, Hub Macey and "Red" Doran had the crowd in cheers as by dint of skilful passing and checking they held the rampaging full-strength Colts off the scoreboard.

The Memos are in Cornwall tonight in what could be the turning point game of the series. With both sides boasting two victories, tonight's game will give the winning team a decided edge. If the Memos can repeat their performance of last Sunday when they whipped the Colts 4-1, they stand a good chance at grabbing off the honors here on Friday night. The Cornwall wins and is defeated here Friday they will have an edge, for the deciding game of the best-of-seven will be played in the down-east arena on Sunday.

ALL SQUARE

The Whitby Dunlops evened their series on home grounds last night, whipping the Kingston Goodyears 5-3 to square matters at two games each. And another record crowd for Whitby saw their Dunlops set back their tire connierparts. They tell me a Kingston television prognosticator has already picked Cornwall and his beloved Goodyears for the final series. Yeah? Five gets him ten that the Goodies will do their finals puck-chasing from the sidelines. We refrain from betting as to which team will oppose them.

FIRST THIS YEAR

A lady correspondent takes this department to task for not publishing a recent "Squirts" game "before and after." For her information the game mentioned was arranged without knowledge of newspaper or radio and was over by the time representatives arrived for the main feature.

As far as minor hockey publicity goes, this newspaper has devoted columns of space to the youngsters' loa activities, more than any other newspaper in this part of Ontario. Rosters, teams, scoring records, coverage of games have been faithfully recorded from time to time. Future games have always been used in the daily sports calendar and results published either the same day or the day after they have been played. Our severest critics are the youngsters themselves and thus far we have not received a single "squawk",either from them or parents, until the other day.

This department's son and heir is a member of a "Squirt" team, and if there were any complaints forthcoming we would have received them first-hand. Actually, it was the other way around.

Detroit, Boston and Toronto Promote Talented Juniors; Dick Duff Will Join Leafs

By The Canadian Press

National Hockey League teams aren't wasting any time picking up likely-looking help for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Two of the four teams headed for the post-season battles—Boston Bruins and Toronto—have plucked prospects from amateur ranks for trials in the big time. Detroit, battling Montreal Canadiens for first place, signed junior defenceman Larry Hillman to a professional contract earlier this week.

Two juniors who are on trial will be in action tonight when Bruins meet last-place Chicago at Boston and Leafs take on Canadiens at Montreal.

THREE-GAME TRIAL

Duff, who is eligible for another year in junior A hockey, will receive the customary three-game trial. He probably will switch to right wing on the top line with centre Ted Kennedy and Sid Smith.

Duff replaces Jerry Foley, who was sent back to Pittsburgh Hornets, a Leaf farm club in the American League last weekend. Foley had substituted for the injured Eric Nesterenko.

HEAVY SCORER

Smith scored 29 goals and 19 assists in 42 games with Galt Black Hawks of the OHA junior A circuit this season and could be a big asset to the Beantowners in the bid for their first Stanley Cup since 1938-39.

Hillman, a native of Kirkland Lake, already has had a tryout. The Wings thought so highly of him they signed him immediately. The 18-year-old rearguard was with Hamilton Cubs of the OHA and will be eligible for Stanley Cup play.

The junior clubs that had Duff, Smith and Hillman in their lineups won't suffer by the moves. All have been eliminated from the OHA playoffs.

Sports Roundup

By Gayle Talbot

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—You think you were surprised to hear that a fellow named Mayo Smith had been hired out of the minor leagues to manage the Phillies? Then how do you think Smith felt?

"It came right out of the blue," says the former outfielder, whose entire big league career comprises a season with the Athletics in 1945. "I wasn't even in the Phils system. All I knew about this team was from reading the box scores—the same as I knew about all the other teams. That's really all I know about it now, or will know until we have played some exhibition games.

"I know we finished fourth last year, and that the team was short on power to go with its good pitching . . . I expect to learn a lot more as we go along."

PLAYED FOR TORONTO

The 40-year-old Missouri native, who once played the outfield for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, is a trim figure in a uniform and his smile is quick and friendly. One senses that he realizes the stern nature of the task confronting him — trying to make something of a club which has wrung out three managers in as many seasons.

The most important step Smith has taken is advising Granny Hamner he can quit playing second base, where he was less than happy, and go back to playing shortstop, where he is one of the real good ones.

Dutchmen Score Three in Overtime To Grab Playoff Two-Game Lead

WINDSOR (CP)—Overtime playoff games are getting to be a habit with Windsor Bulldogs.

Wednesday night a partisan Windsor crowd of 4,507 saw Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen count three overtime goals to defeat the Bulldogs 4-3 and hand them their first setback on home ice since last November.

The win gave the Dutchmen, Alan Cup champions two years ago, a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven final for the Ontario Hockey Association senior A championship. The next game is in Kitchener Saturday, where Windsor was crushed 9-1 in the opening contest of the series Tuesday.

Windsor now has played three overtime playoff games and has lost two of them. The Bulldogs won one of their two extra-period contests with Stratford Indians in the league semi-final. It was the overtime victory that gave Windsor the series in the seventh and final game.

A NIGHTMARE

For Windsor netminder Bill Harrington the playoffs have been a nightmare. He has been beaten 4 times in Windsor's nine playoff games so far but he can not be held to blame. Wednesday night, for instance, he was pelted by 39 shots and it is surprising that Kitchener needed the extra period for the victory.

Denis Brodeur wasn't exactly idle in the Kitchener nets, either, as the Bulldogs directed 36 drives his way.

Jim Logan's goal less than two minutes after the overtime period had started swung the game in Kitchener's favor. Ken Laufman, who had tallied the first goal for the Dutchmen in the second period and Sandy Horne, added other overtime markers.

This gun, a 16th century sporting matchlock designed by de Arminta, is an outstanding example of the fine craftmanship and mechanical ability of Italian artisans. As useful as it was beautiful, the matchlock was one of the first guns to be taken from Europe to the shores of the Pioneer New World.

TODAY—The Johnson "Lamisar" Sporter is a sporting rifle with a stock of hand inlaid cherry and walnut, and a testimony to modern craftmanship. Like all well-made rifles used in healthful, competitive sport it provides a bond of mutual interest between men who love to talk about fine guns.

Just How Close Can You Get? Sixteenth-Inch Decides Match

By WILF CHEMLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—Six inches and 1-16 of an inch.

Those fractional measurements led to the downfall of an unbeaten rink and helped earn a spot in the another Wednesday in the Canadian curling championships.

The half-foot was the distance skip Rudy Sisaki of Northern Ontario was off the centre of the house rock draw in the fifth round and gave Ray Rose of Dauphin, Man., a 10-9 victory over the North Bay entry.

The 1/16th of an inch, the tiny space between Saskatchewan skip Garnet Campbell's and Stone's last rocks, gave Campbell a single point on the 11th end of the sixth round Wednesday night and contributed to his 15-8 win over B.C. Officials measure minutes measuring the rocks.

TIGHTEST GAME

Stone headed the Campbell brothers their tightest game of the six round and at 4-4 set Saskatchewan from unbeaten ranks.

Going into the seventh round today, Saskatchewan was tied for first place with Skip Forsyth's Manitoba rink, each with six wins. Northern Ontario is second place with five wins and a loss. Ontario was third with three wins and two losses, followed by Nova Scotia, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island with two wins and three losses.

Newfoundland and Quebec had one win and four losses, leaving New Brunswick and Alberta which had one win and five losses in the six rounds.

Manitoba had a tough fight on its hands in the two rounds played Wednesday, counting on only four ends in a 6-round match to defeat Gerry Gilan's Nova Scotia rink 11-6. Then Andy Grant of Ontario scored heavily in late ends before falling 9-8 in the sixth round.

WINS AND LOSSES

Saskatchewan won its fifth-round match 11-4 over Skip Bruce Brown of Alberta. Sisaki easily defeated Nova Scotia in the fifth round.

Newfoundland won its third game in five years of championship play in the fifth round by defeating Bruce Rowsell of Fort Pierre 11-3. Norm Rockwell skipping Newfoundland dropped a fifth-round match to Ontario 14-7.

Dr. Wendell Macdonald of Prince Edward Island defeated Cliff Samson of Quebec 12-10 in the fifth-round game lost 14-8 to Pierre in the sixth. Ontario had a bye in the fifth round and Quebec had one in the sixth.

British Columbia showed considerable strength in its matches with Northern Ontario and Saskatchewan.

British Columbia trailed 5-0 with three ends completed. Sisaki made it 9-1 after five ends. He rounded two on the first end and another three on the third when Stone was light on both his rocks. Stone cut out four Northern Ontario counters on the fourth end with a draw to the four-foot circle.

CROWD ON FEET

A big three-ender, scored when Stone made a handy double takeout on shot rocks, set Sisaki's lead on the sixth end. The crowd was on its feet for the whole length of the game. Stone was down 8-4 on the eighth and after Sisaki counted two.

He reduced the lead to 8-7 with a three-ender, freezing to Sisaki's shot rock. Sisaki was wide and Stone drew for three.

Northern Ontario went ahead 9-7 on the 10th end. Stone tied it 9-9 with a last-rock double takeout.

Three wide rocks by Northern Ontario enabled Stone to set up guards in front of his shot rock. Sisaki was faced with an extremely difficult draw on his last rock and was short.

ONTARIO BEATEN

Roy Forsyth of Manitoba led Andy Grant of Ontario 3-2 in a tight six ends, including two blanks, then went ahead 7-3 on the eighth by counting a four-ender. Forsyth added two more on the ninth for a 9-3 lead.

Grant counted two on the 10th end to shave Forsyth's lead 9-5. He added another in the 11th after guarding a rock on the button. Forsyth ran into the guard. Grant had three rocks counting on the last end when Forsyth let go his last rock. He took one out to protect his lead.

Curlers faced three rounds of play today.

Saskatchewan met Nova Scotia in the first, the strong Ontario rink in the second and faced the Manitoba rival in the third. Other seventh-round pairings were Northern Ontario and Quebec, Newfoundland and B.C., P.E.I. and Alberta, New Brunswick and Quebec. Manitoba had the bye.

COMMUTERS SALUTED

NEW YORK (AP) — A homemade bomb exploded in a parcel locker in Pennsylvania Station late Tuesday as thousands of homeward bound commuters were in the station. No one was injured. The blast ripped four lockers and started a small fire among newspapers but the rapid response by police in one of the lockers.

OMHA Trophy Building Up Odd Tradition

When Simcoe Benjams slimlined Thorold from the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B competition last week, it polished up the tradition that is being built around the A. A. Morrison Trophy, that of being "the trophy nobody wins twice."

When the O.M.H.A. decided to inaugurate a Section "B" series back in 1945, the executive decided to name the new trophy for Morrison Trophy. A resident of St. Catharines, then Immediate Past President and since made a life member. He has also since been awarded the O.H.A. Coach Stick, for outstanding service to hockey, thus making a clean sweep of all honors to hockey workers at an executive level.

The first year the new A.A. Morrison trophy was won by Chatsworth, a village of 900 up near Owen Sound, which promptly had its arena, in which the games were won, collapse. The following year, Midland, the O.M.H.A. stand-by, won the Morrison cup and it was followed by Preston, home of the oldest "Boys' Hockey Association" in Canada, and probably in the world. In successive years the trophy travelled around the province, being won by Crowland, Firemen, Woodstock Y's Men, Galt Y's Men, Colborne Lions, Glenabee Wolves, Newmarket Smoke Eaters and last year by Thorold. The 1953-53 series between Newmarket and Goderich is the most closely-fought-on series in which the trophy has played, the successive games and a total of fifty minutes overtime, before Newmarket finally won in Goderich—on a day proclaimed a holiday by the Mayor of Goderich in honor of the event.

Who will win it this year? Nobody can tell, but it has been already assured that no team will win it for the second time as the only have the defending champions been eliminated, but none of the previous winners is in the running. Still hoping to have the opportunity of inviting genial A. A. Morrison to a championship banquet are Collingwood, Alvinch, Elmira, Orcoe, Wallaceburg, St. Mary's, Kirkland, Goderich and Walkerton.

Major League Teams Start Spring Training

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With opening day only a month away, 14 major league teams move into the grapefruit and castus league phase of baseball's spring training today.

Seven exhibition games are on order, including one after-dinner affair between Brooklyn and Milwaukee at Miami. Five other grapefruit circuit openers are scheduled in Florida: the Yankees vs the Cardinals; the Senators vs the Red Sox; Cincinnati vs the White Sox; the Tigers vs the Phillies and Kansas City A's vs the Braves.

In the three-team cactus league, the American League champion Chicago Cubs at Tucson, Ariz. The world champion New York Giants cool their spokes until Friday when they launch their exhibition season when they tee off in October—against the Indians.

ORIOLES IDLE

Baltimore, which switched training bases from Arizona to Florida this year, is also idle. The Orioles open camp in Miami Beach.

Some managers will start "experimental" lineups for the inaugural, but most will be forced to wait with their aces.

Casey Stengel, starting his seventh season at the Yankee helm, wants a fast lookout at his Baltimore and Oakland "B" farm clubs.

Three rookies will toil for Detroit Manager Fred Hutchinson at the Tigers for the first time. Opposing them for the Phillies will be Eddie Sawyer, himself, Robin Roberts. Roberts won 23 and lost 15 last season.

USA, Canada Badminton Stars Meet This Week

WINNIPEG (CP) — Top-ranking badminton players from Canada and the United States will meet at the Winnipeg Badminton Club Friday and Saturday in the North American zone draw of the Thomas Cup matches—the equivalent of the Davis Cup tennis matches.

Canada's six-man team will be led by 1955 singles champion Don Smythe, 30-year-old ex - football player from Toronto. Smythe, defending champion since 1952, was the star of the Canadian team which went down to defeat 6-3 in games to the U.S. in the 1952 Thomas Cup matches. He won both his singles matches against the Americans and aided in one doubles victory.

Others on Canada's 1955 team, drawn from the Canadian championships at Montreal last week, are Bev Westcott, 29, of Toronto, former two-time junior; Don Thompson, 29, of Vancouver, co-holder of both the men's and mixed doubles titles; Bud Porter, 32, of Toronto; Gord Simpson, 30, of Montreal; and Dave McFadgett, 22, of Vancouver.

The American team will be headed by their No. 1 man, Joe Alston, 28-year-old FBI agent from Pasadena, Calif., who captured one singles match and partnered in two winning doubles teams against Canada in 1952.

WILL DEFEND TITLE

LONDON (AP) — Alex Buxton, British light heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, at London's Harringay Arena April 26.

Says Jimmy McLarnin
Fight Game Is for the Money, Too Tough for Anything Else

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Somewhere between a dollar and $60,000 Jimmy McLarnin decided there was no romance in fighting. Today he proves that belief.

"The fight game is just for the money," says the Irish-Canadian who made his world welterweight championship. "Boxing is too tough a game for anything else."

McLarnin, now 47 and a prosperous California businessman, spent 19 years in professional fighting, amassing a fortune in ring winnings—and losing as it is to the tire wealthy at the age of 29. In 1950, 14 years after he retired, he was voted Canada's outstanding boxer of the half century.

FOUGHT AS BOY

He got his boxing start early, fighting professionally the first time when he was 10 years old, he recalled in an interview during a visit here.

"I got a dollar a fight when I was a kid in Vancouver," he said. "I'm not supposed to be for carfare, but I considered myself a paid professional.

Those early preliminary bouts in Vancouver started McLarnin on a long and successful career that took him through 110 fights, including more than 14 world championships. He twice won and lost the world welterweight crown, retiring in 1935 after whipping world lightweight champion Lou Ambers in a no-decision bout.

McLarnin was born in Belfast, Ireland, Dec. 19, 1907. He came to Canada with his parents as a youngster, settling at Moriach, Sask., near Moose Jaw. When he was nine he moved to Vancouver, there becoming a newsboy and making his start in boxing.

BELOVED MANAGER

His fight career began in earnest when he was 13. That was when he met Pacific (Pop) Foster, an ex-fighter who was to become McLarnin's trainer, manager, guardian, counsellor and friend.

"I used to work out at a little athletic club in Vancouver," McLarnin said. "Pop came in there now and then and one day he started giving me some pointers. That's how we met."

Foster put McLarnin through three years of training and preliminary bouts in Vancouver, then one day said, "Jimmy, you're ready."

McLarnin was 16. Foster took him south to San Francisco where he won 12 of 13 preliminaries and drew in the other.

In 1926, McLarnin got his first main-event fight, defeating Fidel La Barba, then world flyweight champion, in a non-title match. Jimmy weighed 114 pounds.

GREAT FIGHTS

From there he campaigned across the United States, appearing in Chicago and finally New York. He met and defeated such world champions as Pancho Villa, Kid Kaplan, Sid Terris, Sammy Mandell, Al Singer, Lou Ambers, Bud Taylor, Young Jack Thompson, Jackie Fields, Benny Leonard and Tony Canzoneri.

Sallow-cheeked McLarnin, known across Canada and the U.S. as Baby Face, fought for the welterweight championship in Los Angeles May 29, 1933, against Young Corbett III.

He won the match and the crown with a knockout at 2:37 of th eifrst round, the shortest championship battle in the history of the division.

One day less than a year later, McLarnin made his first title defence, losing to lightweight champion Barney Ross in New York. He seized the heights again May 17, 1934, taking a 15-round decision over Ross to regain the crown.

But in the rubber match May 28, 1935, before a crowd of 20,000, his largest purse—he dropped the title for good, losing again to Ross in 15 rounds at Los Angeles.

He fought three times after that, twice meeting welterweight champion Tony Canzoneri, who took over when Ross grew out of the division, and lightweight champion Lou Ambers once. He lost his first bout to Canzoneri but reversed the decision Oct. 25, 1936.

QUIT WITH HONORS

His last fight was in November, 1936, about a month before his 30th birthday. He defeated Ambers in a non-title bout.

"After that fight," McLarnin said "Pop Foster told me: 'Jim, you've got a good bank account, you've got your health, you've had enough.' So I retired. I never doubted Pop Foster's decisions."

McLarnin, owner of a travel agency in Los Angeles, in 1935 married Dorothy Dell, a former Vancouver school teacher, and they have four children—Jim, 18, Jean, 12, Nancy, 7, and James Joseph, 11 months.

The McLarnins live in Glendale, a Los Angeles suburb, about a mile from Pop Foster, now 81.

Foster taught Jimmy how to handle his money.

"Pop Foster was a great trainer and manager and is still a great friend of mine," McLarnin said. "He knew his way around the fight game and took good care of me.

"No one should ever go into boxing unless he has a good manager.".

'Y' Basketball

Pashaw's team to victory with 37 points. Ted Batchelor was high scorer for the Speedsters with 30 points. Final score 65-51.

This means that the Pirates will carry a 14 point lead into the final game to be played on Friday, March 23.

LONGDEN WINS 19TH

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden, who has been winning the big races at Santa Anita this year, captured Friday's $25,000-added Santa Catalina Handicap with Berseem Wednesday. It was his 19th stake win of the meeting. Joe Jones, who ran second to Poona II in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, was second in this one. Dawn Lark was third.

Mexican Wins World Bantam Boxing Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Raul Macias of Mexico, who took more punishment from his fervent fans after it was over than as did from Thailand's Chamrern Songkitrat while he was winning it, is the world bantamweight boxing champion today as far as the National Boxing Association is concerned.

Macias won the title, which the state of California firmly refuses to recognize, with a blistering two-fisted assault that caused referee Fred Apostoli to stop the one-sided scrap at 2:38 of the 11th round Wednesday night at the Cow Palace. By that time, Songkitrat had his left shoulder down.

Hundreds of screaming Mexicans clambered into the ring the minute the referee stopped it. Macias, "Little Mouse" to his competitors, was mobbed by fans in the throng, only to emerge moments later on willing shoulders.

DEFEND IN MAY

In his dressing room later, Macias said through his interpreter he was a case of thinking out on three pitches at a time.

"He will not seek a rematch," said Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring Magazine and The Thalander's U.S. representative.

LOST TWICE

Songkitrat, a reformed hand-and-foot dancer from Bangkok, Siam, Orient, was beaten twice before in quests for the title, losing decisions to now-retired champion, Jimmy Carruthers of Australia and to Robert Cohen of France.

It was Cohen's failure to defend that led the NBA to take away his championship in January and declare the winner of Wednesday night's fight the titlist. The California athletic commission disagreed and declined to give the bout championship status.

Macias was in full charge all the way, losing only one round, the first, on all three cards.

Toronto Marlies Edge Biltmores 4-3 To Take Stranglehold on Series

When Terry Sawchuk, two-time Vezina Trophy winner, decides to call it quits, the Wings can call on several outstanding prospects. They include Dennis Riggin, who blocked 38 shots as Toronto Marlies edged Guelph Biltmores 4-3 Wednesday night.

The victory gave Marlboros a 3-0 edge in their best-of-five semi-final with the Bills. The winner will meet St. Catharines in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A final.

Riggin is the regular goaltender for Hamilton Tiger-Cubs. Detroit's farm club in the junior league. His club was knocked out of the playoffs a week ago but he's still netminding.

TOPS IN GOAL

"A native of Kitscoulins, Ont., he will be best remembered in the circuit last year and this year was chosen runner-up for the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy as the league's most valuable player.

When Gerry McNamara injured his ankle and couldn't play the last two games for Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in their semi-finals against St. Catharines Tee-Pees, Riggin was the man the Majors chose to fill in. And although the Majors were eventually knocked out of the playoffs, Riggin was tremendous in both games.

That history now is playing for his third team in the OHA Junior A circuit this season.

He was replacing Johny Albani, this year's top netminder, who is in a cast as a case of tendon. Albani is the second Marlboro goalie to contract the disease which team officials fear it may spread further.

If it does, team manager Staff Smythe said Marlboros would have to default the OHA for a delay in competition.

Riggin, however, was more than a two-replacement man for Albani. He saved the game in the final two minutes when Ron Casey of the Marlboros was penalized and Guelph yanked their goalkeeper, Glen Ramsay, to put on a sixth forward.

Riggin fulfilled crowd what turned out to be the winning goal at 5.01 of the third period. Gerry James, captain Mike Nykoluk and Bill Kennedy counted the others. John Gillis notched two for Guelph's tallies with Bill Sweeney getting the other.

Rocky Marciano Fights Cockell On May 16

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano will defend his title at Kezar Stadium against England's Don Cockell the night of May 16, promoter Jimmy Murray said Wednesday.

The fight date is a Monday night which normally means home television viewers will be unable to which apparently means home telephone conversation between Murray and John Norris, International Boxing Club president. Murray declined to talk about the television aspects of the bout, but conceded that the date did not coincide with presently operative national TV programming.

Sprawling Kezar Stadium will be ripped to seat some 80,000 fans for the outdoor match, according to Murray. He said he has reason to believe he can top all other gate upwards of $1,000,000.

The fight, which will be the first for Marciano's remodeled nose, was greeted with no enthusiasm by Cathy Grimes, sports editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

"From the most casual fight fan knows the bout is a 'mismatch,' wrote Grimes in her column. "There was no public demand for it here and not a cent was put up by guarantees. Even the fight mob is fearful of the stench. It would ruin a top fight sports."

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You in trades, skilled work, labor, construction, engineering, handling transportation can advance now. Those who will achieve the most are those who are worthy, deserving.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Evenly balanced effort wldd do what extra spurts at odd moments won't. A happy heart, willingness important. Avoid controversy, irritation. Be your gracious self.

May 21 to June 21 — (Gemini) — Day is stimulating for most well managed, useful endeavors. Matters related to groups, the people's interests, civic affairs are especially favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your talents, fine qualities could be very helpful in molding this day's results. Gains hinge on direction and use of good common sense. Heart affairs favored.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Smart planning and good management will put the balance of favor on your way, bring strong benefits. Be practical in all matters and you will have a real chance to achieve.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo) — Knowledge of what's expected can help bring about fine gains. Put yourself sincerely to tasks and responsibilities, and profit healthily. Have faith and don't worry.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Scales tip in your favor if you show the right spirit, attitude, careful judgment. Work diligently and with your inborn integrity and others will give an added lift. Be cheerful.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Not entirely comfortable influences but if you are watchful and ready to amend or alter where needed — giving as well as taking — you can maneuver into an advantageous position and win gains.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) — Vigorous endeavor and sensible ambition, both present in this Sign, are sorely needed now. Be sure you use all your talents and assets effectively. Honesty begets admiration as well as peace of mind.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Similar to Scorpio now. Familiar matters, work or activities for which you have training, perhaps unusual aptitude, should cause little difficulty now. Have strong faith.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Accuracy and enthusiasm will increase others' willingness to assist. Be cautious in making and taking suggestions, and act promptly on matters that can further your best interests.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Directness of thought and action important to better, quicker gains. You are usually thorough, patient. Good, but don't hesitate too long and cause delay, lost opportunity. Go forward.

You born today are Pisceans. Your Sign signifies kindliness, sympathy, unaffected intelligence, mediation. You naturally gather knowledge and know how to spread it usefully. You may be too modest, self-effacing for quick advancement. You owe it to yourself, to loved ones to promote your God-given assets. Unselfishness, honesty, lack of self-aggrandizement are among your fine traits. Recognize your ability, don't worry about things and the future and don't be too critical. Seek God's help daily, and believe in His help.

Birthdate: Torquato Tasso, famed Ital. poet.

TURN TO NEWSPAPERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Philip Morris and Co., Ltd., said Tuesday it will step up its newspaper and magazine advertising in a major change of policy. As part of the program, the cigaret company will end its four-year sponsorship of "I Love Lucy" on CBS television. General Foods is expected to take over the alternate-week sponsorship of the program.

Council Toughens On Tax Arrears, Decides on Action

CAMPBELLFORD—The Campbellford Town Council met on Thursday evening for its regular meeting, with Reeve D. R. Mayberry in the chair in the absence of Mayor R. J. Locke.

Tax arrears occupied a good deal of discussion at the meeting. Council received reports of the treasurer and decided to adopt a "get tough policy" especially with some individuals whose taxes are two and three years behind. They decided to treat all arrears with equal action, and stated that properties would be attached if payments are not forthcoming.

Council endorsed a resolution received from the township of Waterloo, relative to the taxing of commercial companies operating cemeteries on burying grounds. At present these organizations are accused of reaping comparatively large profits and paying no municipal taxes. This, of course, does not apply to non-profit cemeteries such as those supported by churches. There is one commercially operated cemetery in Campbellford, but the town fathers felt that they would lend support to the Waterloo council, in their petition calling for a revision of the act.

A letter of resignation was received from R. E. Wood, town garbage collector. Mr. Wood asked that his resignation take effect on March 15th. Council accepted this resignation and will call for sealed tenders for the job up to noon on March 11th, when a meeting will be held to open the tenders.

An increase of $25 per year was granted to the 12 men of the local fire department. Chief Hall asked for the increase to help in replacing clothing which is now of the more expendable items of their job. The increase will net the firemen a total salary of $125 a year. The chief will receive $150. The town will be hosts for a meeting of the Provincial Area Planning Board at a date to be set later. The industrial committee will notify the Department of Planning and Development of the town's willingness to co-operate in the recently announced scheme, which should assist in locating industry in zones which will be serviced by a full time employee of the department. The board at an earlier meeting, suggested Campbellford as a central location for the meeting, but nothing definite has yet been announced.

The budgeted grant of $200 to the Seymour Agricultural Society was passed for payment.

Permission was granted the Lions Club to hold a carnival on Bridge St. E., between Front and Doxsee Avenues on the nights of July 1st and 2nd. The scheme will raise funds for community welfare work by the club.

Half in Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—More than half of the new housing covered by loans last year under the National Housing Act was in Ontario.

A report by the works department, tabled in the Commons Wednesday said 26,074 housing units of the 9,022 covered by 194 NHA loans were in Ontario. Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia followed in that order.

Pleased With Relief From Bad Stomach Disorders

"Have General Feeling of Better Health", Says This Man as He Praises Syntona For Helping Him

"I've taken a lot of medicine in the past couple years, but Syntona is the only thing that really helped me." said Mr. George James, 39 Selkirk Street, Chatham, Ontario, in a recent report telling of his experience.

CAUSED OTHER TROUBLES

"The stomach trouble got very bad. Heartburn, indigestion, nausea and sour acid risings would follow every meal and many days I could never feel like eating. I would get sick headaches and my nerves were all on edge. Aches and pains set into my back, joints and muscles.

After reading about Syntona I decided to try it and after the first bottle this man was pleased to find relief from that. I hardly have any trouble at all now. I eat what I like, my aches and pains are relieved, my nerves are calmed down now so I sleep better, don't get headaches like I used to, and I feel a lot better. I did not have a long course of treatment."

A GOOD MEDICINE

Syntona is a very fine medicine for any person suffering like this. It is mild and pleasant to take and there are no bad after effects. Recommended to everyone who uses Syntona likes it and finds that it helps them.

So, if you suffer from disorders of stomach, liver or bowels, and are nervous, tired and run-down, or have developed rheumatic pains, etc., try Syntona. The chances are that you too, may find it just what you need.

TESTING PINWHEEL THEORY OF TAKE-OFF

Dr. J. Gibson Winans, Wisconsin university physics professor, whirls his light plane over frozen Lake Kenosha testing out his "pinwheel" theory of airplane takeoffs. Dr. Winans has long believed that many crashes occur during take-off because planes don't gain enough altitude within the airport area. Propelling his theory, he attached a 20-ft. nylon rope to a parrel (see photo) held in the ice of the frozen lake and hooked the other end to an automatic release under the left wing of his light two-passenger plane. Winans plans to give the civil aeronautical authorities a report of his findings.—Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding her new lyberry book, saying to pop, I love books about pioneering days, William. Those were the days of real frendlyness. William, so diffrent from the modern Ellsapop of speed what you ern.

The covered waggon versus the convertible top, pop said, and ma said, My grandmother had the real pioneering spirit. Year after year her faithful sealskin coat came from the storeroom as regular as an old clock.

Yes and by gollies I bet the old lady was glad to get rid of it as if had just come from the seal, pop said, and ma said, Yes she was, and her example is an inspiration to me this very minute. I can give my attention to an absolutely new look by adjusting the length and adding a new collar and cuffs and perhaps letting out the waistline. Not that I need a larger size, but I will be able to wear it in more comfortable around the house, she said.

Dont we all? pop said, and ma said, Of course when I speak of making the alterations, I naturely mean I'll have to have a dressmaker come here unless I want the dress to look even older, and do you know what dressmakers charge these days, William?

From your tone of voice I imagine they pattern their rates ruffly on a doctor's fees, pop said, and ma said, Exactly. So all in all, for a comparatively small expenditure it would solve the whole problem to buy a new coat, what do you think, William? she said.

I think that's how you'll solve the problem, pop said.

Which she probably will.

Africans Learning to Hate All White Men as Enemies Since Recent Order Issued

By ARTHUR GAYDSON

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—"They'll be coming soon to take us away. Then they'll destroy our homes like the others. What are we to do?"

The Negro doctor stared through the window toward heaps of rubble where once neat, women and children lived and cried and died.

At his side a grey-haired Negro woman in her 30s finished her husband's thought: "I guess we've all sure heading for no-good in these parts."

They are the Xumas, Alfred and Madie, an African and an American who, over the years, have carved a life and home for themselves in the doomed Negro township of Sophiatown four miles from the heart of Johannesburg.

WANT TO STAY

Life has been good to the Xumas (pronounced Koomas) of Sophiatown. Their home of six pr seven rooms has a garden bright with dahlias. Alfred, doctor and politician, has lived and worked in it for 25 years. There Madie, a social sciences graduate of Columbia University, New York, launched herself in the doomed Negro township of Sophiatown four miles from the heart of Johannesburg.

WANT TO STAY

Life has been good to the Xumas (pronounced Koomas) of Sophiatown. Their home of six pr seven rooms has a garden bright with dahlias. Alfred, doctor and politician, has lived and worked in it for 25 years. There Madie, a social sciences graduate of Columbia University, New York, launched herself in the doomed Negro township of Sophiatown four miles from the heart of Johannesburg.

The Xumas, like 60,000 other Negroes in Johannesburg's western areas, are under government orders to move, outside the city to new segregated settlements. The mass removal is part of Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom's program to separate South Africa's white, Negro, Asian and mixed blood folk into tight territorial compartments. Hundreds of Sophiatown families already have been taken away to new houses in Meadowlands, 14 miles outside Johannesburg.

The Xumas have vowed not to sell their home voluntarily to the government. They expect to be expropriated and then removed forcibly. Said the 61-year-old doctor:

"A home is something more than four walls and a roof. For many of us our fathers and grandfathers lived here. We Africans of the western areas do not want to be removed. We do not like being pushed around. We, also, regard ourselves as human beings and we, too, have sentimental attachments to the places in which we grew up."

Negroes will lose more than their houses when they are taken from Sophiatown. They'll leave behind their schools, clinics, a swimming pool, three movie houses, macadamized roads, electricity in the homes, a cheap and speedy transportation system.

FEAR TROUBLE

But perhaps the main reason for their resentment is that they will be deprived of the right to own a home outside Negro reservations. In Meadowlands, or its neighboring settlements, they are allowed to rent houses in clearly marked tribal areas. Right now Meadowlands has one school and a few shops, but no churches or community centres.

Alfred and Madie Xuma joined in 1940 not only in marriage but also in a long struggle to win African Negroes into political wakefulness. One of their big fears today, however, is that the Negro people may have become too wakeful, too soaked with hatred of the white man for South Africa to remain a peaceful country.

"All my life I've worked for cooperation and understanding between whites and blacks," Dr. Xuma told a reporter. "But now you today we Africans are learning to hate all white men as enemies."

Xuma is one of the best qualified Negro medical doctors practicing in the western style in South Africa. His practice in mid-Johannesburg includes many whites. He became a physician in the United States. As a prelude he had worked as a herd boy, a house boy, a horse trainer, a dining car waiting clerk, street cleaner, waiter. To work his way through college it took him from 1913, when he landed in New York, until 1925 when he qualified as a physician at

LOST LEADERSHIP

He was president of the African National Congress for nine years from 1940. Much of the time he spent in rebuilding what was a scattered organization. The congress today, although not strong, is the Negroes' biggest political organization. Nationalist - minded young Negroes captured control of it in 1948. They considered Xuma too slow, too moderate to keep up the pressure for the black people. As a result he lost the leadership of congress to ZP. T. S.-Sedenke, later deposed for the same reasons. The present congress president is chief Albert Luthuli.

2ND THURLOW

Neighbors' Aid Hears Reports

2nd THURLOW — The February meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Atkins with about thirty members and friends present.

The meeting was in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. M. Mitchell and opened in the usual manner. The secretary, Mrs. M. Deal, read the minutes and corresponded. Mrs. Harry Thomson gave the financial report of the Rotary banquet, with $384 being paid to the Aid treasurer; expenses amounted to about $200, clearing about $184. Several bills were paid.

Owing to the absence of Mrs. A. Greatrix, who was to have conducted the program, Mrs. J. Craig gave an inspiring talk on "The Power of Positive Thinking," by Rev. Dr. Peale, bringing out many lovely and helpful thoughts. She also played several recordings of Mrs. Templeton's songs, sung at the Templeton Mission while the latter was last year.

"The Lord's Prayer" and "The Old Rugged Cross" were among those played.

Owing to the injury to Mrs. R. Leeming the March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Keene instead.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames W. Gray, C. Grills, H. Grills and D. Atkins.

TRAGEDY OF WAR CONTINUES

The widow and father of a Greek soldier who died in Korea during the war are shown weeping over his casket on its arrival in Athens from Korea. Some of 178 caskets bearing the bodily remains of 20 officers and 153 men of the Greek armed forces back to their native land from bleak Korean battle fields died in the cause of freedom. PC'S WANT POWER OF MINISTER WHITTLED DOWN

Howe Under Fire, Defended by P. M.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives, attacking the powers of Defence Production Minister Howe as dictatorial and unnecessary, have asked that they be whittled down.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said in the Commons Thursday that a government proposal to extend indefinitely the life of the defence production department with its wide-ranging controlled powers which could be used "as a club over the heads of Canadians."

These powers, in a word, could make the minister of defence production "virtually dictator of the entire Canadian economy," said the opposition spokesman on trade and commerce.

NO INTENTION

Prime Minister St. Laurent, speaking in the same debate, said the government has no present intention of appointing a separate minister for the department, now headed by Mr. Howe who is also trade minister.

Debate on a resolution preliminary to a bill amending the act to which the department was set up. It would delete a section by which the department's life would expire July 31, 1956, and also would increase the department's borrowing power from $15,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Mr. St. Laurent said the salary change brings pay in line with the scale for other cabinet posts but would have no practical effect at present because Mr. Howe draws no pay while Minister's salary.

INTERNATIONAL ANGLE

He said this is no time to let the department lapse, in view of the international situation. Its present temporary powers are satisfactory and made staff problems difficult.

Although the defence build-up had passed its peak, it was level-off at a high level. Because of the size and complexity of the job of buying equipment for the armed forces, it could not be delegated to other agencies and departments.

Mr. Fleming said present conditions called for the kind of control the department was set up in the dangerous days of 1951. The act should be redrafted to give the minister only such powers as were needed under present circumstances.

Under the act, he said, the minister could make contracts without tender, appoint controllers to exercise powers of the department and even order persons to accept contracts.

Replies for breaches of the act or of the minister's orders were a maximum fine of $5,000 and not a $5,000 fine. The only limitation on the expiry clause of the act and that was being removed.

"We are not the times for permitting the continuance of powers so sweeping that those whose duties or authorities are framed in any way to defence must stand in fear of an omnipotent government."

Debate was adjourned and the Commons went into private session.

Rumored Romance Has Some Of Flavor of a Fairy Tale

(By RON EVANS)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON (CP) — The rumored romance of Group Captain Peter Townsend and Princess Margaret has some of the flavor of a fairy tale.

Townsend, handsome, dark-haired fighter pilot, came to the palace in the traditional manner of the commoner in the fairy tale who meets and marries the beautiful princess.

His wartime skill and courage in the cockpit of a Hurricane during the Battle of Britain—he shot down 11 enemy planes, once baled out from 1,400 feet with his left foot riddled by cannon shrapnel, and won the Croix de Guerre—came to the attention of the princess' father and the late King George VI made him an air equerry.

The post at Buckingham Palace brought the quiet, diffident young airman often into the royal family. He accompanied them to the theatre, to parties and often stood by at official engagements. He rode horseback with the teen-aged princess, escorted her to balls and piloted her planes in the Battle of Britain.

Two years ago she first rumps that a romance—or at least a friendship existed between the flier and the princess appeared in the press.

Again true to the fairy tale idea, there were obstacles in the way to any possibility of marriage between the commoner and the princess.

It was noted that Townsend was already once married. He had been divorced after 11 years of marriage to Rosemary Pawle. The grounds were her misconduct and the custody of their two sons, Giles and Hugo George, then 13 and 10, were awarded to Townsend.

As the rumors spread the romance swelled, Townsend was abruptly posted to Brussels as air attache at the British embassy. He has not returned to England since.

Little is known yet of Townsend's nature and personality. Press photographers of him as a young air fighter show a wide, sparkling grin and fun-loving eyes. His fellow fliers, however, described him as shy and "rather aloof," surrounded with his own armor.

One called him "the greatest gentleman I have ever met in the service . . . He's got the sort of face you notice immediately he comes into a room."

He showed a genuine horror for the fate of his air victims, but could break into a wild, fun-loving mood during dances and after a successful sortie.

He is said to Townsend's spare time is spent with horses. When on leave, he rises early each day for a morning gallop and is frequently rides in service races.

OTTAWA SEEKS PARLEY WITH PROVINCES

April Meet Proposed To Draft Later Agenda

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Thursday he has suggested April 21 and 22 for the meeting and said he will be surprised if unemployment is not discussed.

The prime minister advised the Commons, in tabling a letter of invitation he has written the 10 premiers, that the proposed April meeting is aimed largely at discussing an agenda and a date for a full-dress fiscal conference later in the year.

Some provincial premiers lost no time insignifying they will attend the preliminary April meeting.

FROST ANSWER

Premier Frost of Ontario, in accepting Mr. St. Laurent's invitation said he will ask that the agenda include: constitutional problems of farm marketing under federal and provincial legislation, measures to meet unemployment, the federal-provincial tax rental agreement and an Ontario proposal to set up a body to study federal-provincial technical committees.

Premiers Manning of Alberta and Campbell of Manitoba said they will attend. Quebec Premier Duplessis said Quebec will be in session of the legislature he would be unable to leave Ottawa any time to attend such a conference.

In Regina, Premier Douglas said he has written the prime minister assuring him Saskatchewan will be represented at any conference dealing with unemployment.

PRIMARILY FISCAL

Premier Frost's government's attitude is that certain unemployment matters may be broached at the preliminary fiscal meeting if the provinces wish to initiate them.

The government has already announced that the federal government is willing to discuss the problem of caring for able-bodied unemployed not covered by unemployment insurance if the provinces want this.

Ontario Labor Commissioner says that no action on unemployment is likely to be taken this spring. Should the matter be placed on the agenda for a later meeting, they will turn out to be conferences on Agriculture Minister Thomas' announcement Wednesday that new marketing legislation will be introduced in the province.

Germans Honor Churchill For Promoting Unity

Former Foes Award Him Noted International Prize

AACHEN, Germany (Reuters)—, Winston Churchill will be awarded this year's International Charlemagne prize, given annually for services in the cause of Europe, unity he and understanding, it was announced here today.

The British prime minister has informed the Aachen city authorities that he would be "pleased" to come to Aachen to accept the prize, which was first awarded in 1950. No date has yet been fixed for the award ceremony.

Two Missing Boys Found at Barrie

BARRIE (CP)—Two small boys, missing from their homes in nearby Angus since Thursday afternoon, were found safe today after a night in the woods.

Douglas MacLaughlin, 8, and Ronald Washington, 9, were lost trying to find their way home from the RCAF depot at Angus. They were found at 7:30 a.m., huddling in a clump of bushes, cold but unharmed.

They said when darkness fell they realized they were lost and decided to "make themselves cozy."

More than 200 men, including soldiers from Camp Borden, joined police and parents in the all-night search in heavy rain.

ASK TAX CUT

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario service station operators Thursday asked for a two-per-cent cut in gasoline tax in a brief submitted to members of the Ontario legislature. Operators, who pay the tax to oil companies when the fuel is delivered, argued that shrinkage by the time they sell the fuel cuts the volume down by two per cent.

Church Paper Raises Doubt Princess Considering Marriage

LONDON (Reuters — The Church of England newspaper has raised doubts whether the reported romance of Princess Margaret and an RAF officer is anything more than the work of rumor-mongers.

The weekly newspaper, which is not official but has access to authoritative church sources, declares:

"We happen to know that there has not been any discussion whatever at high levels as to the propriety of this marriage from the religious standpoint."

The officer, Group Captain Peter Townsend, 40, is divorced from his wife and has two children. Constitutional experts believe it unthinkable that if the princess really were considering marriage to him soon the Archbishop of Canterbury and other church leaders would have been consulted by the time.

The church weekly attacks newspapers which have "printed sensational versions of the rumors, declaring:

"It is the cheapest kind of tenth-rate gutter journalism and invites the contempt of decent people."

A bitter attack on newspapers printing the rumors also came today from the Earl of Selbourne.

The 91-year-old earl, a prominent layman in the church, wrote to The Daily Telegraph which, like many British newspapers, has ignored the rumors.

Declaring that "for too long we have writhed under the censorship of the gutter press," he complained that some newspapers are sheltering under "the dogma of the freedom of the press."

"Freedom can be abused, and when it is abused it ceases to be freedom and becomes tyranny."

The earl suggested that the press should "keep up to the mark" and expect themselves to watch newspaper ethics, should be given powers by Parliament to discipline the profession. At present the press council has no powers of discipline except criticism.

Two Canadians Burned to Death In Road Crash

WILTON, N. Y. (AP)—Two Canadians were burned to death early today when their tractor-trailer and an automobile collided on Route 9 about one mile north of this Saratoga county community.

The driver of the car was injured.

State police said the victims, believed from Montreal, were not immediately identified.

The truck, hauling a load of oranges north on Route 9, was owned by the Colonial Fruit Co. of Montreal.

The truck cab burst into flames moments after the collision, trapping the two men inside. Troopers had to cut through the wreckage to extricate the bodies.

Reject Israeli Appeal Against Blame for Gaza

CAIRO (Reuters) — A special United Nations committee today rejected an Israeli appeal against the Egypt-Israeli truce commission's decision on March 6 condemning Israel for the fighting last month at Gaza.

The special committee, presided over by Maj.-Gen. T. W. M. Rikhye of Ottawa, chief United Nations truce observer in Palestine, upheld the mixed armistice commission.

In the Israeli attack on Feb. 28 in Egypt's province in the Gaza sector, 39 Egyptians and eight Israelis were killed.

The United Nations Security Council is awaiting Gen Burns' arrival with a personal report on the incident.

ASK ALLOWANCES

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Welfare Council has asked the federal government to grant family allowances to newly arrived immigrant children whose parents have been in Canada for at least a year, council headquarters announced in Thursday. At present the children are not eligible until they have been here a year.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The centre of the storm which brought mild air accompanied by showers and thunderstorms to Ontario during the night had passed into Quebec by Friday morning. Cold air pushing southward behind this storm will cover all or southern Ontario by evening. However, the return to colder weather will be shortlived as another disturbance moving down from southern Saskatchewan is expected to reach Lake Michigan by Saturday morning and mild temperatures in the south and rain followed by snowflurries in the north country.

Overdue British Baby Named Lait Gives BBC TV Addicts Long Wait

BY HAL COOPER

LONON (AP) — An overdue baby named Lait has millions of British television addicts hanging on the news—and in meaning, the expectant mother and the BBC.

The trouble is that Baby Lait is late indeed. Few "newsbreak" TV difficulties have ever caused such confusion.

Only a couple of months ago (it certainly seems longer) the BBC wagged. Mrs. Betty Lait to appear on its weekly program on "Family Affairs." Mrs. Lait, a pert brunette, was expecting a baby. The idea was to follow her through the final stages of pregnancy, the birth, and on into motherhood.

The doctors figured Baby Lait probably would arrive around March 4. The BBC's programmers arranged to hold their rowing-eye cameras ready for a trip to hospital.

About a month ago the doctors decided the baby probably would be born earlier—Feb. 18. The busy camera crew shook up its schedule.

Feb. 18 came and went, but without Baby Lait.

The BBC crew went on a stand-by basis, subject to emergency call. Weeks passed. The baby didn't arrive. The date passed.

Here it is March 11 and the Camera crew is booked solid until April 4.

"I suppose it's all very funny," said Mrs. Lait, "but I am getting tired of saying, 'No, not yet' to the telephone."

Dr. Lait resigned, "well, see you tonight — I suppose" every morning from my husband."

Russia Wants Farmers to Learn How Iowa Grows Tall Corn

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government says it would like to follow through on the idea of sending American farmers to see how Iowans grow such tall corn and so many pigs.

And a foreign ministry note, handed to United States ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, said: Soviet agricultural experts are ready to receive in the USSR an American agricultural delegation."

The Soviet government would like to know how United States government feels about the question of exchange of agricultural delegations," the note concluded.

There was no immediate response from Washington. President Eisenhower recently said he has the idea of the exchange visits, but there were many complications. One is the Russian ban on Communists from the country unless the secretary of state decides their visit is in the nations' interest.

The Russian visit to Iowa was proposed by the Des Moines Register after the Soviet Communist party chief, Nikita S. Khrushchevn told Russian farmers to copy American methods — particularly the planting of more corn for livestock feed—as a means of boosting lagging farm output.

In Des Moines, Lauren Soth, the paper's editor, said Thursday night he felt certain the U.S. state department would issue visas for such a visit. Soth said any Russian delegation would be welcome in Iowa.

The state department previously has said it would not comment on the possibility of a visit by Russian farmers but that the federal government made an approach for visas.

The Russian proposal came as the Soviet government, openly admitting crop shortages, ordered its farm system revamped to give the man on the land more incentive to boost farm output.

At the same time state farm managers were warned they will be held strictly accountable for any failure to meet production quotas.)

The decree is seen as another attempt to use the private profit incentive which Khrushchev has been plugging over the last year to prod Russia's lagging livestock production.

Canada Tells New Zealand Not Much Room for Cheese

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has informed New Zealand there is not much room for cheese from dairy exports of surplus cheese, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in an interview here.

Dairy talks between the two countries ended in Wellington Feb. 25. A joint statement dealing with the talks is expected to be issued later this month.

Canadian farm groups have been complaining of a sharp increase import of 2,250,000 pounds of New Zealand cheese poses a threat to domestic industry. They have appealed to the government to ban future cheese imports from that low-cost production area.

SURPLUS DISCUSSED

Mr. Gardiner said Thursday's talks touched on the surplus situation.

"They (New Zealand) have a surplus which they want to sell and naturally, but I think they realize they can't sell much here. . . . There is not much room in Canada for exports of surplus cheese."

Mr. Gardiner added his belief that Canadians will not accept cheese. Canadians on the average consume about 10 pounds of the quantity consumed by Britons.

He said he had suggested for years that Canada start a campaign to boost consumption.

PROMISE RESTRAINT

Trade department officials said the feeling they got, too, was that New Zealand will use restraint in exporting cheese to Canada.

It is understood that New Zealand has offered to limit exports of quantities of cheese to Canada in the future and that there probably will be no further imports of her cheese for about nine months.

Three States Lashed by Gale, Two Are Killed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Winds of hurricane force, up to 92 miles per hour, ripped through Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania today leaving at least two dead, a score injured and millions of dollars in property damage.

The storm that developed over southeastern Michigan and western Indiana roared eastward, producing blizzard conditions in Ohio and thunder before apparently easing itself out over eastern Pennsylvania.

Sections of western Maryland and parts of West Virginia also reported heavy rain and hail storms with winds up to 55 miles per hour.

The storm swept east central Indiana shortly after 2 a.m., struck Ohio and then tore into Pennsylvania. It was the worst of the season.

The storm started fires, uprooted trees, tore down power lines, smashed windows, toppled television and radio towers and blew off roofs from homes and plants.

TV STATION RETURNS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Television station WBUF-TV, which went off the air Feb. 7 after announcing it was unable to compete with two-station two VHF stations, announced Thursday it was resuming evening telecasting.

Baby's Blood Completely Replaced Three Times in First Three Days

HAMILTON (CP)—Mary Anne Bisson, who was born only 10 days ago, underwent a startling life to an operation that replaced her blood completely three times in the first three days of her life.

It is believed the first time in Canada that blood has been replaced in a person three times.

The operation was necessary to eliminate RH blood incompatibility between the mother and the child's life since birth. The first transfusion was made when Mary Anne was five days old. Another was made the second day and the third two days after.

Mary Anne, first child of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Bisson of Dunnville, was born Feb. 23. Her blood condition was discovered by Dr. Frederick Rigg, of Dunnville, the family's physician, because suspicious of her jaundiced appearance.

She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital here when tests proved she had RH blood incompatibility. The three transfusions were made.

Ten blood donors were needed.

Dr. Malcolm Dingwall, Hamilton pediatrician who supervised the blood replacements with gynecologist Dr. H. R. Morgan, said he has not heard of a similar case in Canada where blood was successfully changed three times.

Dr. Dingwall said the child appears to be normal but will be visited regularly by a doctor until she is old enough to manufacture its own blood.

The blood incompatibilities occur when the Dingwall said, because Mrs. Bisson has RH negative blood while Mr. Bisson has RH positive blood. Mary Anne now has RH positive blood.

In such cases, the mother ordinarily is sensitized to a degree during the first pregnancy cells escaping into the mother's body. The number of antibodies are usually enough to harm the baby.

But Mrs. Bisson received a transfusion of RH positive blood by mistake four years ago. Antibodies from the transfusion plus those acquired through pregnancy placed her baby in serious danger.

Mrs. Bisson, 24, did not receive a pre-natal blood test because her record showed the transfusion of RH positive blood which corresponded to her husband's blood type.

U.S. and Britain May Confer On Indochina

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain, the United States and France are considering a meeting soon of their foreign ministers about the disturbed situation in Indochina, authoritative sources said tonight.

A foreign office spokesman here declined to comment on reports of French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay had proposed his meeting with State Secretary John Foster Dulles and Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden. But it is understood there is concern in all three capitals and France would like a meeting held soon.

Dulles has expressed repeated concern over Communist activities in the two northern provinces of Laos bordering the pro-Communist Pathet Lao government was permitted to regroup.

Pencillin's Discoverer Dies

LONDON — (AP) — Sir Alexander Fleming, 73, discoverer of penicillin died today at his home. His personal comment described his death as "sudden."

Fleming developed penicillin one of the first and greatest of the wonder drugs, in the years just before the start of World War.

During and since the war it has saved countless thousands of lives and completely revolutionized medical treatment and practice.

Diseases that had been virtually incurable overnight became no more serious than a head cold. Wounds that would otherwise have baffled healed easily and quickly. Huge factories around the world now turn out the drug by the ton.

'River Looks Good' to C. Mott, Current Fast, Channels Open

Remnants of the winter ice field still remaining in the lower stretches of the Moira were reported to move out of town following last night's rain and the resulting quickening of the river current.

"The river looks good," stated City Engineer Charles Mott following an early morning inspection trip along the river to the city limits. "The current is moving fast and the river channels which froze over the early part of the week are again open."

The engineer voiced the opinion that the ice still remaining in the lower portions of the river is now fairly weak as result of rains, warmer weather and the action of the current.

He noted that the river was open as far north as the Canniffton dam but north of that village and also north of the Corbyville dam the river ice still remained solid. He expected the ice above these dams would remain until that in the lower river was entirely cleared.

City Health Dept. Has Busy Month in February

Following is the report of the activities of the Belleville Health Department for the month of February.

One hundred and twenty-two home visits by public health nurses were made to 82 infants under one year of age and 87 visits to 63 preschool children. Work with orthopaedic patients was carried out. Seventy-four visits were made on behalf of 44 maternity patients. Two diseased infants and preschool children attended four child health conferences given by the Child Welfare Centre and an average of 20 prospective mothers attended four prenatal classes.

SCHOOL HEALTH SERVICES

Health services to school age children included 506 health inspections. There were 73 minor first aid treatments. Four classrooms were inspected for the detection of communicable diseases. Two hundred and forty-eight children were given vision screening and 13 were referred for further investigation.

Twenty-four had hearing tests. There were 63 conferences with secondary school students and 61 with teachers and principals. Plans were formulated for the proposed immunizations to be given by Grade 1 and II pupils in the month of April.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASE CONTROL

Two cases of tuberculosis were reported. Fourteen home nursing visits were made regarding communicable diseases. Four immunization clinics were held at the City Hall and 108 infants and preschool children were given protective injections against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Twenty-two visits were made to eating establishments. Seven visits were made to dairies. Two pasteurized milk samples were taken for bacteriological analysis. Seven visits were made regarding complaints. Twenty-nine plumbing inspections were made.

Considerable times was spent on the Front Street sewer survey to determine what establishments have their storm water drained to the sanitary sewer.

Man, 86, Suffers Critical Injuries, Struck by Car

An 86-year-old Chatham street man is in Belleville General Hospital with critical injuries after being struck by a car early Thursday evening as he was walking across Dundas street east.

Police said that John Matthews, 15 Chatham street, suffered a possible skull fracture, concussion and lacerations to his head and legs when he walked into the path of a car near the Chatham street intersection.

Mr. Matthews was out for his customary evening walk when he apparently failed to see the eastbound auto as he walked across Bridge street. The car driven by Robert J. Carter of Deseronto ville, struck the elderly man and knocked him to the pavement.

Truck Rolls Over, 144,000 Eggs Sunny Side Up

Some 12,000 dozen of eggs were laid by hens in this area, 2 west of the city this morning when a trailer-transport overturned on a soft shoulder directly opposite the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Driver of the truck, Sylvio Tremblay, 32, Oil City, Lambton County, scrambled to safety uninjured.

The transport, from Enniskillen, Ont., was bound east along the highway laden with a cargo of eggs, when the wheels slipped into the mud of a shoulder, sucking the truck off the highway and spilling some of its contents.

38 New Members For Local C. of C.

Membership in the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is at an all-time high.

Today the Chamber counts 365 members on its list following the acceptance of 38 new members at a meeting of directors of the Chamber on Thursday.

It was the largest number of membership applications accepted at one time in recent years, secretary Gordon Gallow said today.

Some 35 of the new members were appointed by larger city industries under the Chamber's new fee structure. The remaining three were individual applications.

Bruce Tugnette, 3, Rescued From Water-Filled Ditch

Mrs. Everett Anderson, young Station street mother, saved a three year old boy from drowning in Thursday afternoon when she waded waist deep into a water-filled ditch near the C.N.R. recreation park and pulled the lad to safety.

Bruce Tugnette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tugnette 2nd crescent, Thurlow, had been playing with Mrs. Anderson's son Billy, also age three. Suddenly missing the two boys, Mrs. Anderson went in search and found the Tugnette lad jammed against the ice with only his head showing. Hey own boy had not fallen into the ditch.

Using a wire running across the ditch beneath a billboard, saved Bruce from being swept on down by the current," said Mrs. Anderson. "I had to crawl through beneath the billboard to reach Bruce from where he had been swept against the ice."

Mrs. Anderson said that where the boy fell in the water was up to her belly. The lad suffered no ill effects from his adventure.

Australian P. M. To Be Honored By McGill U.

OTTAWA (CP) — Australia's Prime Minister Menzies leaves official conference behind for a few days to receive an honor bestowed by McGill University.

The 60-year-old prime minister, on a five-day visit to Canada, will receive an honorary degree at a special university convocation and then fly back to the capital for more talks before leaving for Washington.

Mr. Menzies appealed here on Thursday for the West to maintain "moral superiority" in the face of Russian "hypocrisy" and propaganda appeals for disarmament and peaceful co-existence.

If the West wanted to ban the atom bomb, Russia could become master of Europe in a few weeks, he told a luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club.

Russia could not be trusted. The easiest way the West could produce war would be "to abandon military superiority which deters the other side from starting a war."

Two Townships Seek Agreement On Fire Rates

FRANKFORD, (Special) — Reduction of rates for fire protection supplied neighboring township of Frankford village, was the major topic of discussion at the March meeting of Frankford council this week.

Deputations from Murray and Sidney township delegates presented separate requests for reduction in the protection rates, asking that the Frankford village rate be brought in line with agreements the township already hold with Trenton and Belleville.

Members of Murray township council, headed by Reeve Welsh, told council they wanted a rate from Frankford that compared with that charged by Trenton, which supplies protection for the township's 4th section.

Replying, councillor Osterhout said Frankford was under many financial obligation regarding fire equipment and did not benefit greatly through providing protection to its neighbors. Following some discussion, council agreed to draw up a new agreement.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Harry Morrow, the Sidney deputation also followed the same line as Murray township, calling for a comparison of rates charged by Belleville for fire protection given the township.

They were given copies of the new agreement with the Murray township as a basis for future action.

Other items of business at the meeting were:

(1) Council agreed to operate for the time being as a single entity on all projects. Previously council had worked on a committee plan.)

(2) Decision to spend $4,500 on streets, sidewalks and culverts.

(3) Decision to borrow $10,000 for current expenses until taxes are collected.

Queen's Portrait Picture-of-Year Say Art Critics

LONDON (AP)—Italian painter Pietro Annigoni has completed a portrait of the Queen, and a few privileged art critics predict it will be hailed as "the picture of the year."

The critics had to be privileged because art authorities, looking forward to public exhibitions, still keep the portrait in the top-secret category.

The portrait was commissioned by the Fishmongers' Company, one of London's ancient guilds, for presentation to the Queen as a personal gift through everything else to do with four intense months to it, and the Queen gave him numerous sittings. The portrait will be submitted to the Royal Academy for the academy's summer exhibition.

Annigoni himself is satisfied with the five-foot canvas, a three-quarter-length portrait showing the Queen standing in spring sunshine in the Windsor area. The artist has emphasized that, in one corner, he painted in a tiny joke.

The joke is a miniature figure, distant in the landscape, of a man fishing in a boat.

"The man is me, and it's a self-portrait," said Annigoni. "What you can't see is that under the water I have just hooked the biggest salmon you can imagine."

Thames Is Rising

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Water in the Thames river is rising slowly and the river's watershed experiences the first snow melt of the season, Conservation Authority secretary treasurer of upper Thames river conservation authority said today.

About five feet of water more than normal is flowing through Fanshawe dam, he said, and indications are it will continue to rise. Normally at this time of year inches flows through the dam.

"There is no general for this time of year," he said, adding that there was little danger at present to lands adjoining the river.

IN MEMORIAM

KEELEY. — In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Joseph B. Hart, who passed away March 11th, 1952, and my son James Keeley, who passed away February 13th, 1950.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day;
But never will the ones we loved
Pass from our memory.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Jane Keeley. M11

BURFORD. — In loving memory of a dear sister, Hannah Burford (Quinney) Burford, who passed away one year ago, March 11th, 1954.
In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
We fought as best we may,
But when we saw you sleeping,
Dear mother, we let you go.
We would not wish you back,
To suffer that again.
Ever remembered by sister Allene and Harold, brother Wilfred and sister-in-law, Marguerite. M11

HART. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph B. Hart, who passed away March 11th, 1952.
Dear Joseph, peace, smiling face,
Your happy carefree ways,
The smile that won so many friends,
In those happy by-gone days.
One of the best the world could hold,
Your cheerful spirit, your heart of gold.
Always so good, kind and kind,
What a wonderful memory you left behind.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Louise and family. M11

NICKLE. — In loving memory of a dear husband, W. J. Nickle, who passed away on March 11th, 1953.
Sadly missed by wife Grace. M11

NICKLE. — In loving memory of a dear husband, W. J. Nickle, who passed away on March 11th, 1953.
Sadly missed by John, Phyllis and Betty. M11

STEERE. — In loving memory of our dear father, Frank Steere, who passed away March 11th, 1933.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
Sadly missed by John, Phyllis and Betty. M11

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market declined steadily today and by early afternoon had lost almost all ground gained in Thursday's rousing advance.

Industrials led prices lower and by 1 p. m. EST the group's index was off 3.5 points to 281.35.

Speculatives suffered their first general losses of the week, but were less active on the decline.

All industrial groups were lower. Imperial Oil dropped 34 to 36¾ and loses between 21 and 32 went to Price Bros., International Utilities, Canadian Cottons, Algoma and Hinde and Dauch.

Montreal Locomotive jumped 33 to $26 after announcement of a 39 special dividend, and Canada Life climbed 32.

Losses among lower - priced mines were mostly small but Consolidated Denison dropped 35 cents to $6.45 and Quemar 37½ cents to $13.87½ and the warrants 30 cents to $7.

East Malartic jumped 28 cents to $2.75 and Thompson-Lundmark, Faraday and Lorado gained moderately.

Hudson Bay dropped $1 to lead base metals down. Geco fell 75 cents to $13 among Manitouwadge issues. Preston fell 37½ cents to $8.80 in golds but Sullivan gained.

Highway Estimates Confirm Heavy Construction Program For Quinte District in '55

In addition to a big construction program for the new four-lane highway scheduled for this year, the Ontario Department of Highways will spend $1,000,000 on paving jobs in Hastings County area for 1955, according to highways estimates presented to the Ontario Legislature by Highways Minister Honorable James N. Allan.

Two weeks ago local members W. E. Sandercock and Roscoe Robson announced the decision of the highways department to continue this year with the construction of Highway 401 east of Belleville.

This construction work was confirmed in the year's estimates by Mr. Allan, who, in addition, listed other paving jobs scheduled for the Hastings County area.

MORE PAVING

Paving is to be done on Highway 2 from Belleville to the Slash Road, a distance of three miles and from the Slash Road to Napanee, a distance of 9.5 miles.

In the Bancroft division a hard top bituminous surface is to be placed on Highway 41 from Golden Lake to Eganville, a distance of ten miles, while Highway 28 for 5.5 miles south of Apsley, will be hard surfaced.

A section of Highway 41 is to be reconstructed for 2.5 miles between Mackovoy Lake and Killpecker Creek, while Highway 60 is to be paved for 8.7 miles east from Killaloe. Several contracts were also underway on these highways as carryovers from 1954.

GRADE 13 MILES

Referring specifically to the extension of the new four-lane road east of Belleville, Mr. Allan noted it was planned to grade for further 13 miles, but the section as well as the Belleville-Trenton section already completed will be known as a three-lane highway.

To connect with Highway No. 2 the road will be extended four miles west of Trenton where an interchange will be built to link with the present highway.

The minister noted that the Marysville-Napanee cut-off seemed to be an obvious connecting link for important highways and accordingly consideration was being given to making this section a main artery.

However, before this could be done a railway crossing over the main line of the Canadian National Railways had to be considered along with giving due regard to the extent which the new Highway 401, to be built just to the north of this road, will affect traffic conditions in the area.

Mr. Allan noted that early tender calls would be made for the overhead across Highway 33 and also for the bridge over the Trent River. Bridges over the Moira River, over the C.N.R. and over Blessington Creek in Thurlow township and two structures in Tyendinaga township for the extension of the Belleville - Trenton by-pass were also planned.

Canada Cannot Afford to Ban Dairy Imports

HENSALL, Ont. (CP) — Canada can not afford to ban the importation of foreign dairy products, Robert McCubbin, p arliamentary secretary to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said Thursday night.

"Canada is an exporting country," he said, "and we'd find ourselves in serious difficulties if foreign markets, through reprisals, were shut off to us."

He addressed the annual meeting of the Huron County Liberal Association, which re-elected Ivan Calbfleisch of Zurich as president.

Hog Producers Enter Statement Of Defence

STRATFORD (CP)—The Ontario hog producers' marketing board and United Livestock Sales Limited Thursday entered a statement of defence in court in reply to a recent statement of claim that their operations were without legal authority and were invalid.

The statement of defence said appointment of ULS as a marketing agency and any attempt was made to fix minimum prices or to fix a provincial system of equal prices; the Farm Producers' Marketing Act gives authority to the board to direct sale of hogs; the board has legal authority to make marketing charges, to collect marketing charges and to deduct fees from the sale price of hogs.

The statement of claim was filed by Theodore Parker of nearby Sebringville. No date was set for hearing.

Debate on Budget Starts Next Week

TORONTO (CP) — Estimates of the Ontario department of treasury and public works were to be tabled today in the Ontario legislature.

Details of the department's estimated expenditures and revenues for the next 12 months follow Thursday's tabling of the provincial budget by Premier Frost.

DEBATE NEXT WEEK

The debate on the budget will get under way next week with Harry Nixon (L-Brant), leading off for the opposition. Mr. Nixon, a former premier, is the Liberal party's financial expert.

Gross ordinary expenditures of the department of travel and publicity for the fiscal year ending March 31 were $585,000, or $100,000 more than had been estimated. Estimated expenditures for next year are $915,000.

The department estimates revenue next year will be $26,000, which is $2,000 more than during the current fiscal year. Estimates of the department of reform institutions will be tabled Monday in the legislature.

Senator Davies of Kingston Favors Wider Divorce Grounds

OTTAWA (CP) — A veteran newspaper publisher says he is one of those Canadians who believes divorce "can do as much good as it might possibly do harm."

Urging his Senate colleagues to support a bill which would widen the grounds for divorce in those provinces with divorce courts, Senator W. Rupert Davies said Thursday night:

"I hate misery. I like to see people smile and laugh and enjoy life. I believe that if this bill passes it will make for happiness and better citizenship to a greater degree than it will make for misery, suffering and immorality—to which some reference has been made. . . .

"I am one of many Canadians who feel that divorce can do as much good as it might possibly do harm."

AGREES WITH SENATOR

Senator A. B. Baird (L—Newfoundland) agreed with the Kingston Liberal that the bill should be supported. He could see no sane reason for "our insistence that the legitimate reasons for divorce shall be so limited as to encourage illegal methods of obtaining divorce evidence."

He believes, he said, that men and women are entitled to a second chance and should not be forever penalized for an honest mistake.

The debate was on a bill of Senator Walter Aseltine (PC—Saskatchewan) which would add cruelty, desertion for three years and incurable insanity as grounds for divorce. At present, adultery is the sole ground in all provinces except Nova Scotia where cruelty also applies.

WILL DEBATE NEXT WEEK

The principle of the bill will be debated again next week.

Quebec and Newfoundland, lacking their own divorce courts, send their divorce petitions to Parliament which can grant divorce on any grounds. These petitions invariably are based on adultery.

Senator Davies, president of the Belleville Intelligencer, described the situation which could arise in the case of a man and his wife who felt they no longer could continue married life for a number of reasons.

"Under our present laws, in order to marry them they must be guilty of a useful and happy life, one or the other of these two young people has got to commit adultery. . . ."

BILL'S OPPOSITION

Senator Davies said restrictions advocated by some of his colleagues in opposing the bill are the "very antithesis of Christianity." Some said it violated the Gospel—"what therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

But the senator, who married a second time a few years ago after the death of his first wife, said he knows all about the "marriage vows"—"I have repeated them after a clergyman on two occasions."

Was the Senate itself, in handling Quebec and Newfoundland divorce petitions, not p utting asunder the marriage vows every week of every session, sometimes at the rate of 25 in three minutes, he asked.

ADULTERY ONLY GROUND

With adultery as the only ground, the law now said divorces could not be granted "unless one or the other of (a married couple) breaks the seventh commandment."

"That," said Senator Davies, "is to me the rotten part of divorce today."

In cases other than adultery, petitioners were simply told to "make the best of it" whether the husband was a drunken beast, improvident and brutal and had deserted his family.

"Divorce is here. We cannot past it away from us by refusing to recognize it. It is here to stay.

"Let us make a start on liberalizing our divorce laws and make life brighter and happier for the large numbers who today are caught between the upper millstone of an unhappy home and the nether millstone of forced single terry."

IN THE NICK OF TIME

Dr. W. B. Lewis, vice-president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., predicts that during the first half of the century atomic plants will be producing electricity economically in Canada.

If his prediction proves accurate, this atomic power will come just in the nick of time. At present Canada's generating plants have an installed capacity of over 10,000,000 kilowatts. Demand for power by the end of the century is expected to increase ten-fold and the total amount of electricity which can be generated economically from waterpower is estimated at half of this figure. In other words, by the end of the century Canada will have to obtain half its electricity from some other source than waterpower, which now provides over 90 per cent of the nation's electricity.

Coal and natural gas could, of course, be utilized as fuel, but, as other scientists have pointed out, the rapidly growing world demand for these sources of power promises to outstrip the supply before many generations. If scientists had not discovered a means to split the atom and so supply man with an entirely new source of power, mankind might have found itself shackled.

Another long-term problem which the world is facing is the provision of an adequate supply of food for the rapidly growing population of the earth's nations. Of course, it is not impossible that eventually this growth in population may be slowed or checked entirely, or the trend even reversed. Even if it is not, though, science may come up with the answer. There have been suggestions of late that it may be possible not merely to increase the output of foodstuffs, from lake and sea as well as from land and garden, but also to manufacture synthetic food.

As with the development of atomic power, science may come to the rescue in the nick of time.

There will be those who will scoff at the "nick of time" phrase. Much the same argument has been advanced on innumerable occasions in the past, with scant justification. Each time its brown color in winter takes refuge from its enemies in burrows, while the hare which scorns such hiding places in the earth is given a white coat when the snows fall, that it may use an alternative method of escaping its enemies. Man, with his logical power of mind over matter that all the creatures of the earth are admirably adapted to their environments because only those which are so adapted have managed to survive.

But is difficult to ascribe to pure chance man's scientific discoveries apparently at the very moment when they were essential to provide him with the opportunity to continue to prosper — And it is just as difficult to regard them as a deliberate adaptation to environment, for in many cases the scientist who made the original discovery which led to some of man's present and future had not the slightest inkling of the practical use to which the key to another of Nature's secrets would eventually be put.

THE MALE, THE MODE AND THE MOOD

Pauline Kennedy of The Canadian Press informs us, via the pages of our favorite family newspaper, (only one we guess) in a column in one pleasing to the eye, that their day recently at a department store fashion show. They aired their views in a "male court of opinion" on women's clothes.

A few males' perusal convinced us that we shall never qualify for a seat on the bench of such a court.

All these males had very definite opinions. They knew just what they liked and disliked in women's wear. They even knew the type of women they liked to see wearing them. In theory, of course, all we men can match this certainty. We can say, with Bruce West, that women should "learn to accept the proportions and nature gave them" and nod our head in agreement when Byng Whittaker voices a hate of slacks and says he likes his women either lithe, feminine and petite or "big, fine and statuesque." And then along will come some slack-clad figure neither tiny nor lean, with curves that Mother Nature never molded, the antithesis of all our ideals, but she has that certain something and—on her it looks good.

Up in Owen Sound the good citizens are in the midst of a controversy over the proposal of Mayor E. C. Sargent to sell the city hall to Loblaw's as the site for a supermarket.

The Owen Sound Sun-Times has' discovered that the city does not actually own the property—it merely holds it in trust. The Crown when it made the grant in 1858 was cautious. It not only stipulated that the site should be used for a town hall but also reserved rights to any gold or silver mines developed on the property and all white pine trees which may grow there.

TODAY'S TALK

RETURNS

It is interesting, and speculative, to consider a place where you were once known and happy with our friends—but if we have been absent too long we are apt to run into a loneliness that is hard to count upon, for many a friend with whom we were once gay and active has sadly miss, and it's these "misses" we run into that leave us so lonesome. It's the "hellos" and "byes" which we return from time to time. For years, I have been visiting Miami, Florida, as my second home. During a period of many years I commissioned with a group of friends whom I greatly enjoyed, but now as I return I feel sad for so many of my former friends here have gone on or have failed to return. One only had he have a friend like Johnny Grubbs as an example, creator of "Raggedy Ann," the doll with a heart, for he was always doing kind things to make people happy. And what an artist he was in his own way. His newspaper drawings delighted thousands, and he was a genius with all sorts of musical instruments from the pipe organ to the violin.

That's the sad thing about returning to a former haunt—so many of your friends have gone and they didn't leave a forwarding address! I miss so many of my newspaper friends here, but there remains the same sunshine, the same cool sand, and the same pounding of the ocean waves, the whispering of the coconut and palm trees, the same songs of the mocking birds, the matchless sunsets, and Miami's ever-unfolding springtime.

Perhaps we ought to live more with our memories and thank God that they never seem to fade out but grow in luster with the years. When you tuck people away in your heart they live a long time!

Water Is Vital Link In Life's Golden Chain

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer.

I was might pleased with that feature on your editorial page the other day, "Trees, and Abundance for Trees", credited to your correspondent, American Forests Magazine. It was quoted, with obvious effect, at our rural-urban study club.

In the subsequent discussion period many interesting things were said in connection with the golden sequence as between a nation's trees, lake and subterranean water resources. Its forests and its arable soil. One speaker quoted an American senator (Hubert Humphrey) as having warned his constituents that, "The top resource of the nation, of course, is the spirit of its people—not the fact remains that without appropriate supplies of timber and water, even the spirit of man will not fight for a week."

Another speaker that caught this reader's fancy was a woodlands story from Sweden, dealing with one of the oldest chartered companies in that country (or any other) whose motto is wooded on what is today known as "the sustained yield" principle. There is, in this little letter—to attempt to touch the colorful phrase—a record of more than five centuries of operations and dealing with the perpetuation of timber. Even more than to say that today, according to the reporter, "the woodlands are as vigorous and productive as they were in the 15th century, when the firm was first in the first tree."

It was made abundantly clear that water is life, alike for man and tree and fertile soil, though apparently trees are the key to the vital link and to largely take these resources for granted. The following article was made, and seems to deserve the spotlight: "One inch of rainfall on an acre equals about 100 tons. With a 35-inch annual precipitation, that means that each acre receives 3500,000 tons of this vital stuff," Let's remember the link, in this golden chain of life!

Umbrella Worthy Thing

(Montreal Gazette)

In Chatham, England, a man was charged with stealing an umbrella. A police detective testified in court that when he searched the man's house he found 200 umbrellas.

It is a curious thing that umbrellas, books, have seemed so tempting, and have been so reluctantly returned. There used to be a story in the old comic weeklies of a man who had a passion for umbrellas, because it is seldom seen after Lent.

Possibly this explains why the umbrella, at least for men, has almost disappeared from Montreal, even the rain beat piteously down, only an occasional umbrella was to be seen. Yet they would have opened up to give many a man's appreciation a most welcome haven.

The umbrella has much to be said in its favor. It is handy. It has an undoubted dignity. A big black umbrella carried in the left hand makes a stately progress. It also has about it a certain individuality, a personal covering, and an accompanying shelter.

Nowadays the rush and crush of crowded streets in a modern city has made the umbrella into unidentified positions, at once releasing and menacing. Yet with its original appearance, something of individuality has departed from the human race.

The man who had 200 umbrellas in his house, like the man who had 200 pairs of trousers, at least showed appreciation for a worthy thing.

Smog Blanket May Save Lives

Residents of London, England, Los Angeles and other smog-ridden cities may soon accustom themselves on their good fortune, if they find the protective blankets of artificial smoke may help ward off the searing heat of the atomic blast explosions. There's time to spread them, of course.

This unexpected blessing in disguise is not granted to every city. In Belleville, for instance, to raise a rather good imitation of our London namesake on a muggy day, but nothing to what we could do if we put our minds to it.

'Automation' Is Not New

(Fort Erie Letter-Review)

Overlooked by Canadian newspapers was an important speech made in Johannesburg, Pennsylvania, by Mr. Benjamin A. Fairless, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation. Dealing with claims of "automation" and the automatization in industry will lead to mass unemployment, Mr. Fairless described them as "fantastic propaganda," and a "miserable fraud." Mr. Benjamin A. Fairless pointed out to the Greater Johnstown Chamber of Commerce, is that the extent of this automatic information is the word itself. It is nothing more nor less than the modernization of industry, so that each man can produce more, and, in consequence, get paid more.

Three examples of automation in recent years cited by Mr. Fairless, each of them resulting in more, not fewer, jobs. The first example was the dial telephone. From 1940 to 1950, the number of telephones increased in the U.S. increased by 1950,000 or 79 per cent.,despite widespread introduction of automatic equipment.

The second example was accountants, whose numbers increased 71 per cent. from 1940 to 1950. Although the introduction of automatic business machines and the new "electronic brain."

The third example was the automobile industry, where, despite the vigorous growth of automation, the number of employees has doubled in 14 years, with automobiles, automatic and repairmen increasing by 75 per cent.

Mr. Fairless observed that while U.S. population increased by 14 per cent. between 1940 and 1953, the number of jobs rose 33 per cent., or half as much again. In manufacturing, where automation has advanced most rapidly, employment rose by one-up 9 per cent., or more.

Particularly startling was Mr. Fairless' observation that had technological progress (i.e. automation) stood still in 1953 it would cost $65,000 to build today's automobile at today's wages.

Will Redeem Burlesque

(Christian Science Monitor)

The Society for the Rehabilitation of Maltreated Words will please come to order. The Society of Belles of Brooklyn has just been proposed for membership, and Brooklyn has undertaken a large order. He aspires to redeem the word "burlesque" and restore it to its proper meaning in the American theatre.

Simply stated, Brooklyn's actor and producer, told the New York City license commissioner, he has in mind a return to American burlesque" as it existed before vaiperil" and "Minsky" names. Burlesque, he argued, burlesque; does not depend on filthy and obscenity, but on satire, broad caricature, and slapstick humor.

In this he dictionary bears him out. Webster describes "burlesque" as a "imitation which makes a travesty of that which it represents." In other words, it will be said burlesque has become the victim of a travesty of itself.

Those versed in semantics doubtless can list other words to which fate has been unnecessarily rude. "Democracy," "liberality," "politics," and "people's government" have taken a mauling at the hands of the Communists. But such impossibles no longer mean a necessarily unfavorable thing to the average. And "comics"—just try to laugh after perusing some of the horror stuff that passes for juvenile reading.

After all, maybe a motion would be in order to revamp our organization into something that would get ahead of the evil. Such as a Society for the Prevention

I say that something definite that the Pennsylvania Railroad has gone ahead and authorized construction of one of these new cars at a cost of $1,000,000. Just when this pioneering operation will begin is not yet known. It is merely stated that when ready the train will be placed as soon as detailed specifications are completed. But the Pennsylvania clearly means business and other roads have indicated that they are just interested.

The main points about the lightweight train are less weight, lower loading, and exceptional lowering of the centre of gravity. The Pennsylvania expects to get 90 passengers to each weight; its cars will be 21 inches nearer ground than the present cars are. All this makes for cheaper operatin costs and maintenance as well as more speedup by quickened speed on curves. When quantity production of the initial cars is started the weight will also be lower.

The over-all results I sthat the railroads will be able to do a better job at less expense and thus improve their competitive position in passenger traffic. It is an exciting family for railroading and the entire travelling public.

Lightweight Trains Coming

(New York Herald Tribune)

For some months the leading railroads in this part of the country have done considerable talking and studying about lightweight trains. These are so different from conventional trains that they can almost be called a new form of passenger transport. They will run on electrified and rails, but otherwise there is a general smashing of tradition.

It is something definite that the Pennsylvania Railroad has gone ahead and authorized construction of one of these new cars at a cost of $1,000,000. Just when this pioneering operation will begin is not yet known. It is merely stated that when ready the train will be placed as soon as detailed specifications are completed. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A schoolboy chum of mine has risen over the years to be a successful and highly respected member of the legal profession. He is in most sure to be an ornament of the high court bench one of these days.

But I had to dig it up. I recall I had to pump hard with that year to make good the loss.

"A few days ago, I was here at my desk, with my head in my hand in front of me. Having no children of my own to worry, I fairly fished with my nieces and nephews, especially my nieces when they get married. I was sitting here, figuring out whether my favorite niece, Josephine, was to get a $500 or $1,000 niece. My eyes happened to light on a gap, there, in those revised statistics. Right in front of me on the shelves . . .

He indicated a shelf of dilapidated old volumes.

"I saw some sort of document, shoved back. I hustled over. It was the $1,000. So I gave it, just as it was, to the $3 bills in my pocket.

She happens to be the only member of my entire family connection who loves to come in here and visit me, and never makes a single remark about any little untidiness she might notice."

"Oh, no!" I murmured.

"I had to conclude it was stolen." he went on. "It was in 1933, at the depth of the depression. And my personal assets were such, at that time, that I could ill afford $1,000.

But I had to dig it up. I recall I had to pump hard with that year to make good the loss.

Is Tweed Barn-Dance Fiddle Genuine Stadivarius Violin? Mystery Man Offers $15,000

TWEED — (Staff) — A once-neglected violin, today believed to be stowed away in a vault in the Bank of Montreal here, is the object of optimism and skepticism in this town.

The violin is the joint possession of two brothers, Orvel Conley, local paint shop operator and Percy Conley, Belleville, and is purported to be one of the fabulous and long-missing Italian violins.

On the possible verification of the instrument the brothers Conley are pinning their hopes of realizing a small fortune. Up to the moment they claim they have received two different offers, one from a Chicago source and the second from a Buffalo, N. Y., interest. The latter is reported to have offered $15,000 for the violin.

The brothers did not disclose the identity of either source or how they received knowledge of the violin's existence, but Orvel said yesterday the Buffalo interests were contacting him again next week.

VIOLIN IN VAULT

Meanwhile, the Conley brothers are leaving their treasure in place in the safety of a vault. The violin is encased in a padded wrapping and Orvel emphasized the next person to see it would be the would-be legitimate purchaser.

It is this reticence of the Conleys to display the violin and the fact that the genuineness of the violin has not yet been verified that has aroused skepticism of Tweed residents.

A clerk at the George Clarke Jewellery store here, to whom Orvel took the violin a month ago for an opinion on its antique authenticity, said the lettering inside the violin, which first aroused the interest in its possible value, appeared similar to that appearing on recognized modern copies of the original Stradivarius violins.

"I suggested to Mr. Conley that he allow our travellers to inspect the violin but he never brought it back," said the clerk.

TREATED BLITHELY

Mr. George Clarke, whose brother, Charles, here this week is known owner of the violin in the Tweed area, treated the whole matter rather blithely.

Glancing up from a newspaper featuring a story on the Conley violin Mr. Clarke said "I must search through the basement to see if there is something I can sell."

J. A. Thompson, Tweed bank manager, said he was in no position to verify that the instrument was genuine.

"The fact that the instrument is so rare I would imagine that it would only be expect to give an unqualified opinion," he stressed.

Inside the Conley violin is the lettering difficult in places to decipher appear the words "Antonius Stradivarius, Cremonensis, Facichat—1716." The letters "AS" appear inside a circle.

EXCITED INTEREST

Two letters "AS" are what Orvel claimed caused the high interest of the unnamed Buffalo man who was said to take the monogram as indicative of the violin's genuineness.

Antonio Stradivari was the master Italian violin maker who reached the peak of perfection in his art in the 1700's. Of his violins, which today are the paragon of perfection and of immense value, are known to exist, and hitherto none were believed to be owned in Canada.

The last genuine Stradivarius located on the North American continent has been valued at $50,000. For the past 100 years many legitimate copies of the famed Stradivarius have been on the market and today are being sold in music centres.

At present a Toronto musical instrument company imports reproductions of the Stradivarius-style violin from France and Germany and distributes them to music centres. One group of such reproductions listed on their catalogue, from Mittenwald, Germany, retails from as low as $27.50 to $45.

LETTERS IN COPIES

The lettering on the back of these recognized copies read as the words Antonio Stradivarius Cremonensis and also the two letters "AS" within a circle.

One Tweed dealer, who had examined the lettering of the Conley violin, said that it closely resembled the wording on the back of recognized copies of Stradivarius instruments.

The dealer also said that while the first two numerals in the date "1716" on the Conley instrument were faint, the last two "16", were pencilled. The back of the violin appears to have been removed at one time, he said.

If it is proven genuine the recent history of the Conley violin will contrast sharply with the reverence it will be shown in the future.

The Tweed history of the violin dates back roughly 40 years, during which time it has changed hands at least a half a dozen times, was sold for as little as $6.50, was swapped for another violin and ended up being played during lunch-time breaks at a meat packing plant.

RESCUED FROM DISTILLERY

It was rescued from distillery lunch-room at Corbyville that the violin came to Percy Conley a model age by a fearful Percy Conley who, as plant employee, had provided the instrument for the lunch-time amusement.

The Conleys have owned the violin for over 30 years. Archie Sinclair of Tweed bought it from Charles Clarke for $6.50. He sold it to Morley Green. Morley sold it to Percy Conley and Green who traded it to Percy Conley in exchange for another violin.

Since Percy came into the violin hung unused in Percy Conley's apartment in Belleville. Finally one morning he took the violin with him to work at Corbyville distillery and the mellow tones became a regular noon-time feature.

Some time ago Percy was reading a magazine when he came across an article on Stradivarius violins. At the time he placed no significance on the probable connection between the article and his own violin.

However, one day about a month ago, he took the instrument home and for the first time began to place significance on the lettering on the inside, linking it with what he had already read on Stradivarius violins.

He conferred with Orvel and they concluded they may have in their possession a priceless treasure. Orvel removed the violin to his house in Tweed but Percy kept custody for the safety of the instrument and suggested it be placed in safe keeping.

Some days ago Orvel followed his advice and had the instrument removed to a bank vault under police protection.

Yesterday Orvel declined to reveal the violin's value to him, explaining that he would be expect to give an unqualified opinion," he stressed.

No Highway Signs So Tourists Miss Historical Sites

TORONTO (CP) — Many tourists pass by historical monuments and locations in Ontario because the department of highways restricts directive signs on provincial highways, the legislature's committee on travel and publicity was told Thursday.

"It seems silly to spend a lot of money on historical spots and then prevent people from finding them," said James Auld, (PC-Leeds).

Chairman William J. Stewart (PC-Parkdale) appointed a subcommittee to approach Highways Minister Allan in an effort to obtain reduced restrictions.

The committee endorsed a motion of T. D. Thomas (CCF-Ontario) which would provide a secret committee to hear suggestions of organizations interested in the tourist trade during the year.

A teacher's personality both in and out of school can be influential in the success of his academic training. For many teachers the four-o'clock bell does not signal the end of a busy day, rather the beginning of a fresh round of extra-curricular activities.

There Is No Teacher Type So Students Get Opportunity To Profit from Personalities

It is impossible to discover a typical teacher because teachers are not typical. Teachers are individuals. They are called upon to exert as much influence as much as their training to impart information to groups of students in which, it is hoped, will profit by example and instruction by becoming educated individuals.

Linton Douglas Read is a teacher. Since 1946 he has been teaching English and some French at the Belleville Collegiate. He was born in Hamilton and educated at Delta Collegiate and McMaster University in that city. In 1946 he graduated from Ontario College of Education, married his college sweetheart, Geraldine Foley, and came to Belleville to teach in the collegiate. He has two daughters, Jane, 4, and Judy, 2.

What does he do?

REPRESENTATIVE DAY

A representative teaching day for Linton Read begins when he gets out of bed in the morning and starts preparing for the nine instruction sessions ahead.

He arrives at the collegiate about 8.45 a.m., chats with fellow teachers, jots notes of announcements on the bulletin board and then goes to his form room to welcome the students for morning attendance.

There begins the daily round with Shakespeare, Hamlet for Grade 13 students; Macbeth for Grade 12's, and Romeo and Juliet for Grade 11.

A three-minute recess interrupts the three-hour morning teaching session. Noon hour is sometimes spent at home; often it is devoted to assisting with the work of the operetta or the glee club.

WEAR AND TEAR

Afternoon sessions are "somewhat slower" as the day's wear and tear starts taking effect. At 4.00 p.m. meetings with the staff of the "Elevator," the school magazine; special committee meetings of the teaching staff, or assisting students with some phase of their work usually brings the school day to a close about 5 p.m.

"Every lesson taught the next day has to have preparation the night before," said Mr. Read, "or it is likely to be a flop."

"The department tries to change half the English course every year," he said. "The Grade 13 English course is changed completely each year."

In addition to teaching, Linton Read is vice-chairman of the Corby Public Library Board; director of the Belleville YMCA; superintendent of the Sunday School of Bridge Street United Church; member of the Official Board of the church; past president of the Belleville Y's Men's Club and an executive member of the local Community Concert Association.

BUSY HOLIDAYS

He also teaches English for two hours each Tuesday to students of an advanced technical course at the collegiate's night school and writes reviews of local drama productions for The Ontario Intelligencer.

His solution to setting and marking essays and examinations for regular classes and for night school, he also marks correspondence courses for the Department of Education.

Each Christmas holiday he spends three days attending the annual assembly of Ontario secondary school teachers in Toronto and at Easter attends the conference of the English section of the Ontario Education Association.

Since graduation from OCE, Linton Read has spent five weeks of one summer vacation taking the Department of Education summer course for guidance teachers and part of three summers marking upper school English examinations.

This summer he plans to take the five-week "principal's course" at OCE.

"Teaching drama is the most delightful part of my work," says Mr. Read.

"Perhaps the most satisfying part of teaching English is to see students create something that is their own. English composition is one of the few courses in which high school students are almost entirely on their own. When they write something it is theirs."

There's great satisfaction, too, in noting the awakening in the students of the idea of the greatness of the material and the men they are studying.

Best of all is to see the development of the personality and character of the students as they grow from raw Grade nine's to more mature Grade 13ers. To see students developing a sense of responsibility, mental and emotional maturity and a spirit of independence is very satisfying to a teacher," he said.

PUNISHMENT HARD

What is the hardest thing a teacher has to do?

"Having to punish students for lack of application or dishonesty. Dishonesty is the hardest thing I have to do," said Mr. Read.

"To accept the knowledge that a punished student hates you, even momentarily, is hard to accept, even when you firmly believe that the punishment is for his own good and that it will bear fruit in the future."

What does a teacher think about teaching?

"Teachers are in the happy position of having either the easiest or the toughest job in the world depending on their own attitude," he said.

"The teacher trying to improve himself and to improve the calibre of his teaching can find the teaching profession the hardest, the most nerve-wracking job on earth. That there are more nervous breakdowns among teachers than in any other profession seems proof that teachers accept the burdens of good teaching," he added.

MEASURE OF SUCCESS

"The measure of a teacher's success is the degree to which his students surpass him in intellectual growth and character," said Mr. Read. "There are students in every class with greater basic intelligence than the teacher. The teacher's success lies in his ability to reach that intelligence and stimulate it to grow and surpass his own."

What is the happiest moment in a teacher's life?

"I think the happiest moment a teacher experiences is when a former student tells him that something he said, or something he did, influenced the student's life for good."

Winchell Changes Radio Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Winchell is quitting ABC radio and television by next Christmas after nearly 25 years with the network.

The commentator said Thursday night that he asked for and received a release from a contract running into six figures in a letter February 10 to the American Broadcasting Company's directors.

Winchell later said he has received an offer from NBC-TV to produce programs on that outlet.

MANY GRIEVANCES

Winchell said an accumulation of grievances resulted in his request for a contract release from ABC and added:

"I'm very grateful to ABC for granting me what I requested. If nobody wants me in radio or TV I'll just do my column."

SQUIRT

The Black Hawks qualified for the right to meet the Canadiens in the squirt finals last night when they downed the Bruins in both halfs of a twin bill, 2-0 and 3-2 to take the round, 5-2.

Jim Hurst knocked the Bruins off almost single-handed as he scored the only two goals of the first game and added another pair in the second. Billy Rushlow also scored for the Hawks. Mike Murphy tallied both of the Bruin goals.

In an exhibition game, the Canadiens edged the Leafs 3-2 on goals by Mike Murphy, Wayne Woods and Bill Williams scoring.

MIDGET

Northern Electric handed the Big "A" sextet two lop-sided defeats in the midget semi-finals, 5-1 and 14-3 to capture the series, 3-1. The win now meet Booth Radio for the City championship next Thursday night.

Wally Wannamaker handled the attack in the 3-1 win, scoring two goals while St. Louis, Foster and Rowbotham also hit the hemp. Dave Coe was the lone marksman for Big "A".

Gord St. Louis was the star of the 14-3 game as he scored five goals. Wannamaker chipped in another while Rowbotham and Spafford tallied twice. Hodges went to Foster and Hanthorne. Frank Cris came up with three goals in a losing effort.

Host of Brother and Sister Teams in Movies Years Ago

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A customer writes in to ask, "Where are the brother and sister movie star teams of yesteryear?"

A good question. It was provoked by the recent death of Tad Moore. Most obituaries said he was a silent film star, along with his two brothers, Owen and Matt. Oldtimers recall there was a fourth brother, Joe, who also starred in the flickers.

Any movie fan of the earlier vintage can bring a host of brother and sister teams to mind. Here are some of them:

Mary, Lottie and Jack Pickford; Wally and Jack Beery; William and Dustin Farnum; Syd and Charlie Chaplin; Norma, Constance and Natalie Talmadge; Dorothy and Lillian Gish; Helene and Dolores Costello; Barbara, Joan and Constance Bennett; Jackie and Bobby Coogan; Mae and Lovey Marsh; Viola Dana and Shirley Mason; Mary MacLaren and Katherine MacDonald; Anita and Lucille Love Stewart; Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore; Frank and Ralph Morgan.

LATER FAMILIES

Later on came the Young sisters—Loretta, Georgiana and Sally Blane. And the Jones—Jobyna, Mary and Priscilla. And of course there were brother and sister acts like Marxes and Ritz Bob Crosby has managed to carve a career for himself despite the eminence of brother Bing, though Bob has never really clicked in films.

Most noted of the sister teams of recent times are Joan Fontaine and Olivia de Havilland, two Oscar Academy awards and their sisterly rivalry once broke into an open feud. They now are more or less at peace.

NEW GENERATION

In the second generation of acting families are young Sydney and Charles Chaplin Jr.; Diana and her half-brother John Barrymore, Jr. But none has yet reached the fame of the previous generation.

I asked one film historian why family teams aren't as prevalent, as they used to be.

"Because the picture business is no longer a family affair," he explained. "In the old days, an actor would pick up a job in the movies and bring along his brother or sister when he reported to work. The chances were that the brother or sister would get a job in the picture, too.

"Nowadays there's so much competition you can't expect lightning to strike twice in the same family."

F.W.T.A.O. Hears Talk On 'Magic Word'

This being "Education Week" despite wet weather, there was an excellent attendance at the March dinner meeting of the "Bellville" Women Teachers' Federation, Wednesday evening, at Lattimer's.

Special guests present were, Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, and Mr. Macdonald Smith, representing the Public School Board; Mr. L. A. Kella, superintendent of Belleville Public Schools, and Mrs. Kella; also Mr. E. S. Fairman, principal of Queen Victoria School, representing the Intermediate Teachers' Federation".

President Grace Houston began the meeting, after which she called on past president, Mrs. Dorothy Blakely, to introduce the guest speaker, Dr. Boyd Upper, reporter and editorial writer for the Ontario Intelligencer. Dr. Upper's address on "The Magic Word", was an unusually interesting one. In closing he particularly stressed the teaching of English in the schools.

Miss Marion Mulholland favored the group with a solo, the well-known "Too-Ra-Loo-Ra-Loo" followed by a group sing-song under the direction of Barbara Allen. Finally, with the aid of a portable, those present listened to a panel discussion (CBC) entitled "Trends in Education."

The members, in this panel are leading Belleville Collegiate Institute Mary Lenore, Mr. L. A. Kella, Mr. E. S. Fairman and Mr. Leslie Reid.

Front Road W.A. Holds Lenten Meeting

The regular meeting of the Front Road United church W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Reid. The president read a Lenten meditation.

In the absence of Mrs. Noble Brown, Mrs. Leslie Bradshaw had charge of the devotional topic, being "The Man of Sorrows", the Scripture, Mark 14-50, was read by Mrs. G. Clarke. A reading "The Dark Cross" was given by Miss Lois Bradshaw; "Victory in Gethsemane" by Mrs. Clifford Reid and "The Garden" by Mrs. T. J. Brown. A poem "The Lady" was read by Mrs. Clinton Brown; "The Cross" was given by Mrs. Roy Clarke; "The Victory of the Cross" by Mrs. John Bolting.

The Scripture from the folder was read by Mrs. Geddes Bradshaw, followed with prayer.

Business was conducted. The secretary-treasurer gave her report and read letters of thanks and business letters. Lenten cards were distributed to the members who had not received them.

Date of next meeting, Wednesday, April 6, at the home of Mrs. T. J. Brown and Mrs. Clinton Brown.

After the close of the meeting the hostess and her committee served refreshments.

After refreshments, the president held a special event—an auction sale, which a auctioneer, she capably directed spirited bidding on the knick knacks, groceries and other useful things.

The president thanked Mrs. Reid for the use of her home and all who had helped.

Holy Rosary P.T.A. Presents Prizes

The March meeting of Holy Rosary Parent-Teacher Association was held on Tuesday with a large attendance.

Mr. Colligan presided and called on the Rev. Michael Simson to open with prayer.

Business matters were first on the agenda with Mrs. Jack Sullivan reading the minutes and Mr. Leo Farrell giving the treasurer's report.

Committee heads gave brief talks on activities to date, Rev. Sister M. Timothy spoke regarding membership.

Mr. Don Lee reviewed sports, and Mrs. McGuinn told of present actions and plans on fighting salacious literature.

ATTENDANCE PRIZE

The attendance prize was won by Miss Murphy's class.

Entertainment was supplied by the school children, who had been directed by the teachers in song, dance, and speaking. This program was thoroughly enjoyed by the adults.

Mr. Lee tendered a vote of thanks to teachers and children and Mr. Colligan gave additional thanks to Rev. Sister M. Wilhelmina, music teacher, who accompanied the performers at the piano.

The Rev. Michael Simson handed out the prizes to the students who had year headed each class, as follows: Grade 1, Phyllis Masterson; Grade 3, Eleanor Burke; Grade 4, Billy Kelly; Grade 5, Paul Huffman; Grade 6, Room 5, Theresa Hopper; Grade 6, Room 6, Donna Hay; Grade 7, Carl Harris.

The Rev. Michael Simson closed the meeting.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

The March meeting of Foxboro Presbyterian Ladies' Guild and W.M.S. met on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Nellis Bell with nine members present. Miss Watt presided and chose as her topic "Friendship".

Mrs. Johnston gave a splendid paper on the meaning of "Friendship".

Plans were made for a social evening to be held in the near future. Regret to report that several members are sick.

Interesting readings were given by the various ladies; a duet by Mrs. Johnston and Miss Bell; a trio and contest was enjoyed by all, with Mrs. Lyons the winner. In April, the Easter thank-offering meeting of the W.M.S. will be held.

Refreshments were served, followed by an exchange of small items for the flower fund.

Collections amounted to $10.

St. John's Guild Plans For Spring Bazaar

The members of St. John's Guild met at the home of the president, Mrs. B. Babcock, for the weekly meeting.

Plans were made for the spring bazaar, after which they had a small but successful suction sale.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Canadian Wives in Germany Shopping North American Way

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOEST, Western Germany (CP Cable)—Wives with the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade group now shop the North American way for familiar products!

Just opened is one of three combination groceries - department stores, a pioneer project that offers tax-free commodities from Canada, the United States, Germany and some other European countries in Canadian style.

Crowds of the 1,300 Canadian wives with the 5,800-man brigade fell with glad cries and roomy shopping baggies—unique in Europe—on self-service displays of canned salmon, corn, cake mixes, frozen foods, packaged fresh meat cut by a Canadian-trained butcher and such rare items as celery—to be considered the edible portion in Germany.

CONTINENTAL FOODS TOO

The shopping centre, operated by a newly-formed, non-profit company, is located in the midst of the 567-unit Soest married quarters and it will ease a big problem.

Previously, Canadian wives shopped at three British army stores, a slow and arduous practice in many cases. They tackled language and related problems of different weights, currency, shopping system, meat cuts and so on in German stores.

District merchants have expressed concern that the new Canadian stores, and those to follow at Werl and Hemer, will cut them off completely from the brigade's $600,000 monthly payroll.

Canadian store prices are intended to be competitive for the 4,500 items stocked, but depend on merchandising factors and some are higher, some lower than local prices.

The shopping centre is the first one opened anywhere by Maple Leaf Services, organized to run stores, clubs, canteens, bowling alleys, theatres and similar amenities in Canadian camps. It will open other-ranks clubs soon in Soest, Werl and Hemer. The first MLS store opened in February.

Post revenue from MLS, formed under section two of the Canadian Companies Act, will go to troop amenities, with profit-sharing services subsidizing less wealthy camps.

Many Canadian supplies are unavailable, says MLS European manager Vernon DeLancey of Liverpool, N.S., but nearby American PX stores filled in with Alaska salmon, fresh vegetables, canned goods of all kinds and clothing. Cosmetics, electrical appliances and books are among other items sold by the battalion-sized by infra-red lamps—which opened at noon and was vacated by the last shopper at midnight in the first-day rush.

Twelve Win Door Prizes At Fashion Show

Prize winners at the recent Spring Fashion Show sponsored by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary in the Collegiate auditorium included the following: Mrs. Margaret Koesleg, Perth, Ontario, travelling case; Mrs. W. Hales, 143 Moira street west, costume jewellery; Mrs. O. N. Bell, 231 Bridge street east, flowers; Mrs. H. Dixon, 37 Ritchie avenue, jewellery; Miss Beth Robertson, 42 Bertram Blvd., fur neckpiece; Mrs. Charles Shannon, Belleville, R.R. 4, parasol; Mrs. Olga Sharpe, Albert College, lingerie; Mrs. Gerald Brearley, MacDonald avenue, Brenmore Beauty Salon certificates; Violet Colter, 152 Foster avenue, flowers; Miss Florence Down, 28 Highland avenue, Sunbeam iron; Mrs. Fred Symons, 24 Cedar street, hat box gift certificate; Miss Jean Edward, 34 Gordon street, Elizabeth Arden makeup kit; Miss Lillian M. Valleau, Belleville, R.R. 7, gift certificate.

Panel Discussion on 'Comics' Held by Home-School Assoc.

A panel discussion on "Comics" the wording of the code was provided a thought-provoking drafted by politicians, not legal evening for those in attendance men, so that it cannot be clearly at the joint meeting of the Queen defined by our Supreme Court Alexandra and Queen Elizabeth of Canada. However," continued Home and School Association Mr. Follwell, "there is a Comic meeting.

The meeting was held in the auditorium of the Queen Alexandra school, with the president Mrs. A. G. Tooth, presiding.

In the absence of Mrs. Jones, the convener, for the recent banned goods sale at the market building, the president thanked all who contributed or assisted towards its success. $92 had been received so far with some funds trickling in.

The president of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School took a room count of mothers for that school. Mrs. Knudson said there will be no Home and School meeting in Queen Elizabeth school this month because of this meeting.

Mrs. Tooth thanked Mrs. A. J. Sprague and her assistants for their social preparations for the evening, members of Queen Elizabeth school also contributed.

PANEL PARTICIPANTS

The participants on the panel were then introduced by Mr. E. Buchanan, the principal of Queen Alexandra Home and School; Mr. M. Irwin, teacher; Mrs. B. Orr, homemaker and teacher; Mr. E. Follwell, barrister.

Mr. Irwin began by using part of the Home and School "project" timbre us with understanding and clear vision that we may always seek the highest good for our children."

"Fine character cannot be achieved if a child spends a great deal of time reading comic books because there is nothing in them to stimulate the mind. It is up to the parent to know what the child is reading. Is it material you want the child to read? He made references to clippings from various sources dealing with the subject as well as an editorial appearing a few weeks ago in the Ontario Intelligencer. Statistics show that in the United States in one year one billion comics are read requiring $10 million a day for them - which is more than the entire amount spent for school books for that entire country or for the books purchased for all the libraries.

Teen agers, chiefly girls, read the love comics, he continued. Then with a blush now and then she described to her amused listeners, the contents of a complicated love story containing lies, deceit, stolen love and sex. What to do about such comics, Mrs. Orr suggested that reasonable regulation is better than censorship, or a wise substitution for better and best things.

Mr. Follwell, representing the cool legalistic mind on this panel, dealt with the legal aspect of crime comics. He admitted that he did not know of, nor could conceive of anything more poisonous than some of the comics he presented. Shudders and groans were expressed as he finished reading through one example.

"Four or five years ago legislation became effective regarding crime comics in Canada; but

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

SHE SHOULD HAVE FOUND OUT CORRECT FORM

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Two weeks ago my parents sent the formal announcement of my engagement to the local newspapers. Confession: I was the one who worded and typed the announcements, and I did not mention my fiance's parents' names in the announcements. I guess I got mixed up, thinking that my fiance's parents' names are not mentioned in the wedding invitations, they were not to be mentioned in the engagement announcement. Now my fiance tells me that his parents are very hurt by this. Was I so wrong in what I did for really in what I did not do), and, if so, what in the world can I do to make amends? I'm devoted to my fiance's parents, and wouldn't knowingly do anything to hurt them. — Dorothy M.

I'm so sorry to hear to tell you that yes, you were indeed in the wrong. You should have mentioned the names of your fiance's parents . . . this should always be done in the published announcement announcement. You would have been wise to have done some home-work, either studying the correct forms in your newspapers, or inquiring of an authority. The names of the grooms parents are not included in wedding invitations but rather in invitations are sent out in the names of the bride's parents, who are the hosts of the wedding. I'm sure that your fiance's parents will understand and forgive if you explain simply and straightforwardly explain to them why you made this mistake . . . . you yourself must make this explanation, not ask your fiance to be your asking-for-forgiveness emissary.

WEDDING RECEPTION GUEST INTRODUCES HERSELF

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am going to a formal church wedding soon, and to the large reception following. I do not know either the bride's mother or the groom's mother. What should I do as I start going down the receiving-line—announce myself? Should I shake hands with both? Then what should I say? — Perplexed Guest.

There may be an official 'announcer' who will say your name and then say your name very distinctly to the bride's mother, the hostess, first in the line. Or you may be expected to introduce yourself, giving your name and, if time, some remark of indentification "I was in Katherine's class in school." You shake hands with the bride's mother first . . . then she introduces you to the groom's mother for the groom's father, if he is standing next to the bride's mother) . . . then you shake hands with her or with them. You say something about "What a lovely wedding . . . and what a lovely bride!"

SERVING THE FIRST COURSE . . . COLD OR HOT

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I'm soon to give my first dinner party. I have no maid, and must do everything myself. Serving the first course bothers me. If I serve a fruit cocktail, would it be proper to have it on the table when the guests enter the dining room? If I decide to serve soup first, must that be brought on after the guests are seated? — Sue T.

When the first course is a cold one (fruit cocktail, for example), it is quite proper to have it at the individual places when the guests enter the dining room. But if the first course is a soup that is to be served hot, it should be served after the guests are seated. Or if you decide to feature a hot soup, you might like to "supply yourself with the individual covered soup bowls . . . very good-looking and very practical.

ON THE OUTSIDE, BOY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My best girl friend has a brother who thinks he knows it all. I don't think he does. For one example: Yesterday, we three were walking down the street, and he insisted on walking between us. I had always thought that when two girls and a boy are walking together, that the boy should walk on the outside. And to me this seems more sen-

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . am looking forward to the day when you publish a cookbook . . . would you send me a recipe for chart . . . the following aren't exactly recipes but they are very tasty and quite simple and we enjoy them: (1) I brown pork chops in the frying pan and then pour over them a tin of chicken gumbo soup and bake them, usually started with scalloped potatoes and it makes a nice supper. (2) The children particularly like this: Put wieners in a casserole and add thinly sliced onions to taste, plus a tin of tomato soup. I usually bake potatoes in their jackets with this and the soup makes a nice sauce to go with them. A nice green salad plus a pudding baked at the same time, makes a nice meal.—Mrs. C. L. K.

ANSWER:

As you know I have sent the calorie chart. Thank you so much for sharing these ideas you have discovered using soup for a sauce and for flavorings. They are excellent and time-saving. Let us know any more discoveries.

QUESTION:

Could you please help this poor confused brain of mine. I always read the ideas that ship, means tablespoon—however in the calorie chart at the bottom it states T equals tablespoon, so do I use tbsp. as teaspoon in this chart? I love stew. One pounds and hope to keep on for 10 more. Why are smoked foods so high in calories? What is the approximate number of calories in 1 slice summer sausage, cheese and macaroni loaf. I wish you would add a P.S. after each recipe "P.S. one serving — calories." I do enjoy the little stories of your family life as it seems your Pete and Marianne are so much like my own children. . . God bless you for being such an understanding friend.—Mrs. E. R.

ANSWER:

You are long on understanding yourself Mrs. E. R. and thank you for such a charming letter. I have just looked over my calorie chart and am pleased to find it is not it you are referring to because tbsp. means tablespoon in any cook's language. However if you have lost five pounds maybe that is the key to your success! Four ounces summer sausage or macaroni and cheese loaf have about 400 calories each.

QUESTION:

Although I have learned a lot from your column I have never thought much about writing. I feel that I don't know too much about catering. . . I have written to a number of places but haven't received the information required. I have done a number of teas and one large luncheon for 180 people while, too, for then the boy can easily talk to both girls, without turning from one to the other. What say, Miss Beechman?

I say you are right. The boy should walk on the outside when he is walking with two girls . . . and for the sensible reason you give.

THE BOY FRIEND'S MOTHER AND THE CAR

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I've been going steady with a young man for several months. He hasn't his own car, but quite often drives his family car. Recently his mother drives in the car car with us, she always sits in the front seat, which leaves me to sit alone in the back seat. She seems to take it for granted that this is the way it is going to be, and this is the way it is. Don't you think this is rude and selfish on her part? — R.M.B.

It makes no difference what you or I think . . . the important thing is that you just must make up your mind to accept this procedure with grace and seem as unconcerned about it as you possibly can. Otherwise "dangerous curve ahead"! (And after all it's her family car.)

Easy On Your Eyebrows

By HELEN FOLLETT

Heavy, natural eyebrows provide just the right frame for the beautiful, sparkling eyes of movie star Elizabeth Taylor.

Pondering on the subject of eyebrows, one comes to the conclusion that in many cases if they haven't been exterminated, they have gone through a lot of torture. Numerous women haven't yet found out that eyebrows are themselves again, as nature intended them to be.

Nature selected the correct location and line for eyebrows, so don't tamper with it! You may have to pluck away some stray hairs but don't overdo the job. If you are in doubt about your eyebrow line, have a professional

Beauty

ARMS AND THE WOMAN

If feminine arms are beautiful of contour, smooth and white of surface, it is because Nature made them that way. They seldom get any beauty attention.

The skin of arms is beautifully slender. Just below the shoulder, there should be a slight curve. At the elbow, the upper and lower portions are of the same measurement. From the elbow down there is a gradual, graceful tapering line to a neat, well-formed wrist.

If we see shapeless or scrawny arms with skin that is dingy of color or coarse of texture, it is because many women do not realize that their arms need as much loving as faces are. Also, they do not realize that such conditions can be overcome.

Hand and arm treatments, given in beauty shops, work like magic. The routine is simple and easy.

If you would give your arms a treat, devote fifteen or twenty minutes to their care now and then.

Start with a soapy washing with a brush to make the flesh glow. Rinse, dry and apply a heavy cream, one that will offer resistance to the movements of your fingers. Make a bracelet of one hand, clasp your wrist, move the fingers in one direction, the arm in the other, working up the shoulders. These movements will force the cream into the flesh.

Keep some almond meal in a tin salt shaker. Sprinkle it over the creamed surface, forming a pack. Wring a large turkish towel out in hot water. Wrap it around your arms, repeating the towel application half a dozen times.

One treatment a week for a month or two will bring grand results. The skin will be smoother softer and whiter. If you are troubled with gooseflesh, the little red points will vanish.

Tweeds, Linens Fashioned With Irish Flare Shown

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Designer Sybil Connolly swept over Toronto's fashion world like a fen mist.

The woman whose influence started the tweed rage in fashion last year and rejuvenated the use of Irish linens, put on a two-day fashion show in a Toronto department store. Her creations, tweeds and linens fashioned with her Irish flare, brought rounds of applause. The show ends today.

Two years ago she brought her collection to New York and got so much publicity and so many buyers that she has been worked off her feet supplying the North American market ever since.

"I could sell twice as many clothes as I produce," she said.

YOUNG BUT SHREWD

Her youthful appearance and

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER PARENTS KEEP TOO FIRM RULES ON DATES

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How old do you think girls should be before they are allowed to go double-dating? I'm 15, but my parents do not let me go out even with crowds.

Can you tell me what to do?

— Patsy P.

Dear Patsy:

I should think, at 15, your parents might well allow you more freedom to go out with your friends, and a double-date now and then would certainly not be out of order, provided you went with the right kind of young people only to proper places, and did not go too often or stay out to late.

As I have said many times, this is the kind of problem that is frequently solved if boys who would like to date a girl are thoughtful enough to make friends with her parents and ask their permission.

I suggest that the next time some boy would like to have a date with you, he should speak to your mother or in a nice, polite way and ask for the privilege of taking you out. He should say where he wants to take you, and promise to bring you home at any time she sets; then, of course, he must make sure he have you there on the dot.

So, if any boy asks you for a date, tell him you would be very much to go, but you feel that it would be only right for him to request permission from your parents. So far from being at all out of the way for him to do this, I think such a boy would think all the more of you and much consideration for your parents.

soft Irish accent hide a shrewd business mind. Trained in a London shop, she started designing at 17 and was a director of a dress firm in Dublin at 22.

Married at 25, she runs her own couturier shop and clothes manufacturing firm, supplying markets in Canada, the U.S. and Australia.

"I decided the only way to succeed in the fashion field was to play up the characteristics and dress of my own country," She said. "You can't ape Paris."

FEATURES FULL SKIRTS

Her dresses and suits have casual uncluttered lines and plenty of color. She favors her styles from full-skirted Irish costumes and leans heavily on her homeland's love of sport.

Most popular was a handwoven tweed Donegal tweed suit in lime and beige cut along the "hunting line." Called "Hue and Cry" the suit has a long flaring jacket covering the hips, slim skirt and features a high velvet collar, the same as huntsmen wear on their pink coats.

Miss Connolly said the thing which strikes her about Canadian fashion is their excellent grooming.

A huge lake freighter rides out a storm on Lake Superior. Freighters of this size, at present confined to the upper Great Lakes, will be able to go down to Montreal when the St. Lawrence seaway is completed allowing larger ships to go through its lock system. (CP Photo).

Montreal May Be Influenced Sharply by Seaway Project

Canada's biggest city, directly on the St. Lawrence seaway, may be influenced sharply by the development. Its prospective effect on Montreal is dealt with in this story.

By JOHN LaBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The world's largest inland port views the coming of the St. Lawrence seaway with mixed feelings.

In Montreal, which handles 10,000,000 tons of ocean cargo a year through a harbor 7,000 miles from the sea, a welcoming attitude is tempered with uncertainty on such points as these:

Will shipping traversing the deep waterway to and from the heart of the continent bypass Montreal? Will Montreal's federally-operated port facilities be modernized to keep step with the development? What's to be done about trans-river traffic bottlenecks between Montreal and the mainland which seaway shipping could intensify?

FAVORABLE SENTIMENT

THUS with key officials here indicate sentiment in favor of the seaway but there is a persisting clamour for answers to questions developing from the now-beginning construction of the 37-foot channel that will make it possible for big ocean ships to ride non-stop to the Head of the Lakes.

Across the river from Montreal, crews have been dynamiting the initial part of a deep channel through the riverbed rock to let the big ships follow a course swinging south of the island and past the boil of the Lachine rapids.

The present course, utilizing the shallow Lachine canal through the heart of Montreal, brings smaller lake vessels directly into Montreal harbor. It also leaves Montreal as the terminus for larger ocean ships.

Under the new setup, there will be nothing to stop the big ships from consigning to discharge and take on cargo here. But some Montrealers are wondering if there won't be a breathing-spell for them right on past. On the other hand, the big lakers will be able to reach Montreal directly with such cargoes as grain.

URGE IMPROVEMENTS

Such organizations as the Montreal board of trade take the attitude that: "What's good for Canada is good for Montreal." But they qualify this with the insistence that the federal government—responsible for the seaway and navigation works—should see to it now that Montreal's huge port facilities are modernized concurrently.

George Mooney, veteran economist who is secretary of the city's St. Lawrence waterway committee, says considerable work will have to be done to get the port into shape for the coming of the seaway but looks for the harbor and the area generally to benefit.

"On balance," he said in an interview, "any foreseeable economic losses are likely to be compensated by increased new movements of cargo which the seaway will make possible, a proportion of which should accrue to the economic benefit of Montreal."

Economist Mooney goes further. He sees the whole Montreal area developing eventually in a Canadian Ruhr with the help of seaway-hydro power combined with Quebec's Labrador iron ore, nearby forest resources and expanded shipping facilities.

UNTAPPED POWER

There remains an untapped power potential of 1,800,000 horsepower at Montreal's back door. Of this, 600,000 at superior Beauharnois and 1,200,000 is in the Lachine rapids directly beside the city. The Lachine potential is 100,000 more than Canada will get from the international section of the river.

The federal government has tried to get Quebec to start on Lachine now, tied in with the navigation facilities, but the province's holding off because it doesn't need the power at this time.

"If the current trend of Quebec development continues," says Mr. Mooney, "I think we'll need the Lachine power in about 10 years."

PERMANENT EFFECTS

Meanwhile, the greater Montreal economic council says:

"There is a feeling abroad, despite reassuring statements from government spokesmen, that the seaway development is likely to have more than mere temporary and transitory effects on the economic life of Montreal." It calls for an "authoritative" answer.

Hon. Lionel Chevrier, president of the St. Lawrence seaway authority, recently came to Montreal to tell residents what's being done—and what's contemplated—on matters causing concern here. Some of his points:

Port facilities: There is a substantial program under way for bettering them.

General effects: Montreal's position as a major trans-shipping point for waterborne commerce should be strengthened by the seaway.

Trans-river traffic: Facilities to be installed in conjunction with the seaway should leave this in better position than it is today.

Fresh-Water Sharks Found In Inland Lake

SYDNEY Australia (CP)—Fresh water sharks and huge sawfish have been discovered in a mountain lake 80 miles inland from Sydney and 20 miles inland in Dutch New Guinea.

The fisheries officer for the South Pacific commission, Hubertus van Pel, disclosed this when he arrived in Sydney from Biak.

Van Pel said the scientists caught the sharks and sawfish last month in a beautiful mountain lake called Sentani in the western part of the territory. They sent some of the smaller specimens to Holland for examination.

"The only explanation the Dutch scientists could give was that the lake, thousands of years ago, was fed from the sea at sea level," van Pel said. "Then a volcano eruption took the lake 300 feet up when the mountains rose above the sea. The change from salt to fresh water was so gradual that the sharks and other habitual sea fish became acclimatized."

ALUMINUM PRIME & STORM WINDOW DEALER WANTED IN THE BELLEVILLE AREA

TO HANDLE altex WINDOWS & DOORS

We require immediately an aluminum prime and storm window and door dealer for this area. Previous experience is preferable and a crew of installers and some salesmen are essential.

Exceptional wholesale prices, high quality of the product, ease of installation and low service requirements make this an unusually fine opportunity. In addition, the manufacturer will supply heavy advertising for your area without cost to you.

We will definitely start to market the self-storing Altex window and the door in this area this Spring, and application for the dealership should be made in writing, stating your previous experience, the approximate number of salesmen and installers you would have, and the area covered. Address your letter to Mr. I. S. Wallace, Vice-President Sales, as soon as possible, as we expect to award this dealership by March 25th.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There are no people like show people.

But they are generally easier to love at a distance than they are to like after you get to know them. Seen up close, it is often hard to glimpse the human being beneath the shining ego.

Gisele showed up in a fur coat for an interview at the F. J. Moriarty saloon on Sixth avenue. She is just over 5 feet 6, weighs 128 pounds, and has snapping dark brown eyes. Over a plate of corned beef hash I asked Gisele to tell me about herself.

"I'm from Winnipeg and my father is a doctor," she said, "I studied to be a concert violinist and became a singer by accident. Never did take a lesson.

"I'm mad about trees. I live near Central Park because I like to walk there with my two dachshunds.

"But I'd rather cook than do anything. I name my recipes after the friends who gave them to me.

"My own favorite is a compote, but it is made with vegetables instead of fruit, and I never tell anyone all the ingredients I put into it. But it has mushrooms, scallions, bacon, fresh tomatoes and all kinds of herbs.

"I've made about 36 records—My latest is an album of French nursery songs I learned as a child —but I've never had a really big hit. Sure I'd love to be in a Broadway show, but only a rich man's daughter can wait around for the right part.

"But I'm happy with what I'm doing now. I love living and I believe in happiness. But real happiness consist in liking what you get as much as getting what you like."

"What am I afraid of? Oh, spiders and all crawly things. But most of all I'm afraid of making a mistake while singing a lyric with about 30,000,000 people watching. I don't sleep much the night before a show.

"My hobbies are movies, TV and perfume. I spend four nights at home watching television and answering fan mail. I've learned to both laugh and cry at the same time, but sometimes I get the plot I'm watching mixed up in the letter I'm writing.

"I keep about 14 kinds of perfume and douse myself with it before I fall asleep. When I get tired of several kinds of scents, I mix them all up and make a new one. My favorite right now is one called Vent Vert, or 'Green Wind.' It makes me feel like a Christmas tree.

She smelled like one, too, a nice clean spruce odor. And that's what Gisele has herself—a fresh forest nest.

Sunday School Lesson:

Pretension Ruins Any Prayer

By ROY L. SMITH

True praying is the most sublime experience through which any soul ever passes. For a man to hold a conversation with God is the supreme achievement of human personality.

This means, of course, that much which goes by the name of prayer is not prayer at all. All too much of it is nothing better than pious acting.

SHOWMANSHIP PRAYER

The Jews of Jesus' day were expected to engage in prayer three times a day. Certain individuals, anxious to impress their neighbors with their piety, would contrive to be at some prominent street corner when the hour of prayer was sounded, in order that their praying might become a matter of feverish comment among their fellows. At times they might stand at a corner, in the pose of prayer, for as much as three hours.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for March 13: "Prayer" is in The Christian's Task; Matthew 6:5-15; 7:7-11; Mark 9:14-29; Luke 18:9-14; John 14:13-14; James 5:13-18; I John 5:14-15.

In contrast to all this Jesus urged his hearers to stand guard against any such temptation, and instead to go into a prayer closet where they would not pretend, even in secret, to impress God with themselves, their conscience, and the all-seeing eye of God, let them be equally honest.

Of course there is a place in modern life for public prayer, but any public praying will depend for its effectiveness on private prayer in which there has been a complete absence of pretense.

In our Scripture readings we come upon a second principle of prayer which is of equal importance.

All of life is a prayer, and the dominant desire of our heart is the dominant prayer we offer.

All of us have hear (and some of us have also prayed that way) the person whose prayers have asked for one thing and all of whose life's efforts have been a seeking after something entirely different. There is, for example, the man who prays "Thy kingdom come on earth" and then drop a nickle into the collection to help pay the freight!

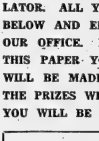
Jesus once said "the measure you give is the measure you get," but in this Scripture He says "seek and you will find," and He might have added, "you will find what you are really seeking."

It becomes the first responsibility of every Christian, therefore, to bring his labors into line with his prayers.

EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE

A very great many prayers sound very much as if they were intended as instructions for the guidance of God. As if our limited wisdom were needed by the Almighty!

He who is truly a man of faith does not presume to make God's decisions for Him, nor does he attempt to dictate the judgments of the Most High. Instead, he trusts!



"Don't ask God to take away the pain," said a wise and devout woman to her pastor, as he stood by her bedside at the hospital, only 30 minutes removed from the operating table.

"I know that nothing can stop the pain, but I am quite sure that my heavenly Father is trying to make something out of me, and is using pain to do it. Therefore ask Him to show me what it is, and promise Him that as soon as I can understand I will cooperate with Him."

OSSBA BASKETBALL

Thirty-two basketball teams of the OSSBA converge on Toronto tomorrow for the annual hoop championship tournament. The Bay of Quinte district, which produced a junior "A" champion last season will be well represented with five teams: Quinte Secondary, Belleville Collegiate (junior "A" and senior); Albert College (senior "B"), last year's runner-up, and Trenton High School (girls' senior "B"). Last year Niagara Falls, Belleville, and Welland with two titles were the champions. The Trenton girls' team won the senior "B" title.

Belleville juniors meet the Oshawa youngsters at one p.m. with the school's seniors clashing with the Peterborough C.I. at four o'clock in the "A" series.

Quinte Secondary School meets Port Perry at one o'clock in the junior "B" semi-finals with the winners meeting Notre Dame or Gravenhurst in the finals. Albert College meets Port Perry at four in the senior "B" semi-final with the winner taking on either Huntsville or Notre Dame for the title.

ONE MORE!

One game away from the group finals.

That's where the Memos found themselves last night after another blistering overtime session with the stubborn Cornwall Colts. The Bouchermen can wrap it up tonight with a win and some 2,000 fans or more should be on hand to cheer the gang to victory.

The Memos never looked better defensively and at the same time took the fullest advantage of anything that came their way. Manager Bruce Smith never cut another Cornwall bruiser and it is quite likely the Cornwall arena management will send him a bill for worn-out equipment.

Keith MacDonald, Prince Edward's gift to the Memos, was the hero of the piece. Not only did he come up with another of his consistent, hard-working games, but he banged home the winner almost midway through the time-and-a-half period. The Cornwall goalie-cut strategy did not pay off with a minute to go. Ted DeGrey and Rob Macey dug the puck out from a mandrown of players and flipped it to waiting Erwin Duncan. The twin raced to the Cornwall blueline and fired his sights on the goal with 40 seconds to go. The puck slightered down the ice and the crowd of 1500 held its breath. The rubber hit a post, but as city editor Claude Tice remarks, it had the proper "English" and twisted into the net. Manager Smith hurled that worn-out Cornwall whisk high in the air with a wild war whoop of victory.

The Memos played all-round fine hockey with Tony Parisi again coming up with a brilliant effort between the pipes. The gang stopped most of the savage Cornwall offensives almost before they got started and they skated at a fiery rate of speed going both ways.

So tonight might tell the story. These Colts have their backs to the wall and they will be a savage, hard-fighting crew when they step on the ice in the sixth game of the series. If they win the seventh and deciding fray will be played in Cornwall on Sunday afternoon.

WILL MARK THE FIRST TIME

If players from the Montreal Canadiens hold down the top four places in the National Hockey League individual scoring parade at the end of this season, it will mark the first time in history that this has happened.

Three times in the past the top three positions have been held down by members of the same team, but never has it occupied the four top spots. Boston Bruins' famed Kraut Line finished one-two-three in 1939-40. Milt Schmidt won the scoring title with 52 points, and Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer were next with 43 points each. Montreal's ace Punch Line of Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard and Toe Blake finished in that order in the individual scoring race in 1944-45. Lach had 80 points, Richard 72 and Blake 67. Detroit's great trio of Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Gordie Howe, known as the Production Line, ended the 1949-50 season in that order. Lindsay won the Art Ross Trophy with 78 points, Abel was runner-up with 69 and Howe had 68.

The four Canadien players, Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard, Boom Boom Geoffrion and Bert Olmstead, have occupied the top four notches on the scoring ladder for most of the 1954-55 season. George (Red) Sullivan of Chicago, Sid Smith of Toronto and Gordie Howe of Detroit are the players with the best chance of spoiling the Montreal quartet's chances of ending up one-two-three-four.

By The Canadian Press

There's something about Toronto Maple Leafs that Montreal Canadiens don't like. They call it defensive hockey.

Canadiens, particularly coach Dick Irvin, aren't eager to meet Leafs in the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs. Leafs, they figure, play every game close to the vest; the style most teams save for tight playoff games.

Leafs Thursday night didn't help ease any worries Canadiens might have, leading the league-leading Montrealers to a 0-0 deadlock before 14,332 fans at Montreal. The scoreless tie, a rarity in the game, was the second of the season for Toronto.

The deadlock, coupled with Chicago Black Hawks' 3-2 victory over Boston Bruins in the only other engagement of the night, stretched Leafs' lead for third place. They lead Bruins by three points. Unless the unexpected happens the Leafs and Canadiens should end up meeting each other in the post-season semi-finals.

FOUR POINTS UP

Goaltender Harry Lumley of the Leafs scored his seventh shutout of the season and moved closer to the Vezina Trophy in his battle with Detroit's Terry Sawchuk. He has been scored on 134 times and has a two-goal edge on Terry. Red Wings, however, have played one game less than Toronto.

Lumley topped 15 Montreal shots, eight in the second period. He had to handle only two in the first session. Netminder Jacques Plante kicked out 36 Toronto drives, 13 in the final period.

At Boston, Red Sullivan contributed a goal and two assists as the haunting Hawks beat Bruins for their 12th victory in 65 games. Eddie Litzenberger and Harry Watson scored the other Chicago goals. Ed Sandford and Real Chevrefils tallied for Bruins.

The slim crowd of 6,573 watched Boston goaltender Jim Henry stop 30 New York shots. Al Rollins, for the Chicago cage, was one goal busier.

Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

George Sullivan, crafty centre of the last-place Chicago Black Hawks, picked up a goal and two assists Thursday night to break Montreal's monopoly on the top four places in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Sullivan's outburst moved him into fourth place with 58 points, one more than Bert Olmstead of the Canadiens. All the Montreal snipers remained stationary in the standings as the Canadiens and Toronto played to a 0-0 tie.

Yankees Suffer One-Hit Shutout; Indians Win

By The Canadian Press

New York Yankees suffered an ignominious one-hit shutout and Cleveland Indians cruised their way to a 9-7 victory as major league baseball clubs opened their spring exhibition schedule Thursday.

Bullet Bob Turley, the Yanks' highly prized pitching acquisition from Baltimore Orioles, proved a better friend to St. Louis Cardinals in his first outing as the National League's pounded the big right-hander for eight hits and all their runs in the first three innings for a 7-0 victory. The yanks only hit five balls out of the infield in the game at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Shortstop Dick Groat, newly released from the army, clouted home rookie pitcher Dick Garber in the 10th inning at Fort Myers, Fla., to give Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-8 edge over Kansas City.

Ted Lepcio had three hits including a home run as Boston Red Sox trimmed Washington Senators 6-3 at Sarasota, Fla.

At Clearwater, Fla., Willie Jones doubled with two on base to lead in the eighth inning to give Philadelphia Phillies a 4-2 victory over Detroit Tigers.

Harry Griffiths Will Succeed Obeck at McGill

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, announced Thursday that Harry Griffiths of Toronto has been appointed McGill athletic director.

Griffiths will succeed Vic Obeck who resigned, effective with the expiration of the current school year, when he became a vice-president of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union.

Griffiths has been manager of Varsity Stadium in Toronto and has looked after preparations at the stadium for the annual Grey Cup game.

Marv Edwards, TeePees Goalie, Has Chickenpox

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Marv Edwards, St. Catharines TeePees goalie who helped them win the Memorial Cup last year, went down with chicken pox Thursday. He may be out of action several weeks.

He'll miss the opening games of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final series between the Teeps and the winner of the Toronto Marlboro-Guelph Biltmores semi-final.

Coach Rudy Pilous said he will ask the OHA council to let St. Catharines have Dennis Riggin, the goalie he had travelled hockey player of the season, to replace Edwards.

STARTED WITH HAMILTON

Riggin started the season with Hamilton, but joined Toronto St. Michael's for two games when Gerry Mehalchuk was injured in an automobile accident.

Wednesday night Riggin played two periods of each goal when they beat Guelph 4-3 to take a 3-0 lead in the series. Riggin filled in for Johnny Albani of Marlboros who started the series Tuesday night. Albani is quarantined for two weeks with measles.

"We'll ask Riggin and let him go to the highest bidder," Pilous said Thursday.

This is Riggin's season to the OHA. They turned down the junior A recommendation that teams carry two goalkeepers and stop this borrowing.

Skiing Good In Most Centres This Week-end

TORONTO (CP) — The outlook for skiers this weekend is good with most centres runing tows and some providing lights for night skiing.

Tows will be operating at all centres except Gravenhurst and Owen Sound. There is no skiing at Bolton, Caledon Springs, Kichener or Newmarket.

Excellent conditions are reported at Barrie, Hardcastle, Halleybury, Huntsville, Kirkland Lake, Larder Lake, Sinclair town Cobourg, Sudbury Levak and Sundridge.

Skiing is reported good at Bracebridge, Cobourg, Collingwood, North Bay, Owen Sound and from fair to good at Barrie and Toronto Summit.

Only fair skiing is reported for Gravenhurst, Peterborough, Bethany, Oshawa (Ritey) and Orangeville Hockey. Conditions are poor at Dagmar (Glen Major) and Midland.

Unbeaten Ryff Fights Perez

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Frankie Ryff, regarded as one of the best lightweight prospects in years, reaches a crossroad in his career against Fanny Jo Perez tonight.

Making his first start since he suffered severe cuts over his eyes in outpointing Orlando Zulueta last September, Ryff's performance against his New York rival will be watched closely. If the wounds are reopened, demonstrating that he cuts easily, it may be that his fistic future will be dim.

Nevertheless the 23 - year - old Franklin, the 1956 rookie of the year, is rated a 5-to-2 favorite for the televised 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Ontario Colts' Championship To Galt Rink

TORONTO (CP) — Dave Thomson's Galt rink won the Ontario Colts' curling championship here Thursday by defeating Paul Keith of Sarnia 12-6 in the final but the Galt rink had its toughest time earlier in the final.

The victory was the third for Galt in the last four years and gave that city an impressive record in the competition, first held 12 years ago.

Thomson won three consecutive victories in Thursday's play. He defeated Tony Jourdain's Toronto rink 10-9 in the quarter-final and eliminated Keith Jewitt of Uniondale 11-7 in the semi-final. The quarter-final against Jourdain was Thomson's toughest game and the Galt quartet needed an extra end for the victory.

St. Catharines defeated Jack Miller of Sarnia 11-9 in the semi-final. It whipped Gordon Whelan's Guelph group 13-6 in the quarter-final. The consolation event was taken by J. Eccles' Guelph rink which defeated J. A. Harrison of Deep River, Ont., 13-8 in the final.

Memos Whip Cornwall 4-2 In Overtime; Game Away From Group Finals

MacDonald Gets Glory Goal Midway Through Extra Period; Could Wrap It Up Tonight

(By C. D. T.)

On top again, one game away from winning the semi-final series with the Cornwall Colts and enjoying the privilege of playing the next game on home ice.

That is the position the Belleville Memos find themselves in today after dropping into the Canal Town last night and defeating the Cornwall Colts 4-2 in ten minutes of overtime in as game a display as anyone would wish to see.

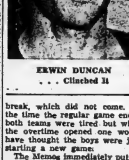
The Memos fought from behind a 1-0 deficit in the first frame being distinctly outplayed except for a couple of flurries, whittled the opposition down to their size in the second heat and came out of it leading by 2-1. The third frame was even, although the Colts managed to knot the count with only about four minutes to play, but in the overtime period after another four minutes had ticked by Keith MacDonald roared in on a pass from Edwin Duncan and it was all over but the cheering. To make the count stand Erwin Duncan scored in an empty net and that was the ball game.

Some 1,500 fans could not believe it. Long after the game was over they sat there dumbfounded in their seats wondering what had happened to their beloved Colts. The Memos put on a terrific display of checking and this was backed, by the sensational work of Parish in the twine. He kicked them out, he threw them out, and he smothered the close-in drives and he had the Colts playing their heads in a knot. Only the Memos were outshot 18 to 4 in the first period, had an edge of 8-6 in the second frame, 7-6 in the third stanza and two to two in the overtime.

Do not run away with the idea that Parish sat at the door and was not doing his bit to hold his team up. He thwarted two in the first frame that were right in the way and in the second and third when the Memos got the breaks, he was sure, he stood between his team and a double number score.

PUEL GOALIE

When the P. A. announcer informed the crowd that his game was in the last minute of play, Coach Mario pulled Piquette out of the nets as a forward to help the Belleville zone. Somehow the puck was dug out of the Memos' zone by DeGray and Macey and Erwin Duncan being in the stands the rubber was handed to him and goalward the puck started. It hit the post and had the right English on it and in it went and that was the ballgame. It tired but happy bunch of boys trooped into the dressing room. The game was exceptionally clean considering all that depended on it. The Memos collected five minors to only one for the opposition. Morris and Edwin Duncan were sent off together in the first for roughing and Doran got one for slashing near the end of the frame. Davis Jones went away for boarding at 2.01 and Macey for high sticking following him 23 seconds later for tripping.



The game was practically won at this point. Macey, Peter Jones and Noel Doran kept the Colts checking barrage, that the Colts never did get organized and the double penalty situation without any harm being done. Dugan received a penalty for using his arm on the ice when a change was being made on the fly but the third period and the overtime stanza were played without a penalty being called. The ice got slow and water appeared about midway of the second frame. It was bumpy and the puck did a lot of hopping around as much in fact the first goal that Colts got was of the the fluky variety. It was shot almost opposite the twine and took a crazy hop into the mesh as it was going by. It would be quite unfair to pick out any heroes because every man played his heart out.

The team has courage, the will to win and with the way they tied the game up in the second period after Belmore threw Henri and Morris had given the Colts a lead in the first. The redhead tested him once and the rubber slithered to the back of the twine. Arne Dupuis picked it up and laid out a perfect pass and Mr. Dornn made no mistake. After twelve minutes of no goals Jack Macey and Muckler got a breakaway with Edwin Duncan and when it reached the blue line, he drove a hard shot. Piquette had the shot well covered but it was just over to the other side of the net made his move and the rubber nestled in the twine.

The Colts put on a sustained gangling attack during the third period but the Memos play-ed it in the safety first manner and did all the skating and the Memos did all the dumping of the rubber outside the blueline, but after fifteen minutes of this play Henri scored on a pass from Coach Mario tied the game up. Tony made one play on it but they were in the zone and finally belted the rubber home. The play slowed down from the fast tempo with the Colts hoping for a tie and the Memos playing for the break, which did not come. By the time the regular game ended both teams were tired but when the overtime opened one would have thought the boys were just starting with new gusto.

The Memos immediately put on the pressure and surely but slowly they drove the Colts back on their heels and when Macey received the puck, he laid over a pass to Edwin Duncan, which was returned. All the time both boys were sailing with one defenceman draped around MacDonald but he took a chance and the puck managed to roll to the back of the net. It is too bad all fans cannot be on the backskipping not there to see he backskipping and congratulations that were handled among the players. They simply went wild.

Fans Offer Big Prizes to View Curling Match

REGINA (CP)—The Regina Exhibition Stadium Thursday night was a scene of squirming confusion as curling fans jammed against the doors waiting to see the big ninth-round match between the two remaining undefeated rinks in the Canadian curling championship, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Saskatchewan won it 8-6.

Some of the crowd never left the stadium after the morning's seventh round. Hundreds sat around on any bench or wooden box they could find, munching sandwiches.

One person among the approximate 2,000 lined up outside the stadium 1½ hours before the game offered $15 for a ticket and was willing to pay $150 for 10 if he could get them. Tickets were worth 50 cents if bought in a book and $1 at the door.

Sask. Has Chance to Win Curling Trophy for First Time in 26 Years

By WILF CHESLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — A nerveless little skip—and a dry draw game—was a scant game away from the Canadian curling championship today.

Garnet Campbell, youngest and smallest of the three-a-side curling brothers, could give Saskatchewan its first title in 26 years by trying by winning his last match in the 10th round.

His Avonlea rink was the only undefeated Thursday night after nine rounds of play, defeating unbeaten Manitoba in a bitter duel of draw that had everything.

The victor gave Saskatchewan nine straight wins. Manitoba going into the 10th round today had seven wins and a single loss.

Saskatchewan could win the title on the 10th round if it could get by Northern Ontario. Even if Northern Ontario won, Saskatchewan was assured of a first-place tie with Manitoba, providing Manitoba won its remaining two games. Saskatchewan had an 11th-round bye.

An extra match was scheduled for tonight in event of a tie.

Sentimental favorites, the Campbells dabbled a strongly partisan crowd with their excellence of play in beating back Manitoba, a rink determined to win its province's 15th championship.

Just about all of the 345 population of Avonlea, a town of 300 miles southwest of Regina and home of 350 Saskatchewans, travelled to Regina after a special holiday was declared. They were not disappointed.

The Campbells led 7-4 after 10 ends of play to tight that their rocks on two ends had to be measured. Roy Forsyth of Manitoba reached to lead to 7-6 on the 11th end with a tremendous double take-out on last rock. But the two counters deprived him of last rock on the all-important 12th end and it was a single to tie. Garnet Campbell's last rock was a light knocker which nudged Manitoba stone off the button and stayed in for a single point.

Completion of the ninth round saw Northern Ontario and Ontario lead each in third place with five wins and three losses, out of the running with two games to play. British Columbia and Prince Edward Island were tied for fourth place with four wins and four losses apiece. Trailing by Alberta with four wins and five defeats, Nova Scotia with three wins and five losses and Newfoundland and Quebec, each with one victory in eight games.

In other ninth-round matches, British Columbia squeezed by Quebec 10-9 in a 13-end game, Prince Edward Island defeated Nova Scotia 11-8, Alberta downed New Brunswick 12-6 and Ontario trounced Newfoundland 20-5. Northern Ontario had a bye on the round.

Saskatchewan whipped Ontario 7-7 Thursday in the eighth round. Manitoba had a tight game with Prince Edward Island, 9-7. Alberta defeated Quebec 17-8 and Newfoundland lost 10-7 to Nova Scotia. New Brunswick had a bye.

Record crowd was showing at the Exhibition Stadium two hours before the ninth round. Attendance reached 3,000 with one round to go, more than 9,000 above the record set in Edmonton last year for 11 rounds.

Manitoba met Newfoundland in the 10th round today and was in line up against P.E.I., in the final round Saturday. Top matchups were B.C. and New Brunswick, Ontario and P.E.I., and Quebec and Saskatchewan, all had a bye.

In a tight eighth-round match, Ray Steski's Northern Ontario rink tied Roy Forsyth of Manitoba 4-4 on the seventh end. Forsyth got down on the eighth and both counted three more singles to Steski's one for the win. The biggest end in the match was a two scored by Forsyth on the third.

Steski was in front 3-0 after the third but Steski drew in for one with last rock. Forsyth had a straight take-out in the 11th. Forsyth had one in the house in the 12th but Steski missed it with his last rock.

Winnipeg Turns to Professional Hockey to Gain Support of Fans

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg is turning to professional hockey again in an effort to regain the interest of fans who have turned cool to the sport in recent years.

Backed by local executive men Draper Perrin, 65, and son, John Jr., a Winnipeg club — still unnamed — will enter the senior Canpro Western Hockey League for 1955-56.

Winnipeg, once the hotbed of hockey, has not had a professional team since it withdrew from the old American Hockey Association in 1928. It will have full voting power at the annual meeting of the WHL. The new club will make the league an even dozen, matching the other teams from Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and Regina. The last-named club was accepted last summer to fill the 1955-56 gap.

The Winnipeg club, with Mr. Perrin as president and as soon as vice-president and general manager, has agreed with Winnipeg Enterprises Corporation Ltd. to lease new 9,000-seat arena costing $2,000,000 which will be completed early next fall. It will complete $,000-seat Amphitheatre rink.

All these moves mean the former National Hockey League player and senior coach will be back in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A. will coach the new club. Pike was recently released in hockey after his suspension midway through the 1953-54 season by Commissioner Hugh Baltmores from the ice during a game.

The Winnipeg club has no working agreement with an NHL club. Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, was here recently to discuss the possibility of sponsorship but the Winnipeg club mentioned as possible sponsors Detroit Red Wings, Toronto and New York Rangers.

Hockey has been in the doldrums in Winnipeg since the late 1940s. The city hasn't had a Canadian championship team since the Falcons arcna won the Memorial Cup in 1946. Winnipeg Monarchs won it in 1931 and went on to take the Olympic title the following year.

Prior to the Falcons' victory other clubs in the Manitoba leagues were champions of the province and senior titles every year. Between 1919 and 1946, teams from the MJHL won the Abbott Memorial Cup 10 times—seven times from 1935 to 1946, between 1924 and 1931, Manitoba teams won the Allan Cup eight times.

In the mid-1920s, Winnipeg supported four good leagues—professional, senior, junior and intercollegiate — and through the

Eskys Willing To Play Als In West

EDMONTON (CP)—Al Anderson of Anderson & Eskimos' business manager, said Thursday that the Western Interprovincial Football Union club is willing to meet Montreal Alouettes in a pre-season game but Montreal must come to Edmonton.

Anderson said in an interview that Eskimos, who travelled to eastern Canada last season and played three pre-season exhibition games, do not want to travel this season.

He was commenting on a statement by Vic Obeck, Montreal Alouettes' president, that the Eskimos refused to play a pre-season exhibition game in Montreal.

The teams met in the Grey Cup final last fall and Edmonton won 26-25.

British Boxing Board Claims Cohen Is Champ

LONDON (AP) — Teddy Waldman, secretary of the British Boxing board of control, said Thursday it would be "ridiculous to recognize Dado Marcel Cerdan's little Mouse of Mexico"—as the reigning world bantamweight champion.

Macias stopped Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand in the 11th round of a scheduled 12-rounder at the Empress Auditorium last night.

The fight was styled a world championship bout by the American boxing writers' association, the commission and the European Union does not agree that the bout is a world championship," Waldman said. "Robert Cohen is the undisputed holder of the official world title."

The NBA deprived Cohen of his title in January on the grounds he had failed to defend it within 90 days. Cohen, claiming a technicality law, hopes to return to the ring in May.

The NBA asked the California athletic commission Thursday to "reconsider" its previous ruling and accord Macias "his proper recognition as world bantamweight champion. The California commission refused to recognize the fight as title bout for the NBA. present its championship belt in the ring.)

Hershey Bears Knocked Off By Barons 6-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The playoff chances of the Hershey Bears in the American Hockey League were in jeopardy today as the result of a 6-2 defeat by the Cleveland Barons.

The Barons' triumph Thursday night lifted them into a tie for the fourth and last playoff spot with the Buffalo Bisons and dropped the Bears to fifth. Two points separate the Bisons and Barons from Hershey.

Buffalo also lost a good chance to pick up ground by dropping a 7-4 decision to the Providence Reds. Providence is the only team definitely out of the running for the Calder Cup playoffs.

Jack Gordon scored twice in the first period for Cleveland and the Barons never were headed as they registered again in the second and three times in the third.

The Reds trailed the Bisons 3-0 in the first period but rallied to chalk up one goal before the end of the session and then added three in each of the last two.

Gertrude Berg and Ted Mack Planning to Return to Air

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Two real veterans of radio and television, Gertrude Berg and Ted Mack, are planning comebacks to the air after absences of several months.

Mrs. Berg starts work today on a TV film version of her famous show, the Goldbergs which began on radio a quarter century ago. Ted Mack, of Amateur Hour fame, launches a new afternoon program on NBC-TV April 4.

In the new film version the lovable Mollie Goldberg and her brood will move from their flat in the Bronx to a mythical small town named Haverville.

Mollie's tribulations and triumphs were described in the past to her own family and neighbors in her apartment house. In the film she will move out into community activities. Release is expected by early fall.

Mack will have a show entirely different from his original Amateur Hour with which he has been associated since soon after it was started on the air by the late Major Edward Bowes 21 years ago. His show Monday through Friday days will spotlight unrecognized professional talent, and will include interviews and other features.

To make room for Mack's ew afternoon show, NBC is dropping two soap operas—"Golden Windows" and "One Man's Family."

The rising costs of TV and increasing competition among networks appear to be giving some sponsors the jitters. Few shows now on the air are secure and many are unsure of their sponsorship or of staying on at all.

The decision by Philip Morris to withdraw sponsorship of "I Love Lucy" and shift more of its money to spot and magazine advertising follows a somewhat similar move by Doeskin Products. The latter company dropped a participating sponsorship on the day-time show, Lewis TV quiz show and switched to a daily NBC radio program featuring Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

Lions, Cardinals Demand Meeting Of NFL Executive

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Thursday he probably will call a special meeting of the league's executive committee at the end of March in New York at the request of the Detroit Lions and Chicago Cardinals.

Bell said he had received telegrams from both the Lions and the Cardinals requesting the special get-together. The Lions want further discussion of the Canadian raiding problem and the Cardinals object to the 1955 NFL schedule as drawn up by Bell.

While Bell wouldn't say so, it was reported reliably that the Lions are up in arms about the commissioner's refusal to approve a contract with Gordon Malloy, former University of Miami halfback.

Malloy was signed by the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Big Four and given a bonus and later signed by the Lions who said Malloy changed his mind about playing in Canada. The Lions forwarded the Malloy contract to the league office here and Bell refused to approve it.

The commissioner said Thursday he believed Montreal had prior right to Malloy since the Canadian team signed the Miami player first. He asserted that if the NFL wanted trade with the Canadian league "it had to act properly."

The Kibitzer

Your bifocals will not help you see your partner's hidden hand in bridge. You get a mental picture of his cards by the bids that he makes in co-operation with what you have told him.

Hold the north hand shown here:

♠ 8 6 5 3
♥ A Q 7 5
♦ J 8 5

Suppose the bidding starts off like this:

South	North
1 Club	1 Heart
2 No-trump

What do you see in the hand your south partner holds? What is he asking you to do about it? What should you do about it with the hand you have? See what the bids mean and you will know.

Your first response at one heart is correct. It is a promise of a biddable heart suit in a hand containing three tricks of which two are high cards. If you have more, partner does not yet know it.

Therefore, his second round jump is based on the minimum shown by you so far. It is a promise that he already sees game in no-trump. Therefore, he shows you seven high cards to make nine with your two.

He did not bid another suit or rebid clubs. Nor did he assist your hearts. So you may assume he has a balanced hand that is made up mostly with big picture cards and not really short suit.

His jump is a signal that the bidding must not stop short of a game in something. Even if you have nothing more you must keep the bidding alive. Having nothing more you must bid three no-trump.

Your three no-trump bid does not promise anything. Your first bid did. But your second bid was simply compliance of his request that you help him out to at least a game.

Will partner get the strong impression of your three no-trump bid? Not if he knows what is good for him.

'Y' Basketball

Last night in the Y.M.C.A. Gym coach Larry Buck's "Y" team defeated an outstanding basketball team from the "Y" in Kingston by a score of 106 to 88.

At half time Belleville led by a score of 45 to 41. Bachelor, Parkhurst, and Mathews were the high scorers. For Kingston Connolly, Hyndman and Nesmith played well.

During the second half Belleville took a commanding lead with Batchelor and Parkhurst again top scorers. Nesmith played a splendid game for the underdogs in the last half.

Belleville — Harris 2, Craig 3, Parkhurst 22, Batchelor 34, Dickey 2, Smith, Ablardo 4, Kane 5, Mathews 17, Bovay 11.

Kingston — Connolly 24, Flynn 2, Hyndman 8, Randall 10, Nesmith 28, Carswell 7, Sturgess, Lisson 8.

Referee: Don Dolan.

U.S. Air Force Cadets Will Not Be Wearing Togas or Armor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cadets of the new U.S. Air Force Academy can relax. They won't be wearing togas or armor, even though Cecil B. DeMille is designing their uniforms.

This I ascertained from a talk with the pioneer film-maker in his office. The place was filled with paintings of uniforms from past pictures like "Samson and Delilah" and his future and most costly epic, "The Ten Commandments."

The producer-director showed off a handsome painting of an Egyptian lii battle uniform.

"Now this is what the Pharaoh wore and what we will produce for the picture," he remarked. "Notice how the wings envelope the chest, forming a protective armor for him. This is perhaps the first use of wings on a uniform."

WELL-DRESSED AIRMEN

He added with a sly smile: "But that isn't the kind of thing we will design for the air academy."

Last month, Lt. - Gen. Hubert Harmon, superintendent of the new academy near Colorado Springs, Colo., announced DeMille would design uniforms for the cadets.

"Our men will be the best dressed and sharpest-looking men ever to be in the uniform of the U.S. military service," Gen. Harmon said.

Design of the uniforms is still a military secret. DeMille has assigned four of his experts to work on the details. All are service veterans. DeMille will combine their efforts and present the finished product for the approval of air force brass.

KANE'S FILME GETS BIGGEST SHARE OF BRITISH "OSCARS"

Founded in 1946, The British Film Academy has one of it's objects; " . . . to make annual awards in all fields of film-making." This is one of the many worthy tasks the Academy has undertaken since its instigation with notable success.

This year's honored selections have just been announced, and as on many previous occasions, films made under the J. Arthur Rank banner have swept the board. The award for best actor goes to Kenneth More for his fine comedy role in "Doctor in the House." "Chance Meeting" soon to be released in Canada, nets two; best screen play and personal award to David Kossof as the most promising newcomer. Best film goes to "Wages of Fear", shortly to be seen in this country.

The film with the best crop of current kudos is the year's surprise sensation, "The Divided Heart." This has the best actress Yvonne Mitchell as well as the best foreign actress, Cornell Borchers. In addition "The Divided Heart" gains th e United Nations award, which is given each year to the film best illustrating the principles of the United Nations Charter.

Watch for these great motion pictures at The McCarthy theatre soon., They are sincerely recommended as first rate entertainment.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, March 12, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Pause, get your bearings, don't rush into the unknown without sufficient study. Be careful in money matters, tactful in domestic affairs.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—"Thumbs down" on both over-confidence and indifference. Speed up only on matters that offer benefits, moral advantages. Plan well before acting.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—It is ill-advised to try and buck all prevailing conditions. Some changes are necessary. You will have to yield in places; it's all in the lifetime. Take time out to consult elders, those more experienced than yourself.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Configurations indicate some unexpected chances for gains, so be on the lookout. Certain situations may not be too encouraging, but forget little personal differences for the good of all. Head up!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—A different sort of day for you for a change. Marked possibilities for fresh advances in business, finances, important undertakings. Take advantage while you may. Be above the petty.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Approach your day with high hopes. Be enthusiastic in all worthy activities. The influences are especially suited to the keen, sound thinking Virgoan. Keep humor high.

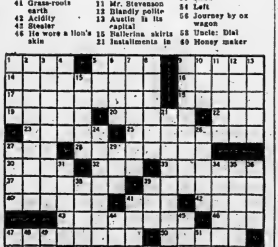
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Unexpected happenings; news that may lead to big advantages and better returns from efforts. Take all wisely, don't force or over-do. Be content with the reasonable; rest some.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Some influences uncertain. A necessary change of plans could tangle your nerves if you permit. Seek to attain without strain; use your natural gift of philosophy and achieve high goals.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Obstacles likely through one thing or another. Do not offset good judgement by hasty deductions or thinking acts. Keep on the right road for lasting gains.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Broad leeway in which to work now. Be consistent and don't fuss over "little things" and you will have time to accomplish the worthwhile. P. M. favors personal matters.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Note Capricorn. Your day has the one "do's" and "don't's." Bolster your position with a heads-up attitude and a thorough study of facts. Every day brings new opportunities.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Are you apt to do your share cheerfully, like a true Piscean? Then expect grand benefits, take the initiative where you can; try the new. Achievements may surprise.

You born today are of a peaceful nature, often quiet; are sympathetic, yet also love fun and entertainment. You will not argue readily, but would rather reason things out. You love to read, gather knowledge. Your modest, unassuming character [illegible] sometimes hides your real progressiveness. You are trusting and trustworthy. In the Zodiacal Sign are found many able actors, teachers, nurses, judges. Don't overcriticize or fret over the faults of others. Birthdate of: Geo. Berkeley, noted Irish bishop, philosopher.

VICTORY CHEERS SOUND SWEET TO PREMIER HATOYAMA

Ichiro Hatoyama, who conducted a "grass roots" campaign during the recent election in Japan, smiles his satisfaction as he is cheered by his following in the Japanese parliament. His victory was overwhelming as his party captured 200 out of 327 seats in the lower house. Though his program calls for co-operation with the West, it also includes increased trade with China and Russia.—Central Press Canadian.

HELICOPTER CO-PILOT SAVES RCN FLIER FROM FIRE

Only a few minutes after an RCN flier had been rescued by a helicopter co-pilot from the wreckage of his crashed Sea Fury fighter, the wreckage exploded and burned. The rescue, one of the most unusual in RCN history, was effected by Lt. Douglas Muncaster of Montreal who jumped from the helicopter, hovering eight feet above the burning plane to extricate semi-conscious S/Lt. J. V. Searle of Woodstock, Ont. The Sea Fury had plunged into a woodlot two miles south of the naval air station at Dartmouth, N.S., imprisoning Searle in the plastic canopy which Muncaster had to break with a brick.—Central Press Canadian.

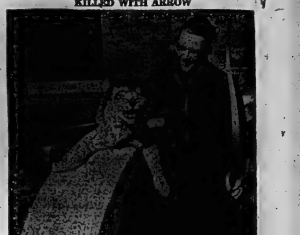
HEAVY PENALTIES

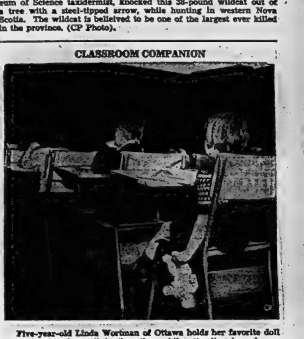
TRAPANI, Sicily (Reuters— Twenty-six persons threatened with heavy fines totalling more than $4,000,000 in value and 13 of them also received prison sentences totalling 18 years in a case in which 85 persons were accused of distilling or marketing illicit alcohol.

SAY MANTLE GYPPED



OKLAHOMA CITY (AP —A man police identify as a confidence man who sold baseball player Mickey Mantle $3,500 worth of shares in a worthless insurance venture was arrested on a downtown street corner Thursday. Authorities said the man, who calls himself Cleveland Roy Williams, was charged with forgery.

CHANCELLOR QUEEN



Queen Mother Elizabeth, wearing appropriate academic raiment, is shown after she was elected chancellor of London university at an extraordinary meeting of the convocation in the university's senate house. Hoisting the declaration of her election, Elizabeth succeeds the Earl of Athlone whose resignation was announced in January.—Central Press Canadian.

KILLED WITH ARROW

$11,000 NOSE BALM

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP- — A woman was awarded $11,000 Thursday on the claim she suffers mental anguish because she can no longer powder her nose. She said she broke her nose in an automobiles accident two years ago and cannot use cosmetics due to disfigurement. Judge Abraham S. Bogdon declared: "It is the prerogative of a woman to improve her appearance with cosmetics."

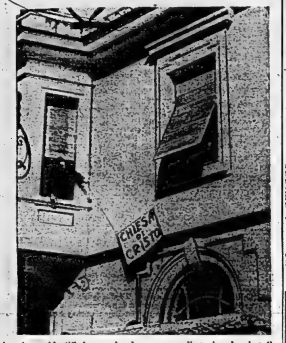
IT'S MYSTERIOUS EVEN TO EXPERTS

A U.S. senate committee, called for a "friendly" investigation of the stock market, has heard various experts offer various opinions. A few say there is danger of another crash such as happened in 1929. Most say there is no danger and the rising prices of the past year show public confidence in the U.S. economy. Harvard economist John R. Galbraith, left, said there was too much speculation and called for strong government curbs to prevent a bust. James E. Day, right, president of the Midwest exchange in Chicago, said that current market prices were not out of line with values though he thought that prices could drop. Most admitted they could not predict what the market would do. (Central Press Canadian Photo).

FLOODS MAKE OBSTACLE OF BRIDGE



A riverboat is stopped short at a bridge on flood-swollen Ohio as the river went on a spring rampage. Some 3,000 families were driven from their homes as the flood inundated streets and basements along the valley from Marietta to Cincinnati. The Red Cross met the threat by rushing disaster specialists into four states comprising the stricken area. (Central Press Canadian).

ROCKET MONKEYS STILL HEALTHY

Two monkeys used several years ago by the U. S. air force as passengers in a rocket test that carried them 100,000 feet into the upper stratosphere are given an annual physical check-up at the Washington zoo. Upon their return to earth after being subjected to strains 15 times above normal for their weight, the simians were retired and no ailments have been since recorded. (Central Press Canadian).

WIN RIGHT TO DISPLAY SIGN IN ROME

An unidentified man is shown suspending sign bearing the name "Chiesa di Cristo" (Church of Christ) between two windows of a Protestant church in Rome. Police have removed the sign several times although a predominantly Roman Catholic court in the city affirmed the right of the church to display it. One of the ministers of the church was arrested after one dispute with police over the sign. He was held for four hours and released. (Central Press Canadian).

DOG FAITHFUL TO END

AGNONE, Italy (Reuters — A dog was torn to pieces here saving its master from a huge wolf which attacked them on a mountain trial. The dog held off the wolf until his master, Donato Pannunzio, gained the shelter of his home 100 yards away.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma came in the living room carrying her black dress and saying to pop, William, I simply must go up the hem of this skirt so I can shorten it.

Well, if you feel it's your duty, don't let anything stand in your way, pop said, and ma said, The point is, it can't be pinned up properly unless someone is wearing it, and can't pin it up while I'm wearing it myself, and I dont think you could pin it up for me.

I should say not, I'd ruin the plez, pop said, and ma said, Then there's only one solution, you'll have to let me put the dress on you.

Hoh? Yee gods, pop said, and ma said, Now William, dont be silly.

Then dont make me look silly, pop said. Suppose somebody should come in and see me? he said, and ma said, Oh, I'll bolt the frunt door and lock all the windows, if that will give comfort to your peace of mind.

That wouldn't be enough, pop said. A bergler might brake in just the same, and he'd almost die laffing at me, and he'd tell the other berglers and they'd all come brake in on pleasure bent, and they'd steel everything in the place including that dress, so your whole idea would boomerang right back on you, he said, and ma said, Oh pitch a man. I think I'll put the dress on Benny. He can stand on the kitchen stool, she said.

Aw heck, ma, G roozaiem, the fellows would find it out, I said, and ma said, Now how would they for land'sakes?

Hectate ladies always tell each other everything they know, and the fellows would find it out from their mothers, I said. No sir, ma, nuthing doing, good night, I said. The result being ma is going to let some other lady pin it up on her.

CHILDREN DIE IN TUG

UXBRIDGE, Mass. (AP — Police said a 22-year-old mother Thursday night admitted drowning her two children in a bathtub because "the spirits told me God wanted them." The bodies of Robert. Demers, 4, and Patricia, 1, were found by neighbors after police said their mother, Mrs. Raymond Demers, ran into the street shouting that she had drowned them.

FRUIT MAY BE WASTED

LONDON (Reuters — Hundreds of tons of fresh fruit were in danger of rotting here today as a strike of market workers went into its third week at Covent Gardens, London's fruit and vegetable market.

Italians Give Final Approval To Paris Accords

Reds Riot in Rome Streets As Senate Votes Approval

ROME (AP)—Italy lined up today with West German rearmament as her Senate decisively approved the Paris accords over bitter Communist opposition.

After two weeks' heated debate climaxed by fist fights, the Senate approved the agreements Friday night by a vote of 139 to 82, making it the eighth of the 15 North Atlantic pact members to complete parliamentary action. Italy's lower house approved the pacts last December and they now await only the final signing by Italian President Einaudi.

Friday night's ballot came after six-hour session remarkable for its good order. But while the senators remained calm, Communist crowds surged through the Rome streets loudly protesting ratification.

ARREST 500

Riot police broke up one demonstration near the Senate building and headed off others in many parts of the city. More than 500 persons were taken into custody. In Milan, police fired warning shots. Red demonstrators were injured in a scuffle near the heart of town. Friday night, 10,000 police in the strongest approval Premier Mario Scelba has had in the Senate on a major bill since he took office 13 months ago.

ENDORSE MOVE

Parliamentary action on the pacts now has been completed in Iceland, Norway, Portugal and Turkey.

The lower houses of Parliament have voted approval in Belgium, France and West Germany, but the upper houses in those countries have yet to vote.

No parliamentary action has been taken in the other four, Denmark, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and the U.S.

Cabinet Ministers Deny Charges Of 'Patronage'

OTTAWA (CP) — Two cabinet ministers denied Friday, amid jeers from CCF members in the Commons, that there is any political significance behind the recent appointment of the son of ex-Saskatchewan Liberal to the board of grain commissioners.

The denial came from Trade Minister Howe and Agriculture Minister Gardiner in the face of renewed CCF criticism of the appointment as "political."

Mr. Hazen Hall was appointed Stanley Lopiston, 42, of Bredenbury, Sask., to the board last month after deciding he was the best man for the job.

He said he did not know until after he made this decision that Mr. Lopiston is the son of Assumder Lopiston, Assiniboia lawyer for the Liberals in the provincial House.

WAS SUGGESTED

Mr. Gardiner said Mr. Lopiston, Jr., was suggested for the post by the board of the United Grain Growers, pioneer farm organization in the West. He said Mr. Howe did not know the appointee came from his (Mr. Gardiner's) constituency.

The CCF critics, led by Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) were joined by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) who said the appointment cannot be considered before too much resemblance to a reward to the son for his father's political activities.

Mr. Howe said it is ridiculous to suggest that just "the fact the father is Liberal the son is, too, a Liberal supporter." He said promotions usually wound up with CCF government jobs in Saskatchewan.

"Let's not be too pure on matters of that kind," Mr. Howe said.

Replying to CCF charges that the commissioners are inefficient, Mr. Howe said: "I hope we have an inefficient board could have brought Canada the reputation for wheat now enjoys in world markets.

OPPOSE INCREASES

CCF members and Mr. Diefenbaker also strongly opposed government proposals to increase the annual salaries of the grain commissioners, though the salaries of three became heated, at one point only 28 opposition and 20 Liberal members were present. Only a CCF member House, Mr. Howe said it was being raised simply to bring the salaries in line with boosts granted members of other boards.

At the end of the debate, the Commons endorsed by a vote of 46 to 31 the government motion to introduce the legislation. The Social Credit group supported the government with the CCF and the Conservative Conservatives opposing the motion.

SERVED IN ONTARIO

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Rev. James P. Archibald, 70, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, died Friday, a native of Peterborough, Ont., he was ordained in 1923. Father McGuire had served in several Canadian centres and was chaplain of the military camp in Gravenhurst before coming here.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cooler air pushed down across Ontario during the night, and early morning temperatures ranged from a very cold 16 below at Moosonee to the mild 28s in southern Ontario. A new storm centre formed south of Lake Superior this morning with snow across northern Ontario during the day and by Sunday morning will lie east of Quebec City. Rain is going to bring milder temperatures throughout Ontario today accompanied by a few showers in southern districts, a mixture of rain, freezing rain and snow in the north central districts and snow in the north.

Colder air will push down across the province late tonight and early Sunday, bringing clearing but colder weather to the province.

Dozen Families Flee from Flood North of Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A dozen families abandoned their homes Friday as the Humber river flowed over its banks and flooded about 30 homes at Bolton, about 20 miles northwest of here.

By late Friday night ice jams had been cleared and the water began to recede, police said.

Heavy rains and rising temperatures which swept several thoughout southern Ontario Friday hastened the spring break-up and also caused flooding in the Don River area at suburban Churchville.

Bolton's business subdivision, a community of about 15 families, was still marooned Friday night, largely because of ice two inches on the streets in Bolton as the water ran over it.

STREET FLOODED

At Churchville, residents worked for two hours to build up an ice jam which flooded the main street with a foot of water.

At Galt, the Grand river also burst over its banks and flooded a number of streets but the trouble went out and the water receded.

Many homes were reported damaged at Bolton but there were no reports of casualties.

Townsend Ready to Accept Exile, If Necessary, With 'Certain Lady'

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Sydney Sun-Herald, in an exclusive world copyright staff correspondent's interview with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, quoted Townsend as saying in Brussels Friday night that "if a princess could demand my exile and that of a certain lady we should, of course, leave."

The newspaper says Townsend said: "Of course you understand, though, that I cannot say anything which would embarrass the princess or anyone in any way."

The mass - circulation Sunday newspaper says Townsend told its staff correspondent: "You must understand my part is loyalty to the Princess.

"I think my position should be known in the Commonwealth of nations. I want to get this whole business behind me for good and my self straightened out as far as I can. But I refuse to say pre-cisely what I will do or where I go this lady.

"I am hopelessly sick and tired of lurking around in my flat as if I am a criminal.

"I am not afraid to move for fear of cross-questioning. I kept to my flat because I am ill. Now I am opening it just a little."

The Sun-Herald correspondent in the Belgian Embassy Reception in the Bois de la Cambre, near his flat.

"As he talked it was patent that he wanted to say a good deal more than the time and again he stumbled in answering my direct questions," the correspondent says.

POWERS NEEDED NOW AS WHEN GRANTED—HOWE

Denies Charges Made By Conservatives

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Production Minister Howe says the powers given him to procure defence supplies and equipment are as necessary now as when they were granted in 1951.

He said in the Commons Friday that no industries have complained about the powers, which have been eliminated by the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Howe made his reply to a barrage of Conservative criticism of a proposal to continue the powers indefinitely. The government is seeking to delete a statutory provision setting the life of the defence production department in July, 1956.

Hazen Argue, Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) said there is no need for powers permitting expropriation and forced contracts. The government wanted to continue full wartime powers in a peacetime period.

CLAIMS FREEDOM THREAT

"There is no freedom left to business in Canada," he said as the provision remains on the statute book."Mr. Green said.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) said there is "no more room for dictatorial powers than there is for a cow to have two tails."

Mr. Howe said he had not had to use the powers available to him in the last year.

The former Second World War mobilization chief added that every one of the powers now being exercised at some time since he has been in charge of defence production. They had been requested because wartime experience showed they were needed to mobilize industry for war.

STILL NECESSARY

If the powers were necessary in 1951 when they were granted following the outbreak of the Korean war, "they are just as necessary today."

The work of the department was not diminishing. It now faced some of the most difficult problems in history—radar defence, aircraft production and guided missiles.

His powers to appoint a secretary to enable the department to act quickly in the defence materials, especially those in short supply. It was also necessary to have the power military force without the backing of a strong procurement organization.

Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) said his party does not share Progressive Conservative fears of dictatorial powers. It is adequately represented on the agency.

ARGUE EXPIRY REVIEW

Mr. Green said, however, that powers exist to control practically everything that is made in Canada. There should be a thorough review of the defence production act.

Whether or not the powers were used, Canada was under the department's thumb.

"Is business to be subject to possible dictation of this type?" he asked.

At one point, George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview) said the powers constitute a "whip over industry to the extent that the government could extract campaign funds.

Mr. Howe interrupted with a withdrawal and Mr. Hees replied his remarks did not mean he was suggesting one continued for that purpose. That was merely what the opposition feared the powers could do.

The Commons came to no decision on the point as it turned to motion preliminary to legislation extending the life of the defence production department.

Rookie Vancouver Policeman Wormed Way Into Drug Ring

VANCOUVER (CP) — The foundations of warring west coast narcotics syndicates were being rocked today by the confession of a man who posed as a hoodlum.

Constable Joe Haywood's testimony moved him into the shadow of possible vengeance but his chief jubilantly reported that the campaign against narcotics racketeers who have wrecked many lives has a bloodbath civil war was starting to break our way."

After the jubilant police finished magistrate, Thomas Dohm said:

"I wish all police had adequate precautions for the protection of this young man."

Haywood's testimony led to William (Bill the Painter) Semenick and Jack Leonard, Supreme Court trial on a charges of trafficking in drugs.

Two hours after the hearing Eddie Sherban, 23, was arrested 40 miles away at Hope, B.C., on a warrant charging that he attempted to murder Semenick in Stanley Park here last November. Semenick was wounded in the groin but refused to identify assailants.

Also charged with attempted murder in the case is Joe Marcoux, former hockey player from Cobalt, Ont. He was arrested in Toronto three weeks ago.

The court was told that Haywood, on the force only 15 months, worked undercover as Semenick's bodyguard and was at the meeting him as a hospital room guard.

Haywood, in his three hours of testimony, said he was informed that Jacob Leonhard, alias Jake Stone, was the head of one big narcotics syndicate in Vancouver. Last month Leonhard was severely injured in the bombing of his automobile. He is still in hospital, crippled for life. After a long silence he is reported to have told police "I'm ready to co-operate."

Haywood testified that Semenick told him another narcotics faction had been led by Danny Brent, drinking club waiter slain Sept. 15 1954, on a golf course.

Another police liaison in his testimony was that of Alfie Pais. Haywood said Semenick identified Pais as "one of the big ones" in an opposition narcotics syndicate.

Magistrate Dohm warned everyone to hear that there must be no attempt "to interfere with the main witness" — a reference to Haywood.

"I would profit them nothing to interfere with this young man," he told the court. "He will be required to be admissible in higher court."

Haywood testified that he learned during his underworld association that his narcotics syndicates were country-wide.

"Semenick told me some of the merchandise — narcotics—came from the east and Toronto, Winnipeg, Montreal and Vancouver — some of the cities he named."

His three-week association with Semenick began, he said, after he met him at the office and, when a Czechoslovakian immigrant, identified him as Semenick's bodyguard after "Jake Stone became suspicious."

Battalion Transfer Suspended Pending Talks on Korea Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—Renewed talks on reduction of Commonwealth troops in Korea have resulted in suspension of the transfer-overseas of a Canadian battalion to the Far East.

Defence Minister Campney said Friday night the 1st Battalion, the Black Watch, which was ready to go to Korea to replace the 2nd Battalion, Queens Own Rifles, has been instructed to remain at Aldershot, N.S.

He said in an interview he hopes to settle shortly whether the transfer need be carried through.

Mr. Campney said he hopes there will be no undue delay for the Queens Own in returning to Canada.

The four Commonwealth countries with forces in Korea—Canada, Britain, Australia and New Zealand—are discussing troop reduction in their commitments there.

It would not be "prudent," he said, to send the Black Watch battalion until the question is decided.

"We hope to know reasonably shortly."

He added that he would like to now visiting here.

Man, 70, Twice Saves Painter From Fumes in Water Tank

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A 70-year - old maintenance worker crawled through an 18-inch opening in a water tank twice Friday to rescue a companion overcome by paint fumes.

William Halliday, checking an asphalt paint job on a tank on the property of Allen Bowes, found painter, Kai Anderson, 42, unconscious. He squeezed through the small opening in the tank and pushed Anderson, feet first, to safety.

But Anderson regained consciousness and climbed back into the tank to get his brushes. Halliday sent for help and again rescued the painter, who was then taken to a nearby house where firemen revived him with an inhalator.

Toronto Budget Nearly as Big As New Brunswick's

TORONTO (CP) — The metropolitan Toronto executive has endorsed a 1955 budget of $45,522,187, nearly as high as the $47,986,075 New Brunswick budget.

The budget was recommended by the metro executive Friday night after a five-hour pruning session. It is $2,000,000 higher than in 1954.

Education costs will absorb $23,185,088 of the 1955 budget with the remainder going for general metropolitan works.

RESEARCHERS FIND REVOLUTIONARY WEAVING PROCESS

Suit Could Be Out Of Style Before Worn Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Two defence department scientists have found a way of designing yarn for clothes that you may have to throw away to get rid of.

The department announced Friday that Col. H. A. Delcellier and Dr. J. V. Weiberger have perfected a new method of spinning yarns that increases the durability and strength of textiles five to 10 times.

"Important to the textile manufacturer," said the department, "is the fact that existing equipment can be adapted easily to handle the new process.

"The finished fabrics will cost no more than those products of the present standard method."

WOULD OUTLAST STYLE

Col. Delcellier said later in an interview that a suit made from yarns spun the new way likely would be out of style before it wore out.

"The possible clothing made from the 'engineered yarn' would wear five times longer than present in a 10 lb. pull test for strength" was five to 10 times that of present clothing.

The department said the method could be applied to any materials-from lightest cotton fabric to heavy fabric woven from the resultant yarn would have the same degree in strength and durability.

Exploration into strengthening of fabrics was the second project begun by Col. Delcellier, director of investigation and research in the department. Dr. Weinberger, well-known textile consultant and head of the research projects section, later was assigned to direct the work.

SECRET IN SPINNING

Col. Delcellier said the secret of the new yarn lies entirely in the spinning. It involves new arrangements of raw materials in the yarn to more fully develop their maximum strength.

He did not believe it would cost more to make the new radiation, but it might make possible fabrics more resistant to fire than present ones.

FIND HUNTER'S BODY

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The body of Stanley Hignett, 39, of Perth, who disappeared on a deer hunting trip Wednesday, was found Friday by a companion, Cecil Dawson, was recovered a week after the accident but the third, John Jordan, 37, is still missing.

Nehru Fights Off Drunk And Crazed Rickshaw Puller

Unruffled Premier Denies Man Was Wielding Knife

First reports indicated that the assailant was brandishing a knife and might have been trying to assassinate the 65-year-old statesman.

However, Nehru branded the incident as "misunderstanding." He said the rickshaw puller, Babu Rao, was only waving a piece of paper, probably a petition, and that police later found a small rusty knife on his person.

PUSHED FROM CAR

Police said Rao appeared to be drunk and mentally unbalanced. The man was dashed out of a cheering crowd here and jumped into the prime minister's car.Nehru saw him just in time and quickly pushed him into the street, where police overcame the man. Official escort seized the man.

The prime minister, unruffled by the incident, ordered his car to proceed, as scheduled, to a meeting of the Indian National Congress of Madhya Pradesh state.

He then drove to Nagpur and drove to the residence of the governor of the province, of which Nagpur is the capital.

THOUSANDS CHEER

Nehru included that place while Nehru was driving from the airport to the house of the state's chief minister, and then the cheering party meeting was held. The sidewalks were packed with people cheering their leader's arrival.

In elections earlier this month in Andhra state the government won an overwhelming victory over the Communist party. Today's bumptious welcome here was a further indication of Nehru's great popularity with the masses of India.

Fifth A-Bomb Tested in Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The fifth atomic blast in the 1955 United States test series went off shortly before dawn today, touching its blinding flash skyward and its mighty pressure wave rolling over the Nevada desert.

The shot was less than major in size, detonated in a 300-foot tower at Yucca flat, was visible for a brilliant, awesome flash in Las Vegas, about 75 miles away. The whiteness quickly tapered off to red. In Los Angeles, some 230 miles distant, the flash was like a faint flicker of white.

Winston Churchill Remains One Of Liveliest Feeble Men in World

By EDDY GILMOAE

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill remains one of the liveliest feeble men in the world.

Just over 15 years ago the late Wendell Willkie, here for a private visit, remarked:

"Churchill's a great old man, but he's afraid he's getting a little feeble."

Two days after he said that Willkie called on hurried Churchill during street. Following their talk the prime minister accompanied the visiting American to the door step.

They stood there for photographers. Willkie, trying to help Churchill took him by the arm.

"Here, Mr. Willkie, let me show you down this step. When it rains it's slippery."

Back at his hotel Willkie smiled and said, "and I called him feeble."

In August that year the late Harry Hopkins, then ambassador to Britain, went to a London rally where Churchill spoke. Accidentally back from the Atlantic charter conference with President Roosevelt.

"Some of his friends," said the newspaper man, "are worried that the prime minister shouldn't undertake such labor. They say he's getting a little feeble."

Ten minutes later Churchill was back at the rail, with a cigar in his mouth and a naval cap on his head, energetically shook hands with the cabinet members and all others who turned up on the platform.

In his enthusiasm he accidentally knocked Hopkins down. It was no feeble step.

Now, four years later Churchill was in Moscow having his first meeting with the late Joseph Stalin. The latter gave Churchill what was then the British ambassador to Russia, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, in a survey, "but I'm afraid he's showing signs of feebleness."

Back in the Moscow on that trip Churchill exhausted the ambassador and his staff of young men.

Two years later, October 1954, Churchill was back in Moscow for more talks with Stalin. Two days ago Churchill was the guest of honor at a correspondents luncheon. At one table was Kerr, now retired, and Stalin's daughter Svetlana. They were both watching Churchill for 25 minutes.

"He's all right," he confided. "But watch him when he comes to his feet. That's what I mean. He's getting a bit feeble."

Churchill came later the old man surged into the dining room, marched with one arm around the back, said no walking stick and hobbling no ones arm.

"Well, I'm not feeble," said the newspaper man. "He's made a fool of me."

The truth is Churchill has good days and bad days. Some days he is full of the fire and vigor of feebleness. And then he bounces right back with the energy of a man many years his junior.

Third Sailor Is Convicted

HALIFAX (CP) — The navy's investigation into a 24-hr. drinking spree on the carrier Magnificent in Halifax harbor that sent 47 men to hospital ended Friday with the third conviction and sentence, by a naval court.

LS Fraser Way of Colchester, Ont., was convicted on two of three counts and sentenced to 12 months in detention.

Pope Acclaimed On Anniversary Of Coronation

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, robed in his great gold-star studded cape and wearing his triregnum, was acclaimed today when he participated at an anniversary commemoration of his coronation.

It was the first time in three anniversaries of the event of March 12, 1939, that the pontiff was well enough to attend the ceremony.

It was also the first time since he fell gravely ill for the third time last December that the head of the Roman Catholic Church wore the heavy, beehive - shaped triregnum, emblem of his high office.

Minor Hockey

In a sudden-death semi-final game played at the Arena on Saturday morning, the Canadiens edged the Maple Leafs 5-4 and moved the right to meet the Red Wings for the Bantam championship next Saturday morning.

Bill Skelly scored the deciding goal unassisted to eliminate the Leafs who have ended the schedule in first place the last two years, but both times have failed in their title quest. Wainwaite from Wentlock was the first Hab scoring play while Earl McDonald took Bernie Boulter's pass to sling home the second marker.

Billy Moxam, in goal for the winners, and Leaf netminder Kerry Sexton both turned back plenty of rubber in the close battle. The Canadiens drew three of the four minor penalties.

Stradivarius Name Is Found In More Violins

Old violins with the wording Antonius Stradivarius printed inside their backs apparently are quite commonly owned in the Hastings county district.

Two violins owned by Percy and Orvel Conley is believed by its owners to be a genuine Stradivarius by the master Italian violin maker back in the early 1700's and they say they have been offered $15,000 for it.

Since the Tweed violin came to light another with the same wording inside has turned up in Belleville owned by Creft Smith, Bridge Street barber.

Mr. Smith is not claiming his instrument to be a genuine Stradivarius and says he is "not looking out for anything."

"It is just an old keepsake as far as I am concerned," he said. "I have had it for 33 years and I used to play it at parties, but I haven't touched it in years."

Inside Mr. Smith's violin, which he said he bought from a Montreal man, appears the words "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis, Faciebat Anno-1717." The words are printed on a slip of paper pasted to the inside of the back of the instrument. The last two numerals of the date are written in pencil or ink instead of being in printing. The letters "AS" within a circle also appear on the label.

A Stirling man, Perry Bronson, who is a waiter at a local hotel, says he has a very Stradivarius which was made in Germany. "I traded a horse for it five years ago," he said.

(Sidney Township)

Mrs. Jennie Irwin, a lifelong resident of Sidney township, died at her home Friday, March 11th, after an illness of two years' duration. She was in her 73rd year.

The deceased, born on the first concession of Sidney township, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finkle.

She is survived by her husband, Thomas H. Irwin; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest (Helen) Kells, Sidney township; Mrs. William (Dorcas) Sibbald, at home, and one son, Nicholas Irwin, R.R. 4, Ottawa.

Also surviving are two brothers, Bert Finkle, of Hallowell, and Jerry Palmer, of Sidney.

She was a member of Bayside United Church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company's Funeral Home, 27 Campbell St. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. HARTFORD C. PARLIAMENT

Mrs. Luella Jane (Ella) Parliament, Mrs. Grove St., died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon, March 11th, after an illness of three weeks' duration. She was in her 82nd year.

The deceased was born in Thornasburg, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mumaw and lived in Mountain View prior to moving to Belleville 15 years ago.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ernest (Ethel) Shoemaker, Rosemore; Mrs. John (Gertrude) Hagerman, Mountain View, and a son, Percy C. Parliament, of Belleville. She was predeceased by her husband, Hartford C. Parliament.

The funeral service will be held at the residence of her son-in-law, Stanley K. Hodges, of Berkeley, California.

The deceased was a member of Bridge Street United Church and was formerly a member of Mountain View United Church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 27 Campbell Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

DAVID HENRY WEESE

The funeral of David Henry Weese took place Friday, March 11th, from the chapel of the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. Rev. Ray Rowley conducted the service.

Bearers were Clifford Belch, Richard Bailey, Donald McCoy and John Ellis.

Interment took place in Zion cemetery, Malone.

MRS. MICHAEL HANLEY (Rose)

Mrs. Mary Hanley, Read, died suddenly of a heart attack in the Belleville General Hospital Friday, March 11th. She was in her 70th year.

The deceased was born in Read, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mullin, and lived her whole life in that village.

She is survived by her husband, Michael Hanley; two sons, John, of Belleville; William, of Read and two daughters, Mrs. Leo (Josephine) Daily, Corbyville and Mrs. John (Rose) Moher, of North Bay.

Also surviving her are five sisters: Mrs. Michael Walsh, Belleville; Mrs. Dennis Meagher, Belleville; Miss Bertha Mullin, Belleville; Mrs. Donald Shannon, Marmora; Mrs. Joseph Mullin, Belleville; and three brothers, Patrick, of Read; William, of Belleville; and Daniel, of Corbyville.

The deceased was a member of St. Charles Catholic church, Read, and was very active in the work of the Catholic Women's League and the Altar Society.

AREA D. McINTOSH

STIRLING — The funeral of a former River Valley resident, Mr. Area D. McIntosh, was held on Thursday forenoon at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, under the direction of the Duffin Funeral Home.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker conducted the service and Mr. Jack Bush sang "Near to the Heart of God."

The bearers were: Donald McIntosh, Douglas McIntosh, Jim McIntosh, Peter Heaman, Jack Jones and Gordon Bissett.

The funeral cortege left early that afternoon for interment beside his wife at Pine Hills cemetery, Toronto.

Deceased was the first Agricultural Representative for Hastings and served the county from 1910-1911. He pioneered the organization of Progress Clubs, School Fairs and Short Courses, and was well known throughout the district.

WILL TRAIN 1,500

HAMILTON (CP) — Naval reserve headquarters Friday announced 16 warships will train more than 1,500 men on the Great Lakes from June to August. Ships ranging from 1,300-ton escort vessels to destroyers will call here, make a series of two-week cruises to United States and Canadian ports.

Massena, N.Y., a Mile Inland From Seaway, to Be Helped

On a tour of the St. Lawrence seaway route, a Canadian Press reporter went into New York state to examine conditions on the United States side of the project. This story, last of a series, is from the typical seaway community of Massena, N.Y.

By JOHN LaBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MASSENA, N.Y. (CP) — This town isn't even on the St. Lawrence river but it's caught seaway fever.

After 30 years of waiting for the St. Lawrence seaway, Massena's 17,000 people still find it hard to believe that the big ditch is actually getting started, but they're throwing their collective hat into the air.

A mile inland from the seaway area during the river, Massena looks forward to stretching its corporate limits down to the riverside and becoming a port. It sees unlimited and cheap power for the aluminum plant that supports the community. It is getting an immediate influx of new residents to work on the $400,000,000 United States part of the navigation-power project slice at hand.

WORK THIS WAY

That job is well under way. Just upriver from Massena, crews of the New York Power Authority have been pushing out from shore a long dike of earth and rock. Eventually will halt the flow of the river to permit construction of the power dam. Part of the work ahead will cost New York $300,000,000.

Massena and adjacent Louisville tag-up and down river in this will be a 10-mile-long waterway capable of accommodating big ocean ships. That will cost around $100,000,000.

As the only sizable community in upstate New York smack against the St. Lawrence, Massena is beginning to bulge as workers pile in.

Community services such as hospitals and sewage are getting strained. Of a city is getting scarce. Civic authorities are looking for more territory in which to expand.

While they battle with the headaches of a mushrooming seaway program, the citizenry keeps whooping it up for the big development. Stickers on the plaster plugging "Seaway Village" appear on car windshields. Talk about it is rife in bars and restaurants. The semi-weekly Massenia Observer gives over two-thirds of its front page to covering minute aspects of construction and other activities.

SHIPS AT FRONT DOOR

Electricity is the big requirement for the seaway and that provides a $25,000,000-a-year payroll for 6,500 workers. Too, the seaway will attract ocean ships and soldiers living on fixed incomes such as pensions.

"They say forty taxes going up as the result of the municipal improvements we will have to make," added the mayor, "but I suppose it's inevitable. We've got to be ready for the seaway."

To the east of Massena, along the stretch of the 40-mile power pool that will be dammed in, a

The town of Massena, N.Y., with 17,000 people, is booming because the St. Lawrence seaway-power project promises unlimited and cheap power for the big aluminum plant that supports the community. Water boundaries from the river, Massena looks forward to stretching its corporate limits down to the waterside and becoming a port. This map shows how close Massena is to the site of the giant power development. (CP from AP).

Birds Wintering In South Again Coming North

Although there was little in the weather this morning to indicate the fact, apparently spring is on the way and birds wintering in the south have again made their way to their summer homes.

Crows have been in the district for some time and starlings have also returned in force.

Even the robins are putting in isolated appearances and are being seen in city backyards.

This morning, Mrs. Norman Mowbray, William Street, heard chirping outside her door and looked out to see a robin in her yard.

John Hunt, Trent Road, also stated he had seen his first robin this spring.

scattering of farmers and other rural residents will be flooded out of their homes. But the area is thinly settled, and the cost won't be anywhere near the $65,000,000 or $70,000,000 needed for relocating communities and communication and transport facilities on the Canadian side of the artificial lake.

Two Housing Units Planned For OPP Officials

The construction of two housing units in Ameliaville is included in the Ontario Department of Public Works program for 1955-56. It is believed the two housing units when completed will be for rental to Ontario Provincial Police officers at Ameliaville.

The houses will be built in the Parkwood Heights area where the Ontario Government has purchased last year purchased two lots. The housing units will be built for the Attorney General's department.

Ontario Provincial Police Inspector A. McDougall at Belleville said that one housing unit is now under construction at Picton for the O.P.P. When completed the Picton house will be occupied by Cpl. A. Parry, in charge of the Picton detachment office.

Also included in the Ontario public works department works program for the year-is a new bowling plant at the Ontario Reformatory, Guelph, construction of a double garage at the Ontario Training School, Bowmanville and four buildings will be installed as well as an intercommunication system.

New Maple Syrup Offered On Local Market

First definite sign of spring in the air was on view, and sale, on the local market this morning.

Maple syrup appeared for the first time on the market, indication that the sap is rising. Purchasers can sup off the sap for $5.50 a gallon and $1.65 a quart, price set on the offering on the market.

Business continued mild on other offerings with prices still mostly unchanged.

Cabbage sold from five to 15 cents and turnips traded from five cents up. Potatoes were $3 a 75-lb. bag or 25 cents a six-quart basket. Carrots were 25 cents a basket. White beans were 40 cents a quart.

Apples, in lighter supply than last week, brought 80 cents a basket for Spies, 70 cents for Ambrosia, 65 cents for Snows and 60 cents for Delicious.

On the inside market poultry brought from 30 cents a pound for fowl and capons were 40 cents. Honey was $1 a four-lb. jar.

Eggs continued at 40 cents for large grade; mediums 46 cents and small 40 cents.

Whitefish and smelts were 40 cents a pound.

Farm Assessment Bill Introduced In Ont. House

TORONTO (CP)—A government bill which provides for assessment of farmlands without relation to surroundings was introduced Friday in the Ontario legislature.

Attorney-General Dana Porter who introduced the bill providing for several minor amendments to the Assessment Act, said assessment of farmlands which are being farmed in built-up areas tends to be increased.

Under provisions of the proposed legislation such lands would be assessed without relation to surroundings. It would affect many farms in new sub - divisions throughout the province.

The bill was introduced before the House went into committee of supply to consider estimates of the department of travel and publicity for the next 12 months.

ESTIMATES APPROVED

Estimates of $905,000, up $20,-900 from last year, were passed without opposition.

During discussion, W. J. Grummett (CCF — Hastings South) asked that the department consider establishing a branch in northern Ontario.

Mr. Grummett said the majority of tourists from the travel in the northern part of the province and a branch there would help to point out the area's many attractions.

Albert Wren (L—Kenora) asked that the Department design a new automobile licence plate which would help advertise the province. He said Ontario's plates were the dullest and ugliest in the world.

Mr. Wren suggested elimination of a plate for the front of cars. The saving could be used to design a distinctive rear plate, perhaps in the shape of a crown.

STORY NEEDS TELLING

The department should learn thoroughly the story of aviation in the northern part of the province and the part it has played in aviation generally, Mr. Wren said. It was a great story and should be told to the world.

A. H. Cowling (PC — Toronto High Park) said he agreed with Mr. Wren. He asked that a select committee of the legislature) be set up to study ways of advertising Ontario and all its attractions.

"The tourist industry is fast becoming one of the biggest in the province," Mr. Cowling said.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

BEAUTIFUL ISLE OF SOMEWHERE

Somewhere the sun is shining,
Somewhere the song-birds dwell;
Hush, then, thy sad repining,
God lives and all is well.

Somewhere the day is longer,
Somewhere the task is done;
Somewhere the heart is stronger,
Somewhere the guerdon won.

Somewhere the load is lifted,
Close by an open gate;
Somewhere the clouds are rifted,
Somewhere the angels wait.

Chorus:
Somewhere, Somewhere,
Beautiful Isle of Somewhere,
Land of the true, where we live anew,
Beautiful Isle of Somewhere.

The nineteenth century was going into its last quarter when a fifteen year old Ohio girl—Jessie Brown—began attracting attention and interest in American religious journals with her poems and writings.

She wrote books and stories. She turned out libretios for cantatas. But her hymn-poems, many of them set to music by the popular composer, J.H. Fillmore, are the gems for which she is best remembered today.

It was Jessie Brown who wrote "Anywhere With Jesus I Can Safely Go," "The Way of the Cross Leads Home," "The Touch Of His Hand On Mine", and scores of other precious songs. But it was Jessie Brown Pounds who wrote the matchless hymn of Heaven, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Shortly before its creation she had been married to the Rev. John E. Pounds, who was then serving as minister of the Central Christian Church in Indianapolis.

The inspiration of the hymn is said to have come while Mrs. Pounds was thinking about Heaven and immortality one Sunday morning when illness kept her from church. The message of the hymn is a message of confidence in a continuing life after death, a land "where we live anew", where "God lives and all is well."

Once begun, the hymn-poem took form rapidly and when her husband returned from worship Mrs. Pounds handed him the completed manuscript.

For Parents Only

Education Is Adventurous

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Education is the supreme adventure of the human spirit and teachers are leaders in this enterprise." Winifred Hoitby, the British writer states in one of her "Letters to a Friend." She also defines education as not an affair of examination syllabuses, nor of successful matriculation, but of the slow direction of the individual man or woman towards power and beauty.

You may disagree with her concept—but as you look back on your childhood and youth, are you not thankful to some half-gotten teacher who kindled in you a love of literature, or of art or of music or science?

You can repay some of your indebtedness to the good teachers who have enriched your life by having difficulties of the teacher's role. You can be a little less critical and a little more appreciative of the man or woman who struggles in school hours with your offspring!

LIFETIME INFLUENCE

A teacher may influence your child throughout his whole life. Have you taken time to get to know your child's teacher—really know something about him as a person—not just recognize him when you meet him on the street? Have you some idea of the fine qualities of mind and heart of that teacher? Are you acquainted with his training and experience.

Do you know whether there are too many pupils in your child's classroom for any one teacher to instruct? Are the physical conditions in the school, such as the lighting, up to modern standards? Have you discovered what salary your child's teacher receive? Is it adequate? Has your school a fair plan of annual increases in salary to teachers and is there a provision for a teacher's pension fund? Have you ever talked with any of the members of the School Board to show a real interest in the teacher's task?

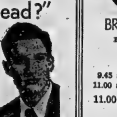
TAKE TIME TO LISTEN

There are many ways by which a parent can make the teacher's task easier. One very simple method is by mother or father always taking time to listen with interest to a child's account of ordinary school happenings. Attending Home and School meetings" and special school events to which parents are invited such as "closing exercises" is of first importance.

Sometimes the relationship between the home and the school comes to grief on the question of home-work. Parents can often do much to encourage good study habits. The ability to concentrate is helped by having a definite time and place for school work with no distractions, such as an interesting radio program blaring in the same room as the pupil is trying. Perhaps girl can help looking up from her lesson long enough to her mother's phone conversation?

PRAISE IS GOOD

Report cards are another occasion when mother and dad do well to praise a child for the subjects in which he has done well. They can also express their faith that with a little more work he can pull up a bit in those studies in which he has a poor standing. Many teachers are glad to make definite suggestions of ways by which parents can assist their children.



Education, like charity begins at home. If parents have enthusiasm for acquiring fresh information and for increasing skills, their children are apt to be keen about education. This is vital task of a teacher is to keep a zest for discovering more about the great, wide, wonderful world—and pass on to scholars this love of learning!

A Lift For Living

The Need for Practice

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Our professional league baseball players are now practising in preparation for the grueling months ahead. However, most of them have "kept in shape" since the end of last season, and wisely so, because their playing days in a highly competitive sport are all too brief.

Constant effort is the price of skill and co-ordination of eye and hand. "Practice makes perfect" is the old maxim which I had to carry over and over in school. My own handwriting is proof that practice does not always produce perfection. Nevertheless, without practice, we cannot hope for more than mediocrity.

A once-a-month golfer is stymied when he attempts to compete with the twice-a-week player. He sees his friend swinging with rhythmic grace and ewives him. But worse than his own discomfort is the fact that he wastes the time of the better players who have to scoot their heels and heat their heads while he floudders in the sandtraps.

A SAD LITTLE BOY

The small boy who totes his violin case for his weekly lesson is pitying himself. He seems so out of things, especially when his friends are playing ball over in the schoolyard.

And the little girl taking her piano lessons after her companions are consuming ice-cream around the corner rebels against the monotonous voice calling, "One-two-three-four, lets's try it again." She would like to toss the music sheet out of the window and the instructor along with it.

There is no glamor in practice. But without practice we would have no master musicians or great symphonies.

One of the world's greatest pianists once said that if he neglected his practice for one day, he could detect the difference in his playing; if for two days, his critics noticed it; if for three days the public knew it.

THERE COMES A TIME

When we keep practising, there comes a time when we pass from the drudgery of it to the joy of it. The beginner in music would like to forego those finger exercises, but if she perseveres in trying to learn, the day will come when she can play with ease.

As far is music appreciation is concerned, we are able to pick up simple tunes with little effort, but great symphonies require considerable "living with" before properly enjoyed. Is it not true that our liking for the better things in life is usually a acquired taste—acquired, mind you, but after much practice. Not only our own pleasure, but the very safety of society is at stake in this matter of keeping in practice. Who would feel safe on a ship if the crew did no drilling and waited only for the alarm of fire to break? Life-belts under the berth and printed rules on the walls are not enough. We trust our lives and our property to sailors and soldiers and firemen who are trained by long practice to do the right thing in an emergency.

The times call for citizens to put their ideals into practice, and then keep applying them until they carry their virtues with such easy grace that they make goodness attractive to others. Although man has many noble impulses, juvenile delinquency, social disorders and threats of war continue. Why? Because we are in the "awkward stage" of social development.

ONLY AN IMPULSE NOW

I have been making a study of awkwardness in my little grandaughter. She is a bundle of graceful curves, yet she is unable to walk smoothly. The reason is, of course, that she has reached that point of development where she has the impulse to walk, but not the ability. Reading a treatise on Greek architecture would not help her in the slightest. What she needs is a nursery floor and a parent to teach her how to take those first trying steps.

The same sort of determined and patient application of what we know to be good is necessary if we are to solve the difficult problems of our society.

The Sermon on the Mount closes with the warning that whoever hears the words and does not apply them is like the foolish man who built his house on sand. It fell with the first storm. The wise man, however, hears the words and uses them. He is like the man whose house withstood the storm because it was built on rock.

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

What were the names of the two spies of Israel who were the only minority report after they had visited the land of Canaan, for forty days, saying, "The land which we passed through is an exceedingly good land, one which flows with milk and honey. If the Lord delights in us, he will bring us into this land and give it to us. Only do not rebel against the Lord; and do not fear the people of the land. Their protection is removed from them for the Lord is with us."

For this courageous report these two spies were almost stoned. The other ten spies from the other tribes had also admitted that the Canaan was a desirable land, but the inhabitants filled them with fear. They said, "We are not able to go up against the people for they are stronger than we are and of great stature. We seemed to ourselves like grasshoppers and so we seemed to them."

The people followed the advice of the majority. They wept, "Would that we had died in Egypt or in the wilderness!" they cried, "Why does the Lord bring us into this land to fall by the sword? Our wives and our little ones will become a prey. Would it not be better for us to go back to Egypt?" They even wanted to discard Moses, their leader, and chose a captain who would turn back with them to Egypt.

Moses rebuked the people and told them that they would never see the Promised Land because they had not had sufficient faith in God's guidance and help. But he prophesied that their children would know the land which they had despised.

The ten spies who brought in an adverse report about going ahead and possessing Canaan all died from plague in the wilderness. Only the two spies with the minority report remained alive. Find their names and read this story in Numbers, Chapters 13 and 14.

WOMEN SEEK WORK

TORONTO (CP)—The National Employment Service reported Thursday that a considerable surplus of unemployed women is developing in Ontario because the demand continues to fill factory jobs is drying up. The federal government service said that at the end of February there were 6,700 more women in the province seeking work than at the same time a year ago.

HELP THE RED CROSS HELP OTHERS

In wartime everybody gives willingly and generously to the Red Cross. When the guns fall silent and the bombs cease to fall, we are too apt to forget the Red Cross and its many services. It is true that war multiplies its work of mercy; but it is not true that peace eliminates the need for a continuance of this work. The scale of the work is reduced, but the importance of the Red Cross to those it assists is not diminished at all. The personal need of a family robbed of its home by fire or flood is just as great as the need of the survivors of an air raid.

The disaster and emergency service of the Red Cross is one of the most important phases of its work. We hear of the Red Cross when tragedy strikes on a major scale, as at the time of the Winnipeg flood or the visit of Hurricane Hazel. But the Red Cross is also active in cases of disaster which are limited in scope, but nevertheless very pressing emergencies to those concerned. A house burned, even a bread-winner injured, can produce circumstances which warrant Red Cross aid.

In other fields, too, the Red Cross plays a continuous role during peacetime; in providing homemakers, in loaning expensive equipment to the ill, in teaching nurses, in organizing life saving and first aid classes. Always, the Red Cross carries on its work of mercy 365 days of the year.

GAMBLER'S RETURN

Canada's most enthusiastic gamblers are back in action again—watching the season a little.

The fever has hit Belleville. It is already taking its annual bite out of family budgets.

Strangely enough, although loud voices are raised against minor gambling crazes, such as poker, betting on horse races and bingo, nobody ever views with alarm the nation's biggest and most deeply entrenched gambling tradition.

Reformers would look rather silly deploring marbles.

Yet there is no question but that the popularity of marbles among the male and female adult alike, is a positive proof of the universal appeal of gambling.

"Give me a quarter Daddy; I want to buy some marbles."

"Why do you like marbles?"

"Because they are fun."

"No, no, I don't mean the game, I mean the marbles themselves, what do you like them?"

"Because if you have them you can play marbles."

There you have it, gambling in its purest form, played not in the hope of material gain, but for the sheer thrill of the gamble.

There will be those who will maintain that marbles is not a gamble but a game of skill.

"Certainly," they say, "marbles may be a game, a game demanding high skill. But if you regard marbles in this light, you have not made your acquaintance with some of the modern versions of the game. Roll your marbles into a hole. Roll your marbles along a rough pavement trying to hit four other marbles, a four-to-one shot. Roll your marbles into holes in a shoe-box. An infinite variety of devices aimed at extracting marbles from your friends and enemies.

And why are these marbles coveted? Not for what they will buy, a mere little chase with the poker-players and the race-goers and the bingo addicts gamble. No, the juvenile gambler has not yet been seduced from the love of gambling for the thrill of gambling. Marbles could, we suppose, be traded for other things, a pet frog, a pretty hair-ribbon, a softball bat or a doll—but they never are. Marbles are coveted because with them you can play marbles, you can gamble.

Here's to marbles—a great game. As long as its popularity is unchallenged by stuffy officialdom or rival pastimes, the young Canadian who attends school is going to learn something besides reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. He or she is going to learn to take a chance—and the willingness to take a chance and not to cry about it if one does not win is the mark of the successful persons which must be learned if life is to be truly lived, rather than merely lived through.

TWO VIEWPOINTS

The Associated Press on Tuesday provided us with an interesting example of the varying viewpoints in Washington and London regarding islands in the Matsu group and Quemoy, located a few miles from the mainland of China.

In a despatch from London the Associated Press reported that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had again called for a Chiang Kai-shek withdraw his armed forces "from the coastal islands off China."

From Washington the Associated Press sent a despatch saying that the U.S. Secretary of State believed the Chinese Communists would shortly make a military move "against Nationalist-held islands opposite Formosa."

"Islands of China;" "islands opposite Formosa." How differently the two phrases sound! Yet these are the same islands.

The British would probably be ready to admit that the islands are indeed "opposite Formosa"—about 100 miles opposite.

The Americans would say that the islands are indeed "off China" and that is exactly what they are worried about; they do not want the Chinese Communists to get off the mainland at all.

ANTIQUES

Tea pots, cups and saucers, jugs, Time was they were bright and new.
Tables, chairs and shaving mugs;
Dusty, cradles, sofas wide,
Things we've styles have thrust aside.

Time was in the years long flown
These some one was proud to own.
Antiques now, but this is true

Things grow old and disappear,
Men progress from year to year.
Than some long discarded chair
Proves to be an antique rare.

We are modern, but we know
To the attic things must go.
But of our possessions some Rare and cherished may become.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO
MARCH 12, 1918.

The 70th anniversary of the Bridge Street Methodist Church Parish of which the Rev. G. G. Wright is now rector, will be celebrated during the month of May and the services marking the event will be held during three Sundays. Arrangements are being made to have the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, D.D., Lord Bishop of the Diocese, and several former rectors of the parish take part in the special services.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Crake of Picton spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Irvine.

Mr. Simeon Schryver who resides with his son, Mr. Allan R. Schryver, Highland Avenue, will celebrate tomorrow, March 13th, the 91st anniversary of his birth and many friends will be pleased to extend to him congratulations and good wishes. He and his wife are both enjoying good health.

The members of the special committee appointed by the city council to secure a location suitable for a tourist camp, toured the city today in company with Mr. J. Owen Herity, commissioner of industries, and a few members of the Chamber of Commerce. They decided that the site surveying grounds on Dundas Street east would be a suitable site and Mr. Herity and Ald. R. J. E. Graham were authorized to negotiate for the purchase of the property.

Three reliable citizens reported that they saw three robins here today.

Man Frees Hawk

(By S. H., in Our Dumb Animals Magazine)

While anchored off Clark's Island in Duxbury bay, Mass., I noticed a big hawk perched on a rock with a bright red object showing against his breast.

Sensing that all was not as should be I rowed slowly ashore. As I touched the beach the hawk fluttered awkwardly to the left and I could see that the red object was attached to the right wing, making flight impossible.

Slowly I approached to within about 30 feet and saw that the object was a fishing plug, six or seven inches long. One of the hawk's talons became impaled in the elbow of the wing, presumably when the hawk dived upon the lure thinking it edible. The chances of removing it seemed remote. The only possible course appeared to be the seemingly impossible one of gaining the hawk's confidence.

As I moved slowly in his direction he struggled toward the stern, brush covered bank of an island. One of the trailing hooks caught on a vine and held him.

I sat down to show that I would not take advantage of him, and at a distance of 20 feet I began to talk to him quietly, explaining his plight and telling him that I would hurt him no more than I could help if he would let me try to remove the lure.

After talking steadily for about five minutes I rose and slowly moved up the beach, still talking. Again the hawk struggled up the bank, pulling the lure clear of the vine.

For some 30 to 40 minutes I talked steadily, repeating the sentences when I felt that the bird would let me without too much fright.

Premier of Canada, the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, given a grand welcome home. From one file copy at this time in 1903 we quote the following: The Hon Mackenzie Bowell, Premier of Canada, was enthusiastically welcomed home. The train arrived at noon at the Grand Trunk Railway station thousands of people were present. A procession of prominent citizens was formed and proceeded down Front Street and up Bridge Street to the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. J. C. Jamieson, Albert Street, a few doors south of Bridge Street. The streets were decorated with flags and bunting. A reception was held in the opera house in the afternoon and in the evening the premier was entertained by the Board of Trade at a banquet at Hotel Quinte.

Univac Finds Missing Moon

(Christian Science Monitor)

You all remember Univac. That notorious universal computer stuttered and chattered on election night last year and gave birth to—well some estimates that were sort of accurate.

They found when Univac sat down to prophesy. A machine! They jested. How can I tell how, of all most unpredictable things, the human mind en masse will decide to vote? And they laughed when poor Univac came close, but not close enough.

But it has been cheering news for all of you who may have had just a twinge of remorse for the loud laughter and even a bit of sympathy for that unappreciated machine.

Univac unlimbered itself recently and with universal unction delivered itself of a minor miracle.

Did you ever hear of the mysterious Eighth Moon of Jupiter? Well, it's there. It's the vastness of interplanetary space since 1941—315,000,000 miles away from earth, that Univac (Univac, step right up here and bow deep to the ladies and gentlemen) found it!

Yessir, 315,000,000 miles out there, that 100,000-ton satellite, then the faintest star, but inexorable Univac digested the necessary data, and then produced the exact locale. For when the Mount Wilson telescope trained on the Univac-directed spot there was the Eighth Moon, waiting for its close-up, but feebly gleaming, and no doubt relieved to be discovered at last.

What is the moral of all this? Certainly this: If Univac can't do it, what makes you think that you can predict elections?

Easement In the Sky

(Calgary Albertan)

The air age has just now opened up a new field of law in Ohio, in time the rest of the world will be initiated too.

The question is how far into the sky does a landowner's rights go? And how close to the ground do an aviator's right's go?

Let the flight of over a farm and farm buildings as they approach and leave an Ohio airport. The farmer has to have some trees to accommodates them. He has to have wires. He cannot not to put up other obstructions which might hamper the planes. In other words the farmer were given an "easement" on a part of the air above the farm. They could fly at will within a certain distance of the ground—down to 22.3 feet above his farm house, for instance—and he could do nothing about it.

In return for surrendering whatever rights he might have had above the air space, the farmer was entitled to some considerations. The municipality offered him $200, then $2,150, but he took it to court and a jury gave him $9,000.

"Only Myth"

(St. John's Telegram)

The earthly paradise is a traveler's dream of heaven and hell, as Omar Khayyam so truthfully discerned, are within, and not without the soul. People have the emotional equipment for happiness will find it within five leagues of their doors. People without such equipment can't find it even if they search the world, and on the coasts of all the seven seas.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The biggest surprise in the figures released on hunting accidents in Ontario last year is that shotguns are proved to be the most dangerous of all hunting weapons. Most sportsmen would have assumed that the rifle, which includes the powerful twenty-two calibre rifle with which youths and sometimes boys are allowed to start their hunting experience, and the more powerful lethal high power rifles of the deer hunting class, have been involved in most accidents.

The National Rifle Association, the latest available figures of over 300,000 members, has for years compiled the list and case histories of as many shooting accidents as can be traced. For the past three-year period they have recorded 2,886 accidents on which they now have complete data. Of this total number, 1,857 were caused by shotguns, and 959 by rifles. That makes shotguns a dangerous gun for the shotgun.

Forty-three per cent of all these accidents were caused by persons under 19 years of age. If that statistic does not support the trend towards the forming of boy's gun clubs by recreational associations, schools and even civic authorities, it is little that ever could. Demanded some sort of training and experience before a gun licence is issued, just as is the case of driving permits for motorists.

Of the 2,886 accidents in the three year period, 564 were fatal. In any year the list of fatalities among Deer and rabbit hunters were the most appalling, which, as far as deer hunters are concerned, makes it look bad for the shotgun as a deer-hunting weapon. Fifty-seven per cent of the accidents occurred through the careless, intentional discharge of the weapon; this is, the victim was mistaken for game or got in the way of the shot fired by game. Forty-three per cent were unintentional discharges, most of these the commonest were the result of stumbles while hunting. Pulling the gun under the muzzle, catching the trigger on brush, putting a bullet into a stick or stone that got in the way, dropping or unloading, were among the largest causes. Many of the gun clubs underbrush or strike wounded game were also listed, which makes you wonder how many of these are loose amongst us, legally armed.

Royalty's Old Clothes

(Chicago Daily News)

The Milwaukee Journal is concerned over Buckingham Palace's practice of burning all British royal hand-me-down clothes to avoid moth-eradication. It suggests, instead that this apparel be given to related and unemployed royalty here and there in Europe.

All of which is O. K. with us.

What bothers us is the possibility that Buckingham Palace's custom will spread and thus affect an old American cultural custom. Many small-town museum in America has been started in this more than a century ago in the form of the hand. In one case the patient received treatment for gonococcic infection.

X-ray pictures m 73 cases were correctly interpreted. But in some instances regular front-back and side projections fail to show calcium deposits in or about the muscles that bend wrist and thumb. Occasionally the calcium deposit is mistaken for a chip fracture, or even normal ossicles. The cause of such calcium deposits is conjectural, although many of the patients believe the trouble followed some former sprain or injury. The calcium deposits in the hand are of the same nature as calcium deposits about the shoulder.

Ancients Kept Their Secrets

(By Joseph Landrau in the Louisville Courier-Journal)

Our libraries are filled with exquisit and curious volumes of virtually forgotten lore, but there also is a lot of lore that has been completely forgotten because no one took the trouble to write it down.

For example, we know why the Great Pyramid was built, but we don't know how. We know the scientific and astronomical concepts about astronomy but how they arrived at them, we know not, although we have been encouraged to turn the atom into a terrible weapon. Some former have never been able to solve the problem of the potent recipe the ancients had — Greek fire.

The Great Pyramid stands a few miles outside of Cairo, Egypt. It is awe-inspiring to stagger the imagination. It was built, historians say, as a tomb, but engineers say that it is all but impossible it just wasn't possible.

Here's a structure with its perfectly square base, about 485 feet along each side of the square and rising to a height of 481 feet.

The task of quarrying the rock, cutting it and then transporting it to the construction site staggers the imagination. Then, of course, is figuring how it was hoisted into place we've whipped. Add to that the matter of the calculation, but the Egyptian engineers of 5,000 years ago must have accomplished their impossible feat.

Rome fell in A. D. 445, but Constantinople staggered along as the capital of the Roman Empire until 1453 or 1000 years afterward. One reason it lasted was because someone had invented a hellish weapon called Greek fire. What it was, how it was used, we do not know to this day knows. But it must have been powerful stuff to keep Constantinople safe as long as it did.

Another mystery that bothers scientists is the Phoenician artistry (or was it the Chaldeans?) fixed on 3000 pieces of clothes and not some other number. Or how Jonathan Swift could write about the flying island of Laputa 200 before they were seen; or how the Mayans in Central America knew about the rings of Saturn when they had no telescopes.

There is information to be listed under forgotten lore.

No Amateurs

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

CALCIUM DEPOSITS COME AND GO

Dr. Brady

Usually the patient appeared carefully cradling his tender hand to protect it against any sudden, painful jolt. In many instances the hand showed redness, soreness in streaks. So, Drs. Robert E. Carroll, William Sinton and Alexander Garcia describe numerous cases of acute calcium deposits in the hand.

In 46 cases the correct diagnosis was made virtually at first sight. In 18 cases the first diagnosis was infection. Some physicians thought the tenderness, redness, and pain in hand or wrist might have been caused by an injury, or a fracture or dislocation or a severe sprain. In four cases the first diagnosis was gout and acute rheumatism. In one case the physicians suspected there was a foreign body in the tissues of the hand. In one case the patient received treatment for gonococcic arthritis.

X-ray pictures m 73 cases were correctly interpreted. But in some instances regular front-back and side projections fail to show calcium deposits in or about the muscles that bend wrist and thumb. Occasionally the calcium deposit is mistaken for a chip fracture, or even normal ossicles. The cause of such calcium deposits is conjectural, although many of the patients believe the trouble followed some former sprain or injury. The calcium deposits in the hand are of the same nature as calcium deposits about the shoulder.

Procaine injections and warm soaks give relief.

Pain and disability and in several days or a few weeks and the calcium deposits disappear.

Now if I find calcium deposits in my hand, no doubt I'd holler all over the place, but I'd indulge in no grains of aspirin once or twice a day to relieve the pain, and, of course, I'd just lie or sit there for at least two hours after each dose or aspirin, even if it required only 5 grains to relieve the pain. I'd spend as much time exposed to the sun, in the patio or down on the beach or on a bench beside the bowling green as my skin would endure short of sunburn. That's all. Except that I'd want procaine (novocaine) injected if aspirin failed to give relief.

Speaking of calcium deposits about the shoulder, let me warn those poor souls who have discovered you've got such a deposit. It doesn't mean anything. It is the consequence, not the cause of inflammation, sprain, injury, or degeneration.

Some years ago I had shoulder bursitis that sometimes made me cry. In the course of several weeks I recovered, thanks to diathermy, passive movements, and gradually increasing exercise. The recovery was complete — complete recovery of shoulder joint and of bursa. Another disability. About a year later I sustained a fracture of the opposite shoulder. The X-ray films of both shoulders, for comparison, showed that there was a calcium deposit in the bursa that had been inflamed. Even so, the shoulder was perfectly normal. So far as I know or care the calcium deposit may be there still. But you see, the mere presence of a calcium deposit should not give you or your doctor any concern.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE START IS EVERYTHING

There is much to be learned from a horse race. The start is everything there. It's the same in athletic contest. In a baseball game the one who scores first has a psychological advantage. In the race the opposing team thereby takes on new courage and determination.

The most natural thing in the world is the dawn of a new day, and few ever stop to think about it as one of the great miracles. As a boy I used to get up early to get first in my autograph album. This is what we wrote in it: "This day will never dawn again!" I didn't think much about that line at the time, but it has come in handy through the years. If we live we will experience many more new days, but the one today will never be ours again.

How important it should be, therefore, that this day should be notable, and it can be if the start is full of promise. I'm sure everybody likes it's awake in the morning feeling we're happy. That's the photo of a good and profitable day. It should be habitual with each one of us to thank God for each new day, and for us to pray that every theological attainment might be achieved. Let us enter the day full of hope and grasp its opportunities in action.

Many bad habits start in the morning because we think that what isn't a decision entered into to shut out that habit as a daily visitor starts with the day. Each day is a race the start is everything in the horse race and in the trotting race. It has long been a fact that the early training of a child is everything.

Let us begin today the way we would go for a morning plunge. It was often cold in the water and we would hesitate, but after the first dive the worst was over. It's the same in so many experiences in life that is important, but with courage we can determine upon a good start anyway!

Strength for the Day

SALESMANSHIP IN RELIGION

"The trouble with you Christians is that you don't sell what you have; for, without any doubt, you have the best product that ever came on the market. It's eternal truth, salvation, eternal life, joy and triumphant living. You have the mighty God behind you. You have the Bible—the greatest book that was ever written. It is your privilege to present to the world the greatest Man that ever lived—on the wisest, the kindliest; so much so in fact that He is acknowledged as the Saviour of the world. Yet what extent are you selling what you have? Why don't you get down to hump on, to realize what your privileges are, and to begin selling what the world really wants. You are shoving you off the road today in the form of dead automobiles on carpets, dresses, perfumes, deodorants, and, frankly, God buys—and He will take (and I say it reverently), get busy. You really have a product to sell, and people want it."

There is more to religion, of course, than merely selling it, but that the Church has a selling job on its hands and that the supreme mission is that we go forth and be witnesses. There is no other way.

Supervisors Of Home for Aged Jailed for Theft

WELLAND (CP)—A couple who supervised the home for the aged in Welland for eight years was arrested Thursday night on charges of theft of articles from the home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Canning were arrested by Welland police at London, Ont., where they have six weeks ago to take up similar posts at the John Dearness home for the aged.

They were brought back to Welland county jail at 2 a. m., arraigned immediately before Fred Hodgson, justice of the peace, and released on $200 cash bail apiece.

Mr. Canning was superintendent and Mrs. Canning matron of the Welland home. They are natives of Stratford. Mrs. Canning was second vice-president of the Ontario Association for Homes of the Aged.

The charges were that they stole articles with a value of more than $25.

St. Lawrence Tenders Called By Ontario Hydro

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Hydro called tenders Sat. for construction of the Canadian half of the St. Lawrence hydro project power house near Cornwall. Closing date for bids is May 10.

The Canadian power house will be a concrete structure, about 1,500 feet long 170 feet high and 190 feet wide.

Bulletins From Birdland

MOULTING AGAIN

Mother Nature protects her children with infinite care. Before they attempt migration all plumage must be in perfect order. In spring this means that it has to be beautiful in appearance for the nuptial period, as well as in apple pie order for the prolonged journey. As often as a feather falls out, another grows in its place, and to keep flight even, wing feathers are shed in pairs—one from each side. When new ones are almost fully grown another pair drops.

However, in spring the average bird changes body plumage only; the complete moult takes place in late summer. But this pre-nuptial moult, as it is called, varies greatly, according to the species.

Last summer's baby birds wear their immature plumage for the first winter. In this costume your males and young females often look alike although after their spring moult their adult plumage is quite different. This is so with many warblers. The male oriole is not as brilliant in his first spring dress as he is in later years; on the other hand, during his first breeding season a male redstart's looks are a cross between his mother's and his father's.

Most ducks change their costumes somewhat differently from land birds. For safety reasons, males in mid-summer moult their gay feathers and for a short time greatly resemble their wives. The mallard is a good example of this. But the next plumage, acquired in autumn, is worn all winter, and the only change before the next midsummer takes place by a certain amount of wear at the ends of the feathers and a minimum amount of renewal in late winter.

The starling is a species that changes from winter to spring plumage solely by the slow process of wear, and not by moulting. Its new autumn body plumage is black with white and buffy tips to the feathers, giving the bird a speckled appearance. Throughout the winter months these tips gradually get broken or rubbed off, so that by early spring a starling seems to have a fresh costume, but this is not actually so. And, by the way, as its long bill has changed from dingy green to fairly bright yellow, people are apt to think that the spring starling is an entirely different bird from the one they saw in the autumn.

A few other species, such as the English sparrow and the snowbunting, refurbish in much the same manner, so gradually that we find little change from day to day.

DIES OF INJURIES

TORONTO (CP) — Mary Leona Stephenson, 14, died Thursday of injuries received in a traffic accident Wednesday. She was the seventh victim of the crash in which six other teenagers were critically injured when their car smashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer on the Queen Elizabeth way. Albert Webster, 17, died Wednesday.

Red Cross to Stage 'Blitz' In District Centres Tuesday

The Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society will hold its fifth annual city - wide "Blitz Day" Tuesday, March 15th.

The one-day drive for $19,000 for this branch will be staged simultaneously in Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Deloro and Tweed. This year's blitz will be the first in which Hastings County communities have been canvassed simultaneous with the Belleville drive.

Belleville "Blitz Day" has been divided into a business and residential drive, Forty-five canvassers in the business blitz will meet for breakfast Tuesday morning for final instructions and a pep talk. Cost of the breakfast is being borne by local businessmen and will not be charged to the cost of the campaign.

Between 350 and 400 canvassers have volunteered to carry out the residential blitz scheduled to start about 6.30 p.m.

All subscription kits are being prepared in advance at Red Cross headquarters at 3 Bridge St. W.

MOUNTY TRUCK

Advance newspaper and radio advertising of the drive for funds will be augmented Tuesday by the use of a sound truck which will visit Belleville in the morning, then go on to Thomasburg, Tweed, Sulphide, Madoc, Marmora, Deloro and Stirling before returning to Belleville in the evening.

Organizations similar to the Belleville city group will carry out blitzes in other district communities.

Lee Grills, general campaign chairman, said today that, "the response from individuals all over this area has been very encouraging."

"People accept the Red Cross," he said. "They are aware of what Red Cross is doing and what it stands for and they have been generous in responding to our call for assistance."

LOCAL SHARE $12,500

Belleville's share of the $19,000 objective is $12,500.

W. N. Hurst, registrar of deeds for Hastings County, will head the business blitz committee. Mrs. Herbert McCabe, 1st vice-president of the Belleville Branch of the Red Cross, is heading the residential blitz group.

Mr. Grills, in discussing the residential blitz, said he hoped householders would have their porch lights on and that they would greet canvassers with a smile and a generous donation."

The Red Cross drive in Belleville, held earlier this month, is expected to be completed by Tuesday. Zone and several of the county's townships will also be canvassed. Some townships contribute to the drive directly through grants from township council.

Prince Edward County, included in the territory of the Belleville Branch, will be canvassed later in March.

TO MAINTAIN SERVICES

Funds raised by the drive will be used by the local branch to carry on its many services in this district. Divisions of Red Cross service maintained by the annual fund raising drive include: homemakers' service; loan cupboard, welfare and relief; women's work committee; disaster and emergency; volunteer home nursing and blood donor clinic.

In 1954 the homemakers' service of the Belleville Branch of the Red Cross was second among 30 homemakers' services in Ontario in the amount of service rendered. A total of 1,684 days of service were given in 189 homes in the care of 319 children. In addition the supervisor made 619 visits to homes needing homemaker service.

The loan cupboard has eight wheel chairs and three hospital beds for use by the sick in addition to such aids as crutches, bed rests, bed table and braces.

SEWING FOR INFANTS

The women's work committee made 375 articles of infants' apparel including blouses, nightgowns, sleeping bags and bedding.

Disaster and emergency assistance was given several city and district families who lost their possessions in fires. Twenty-two persons received home nursing aips after a course of instruction provided by local Red Cross instructors.

Junior Red Cross activity in schools raised funds for needy families, supplied toys for distribution at Christmas and donated to a drive to assist victims of Hurricane Hazel and made gifts to the Crippled Children's Fund. Cost of administration and supervision of Junior Red Cross projects was met by the local society.

TO AID IMMIGRANTS

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration department has printed 140,000 copies of a booklet designed to help new Canadians understand federal government operations. A return tabled Thursday in the Commons said the booklet, entitled "Our Government," is for the use of immigrants attending citizenship classes. There were 120,000 English and 20,000 French copies printed.

RESEARCHERS

Two core, or framework, yarns have been used. Both are covered with a wrapping, then combined by twisting in such a way that there is a minimum twist.

Wool cloth with a nylon core upon the new way has a tear strength of 75 pounds compared with seven pounds for regular 11-ounce cloth. Fourteen-ounce cotton fabric made by the new process, can replace 21-ounce cotton duck. It is considered the strongest cloth ever made, ounce for ounce.

The U.S. army examined the cloth made from the "engineered yarn," approved it and will test it thoroughly.

MANY SEEK LICENCES

The department has filed patent applications covering the new process in the names of Col. Delcellier and Dr. Weisberger in Canada, the United States and Europe. It said numerous applications for the license to use the patents have been received from private industry.

Col. Delcellier indicated granting of these licences is under consideration now.

The yarn was developed entirely in Canada.

"The thinking was done here; the actual spinning in mills in Ontario and Quebec," said Col. Delcellier.

The yarn at present is being turned out in a few mills for military use only. Col. Delcellier said the army is testing it in combat uniforms. It was stronger than needed for dress uniforms.

GOOD FOR TENTS, SUITS

Yarns as light as four ounces to the square yard, about the same as a heavy work shirt, have been spun out in the new process so far, said Col. Delcellier. Its best application, however, likely would be for manufacture of fabrics for sports clothes, tents, tarpaulins, sleeping bags and other things that have to be rugged."

It has not been used for suit yarns, but there was no reason for it could not.

All government employees are required to turn over to the crown patent rights to discoveries made at their jobs. Col. Delcellier said he and Dr. Weisberger so far have received 20 cents each.

A dollar is paid as part of the formality of turning over the patent and they split it.

Deserónto

The Red Cross, Deseronto branch, regular meeting was held recently at the home of the president, Mrs. H. Transue.

Treasurer's report was read. Bills were presented and payment approved. Mrs. D. Dawson, convenor gave the loan cupboard report. Evaluation of loan cupboard supplies on hand as set by Ontario headquarters amounts to over $700. A further order for articles in demand was approved.

CONVENTION DELEGATES

Arrangements were completed for delegates to attend convention.

Deseronto Public School Junior Red Cross report 100 per cent enrollment. On March 1st, the Junior Red Cross campaign funds of $25 were forwarded to I.P.S. Mr. H. H. Langford. This record is an inspiration and challenge to all.

The new Red Cross film "Without Warning", telling the graphic story of the many services of Red Cross, has been requested for showing on March 17. The film will be available to the schools during the day. In the evening it will be shown during the Home and School Association meeting.

Several prizes were given to Gloria Graham, Mrs. Robert Wallace, Joe Grills, Mrs. Mary Wright, Mrs. M. Gordanier, Tom Presst, Ed. Reaman, Gerald Grills, Raymond Cooney, Harold Chantler and Mrs. B. Anderson.

Sherwood Reid's orchestra provided dance music with Harold Morgan calling the squares.

NOTICE to TRUCKERS

For the next few weeks, local truckers and others engaged in hauling over county roads will be required to observe HALF-LOADING REGULATIONS to prevent unnecessary damage during the defrosting and break-up period.

By your co-operation you will not only earn the good will of the general motoring public, but also that of the County Tax Payer. You will also benefit yourselves directly by minimizing the damage which in turn will hasten the date when you can again practise full loading.

St. Mark's W.A. Discusses Future Plans

The monthly meeting of St. Mark's Anglican church, Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Sgt. and Mrs. Wood, 84 Irving Drive, Middleton Park, Trenton, Ontario.

President, Mrs. S. Wilson, opened the meeting. Mrs. C. Rollins, secretary, read the minutes, and the monthly expense account was presented to the 17 members present, by Mrs. Lawrence, W.A. Calbury.

As St. Mark's at present is only a mission, with its services being held in the IODE Temple, Front Street, Trenton, the question is complicated of members from Trenton, Belleville, and the surrounding district. At this meeting a sincere vote of thanks was extended to the members of Trenton district who have so faithfully attended services and all church functions in Trenton.

Plans are being made for the purchase of a church site, and a proposed church building project, here in the city. The Women's Auxiliary is working assiduously to achieve this goal and it is hoped that they receive from all members the co-operation they so freely offer. Not only by working harmoniously, side by side, can the future dreams of Christian be realized.

The Sunday school is well under way and is held in the club room during church service Sunday evening.

Auxiliary meetings for this year have included a series of discussions on the ten commandments. One commandment at each meeting is explained in depth by the ministerial messages of Scripture readings.

At the February meeting held at Mrs. M. Wodzak's, Dundas Street, baskets were made up for Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Ross Macintosh, who at that time were in the hospital. A letter of thanks meeting was moved by Mrs. Calbury that Mrs. V. Breech be elected as secretary-treasurer for the year. This motion was seconded by Mrs. M. Wodzak.

Preparations for the donation of a hand-sewn blanket to the Stone Mission are being made.

Mrs. Wilman moved that a dedicated offering be taken to defray the formation of a church choir.

A stork shower basket was arranged for a Mrs. Ross Fisher to her with all the best wishes from St. Mark's.

Mrs. Work served refreshments and the social evening for this month was closed.

Avondale W.A. Holds Meeting

The March meeting of Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. T. Anger with about 22 present.

The meeting was in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. A. Boulton and Mrs. A. Daniels and Mrs. T. Anger were in charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Boulton read the Scripture. A short meditation was given by Mrs. Daniels. Various reports were read and a donation of $10 to the Red Cross given.

Several contests were much enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. T. Anger, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. G. May and Mrs. Harold Denike.

Mrs. Anger was thanked for opening her home.

Next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. John Chambers

"The Church in India," Topic At Tabernacle W.M.S. Meeting

The March meeting of Tabernacle United church W.M.S. was held in the church parlors with Mrs. May presiding, and Mrs. Duff at the piano.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Fisher in memory of Mrs. Leslie Robinson, who passed away Sunday, March 6.

The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. Duff, and the roll showed there were 15 members and one visitor present. Twenty-four calls were received. There were reports from some of the secretaries also treasurers.

Mrs. Paul, corresponding secretary read a letter from Mrs. Brown, Presbyterial secretary, thanking the W.M.S. for the money sent to defray expenses of sending bale to Korea. Miss Johnson also read a letter from Amy Mooney in Toronto, also thanking the W.M.S. for money received for bale.

It was decided to accept the invitation from Carlaw church to attend their auxiliary meeting at the end of the month. Also to accept an invitation to attend the Trenton United church W.M.S. to see the film, "Where None Shall Thirst" and on the 30th proceeded to the church next month.

The Presbyterial meeting in Picton, March 31, was announced.

The April meeting will be an Easter Thank-offering meeting and is to take the form of a potluck luncheon at 1 p.m., followed by a message from the guest speaker, Mrs. Packman.

Mrs. Hugh Wilson, secretary, read a poem "Time is Money" by Old Will Wise.

Mrs. Skeggs, Temperance and Citizenship secretary, spoke on "Temperance."

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Fisher, who was assisted by Mrs. Fisher leading the worship service, Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Hodge reading Scripture and leading in prayer.

REVIEWS STUDY BOOK

Mrs. Wood also reviewed the last two chapters of the study book, "The Christians of India" including "The Missionaries and the Indian Church"; and "What of the Future?"

"When the Lord commanded all His disciples to be His witnesses, He gave a most inclusive command. The command to go forth is of God, not man. The missionary should not go abroad until sent, implies the Holy Spirit into his soul the words "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel."

"There are many "musts" for the missionary: learning the language, the customs, the people he will always remain an outsider. This will take two years but it is worth it.

"He must study for leadership; he must be taught by the people of India seek friendship. Any air of superiority will be resented and resentment lasts a long time. The older churches in India must help the younger ones. What of the future?

"What about communism in India? We know what happened in China when Communism took over. They decided we Christian people suffered there is a major catastrophe so far as we can see. The government has let Communism but it would be wrong to say it is forcing it upon the people. The constitution of the government guarantees religious freedom. Since 1947 when we left, many of the Christian - church shown have been closed. Even greater, greater things were accomplished. We must not slacken our efforts in India.

"Then there is adult literacy. There is a great shortage of reading material in India. Two-thirds of the world population cannot read. Illiteracy is a curse of India's cannot. Distribution of Bibles is a great problem of literature dealt with by the Bible Societies but there are many countries. The Bible is printed in Tibet, Sikkim, Nepal and Bhutan. There is a great opportunity for Christian missionaries (Indian or non-Indian) to enter.

"There is also the challenge for the missionary to fight fear, poverty and hunger. The door of opportunity is open wide for

QUESTION:

. . . I've never had a recipe of yours that so far . . . I made your shortbread which is to be used in cookie press. Not having used a press before I have had difficulty in the cookies leaving the press disc and keeping their shape. . . . the shortbread is simply the melt-in-your-mouth type and I would appreciate any advice. . . . second request: how can I make good tart and pie pastry with all-purpose flour? I have always used cake and pastry flour!—Mrs. R. W.

ANSWER:

When you become experienced in using a cookie press you will forget you ever had that trouble. Butter must not be too soft.

COOKIE PRESS SHORTBREAD

Measure 1-3 lb. butter from refrigerator and let stand at room temperature 1 hour. To it add 1-3 cup fruit sugar and cream well blended. Put exactly 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour a sifter and sift it and add to the butter-sugar mixture and mix until dough forms a smooth ball. Press dough with fingertip, if no dough sticks to it, pat finger-tip is greasy, it is ready to be put in the press. Press through press onto unbuttered cookie sheet, lifting press away quickly as soon as dough comes through extruder and touches pan. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 10 minutes.

When you use all-purpose flour for pastry use best-quality shortening. These are the proportions: 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup best quality shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, about 6 1-3 to 7 tablespoons ice cold water.

QUESTION:

I shall be grateful if you could give me a recipe on how to make yoghourt cheese with powdered milk.—Rita R.

ANSWER:

That's a highly specialized question Rita. I can tell you how to make yoghourt cheese but don't know if it can be done from powdered milk which has been "whipped". The Rosell Institute at La Trappe, Quebec, where you will buy your culture could tell you probably.

HOMEMADE YOGHOURT

Heat high grade whole milk to boiling for 1 minute. Cool to 115 - 118 deg. Fahr. Inoculate with 2 level tablespoons yoghourt culture per quart of milk. Stir well. Incubate by placing the inoculated milk in its pan in a large container filled with water at a temperature of 105 to 115 deg. Fahr. which temperature you must maintain for 3-4 to 6 hours or until solid curdling occurs. At this stage you have Plain Yoghourt.

To make Cheese drain the curd by spooning it into a small sterile cotton bag and let hang for 20 to 24 hours. Turn out of bag and add little salt and work it with a spoon to blend. Store in sterile covered jars in refrigerator.

For fun why don't you try making yoghourt with reliquefied whole milk powder? Good luck anyway.

QUESTION:

You are really a marvel on food. . . you have helped me before and I feel so free in asking . . . yours is the first spot I look for and such clippings I have . . . I used to get a "Coconut Cream Candy" usually done pink also white in large slabs and cut in squares. Since no one in town now seems to make their own I cannot get it. I wonder if you have that too.—Bet.

ANSWER:

I am so glad you feel free to ask. I have not tried the following recipe, so cannot guarantee it but it comes from a reliable source.

COCOANUT CREAM CANDY

One and one-half cups white sugar, 1-3 cup milk, 2 teaspoons butter, 1-3 to 1-2 cup shredded cocoanut, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla. Slowly melt butter, then add sugar and milk and stir till sugar dissolves. Heat to boiling and boil 12 minutes (about 242 deg. Fahr. I think); remove from heat, stir in cocoanut and vanilla and beat until creamy and mixture begins to sugar slightly around edge of saucepan. Pour at once into buttered small pan, cool slightly, mark in squares.

Let me know if this is not exactly what you are seeking. It may be colored pink if desired.

SERVICE IS OUR BUSINESS

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"WELCOME" IS THE WORD FOR THESE LETTERS!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our son has just written us that he has become engaged to a girl who lives where he now lives, a city in a state several states distant from here. My husband and I and our son (grown-up) and daughter (teen-age) would like to know to whom we should write letters of best wishes about the engagement.

2. We're a present-giving family. Should we each send the girl an engagement present, or should we send her one as a family? What type of present is an engagement present supposed to be? — T.M.S.

1. First you and your husband each write to your son's fiance that most important letter, the Welcoming-into-the-Family letter, telling her how delighted you both are about the happy news, how proud you are to welcome her into your family, and that you are looking forward to the great delight of meeting her soon. (Invite her to visit you, if this is convenient.) Then you write to the girl's mother, that mother-to-mother letter you have probably to receive. It's the same idea, too, for your husband to write to the girl's parents. Your son should write his welcoming letter, and your daughter a "sisterly" letter. This is an important occasion, this establishing of relationship between the two families, and it "takes a heap of doing" to establish it with the grace and charm that show the family's thoughts are in the right place.

2. An engagement present is customarily something for the use of the girl herself, often an article for her personal trousseau. (The wedding presents are something for the new home.) You may give an engagement present from the family, or you and your husband may give one together, and your son and daughter separate ones.

GESTURE OF HONOR TO GUEST OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When there is a guest of honor at a very large affair, is it absolutely necessary that everyone be introduced to the guest of honor? Very often this isn't very convenient, and also very often, as a matter of fact, some guests do not make any effort to meet the guest of honor, and those arranging the affair do not know that these introductions have not been made. — S.W.E.

When there is a guest of honor it is important that every guest greets the guest of honor. To omit this bow-of-honor to the guest of honor is discourteous. If there is a receiving-line, every guest is expected to go down the line, greeting the guest of honor who will be standing next to the hostess at the beginning of the line. A guest arriving after the receiving-line has been disbanded should ask some member of the arrangements-committee or other person "in authority" to be introduced to the guest of honor.

ABOUT YOUR FEET

Watch your step! Is it light and graceful? Are your feet in perfect form, comfortable, so free of ills that you never have a twinging toe torment you? If you answer yes to this question you are one woman among seventy. The rest of them have foot troubles, will tell you that most of the time feet are "killing them."

Podiatrists report that the majority of these cases would find relief in correctly fitted shoes. Too many shoppers seek style instead of comfort. It's no bad since a woman can have both. Specialists offer a few suggestions that will help these misguided women to be on their toes—toes that never have to protest against shoes.

Make sure you have a basic shoe wardrobe, so you are able to wear the most comfortable shoe for the occasion. A must is a practical, medium-heeled, leather walking shoe, suitable for house-work, for the office or for long hours behind a counter. Both soles and uppers should be of flexible leather.

For dressy occasions, you can indulge in high heels but wear lower ones during the day and especially if you are running hither and, you answering the front bell, the back one and the telephone and doing housework.

A good conditioning treatment is nightly foot-soaking in warm water, followed by a short exercising session. Lift the fibers. Wiggle your toes, lift them up and down, move your feet in circles.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER PARENTS DISAPPROVE OF HER FIANCE

A young woman of 20, who is engaged to a young man of 23, writes that she is planning to be married later this year, but that the intervening months between now and then look like difficult ones to live through.

The reason for this, as she explains it, is that:

"My parents consented to the marriage reluctantly, because my fiance originally was of a different faith than ours, but he has now joined our church. However, much to our happiness is being spoiled because of the rising tension at home.

"We both have good jobs, and are trying to save money for our wedding, since we feel we will have to pay for it ourselves because of the situation at home. At present, I am compelled to do my own washing and ironing, as well as other housework, besides paying board to my parents.

"We would very much appreciate your advice on what we might do to make our home life more enjoyable between now and our wedding day."

I wish this young woman had given me more details about the causes of the tension in her home.

Does she mean that her parents' attitude towards her fiance, and her approaching marriage to him, is the sole cause of such friction as may exist?

If this is the case, and her parents are unfortunately so narrow-minded and unreasonable as to make the matter of her fiance's former faith a continuing source of controversy, then I'm afraid it may be rather difficult to achieve peace and harmony with them.

On the other hand, if the fiance is tolerant enough to accept the situation as it is, and to make a special effort to be kind, considerate and friendly with her parents, despite their attitude, then it would seem as though things might, in time, come to like him so much for himself that their disapproval would gradually fade out of the picture. Certainly, unless their attitude miraculously changes of itself, this would seem to be the only possible way out of the difficulty.

I gather that some of the tension in this young woman's home is due to the fact that she feels imposed upon and resentful because, in addition to paying board, she has housework and chores to do.

Frankly, I don't really see any reason why she shouldn't do her own laundry and lend a hand around the house, even though she does pay board, provided these things do not take up a disproportionate amount of her leisure time. After all, it seems only fair that adults living together should each contribute to the upkeep of the home, both in money and in helping with the household chores, and one's personal chores are surely one's own responsibility. If she does her part cheerfully, and without complaint, it will no doubt help a great deal towards easing the tension.

I feel sure that she, on her side, and her fiance on his, can do a lot to create and maintain an amicable relationship with parents that might, gradually, in the months before the date set for the wedding, bring about a more normal and loving attitude. I hope this young woman will give real thought to how she, personally, might change her own attitude; then try to change that which is wrong in it, and to build up a new one. If she did this, she might have a happy surprise instead of her in a changed attitude on her parents' side.

Wardrobe Being Sold at Auction

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Items for the well-dressed woman almost any woman's wildest dreams are on sale at auction at the Rochester House of the American Association of University Women.

Racks and racks in part of the estate of Mrs. Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, who died last year. She was the widow of the late publisher of the old Buffalo Times.

The collection includes nearly 1,000 dresses, gowns and negligees, 750 pairs of shoes, 1,000 pairs of hosiery, 500 hats, 200 handbags, 200 purses, 500 hats, 200 sweaters, 200 compacts and 300 pairs of stockings.

Most of the clothes bear New York, Paris or London labels. Four rooms are filled to overflowing.

Her son, Norman E. Mack, Jr., said "We felt it was the best way to get that much clothing out of the house."

Canada doesn't forget her veterans

DO YOU REMEMBER V-E DAY? Church bells pealed triumphant. Factory whistles blew till there was no more steam. Shops closed. Men and women danced and wept in the streets with joy.

And . . . when our boys came marching home . . . ah! They were our heroes then! Remember?

Townsend Quotes; Lots of Print, Nothing Definite

LONDON (CP)—In a week buzzing with rumors of his impending engagement to Princess Margaret, Group Captain Peter Townsend has talked daily with London newspaper reporters anxious to run down the story.

In Brussels, where he is the British air attache, Townsend has given the reporters plenty to print, but not too much to go on.

Here is a digest of some of Townsend's interviews:

Sunday—Howard Johnson of The Daily Mirror showed Townsend a report in The Sunday Pictorial saying an announcement was expected soon on whether the princess had decided to marry Townsend. The Pictorial added the comment: "If Princess Margaret places above all the man she loves, then she need fear no enduring rebuke."

"That is nice to hear," said Townsend. Reading The Pictorial article he laughed and added, "I see they are making me the gallant airman again."

A SURPRISE

Johnson asked if the article came as a surprise.

"Please don't quote me on this," Townsend replied, "I think it gives away too much of my thoughts . . . I would not discuss my private affairs and, what is more important, I certainly would not discuss someone else's private affairs without permission or approval. . . . There has been a lot of nonsense written about me in the past."

Monday—Johnson told Townsend the world was waiting for some hard, definite word from one of the two parties.

"The word cannot come from me," said Townsend. "You will appreciate it must come from other people. I must at all times keep quite independent."

DOESN'T KNOW

Tuesday—Townsend told Peter Stewart of The Daily Sketch:

"I know of no pending announcement. I cannot answer questions about it because I am not the prime mover in this situation. Perhaps arbiter would be the better word.

"But my loyalty to Princess Margaret is unquestionable — I would undergo any difficulties because of that loyalty. . . ."

Stewart asked about Townsend's transfer last year from a position in the royal household to the Brussels post.

CANNOT REMEMBER

Townsend said: "I cannot remember whether I applied for this job or was pushed into it. I came here because the position was impossible for both of us—particularly for her. . . .

"You must understand that the reason I cannot answer personal questions is because they are not for me to answer."

Stewart asked about Townsend's future career.

"What does one's career matter now? I used to think of a career, but now. . . ."

Townsend added that he has not applied to go back to England because "the situation might be difficult." He added:

"There can be nothing said until the time is ready or somebody does something."

Niagara Falls May Again Have Its Face Changed

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Is Niagara Falls in for another spectacular face-lifting?

Indications seemed to point that way today as engineers eyed a widening crevice extending about 20 feet back from the crestline of the American side of the falls. The crevice, they said, seems to threaten a new rockfall.

The Niagara frontier state parks commission Thursday night said the crack is an old one that has been observed before, but it apparently has been growing bigger in the last day or two.

"If a rockfall occurs it will make another definite change in the face of the falls," Joseph Devis, chairman of the parks commission, said.

A park policeman said an unfamiliar spume of water "kicking up in the air" from the Niagara river current drew his attention to the widening fissure about 60 to 75 feet off shore from the American mainland.

Observers said the crack seemed to indicate that if anything lets go it will be a huge triangular portion of the crestline. Such a rockfall would give the brink a more "orderly" or straightline appearance.

The rushing Niagara has gouged two big bites from the falls in recent months. The most spectacular was the collapse into the gorge of 185,000 tons of rock last July 28 from Prospect point, the famed observation area on the American mainland.

Last Dec. 4 about 15,000 tons of rock gave way from the brink of the falls, not far from the present fissure. That fall caused little if any change in the appearance of the cataract.

Federation Of Caribbean Isles Proposed

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) Leaders of Britain's Caribbean possessions gather in Trinidad Monday for talks which may weld the islands into a federation. The islands see federation as a step toward a Caribbean dominion raising the tropic territories to self-governing status within the Commonwealth.

The British West Indies are blessed with rare beauty but plagued by poverty. They sprawl over 2,500 miles of blue-green waters. The 3,000,000 inhabitants are largely descendants of West African slaves, but also include East Indians, Chinese, Latins and Europeans.

The island leaders are meeting Monday to seek a solution to the touchiest problem, movement of persons within the projected union. The islands now are strict about letting settlers move about.

Lord Listowel, parliamentary undersecretary of state for the colonies, will be chairman of the conference.

Cannifton

CANNIFTON — The Canniffon-Carbyville Euchre Club held its weekly euchre with six tables playing. Prizes were won by Ladies, Lorraine Curlette, Mrs. Windsor and Edith Stewart; Men, Ivy Parry, Marg. Colden and May Palmer. Lone hand, Edna Jones and the draw, Lois Wannamaker.

Mrs. McCann, of Stirling is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Thoma ,who is ill.

Mrs. Jessie Lalande, of Belleville, was a dinner guest on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Will Bleakman, and a supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. Bedell.

Mrs. Allen Soble, of Port Hope, was down over the week-end.

Mrs. Charles McGregor (nee Evelise Lemmon,) of Toronto, was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Shorey, having come down to see her grandmother, Mrs. Ed. Shorey who is in the Belleville hospital.

Mrs. Wannamaker Sr., is ill at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wannamaker.

MARMORA

Dinner Meeting Held by Belleville Presbytery L. A.

MARMORA—One of a series of five dinner and evening meetings of the Laymen's Association of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church, was held at St. Andrew's on Wednesday evening, representatives of the various United Churches in the area being present although not constituting so high an attendance as had been hoped for.

Norman Gilroy, president, of Coe Hill, presided.

Edgar Ray, secretary of the Belleville Association spoke of the important work of laymen in the church. He said that the work of Christ and His kingdom was working more in the hearts of men rather than being something that needed to be blared about.

LAYMAN'S FOUNDATION

He was followed by Don Williams who, as its secretary, introduced the Laymen's Foundation to the gathering. This new movement within the United Church, he said "was conceived and thought of last spring. It was organized last November. It was a movement whereby the laity came into close contact with student ministers to give what financial aid it could in time of need.

There were now about 30 members, and it was hoped that eventually that number would be increased to a 100. The first president is Mr. Byrne Leslie, of Belleville.

As next speaker, Mr. W. R. Tumnon, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Laymen's Association, asked his hearers to value their responsibilities as lamp-lighters for Christ, drawing his remarks from an illustration used by the late Sir Harry Lauder.

Mr. Walter T. Elliott, of Stirling, treasurer of the Laymen's Foundation, as concluding speaker, touched upon the importance of the work being undertaken.

A service followed in the church, being conducted by Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Stirling, Rev. K. J. Crawford, president of the organ, Rev. C. A. Ferguson, of Kemptville, the special preacher, read the Scripture lesson from John 13, Rev. J. F. Lane, of Madoc, offered prayer.

In his inspiring message, the preacher enlarged upon three outstanding sayings of the Master, viz 'Come', 'Abide' and 'Go'.

Rossmore

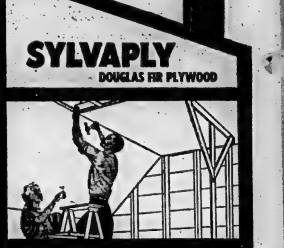
ROSSMORE — Mrs. Ken Gerow is a patient in the Belleville hospital. Friends and relatives will be glad to know she is improving.

Mrs. Florence Politti had the misfortune to fall and break her hip Monday night. She is recuperating in the Belleville hospital. All her friends join in wishing her a quick recovery to health.

Mrs. J. Empey returned home from Lindsay Saturday night, having been a guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Newton, for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Delline moved into late J. White's house Saturday.

The regular Wednesday night euchre was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reddick. Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Rose won high prizes; Mrs. D. Reddick and Mr. Kvanuck won low prizes, and the lone hand prize awarded to Mrs. Charles Reddick.



The afternoon euchre was held at the home of Mrs. J. Empey. A pleasant afternoon enjoyed and prizes awarded according to scores

How the family grows! Converting your attic to sleeping quarters for the youngsters can help to solve your space problem, it's a worthwhile project that can add greatly to the value of your home when you use real wood panels of plain or decorative Sylvaply. Because the big sheets of Sylvaply cover 32 square feet of wall, ceiling, or floor, at a time, you can do a quicker job with fewer joints.

Built-ins, cupboards, and other home improvement projects like this can be laid to build with easy-to-finish, self-framing Sylvaply in 3 or 7 ply thicknesses. Sylvaply saves on clean-up other woods with power saw or hand saw, nails close to the edge without splitting. And the system of simple glued and nailed butt joints possible with Sylvaply does away with tricky joinery details.

There are just dozens of spots around a house that can be quickly turned into useful storage space with Sylvaply. Because Sylvaply is an engineered wood panel, you can do home improvement projects easily and at low cost. Easy to saw and nail, easy to finish, Sylvaply requires only simple carpentry for cupboards or built-ins like the handy under-bannister-stairs storage cabinet shown above.

In addition to regular 4 feet by 8 feet panels, you can now buy handy sizes for those small jobs and repairs . . . Makes "doing-it-yourself" easier than ever. "Take Home" panels are available at your lumber dealers in sizes from 12 by 36 inches up. Carry these home or slip them in your car trunk.

THIS PEDAL does more than just feed gas to an eager and high-powered V8 engine.

When you give it the extra nudge that moves it beyond the full throttle position, something happens that never happened before in an automobile.

You hear a businesslike purr, which tells you that twenty power vanes, deep inside the 1955 Dynaflow Drive,* have changed their pitch — just like the variable pitch propellers on a modern airliner.

And with the same result in the way you get-up-and-go, with a safety-surge of power for pulling out of a tight spot on the highway.

Words can't describe it. It's a new sensation — something you simply must try for yourself.

There's nothing like it on the 1955 new-car horizon. Fact is, there's a lot to see at your Buick dealer's.

There's fresh new styling.

There's higher horsepower in every Buick V8 engine. There's a new Airpower carburetor. And there's good old-fashioned integrity in every nut, bolt and rivet. But, this year, don't simply make a visit to the showroom where these trim and thrilling new beauties are on display.

The smart thing to do—if you want to know what's what in new automobiles—is to get behind the wheel of a 1955 Buick and drive it. How about doing that soon?

Anti-Red Talks Get Much Credit For Nehru Victory

NEW DELHI (AP) — A united front led by Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party won a smashing victory over the Communists in the record Andhra Pradesh state poll cast still quiet less than half the voters.

Final returns from the balloting last month in the south Indian state showed the united front took 146 of the 196 seats in the state legislature but collected only 4,285,000 of the 8,630,000 votes cast.

The Reds triumphed in only 15 legislative districts but polled more than 38 per cent of the total vote.

The once-strong Praja (Peoples) Socialist party won 36 seats, 300,000 votes but wound up with 13 seats, almost as many as the Communists got with more than five times as many votes.

The Communists, and virtually everyone else, had expected the Reds to win the election. The mass of the state's poverty-stricken peasants seemed dry tinder for the spark of Red propaganda.

WISE MOVE

As a last-ditch campaign measure, the Congress party sent some of their heaviest political ammo to stump the state, including S. K. Patil, former czar of Bombay.

Observers generally gave Patil credit for most of the decisive defeat. Discrediting Nehru's cut-pedal on any criticism of Russia and Peiping, the Congress campaigners bitterly attacked India's Communists as agents of foreign Red powers.

Results of the election possibly may influence Nehru's pro-Communist foreign policy. Foreign observers say that if the Congress party men continue to preach the Red conspiracy line, the prime minister may be forced closer toward the West.

Financier Says Market Boom Now Speculative

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York financier says the stock market boom has reached the speculative stage, and the investment should move "carefully and cautiously" toward doing some buying.

"Speculation has not gone too far as yet, but there may be a time coming that it will do so, Benjamin Graham told the Senate banking committee in testimony prepared for Friday. He is chairman of the Graham-Newman investment Corp. and a professor of finance in Columbia University school of business.

Graham and Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the Sears, Roebuck and Co. finance committee, were called Friday in the committee's inquiry into American stock market conditions.

Graham offered some specific advice but drew a sweeping investor in his prepared testimony:

"The principle of a prudent investor will require him in lighter significantly his holdings of common stocks—the precise selling policy to depend, of course, on his individual position and methods.

"For the stock speculator . . . we think he has a 50-50 chance—or perhaps a little better—of seeing the market attain substantially higher than present heights, subject to the probability of intervening reactions."

But the chances of holding on to added profits indefinitely were "no better than in former bull markets —and that is none too good."

Graham was inclined to favor "a fairly rapid advance" toward putting margin requirements at 100 per cent so as to halt stock buying on credit.

Friday's other witness, Wood said buying of stock by pension and profit-sharing funds "unquestionably has had a considerable marked effect on the stock market in recent years."

However the Sears savings and profit-sharing pension fund for the most part invests only in Sears stock, Wood said.

"Dry Cleaners For Particular People"

Famous Canadian Editors, Publishers

Charcoal Sketch by Robert C. Reid

John Wesley Dafoe

It was in a log farmstead in the Ottawa Valley that John Wesley Dafoe, one of the greatest newspaper men of Canada was born, March 5th, 1866. In those early days there was more schooling, more hardship, more self-reliance and cutting out of one's own path than there is today. His mother, however, sensing an inherent greatness, got for him some years at the Arnprior High School.

At 17 he left the backwoods for Montreal and began his newspaper career in 1883 on the Montreal Star. He was also the first Editor of the Ottawa Journal but in 1896 went to Winnipeg with the Manitoba Free Press. He became Editor in 1897 to 1901, he was Editor of the Montreal Herald. In 1901, at the request of Sir Clifford Sifton, he became Editor-in-Chief of the Free Press in Winnipeg.

From 1901 he kept the Free Press steadily in front of every political struggle in Canada. From 1905 to 1920 he became a noted figure at every Imperial Conference. During these years and until the end of his life, his editorial writings commanded an authority which was unsurpassed as a moulding force in public opinion. He was Canada's greatest journalist.

It was in 1919 that he accompanied Sir Robert Borden to Paris to the Peace Conference. He refused a commission in the army in order to carry on the sole method of preventing another War. The failure of the democratic powers to oppose the rise of Hitler brought his strongest denunciations.

The advocacy for the creation of national status for Canada was one of the great causes for which he strove and from 1927 to 1939 his major duty was membership of the Rowell-Sirois Commission which was designed to study Dominion and Provincial relations. His interests, however, were not confined to Canada. He was Chairman of Canadian Institute of International Affairs and of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

Mr. Dafoe's editorials were lucid and vigorous, sparkling with his pungent wit and his ability for phrase making. He believed that language, like religion, should be respected and he never indulged in careless talk or slang. He believed, too, in the right of every human being to be given a reasonable opportunity for self-expression. His love for people extended beyond the borders of Canada to friendships. He was a great friend of young men and always had a helping hand for young journalists.

John Wesley Dafoe's greatness was recognized in his appointment of Chancellor of the University of Manitoba in 1934. He was also offered Knighthood by Lloyd George. His reply was characteristic. "What would I do with Knighthood? I sweep my own snow and mind my own furnace".

A leader in politics, a leader in national life, Mr. Dafoe found his greatest satisfaction in editing the Free Press. To that last he gave his abatement in the vigor of his mind and the clearness of his judgment. He passed away on Sunday, January 9th, 1944.

Memos Eliminate Cornwall Colts With Sweeping 6-2 Win In Sixth Game

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

RECORDS "BUSTED"

Never since the halcyon days of 1937 when the RCAF Flyers won the intermediate "A" crown, have so many fans helped to heavy walls of Memorial Arena as last night. 3186 (count 'em) cheering partisans packed the building to capacity—and the Memos did not let them down.

They fashioned two goals in the first 97 seconds and from there in fought their way to a well-deserved 6-2 victory and the right to meet Whitby or Kingston in the group finals. It was not, perhaps, the brilliant hockey that featured three previous overtime games, but it had the capacity crowd on its feet, as the Memos surged through to check the stubborn Colts off their feet and piling home a heart-warming margin of goals.

The Memos were full value for their victory. Each of the six goals was well-earned while their fore-and-aft checking held the driving Colts' offensives to non-scoring efforts. Tony Parisi, whose work in the six-game series has been one of the highlights of the semi-finals, again brought the crowd to its feet on various occasions. The popular goalie was "mobbed" by his mates after the final whistle.

The Colts proved fine sportsmen after a thrilling series, and freely mixed with the Memos after the game, shaking their hands and wishing them luck in the finals, and future.

The Memos deserved to win the series. After that 10-0 debacle in the first game they struck their true potential, whipping the Colts twice in their own corral and coming through last night with a sweeping win to end the job.

CONSISTENT!

If you believe in numbers, forget that horrible "10" and concentrate on three and four as the Memos' lucky numerals.

That big double figure marks the Memos' tragic downfall of the semi-finals series when they were swamped under an avalanche of goals, two short of a dozen.

Back to happier figures, up to last night, the club has scored four goals in each game played other than the first for a total of 24 goals.

The three lines of the Memos share the scoring glory, each having accounted for five goals with the Dunc Gray "D" line out front by virtue of five goals and eight assists for 13 points. The Dugan, Doran, Peter Jones line is next with five and nine and the Geyer, MacDonald, D. Jones trio behind them with five goals and two assists for seven points.

Keith MacDonald, who rates topflight Hlling for his consistent, hard-checking play throughout the series, shares the top scoring spot with Marss Ted DeGray, each having hit the hemp three times, with Teeder getting all his orgs in one basket. Rod Doran, Peter Jones and Erwin Duncan have accounted for two scores with Arnie Dugan, Vern Geyer, Davy Jones and Johnny Muckler are credited with singles. Edwin Duncan heads the assist parade with no less than six. DeGray has one, Erwin Duncan one, Peter Jones, two, Arnie Dugan two, Geyer and Davy Jones one each, and Peter Jones two.

Johnny Muckler is the only defenceman to score a goal, but the stalwart Hub Macey has compiled four assists. Bob Wilson and Jake Wade have an assist each.

While Tony Parisi naturally has no scoring points, his outstanding work throughout the series, despite that inaugural 10-0 setback, has been one of the highlights. "Touchem-out" Tony has been terrific in the last four games, especially while playing in Cornwall. Ed. Duncan is the "bad man" with ten minutes in the hosegrow.

THE GRAVY WON'T CHANGE

Duck hunters can rub their eyes, take the pledge, or at least swear off the last toddy before going to bed, when they see some of their trophies of the chase this fall.

For a number of the winged dinners which originate in the Florida district will now be seen in technicolor.

So if you go a-hunting don't blame it on the "brand" of hot stuff imbibed before if your pan brings down a teal resembling a flaming yellow coot. Or mayhap, the shot will send a pintails earthwards garbed in a gaudy green. If your quarry is a bluewing teal, it probably will come to earth like a flaming red comet. For that will be its color.

Bob Sheppard of the Tweed District, Lands and Forests Department, sends along an announcement from Florida. It speaks for itself. Here 'tis:

"During the past several months, personnel of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission have been engaged in banding and dyeing ducks at three localities in Florida. All species have been banded, but only widgeon, pintails, blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, ringnecks, and scaup have been color dyed.

"Birds of these species trapped at Lake Okeechobee in South Florida have been dyed red; those trapped at Merritt's Island on the central east coast have been dyed yellow, and those trapped near Gainesville in north central Florida have been dyed green. The color is quite effective and makes the birds easily indefinable both in aerial census work and in ground observations."

The Florida people, Bob says, are anxious to secure as much information as possible regarding these ducks, and any hunter who brings one down is requested to forward all information, location, date, species, number and color to the Lands and Forests Department.

Score Pair in First Minute To Retain Lead Throughout; Nearly 3200 Witness Battle

By George H. Carver
(Sports Editor)

Scoring two goals in the first two minutes of the game the Belleville Memos never looked backwards and won a well-earned 6-3 victory over the Cornwall Colts here last night to clinch the best-of-seven senior "B" semi-finals series with four victories in six games.

The Memos now meet the Whitby Dunlops or the Kingston Goodyears for the group title and the right to enter the OHA senior "B" playdowns.

The game, while not productive of the brilliant hockey that featured three overtime battles between the squads, had an all-time hockey crowd record of 3168 fans on their feet as the Memos took charge in the opening minutes and went on to pile up a 3-1 first period lead. The Colts whittled the margin to one goal in the second but the Memos roared back with a pair to lead 5-2 going into the third heat. They scored the only goal of this frame.

While rivalry was keen throughout the series, the Colts showed their fine sportsmanship after the game was over. They mingled with the Memos shaking hands and wishing them luck in the finals. The crowd stood and cheered the victorious Memos as they skated off the ice. The team almost mobbed Tony Parisi, its goalie hero, who was standout throughout the entire series.

The Memos ripped into a savage offensive at the faceoff and the pewsters had scarcely settled in their seats when the light flashed behind the Cornwall goal, Davy Jones sank the rubber from Vern Geyer's stick at the 22 second mark.

Then the Memos had the Colts offstride with the suddenness of their attack and a minute later Arnie Dugan speared a pass at play with Red Doran and Hub Macey, lashed in the second to give the Memos a 2-0 lead.

Payette got the gate for holding the puck at 7.39 and the Memos lashed in on the offensive. Bob Wilson made a perfect pass and his blazing slapshot hit the heap.

Previously Cornwall's ace sniper Moe Savard had scored on a behind-the-net play aided by Comolly and Batten drawing assists. The game was fast but rugged to both sides with the Memos getting three of the four penalties. The Colts uncorked a last-minute offensive and were driving hard as the gong rang. Memos outshot the Colts 10-7 in this period.

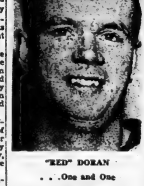
The Colts surged to the attack at the opening of the second period and Parisi kicked out four shots from close-in before the Memos got organized.

Play see-sawed furious with the checking again standing out. Memos drew a penalty for hooking at the five-minute mark but the hard-hitting Colts defence held off the driving Memos.

The Colts threw all their power on the attack and Batten beat Parisi with a screened shot from well out with Gould and Savard getting assists.

The goal sparked the Colts and they carried a lot of pressure. But after 12 minutes Red Doran backhanded a blazing drive behind Piquette from MacDonald's pass to give the Memos a 4-2 lead.

Then was assisted of the ice at this point. He apparently pulled a muscle while skating. The Memos ripped to the attack and on a pass-out Hub Macey drove in a blistering drive from the blueline that deflected off Peter Jones' stick into the net.



Parisi kicked out several Colts shots at the visitors' end on the pressure. On a return drive, Piquette, the Colts goalie, slashed at MacDonald and drew a minor penalty with O'Brien serving it. MacDonald did his part by hooking ten seconds later but no damage was done by either side. The Colts had a dozen shots on goal in this period with the Memos having seven but two of them clicked.

The desperate Colts, down three goals, drove in hard to open the third period and gave Parisi some anxious moments. The Memos' defence was playing brilliantly and with the front lines checking both ways the Cornwall efforts went for nought. "Red" Doran broke into the clear and his backhand drive from close in was kicked aside by Piquette.

Johnny Muckler went off midway through the period for slashing and spearing and again the Colts applied the pressure only to be thwarted by the Memos' outstanding tactics. No damage was done.

The Memos went on the offensive and Erwin Duncan, close on Piquette's doorstep, missed an open net by a whisker. Davy Jones and Marshall started a shoving match and both got the gate for high-sticking. With less than two minutes to go, with the Memos still driving hard, Ted DeGray took Edwin's Duncan's pass to beat Piquette for the final score of the game.

All the Memos came up with an outstanding performance with "Red" Doran, who claimed a goal and an assist, giving another brilliant performance. Davy Jones, Arnie Dugan, Ted DeGray, Peter Jones and Bob Wilson were the other Memos' sniper. Savard and Batten were the goalgetters for the Colts.

The game was featured at times, but was clean throughout with Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie handing out but eight penalties, with each team getting four.

The teams:

BOOTS FOUR HOME

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Willie (The Shoe) Shoemaker booted home four winners, including Mr. Sullivan in the $5,000-added Opening Handicap, as Golden Gate Fields opened its 90-day spring meeting Friday. Shoemaker was in front from his record of riding 8 winners at the Santa Anita meeting.

Marlies Oust Biltmores In Straight Games

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores, who took just three games to enter the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals went out by the same route Friday night. And 4,000 partisan fans didn't like it.

Toronto Marlboros trounced the Bilts 4-0 to take the best-of-five series in three straight and the second game referee Hugh McLean and the linesmen for the setback.

A number of them started fights. One of the linesmen was hit twice and McLean spent the second period in the Guelph dressing room after several fans took pokes at him. At least one Toronto supporter was taken to jail.

The outburst got out of hand in the third period when Glen Ramsay, Guelph netminder, was knocked out by a flying puck. He was revived a couple of minutes later and finished the game but by that time the fans were on the rampage. They kept the ice littered with paper for the rest of the game.

RIGGIN OUTSTANDING

Dennis Riggin, the goalkeeper who keeps hopping on to playoff teams that are still playing, turned in his usual outstanding performance. The Marlboro win, their fifth consecutive victory in the playoffs, was Riggin's first shutout this season, breaking the 32 games he played with Hamilton Cubs, three in the quarter-finals, and the nine with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

Marlbores will meet the defending Memorial Cup champion St. Catharines TeePees in a best-of-seven set to decide the league title.

Riggin kicked, caught, and turned out 31 shots, 15 in the fast first period, to keep Guelph scoreless. Toronto got the 32 for the minor penalties handed out but the Bilts couldn't capitalize.

Ramsay handled 24 shots and two Toronto's goals were scored while Guelph was a man short.

Bill Harris, with his second and third goal and fourth assist of the series, led the Toronto attack. Mike Nykoluk and Bob Pulford were the other scorers. Marlbores led 1-0 after the first and 3-0 after the second period.

Hawks, Blues Still Have Say About Stanley Cup Lineups

By The Canadian Press

Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers could yet have something to say about the Stanley Cup playoff lineup, but they must speak soon or hold their peace until a new season dawns.

Three more times the fifth- and sixth-place clubs will be on the rostrum—tonight as the National Hockey League goes into its second last 1944-45 weekend and again next Saturday and Sunday.

The last-place Hawks make their final gasp at the top-bracket leaders tonight and victory over the second-place Red Wings of Detroit would certainly rekindle any hopes Wings have of regaining the top runs from Montreal Canadiens.

SPOILING CHANCE

Rangers, too, are in a spoiler's position tonight, meeting third-place Toronto Maple Leafs at Toronto in a game that could cut Leafs' margin over Boston Bruins to a single point.

Bruins clash with Canadiens at Montreal in the third game tonight and coach Milt Schmidt doesn't entertain the high hope for victory.

Next weekend, Rangers get a chance to slow up Canadiens, playing in Montreal Saturday night, then against Toronto in New York Sunday. Hawks meet the Leafs at Toronto and the Bruins at Boston in the windup while Canadiens and Red Wings finish off at Detroit Sunday.

Schmidt's Bruins meet the most fearsome five in the NHL—by the Boston coach's own admission—at Montreal tonight.

A DEMONSTRATION

"They gave us a demonstration of their tremendous firepower in Boston last week," Schmidt said of Canadiens' big five.

"They had us man short and their dazzling combination play had the Boston fans cheering them. They were so terrific I felt like cheering them myself.

"It would be a real treat to watch Doug Harvey, Boom Boom Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, the Rocket (Richard) and Bert Olmstead on their ganging attack if you didn't know it was killing your side.

"I can honestly say I can't recall a fivesome that was as fearsome."

BRING UP AMATEUR

At Toronto tonight, Leafs will be bringing up amateur Paul Knox 21, from Toronto Varsity Blues. He'll fill in for injured Eric Nesterenko, who was knocked out of action with a wrenched knee by Bill Ezinicki the last time Leafs and Rangers met.

Even if Leafs don't have a good reception for Rangers, some 300 Porcupine fans from Timmins, in northern Ontario, will be pouring on the welcome for Rangers' Dean Prentice.

Prentice, 23-year-old leftwinger, played his early hockey with Schumacher Lions and South Porcupine Jr. A's before joining Rangers and tonight his home-town fans will honor him at Toronto.

HAWKS TRIM TEEPS

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League trimmed their St. Catharines junior farm club 7-1 Friday night in an exhibition benefit game before 2,254 fans. Proceeds of the game go towards the building of two swimming pools here.

Hawks, alternating goalie Hank Bassen with Al Rollins, moved into a 4-0 lead in the first period, matched TeePee' lone goal in the second and scored twice in the third. Ed Litzenberger with two, Dave Creighton, Gus Mortson, Alan Stanley, Bucky Hollingsworth, and Nick Mickoski did the scoring for Hawks. Barry Cullen counted the St. Catharines goal.

Saskatchewan Wins Canadian Curling Crown For First Time In 26 Years

Avonlea's Campbell Brothers Go Ten Rounds Without Loss; Manitoba Finishes Second

By WILF CHESLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan glowed with pride today, a bright one its proud name lifted by a famous curling family.

The Campbell brothers from Avonlea sealed 26 years of hopes and sorrows for Saskatchewanites as province in which curling rinks hold the same esteem as grain elevators—by winning the Canadian curling championship. Mixed grist pies in the sport.

The four solemn men—deadly serious about the sport they take up each winter after the harvest is in — captured the Macdonald-Brier Tankard Friday, going 10 rounds of play against the best rinks in Canada without defeat.

It was Saskatchewan's first championship in the 26 years the event has been held and lit the candles for its golden jubilee celebration next year.

The legislature at its afternoon sitting passed a resolution of thanks.

Premier T. C. Douglas, who distributed silver trays to the Campbells told them they had done their province proud.

A record crowd, nearly 19,000 above the previous attendance mark of 33,000 at Edmonton last year when Matt Baldwin represented Alberta, watched the biggest championship of all. Baldwin was the province's early in Alberta playoffs this year.

The Campbells were in two previous championship games, losing in 1947 and second last year. Sandy Campbell, head of the family, was on hand to see his boys win. He played lead in 1947 for his youngest son, Gerald, a nerveless skip who mastered the draw game by practising on a rink built on the for curlers.

Campbell farm near Avonlea, 60 miles northeast of Regina.

Lloyd Campbell, oldest of the brothers and third this year, replacing Gordon who was on the 1954 rink. Glen threw second rocks and Don was third. The brothers between them have won more than $25,000 in prizes curling, including eight cars.

Each rink had one match with 10 others in the round-robin play.

Roy Forsyth of Manitoba was second, losing a single game to Saskatchewan—in 10. Andy Grant of Ontario was third with seven wins and four losses. Northern Ontario skipped by Rudy Steski and veteran Reg Shaw's British Columbia rink tied for fourth place with four wins and six losses.

Nova Scotia ended with a 3-5 record for fifth in group one. Prince Edward Island tied with Alberta for sixth, each with four wins and six losses. New Brunswick had two wins and Newfoundland and Quebec each won one game.

The Campbells won the championship in the 10th round, defeating Steski 8-7 in a game which was broken up on the 12th end when Campbell and Steski each drew two counters. Steski's last rock was a hit-and-stay on the 11th and final round.

Forsyth defeated P.E.I. 19-7 in the 11th round while Shaw beat Newfoundland 11-7. Ontario defeated Quebec 13-4, Nova Scotia defeated New Brunswick 14-7 and B.C. won from Alberta 9-4.

Ontario's Grant defeated the colfers of the Saskatchewan Curling Association which paid exhibition stadium and other expenses and received the profit. The sponsoring group netted $2,000 after transportation, accommodation and meals

Bill Skrowon Will Play First For Yankees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Every season for the past five years, Joe Collins has had a fight for the first base job on the New York Yankees. Each year he's come out on top.

It's going to be the same old story in '55, except that there probably will be a different ending—he won't make it.

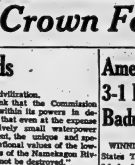
Right now you could ask manager Casey Stengel:

"Who's on first?" and you'd get a straight answer—Bill Skowron, the job belongs to Skowron so long as he proves he's a big leaguer.

FIELDING FAULT

Skowron is a hulk of a youngster who used to play football for Purdue. He hit .340 for the Yanks last year, playing only off and on, mostly because Collins stuck to his work with the bat, but the professional scouts remained cool to his fielding. To top it all he made seven errors.

Had this been during the regular season, it would have tied the record for assists for first baseman.



Meanwhile, Massachusetts has been doing some interesting research on its trout streams, all of which has definite bearing on liberalized fishing. The Department of Fish and Game is but one rule—the angler must release back into the water all trout under 10 inches. These lakes are under close observation and Commissioner Weston wants to know how the experiment works out in the long run.

Odds and Ends

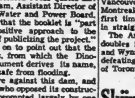
By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT.
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Salmon Tables.)

For all too many years the freshwater angler in most states found himself enmeshed in a tangle of laws and regulations which often reached the point of absurdity. Many fishermen, acting entirely in good faith, found themselves breaking laws of which they were not aware.

Now it is pleasant to report that the imposition of legal restrictions is going into reverse. Instead of complicated laws to govern the conduct of the angler, more and more all restrictions are being removed. This process is leading to a sound general heading of "liberalized fishing."

Last season five good lakes in Wisconsin were open to liberalized fishing—at any time, for any fish, what you can and keep what you want. No restrictions. All fish were included.

MUST REGISTER CATCH



Now Wisconsin is placing five more lakes on that same basis. On all these lakes the bag limit there is but one rule—the angler must register his catch at a check station before leaving the area. These lakes are under close observation and the Commission wants to know how the experiment works out in the long run.

Meanwhile, Massachusetts has been doing some interesting research on its trout streams, all of which has definite bearing on liberalized fishing. The Department of Fish and Game is but one rule—the angler must release back into the water all trout under 10 inches. These lakes are under close observation and Commissioner Weston wants to know how the experiment works out in the long run.

A creel census shows that about 30 per cent of the lakes taken from the larger streams of Massachusetts are of the hatchery variety. Thus, the natural reproduction of production can well be disregarded.

In the small border streams, crowded conditions exist so that trout growth is slow. A great many of these fish, fully ready to spawn before they attain a six-inch length. Harvesting of this immense supply would be a good conservation measure, a food supply and pocketbook stroke thereby be brought more in balance.

And as it goes, straight across the board. Evidently our fishing regulations have been too generous in the great majority of cases, liberalized fishing seems to be an indicated move toward sound fish management.

IMPORTANT DECISION

There is a river in northern Wisconsin called the Namekagon River. This is not a particularly large stream as streams go. But it runs through beautiful country and it has a friendly current, with many deep pools and gentle riffles instead of rapids. Throughout its length it holds a generous supply of small-mouth bass and its size and the character of its bottom combine to make it an ideal stream for fly-rod fishing for smallmouth.

Conditions on the Namekagon Hydro company applied to the Federal Power Commission authority to construct in the Namekagon valley a large hydro-electric dam. The power company is known as the Hydro Company brought suit. On October 20th, the decision in this case was handed down by the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis, upholding the decision of the Federal Power Commission to allow the Namekagon dam to be built.

"The tourist business is an important activity in Wisconsin, the State spending almost half a million dollars a year to advertise and publicize its resort and recreational areas.

"These advertisements emphasize the State's thousands of lakes and millions of fishermen. However, at the present time there are only 791 miles of free-flowing rivers within the State, out of a total of 10,000 miles at the time Wisconsin was admitted to the Union.

"The lower 22 miles of the Namekagon are free-flowing, free-flowing rivers. This section is a beautiful stretch of shallow water with comparatively few rapids. Canoeing is safe for children and inexperienced adults. Many groups of young people, such as the Boy Scouts, make canoe trips on it, and these trips would be prevented if the dam were built.

"This river has a national reputation as one of the best small-mouth black bass fishing streams. The uniqueness of the river is also apparent to those who make a flat trip by canoe, regarding the location of being in a forest primeval, far from civilization.

"We think that the Commission was well within its powers in determining that water for sustained yield of a relatively small waterpower development, the unique and special recreational values of the lower 22 miles of the Namekagon River should not be sacrificed."

A short time before last October, this same Court upheld, in similar grounds, the integrity of the Quetico-Superior Roadless Area in Minnesota, the ruling later sustained by the U.S. Supreme Court. Now the Wisconsin Power Company is flatly receiving the plans for the dam to be erected in the Dinosaur National Monument were tabled indefinitely.

It looks as though the Conservationists of this country, after years of heartbreaking disappointments, are at last making themselves heard.

ECHO PARK DAM

Protest comes from Washington, D.C., that the proponents of the proposed Echo Park Dam which would be erected in the Dinosaur National Monument (and which was turned down by Congress) have circulated a 16-page brochure which was distributed by the Utah Committee for Colorado River Development. This publication purports to mask clear the reasons why this dam should be constructed.

None of these booklets has not yet been sent to me. However, the Wildlife Management Institute tells me that it describes "the benefits, particularly from a recreational standpoint, that would result from such a construction."

The Associated Press quotes Mr. Jay Bingham, Assistant Director of the Utah Water and Power Board, as saying that he could clear the rest of our positive approach to the problem of building the project."

He goes on to point out that the Echo Park, from which the Dinosaur Monument derives its name, would be safe from flooding.

The drive against this dam, and I was one who opposed its construction, was largely largely by one vital reason. We believe that our National Parks should be kept inviolate from exploitation for any interests, be they Federal, State or private.

Here's hoping that this appeal to the 84th Congress will be met by treatment similar to that accorded it by the 83rd Congress.

Frankie Ryff Still Unbeaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Frankie Ryff made a scarlet smear of Danny Jo Pere' face Friday night in his 17th straight with a unanimous 10-round decision over his New York rival at Madison Square Garden. Ryff, regarded as one of the best light-weight prospects in years, weighed 140, Perez 138½.

Ryff opened a cut over Perez' left eye in the first round. His handlers were not able to stop the crimson flow and Danny's face was smeared with red the rest of the way.

Ryff, the 1954 rookie of the year, simply had too much class for Perez, a former champion who is now out for the nationally-televised and broadcast bout.

DUTTON PROMOTED

CALGARY (CP)—Norman Alexander (Mervyn) Dutton, Calgary business man and former National Hockey League president, has been promoted honorary colonel of the King's Own Calgary Regiment, it was learned Friday.

Americans Take 3-1 Lead In Badminton Series

WINNIPEG (CP) — The United States Thomas Cup team took a 3-1 lead in games over Canada Friday night in the North American zone tie at the Winnipeg Badminton Club, and needs only two more victories tonight to advance into further international play.

A 22-year-old player from Vancouver, Dave McTaggart, halted the Americans from making a clean sweep of the first night's play in the nine-match competition by upsetting Ho Yin Chan on the U.S. in singles match.

The U.S. team took the other singles and both doubles competitions. Three more singles and two doubles are on tap tonight.

McTaggart, British Columbia singles champion, took the measure of Ho Yin Chan of Toronto, 17-16, 8-15, 15-3. Smythe, Canadian singles champion, 1953, was considered his team's best bet to gather points.

Bobby Williams of San Diego and Bobby Williams of Pasadena gave the U.S. a 2-0 lead in games when they defeated Deryl Thompson of Vancouver and Gordon Simpson of Winnipeg. Williams broke even for the first time in active competition—after losing to Smythe, 15-8, 15-4.

The Americans took the second doubles in straight games, Alston Kay Rigby, Los Angeles, Calif., defeating Smithe and Bud Porter of Toronto 18-17, 15-6.

Skiing Good At Cobourg

TORONTO (CP)—Many weekend skiers will have to go north for their sport. Good Friday washed away much of the snow at ski resorts in southern Ontario.

A survey of the picture of skiing conditions:

Fair to good—Sinclair township. Fair — Beachbridge, Huntsville, Kirkland Lake, Larder Lake, Sundridge, Thompson.

Poor—Orangeville-Hockley.

No skiing—Bolton, Cedar Springs (Collingwood area), Elora (Glen Eden), Flesherton - Markdale, Gravenhurst, Kitchener, Barrie, Owasa,-Midland, Newmarket, North Bay, Peterborough-Bethany, Toronto Summit.

McGill Defeats Laval 6-4

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack McMullan scored three goals and picked up two assists Friday night as McGill Redmen defeated Laval University and Reform 30 senior Intercollegiate Hockey League fans.

Pete Constable, Gord Currie and Herb English counted the other markers for the second-place Redmen. Paul Labrie paced the Laval attack with two goals while Bob Lafreniere and Marcel Carbonneau scored the others.

'Puck' Roams Beliveau Home But He Is a Cocker Spaniel

By SHIRLEY MORRIS

MONTREAL (CP)—It's difficult to tell from his name that Jean Beliveau is a hockey player.

A big cushion with a picture of his team-mate Bernie Geoffrion is propped on a couch in the den. A black cocker spaniel named Puck roams around. But these are the only signs of hockey that Jean and his blonde wife, 23-year-old Elise, have in their smartly furnished apartment.

Elise has remained quiet and modest while her husband has gained fame as a forward for Montreal Canadiens. Jean is one of the National Hockey League's leading point-getters, but Elise says only, "I know he's good."

She admits she has never thought about the fact that her husband is famous in the sports world. She has just accepted it.

"I suppose I have been very nice to us," Elise says. "We have an unlisted telephone number but some of our friends manage to call us."

They usually want to talk to Jean, sometimes to tell him he played a good game, but the occasional call is from a fan.

"Lots of women called me while we were engaged and told me not to marry him, I never bothered to find out if they were jealous. I just dared to."

Elise is puzzled about one aspect of Jean's career. He seems to be changed with so many names.

"His only name is Jean," his wife said. "Jean is usually call him Jean-Marc, and some in Montreal call him Jean-Guy and Bill."

Elise William comes from the nickname coined by French-speaking fans, "Gros Bill" which means Big Bill.

Elise confessed that Jean himself doesn't like the nickname.

The young woman has adapted her living to her husband's irregular hours. Even in a strange city, she stays in their apartment by the town of Mount Royal, a quiet residential community. As soon as Jean goes on the road, Elise visits her widowed mother in Quebec City where she grew up.

The strain of Jean's competitive playing doesn't affect the private lives of the Beliveaux. "He never gets nervous before a game," she says.

Jean is one husband who says his wife is a better automobile driver and maybe that's because Elise taught him. They put their share of traffic violation tickets together. "Now my speeding ticket's are for parking," Elise says.

She also taught her husband to speak English. Her mother is Irish, her father French and Elise is bilingual.

When Elise was asked how many children she wants, she replied promptly, "four boys." Then she added, "if there happens to be one girl, it's not going to hurt much."

She made it clear she doesn't want her sons to be hockey players because she is worried about injuries. "I try not to think much about Jean being hurt, but I still do."

Cooking poses no problems for Elise since Jean likes plain, solid food. Pastry, she admits, before game time, lots of milk, and no cigarettes.

Besides steak, his favorite foods are rare roast beef and chicken.

The young couple, who were married only two years ago, like to entertain friends. Italian food with other hockey players and their wives after a game.

Elise has met the wives of all the Canadiens but they are not a close group as many fans believe. "I sit within a few rows of Mrs.

70 Athletes Represent Canada At Pan-American Games

By ROB MYERS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The opening curtain goes up late today on the Pan-American Games, the first bright flags of 22 nations and territories in North, Central and America ready to be unfurled in the pre-meet spectacle. Canada will be represented at the festive time with 70 athletes.

Thousands of fans are expected to witness the parade of the hosts' athletes, the arrival of President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and the leaders of the Pan-American Congress and the International Olympic committee.

The setting shortly before sundown will be the huge Olympic, one of the many architectural wonders constructed on the campus of the National University, some 11 miles from the heart of Mexico City.

Mexico loves at show and this pageant promised to reach the ultimate in grandeur. The stadium is ready trimmed with music, songs and dancing typical of the host country.

To carry out the Olympic theme for this western hemispheric Olympics, such familiar touches as the arrival of the runner bearing the burning torch, and the mass recitation of the Olympic oath, will be staged.

Sunday, ceremonials over, the athletes will merge into action right in to whirl. When it comes to the end of March the championships in 18 sports will have been decided.

Officially, there is no team championship. But unofficially the team scoring will be kept—10 ica, points for first places, five for seconds, and four, three, two and one for the remaining top finishers.

The results show goes on in the stadium where the track and field events come off. Interest here is high in the Pan-American Games in Australia. The United States, with a team that included world holders and 1952 Olympic champions, is heavily favored to head off most of the host nations.

Three finals will be run off tonight. In the men's high field events the men's high jump and the 10,000-meter run and the women's discus throw.

Other competing nations on hand include Argentina, Bahamas, Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Chile, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Republics, Panama, Paraguay, Puerto Rico, Uruguay and Venezuela.

The Pan - American Congress which sponsors the games has awarded Cleveland the 1959 games.

The shipboard teams from the United States, which has 350 men and women here, and Mexico, will be

The compact Canadian team, which will make quick transition to the BE Games, is entered in a half-dozen sports and stands a good chance of winning at least a couple of gold medals.

Canadians will take part in track and field, swimming, ladies' basketball, fencing, wrestling and the modern pentathlon, the decathlon, synchronized swimming team from Peterborough, Ont., is considered one of the best in North America.

Softball Meeting Held Tomorrow

The Belleville District Softball League is holding its annual meeting tomorrow afternoon starting at 2.30 in the West Moira Street Fire Hall. Much important business is on the agenda including the election of officers for the coming season.

President Gord Steward is anxious to have a full turnout of softball representatives and delegates so the proper arrangements can be made before spring sets in.

admits weighing 170 pounds and makes it look good.

Before going into track and field, Jackie was a swimmer and diver for the University of Toronto, played basketball with the Toronto Globe Trotters, and started teaching at school.

She likes to dance, sew—"I make most of my own clothes"—and ride a motorcycle. Asked how fast she travels, she replied "It only goes 80 miles an hour."

She finished second in the shot at the British Empire Games in Vancouver last summer and has yet to do as well and maybe better this year.

Her best distances are 44 feet, 10 inches in the shot and 126 feet with the discus. The shot mark surpasses the winning heave of 40-10¾ by Canada's Ingeborg Pedlar. Mrs. Pedlar is the first games champion to retire. The other girl also won the discus in Buenos Aires with a mark of 126-5¾.

Golden Glamour Girl Athlete Rides Motorbike, Makes Duds

By MURRAY, ROSE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Glamor girl of the second Pan-American Games is a pert, pretty, petite blonde school teacher from Toronto who rides a motorcycle at 80 miles an hour and makes her own clothes.

And fellows, this queen of the games is single and not spoken for. Centre of all eyes and the target of the amateur and professional photographers is Jackie Macdonald, Toronto's 22-year-old shot putter and discus thrower.

Jackie stands five-foot-10 and weighs 160 pounds and not an ounce nor an inch of her seems out of place.

She's a stickler wherever she goes and that's a major honor because there are a lot of good lookers from every nation competing in these western hemisphere Olympics, including Virginia Grant of Toronto, a six-foot swimmer who

It does not take much to make a slam when an opener makes a jump bid of any kind on the second round. But what is the picture you get of his holding when he comes in with such a jump?

Hold the north hand shown here:

♠10 8 5
♥K 6
♦A Q 8 7 2
♣J 7 4

Suppose the bidding starts off like this:

South	North
1 Diamonds	1 Spade
1 Club	4 Diamond

What do you know about the hand held by your south partner after his second round jump assist of your suit? What are not expected to do about it? What should you do about it with the hand you have?

You know that south does not have nine tricks. Why? With nine he could have opened with a bid of two no trumps. Actually, he tells you he has exactly eight tricks with adequate support for diamonds.

Why do you know he has eight tricks? Your first response shows more than two tricks; at least three. A jump bid shows enough for game. So, he must see 11 tricks. With your three he must have eight.

He could have jumped in a new suit if he had another biddable suit. Or jumped a rebid in clubs if his club suit was rebiddable. Having studied these, what is the picture you get of his hand?

He has four or more clubs and four or more diamonds and shorts in the other two suits to make up the eight tricks. And he is telling you there is probably a slam if you have more than two tricks.

So, you now rise to four diamonds to encourage that thought. He will then bid four-no-trump to ask how many aces and kings you have. From the information you then give him he can tell if a slam is sound.

Such a picture of his hand is not a necessity. But it is one of the key points of bridge playing. You get more fun out of it.

RCHA Gunners Win Hoop Title

OTTAWA (CP)—Gunners of the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, have won the British zone basketball championship in Germany. It is the third straight year a Canadian Army team based in Europe has won the title.

Army headquarters said Friday the Gunners, captained by Lieut. Jim Lowe of Toronto and Ottawa, played 34 straight games without a loss. In the final, they swamped the 1st Cameronians, a British unit, 78-43. The team now goes to England to defend the British Army basketball title held by the Canadian Army for the last two years.

Members of the team besides Lowe include Maj. Jay Turner, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Many TV Shows Being Shot At the Hal Roach Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You can spend a cannon down some studio streets and not hit a movie star these days. But it's a different story at the Hal Roach studio.

The joint is jumping. Every stage is occupied by TV film companies and the Roaches are making plans to build more. Among the series shooting there are "My Little Margie," "The Life of Riley," "It's a Great Life," "You Are There," "Public Defender," "Waterfront," the Stu Erwin show and "Passport to Danger."

I was passing by the last set when I spied the star, Cesar Romero, standing outside. I asked him how he liked the TV film routine.

"It's work," he said. "Hard work. I suppose there's an quality in it somewhere. That's what they keep telling me."

Romero has done 22 "Passport to Danger" films and it looks as though he'll be stuck with a lot more. The show, in which he plays an intrigue - hunting diplomatic courier, appears set for a long run. He has had to turn down five movie roles in order to stick with the series, so he must have faith in its money-making potential.

But all work and no play makes a dull boy. He gets time off between shooting sessions to take a trip here and there, and has just returned from a jaunt to Cuba.

Then G, pop, why did you tell him you bought you did? I said, and pop said, Because I'm a 4 flusher, like every other man that hates to admit he doesn't know the answers.

But jimminies, pop, sometimes when I ask you something, you wont tell me even when you know the answer, if you dont think the question makes enough sense, I said, and pop said, That proves I prefer to show off before strangers, and the only thing that will restore my pride is to make some stranger show off in front of me. Did you ever hear of a Droodle Street? he said.

No sir, I said, and pop said, neither did I. And he stopped talkman going past, saying, Pardon me, sir, can you tell me just where Droodle Street is?

Larple! Let me see, Larple, pop said. It seems to me its somewhere around here, but that's as far as it seems to me, he said, and the man said, well, thanks just a same.

And he kept on going and so did we, pop saying, I never heard of Larple Street, to tell myself the honest truth.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was up on the Avenue with pop on our regular Saturday walk, and I was asking him about diffrent subjects such as how it would feel to be shot at, for things like gold just by touching them, like King Midas, and pop claimed it would feel good enough to him if he could even tern them into silver, and some one stepped pop, saying, Could you tell me if Larple Street is in this nayborhood?

AT THE CAPITOL — Stewart Granger, rumored to have died, proves to be very much alive as he embraces Robert Taylor's young wife, Ann Blyth, after coming aboard Taylor's whaling ship in the tropics. The scene is from M.G.M.'s spectacular Technicolor drama, "All the Brothers Were Valiant," filmization of Ben Ames Williams' adventure story of two seafaring feuding brothers who prove their valor in a thrilling ship's mutiny. The picture, filmed largely in Jamaica in the British West Indies, will be shown Monday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program is Technicolor, excitement and laughs "Take the High Ground" starring Richard Widmark, Karl Malden and Elaine Stewart.

I think it's in this vicinity, but I cant say just where, the man said, and pop said, Thanks a lot, that helps me more than your realize.

And he lit a cigar and kept on going, looking as if he felt perfect again.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which ur birthday comes and find at your outlook is, according the stars.
R MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — good day for trying the new d the unusual—if smartly stud- for flaws, inconsistencies. Lend ur resources to bring about hap- r relations between people, ends, at home.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — ke overtures to help others un- rstand your methods. Don't try fill them with awe. Healthy nking and living, cheer and d humor bring more gain than realize, hold friends.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — dy your agenda well: also at others are doing, what is ntinual and what is not. "Live ern" is a good motto to ow! Don't indulge in petti- s.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — ercise caution in all matters ralining to home, family, per- al income. Moderation and a dy attitude are your best aids. all-round responsiveness. ws important; be well informed.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — u should do well today — es- ially during the early hours en influences stimulate all-out rt. Of course, essentials need per study. So hurry—but bout haste, eh?

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Not an unfriendly day, not particularly propitious per — especially for difficult or enuous matters. P.M. likely to ng news to lift you out of the ndrum. Enjoy the brighter s.

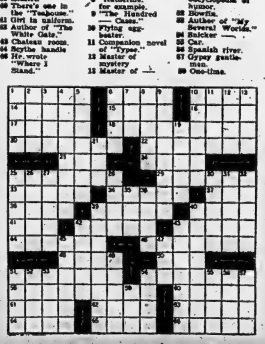
September 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Be ready for the unex- ted — most likely: between a.m. to 5 p.m. No "blue" Mon- day but it does ask a smile and steady purpose. Sincerity and a give-and-take attitude will in- sure true gains.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Be hopeful in all matters; be studiously careful in business investments. Give pro- per attention to children' causes. Watch a tendency toward being too carefree.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You will have to keep pace with facts, and the trend of events. No excuses! And remember, real friends won't flat- ter or nag.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — More auspicious in some respects than in others. Be guided by sound thinking, well organized efforts. Major theme for day's goal: knowing facts. Finish what you start where pos- sible.

February 21 to March 20 (Pis- ces) — Mild vibrations. You will probably find minor matters, us- ual routine moving more smooth- ly than the more or less complex situations. Maintain poise and a calm exterior no matter what oc- curs: it will further your game.



YOU BORN TODAY are an in- nately just, generous person. You may, at times, be too fond of pleasure, leisure. Stay at your life's work steadily: you expect success which can be yours. Do not procrastinate; the time for ac- tion is now. 1955 can be produc- tive for those of you who attend to your business. Also use ably your creativeness and other tal- ents. Keep alert to just demands and obligations. Be careful in money matters. Pray and believe in those prayers. Birthdate of: Albert Einstein, physicist; Jordan Straus, Austrian composer.

Two Organizations Offer Plans to Stamp Out Addicts

VANCOUVER (CP) — While police hound narcotic pedlars and the underworld wars for control of the multi-million-dollar racket, two organizations here have offered plans to stamp out drug addiction.

Officials say British Columbia has an estimated 3,000 drug addicts, 35 times the number in Ontario, the next most-affected province.

Police chief Walter Mulligan of Vancouver, where most of the trouble therefrom such as arthritis, stemming from, has a narcotics squad, and the city's health department has a special unit to deal with addicts.

Narcotics Anonymous, founded by Mrs. Edna MacCulla, has a plan to provide separate centres for medical treatment and rehabilitation. At the same time the organization wants stiffer penalties for drug possession and trafficking, along with strong police enforcement.

WANT WILLING PATIENTS

The organizations agree that sensitive use should be made of psychiatric treatment and that there should be no prohibition of drugs. "We don't believe we can succeed with people who don't want to quit," Dr. Foulks says. There will be no medical attention supposed treatment centre.

Mrs. MacCulla says she does not think the treatment policies would have much success without a tougher police crackdown.

Dr. Foulks says a roundup of all addicts in Vancouver would fill prisons to overflowing. "It is an illusion to feel you can drop all other work and rely on law enforcement."

Mrs. MacCulla has also criticized the chest's rehabilitation centre site in the greater Vancouver area.

Psychiatrists Given New Tools To Fight Disease

MONTREAL (CP)—New drugs have given psychiatrists new tools for treating and studying mental illness. Three types of these drugs will be discussed at a conference in Montreal March 26 attended by psychiatrists, biochemists and pharmacologists.

Two of the drugs, chloropromazine and reserpine, bring about a state of tranquility in highly agitated patients without clouding consciousness and permit psychotherapy to begin at once. Under the usual sedatives it sometimes takes two or three months.

The third drug is a lysergic acid derivative that gives a normal person all the major symptoms of schizophrenia. The experimenter suffers panic, confusion and delusions producing what psychiatrists call a "model psychosis". It enables them to study both the emotional and physical processes of a schizophrenic.

KNOWN IN INDIA

Of the three drugs, reserpine has the most interesting background. It is a pure chemical derived from a snake-root plant which has been used for centuries in India to treat epilepsy, insanity, cholera, and even blindness.

Until this century, the Indians simply ate the roots of the plant. In 1931, the plant, named rauwolfia serpentina, was studied by Indian doctors who were looking for pure, powerful chemicals. They isolated five alkaloids, of which two had the power to lower blood pressure.

Western scientists had their first look at the snake-root plant while an estimated million patients were using it in India to relieve high blood pressure. Reports soon drawback was that the potency of the rauwolfia tablets varied greatly.

ISOLATED IN 1952

A Swiss chemist finally isolated the hypo-tensive and sedative substance of the tablets in 1952. The effects of the substance, named reserpine, were surprising in potency and predictable in effects in animals.

Samples were dispatched to medical centers for the first clinical tests. Preliminary results showed that the drug could reduce hypertension. Much later, mental hospitals reported that daily administration of reserpine resulted in a quieting effect enough to calm wards.

One young woman who had been treated for seven years in a succession of mental hospitals was described as destructive and dangerous. She was kept in restraint at all times. Two months after treatment with reserpine, she became sociable and coherent.

One hospital noted that with the use of reserpine, less time is spent in restraining patients and more time in treating them.

Move to St. Kitts

WINDSOR (CP)—Officials of the Penberthy injection company said Thursday the plant's entire operations will be moved to new quarters in St. Catharines as soon as possible. The plant employs 65 hourly - rated workers here. It makes high pressure valves for use in industry.

R. S. Wilmot, plant superintendent, said the move was being made to place the operations closer to the parent plant, the Aniline-Imperial Company, Limited of St. Catharines.

PLAN MEDICAL CENTRE

TORONTO (CP)—Steven Polon, president of Tower Investments Ltd., said Friday his firm plans to build a 15-storey co-operative medical arts building at Bay and College streets, across from Eaton's in downtown Toronto. He said it would cost $7,000,000 and would contain 185 offices and a clinic-hospital on the top three floors.

SEE STRANGE LIGHT

TORONTO (CP)—A strange orange light, fizzling a long tail, was reported seen over Toronto at midnight. Observers from many parts of the city telephoned Malton airport to describe the "flaming ball." An airport official, who had not seen the light, could give no meteorological explanation for it and said there were no aircraft reported in the vicinity at the time.

Wellington on the Lake

THE SHAMROCK

It rests upon the window sill—
A plant of rarest beauty—
Its presence gives the heart a thrill
Dispelling thoughts of duty.
Its bloomest, pink and white, allure
My thoughts to home and Erin's shore.

It is a green and thrifty plant
Though far from home 'tis growing;
And if its flowers hold fragrance scant
A glamor they are throwing.
O'er these drabs days of early spring
Till exiled hearts rejoice and sing.

O sturdy little Irish flower
To me you teach a lesson—
Tho' foreign skies may o'er us lower
Still may we be a blessin'
And bring to days all dull and drear
A bit of brightness and of cheer.
—Helen B. Anderson.

While St. Patrick's Day, March 17, is being celebrated by Shamrock Teas and other social functions, it seems only fitting that this column should also honor the memory of the missionary who brought the gospel to Ireland many years ago. And in our contemplation of St. Patrick and his work, we naturally think of Erin and its people whom he so wonderfully served. Ireland, although a troubled land, is very dear to the native born, many of whom settled in Wellington and Hillier in the early pioneer days. And although making good in Canada they never forgot the Emerald Isle. We quote the following from Norah Holland's poem "A Song of Erin"

One by one her children leave
Her sealwart sons and daughters fair,
Straining eyes grow dim with anguish as her hilltops melt in air;
Bending from her cliffs she watches, drinking deep of their despair.
Yet she showers her gifts upon them, gifts of laughter and of tears;
Gives their eyes the Vision splendid, fairy music to their ears,
Weaves around their feet her magic—spells that strengthen through the years.
So her children, unforgetting, bowsoe'er their footsteps roam,
Turn their thoughts forever westward, longing for the day to come.
When once more they see her stooping from her heights to call them home.

A CREDIT TO YOUR COMMUNITY

Most of us are inclined to take for granted the superb entertainment and education brought into our homes by Television.

It is only when trouble develops in reception that we begin to realize what a complicated mechanism it really is — and that only an expert with many years of training and experience is qualified to diagnose and remedy the trouble.

Your local Television Serviceman is such an expert. He has spent up to four years studying electronics and must constantly take refresher courses to keep up on changes in receiver construction. In addition he must invest from $10,000 in test equipment, bench apparatus, tools, service truck and inventory of parts and tubes.

Your Television Serviceman is an integral part of your community with a substantial investment at stake in its growth.

Two Sealing Fleet Vessels Crippled Off Atlantic Coast

One Has Rudder Trouble, Another Damaged by Ice

HALIFAX (CP) — The heartless jinx of the east coast sealing fleet Sunday night clutched two crippled ships, one off the craggy coast of Cape Breton and the other in the ice-strewn waters north of Newfoundland.

Transport department marine radio operators along the Nova Scotia coast, alerted for new trouble in the 346-ton Bayer, last heard from in trouble off Cape Breton.

Her brief message Sunday morning said only that she was having rudder trouble and needed assistance.

The Sainte Addresse, out of St. John's, Nfld., reported her course in trouble with a hole in her port bow.

DOZEN SAILED

It was not known whether the Bayer had reached the sealing grounds, or whether she was one of the fleet of a dozen, nine from Halifax, which sailed out of the harbor at St. John's, Nfld., at the first of the season.

Company officials declined to answer questions about the number of men aboard her, her course, or whether the company planned to help her.

Meanwhile reports trickled into St. John's Sunday night saying the Sainte Addresse had run afoul of ice and was quitting the grounds before dawn Monday.

Reports from her home port of Cape Union said she had a hole in her port bow but was the only damager. Size of her crew is not known.

The last time a sealing fleet had year took three ships, but their crews escaped.

ICE TAKES TOLL

Sixty years ago the sealing fleet numbered between 300 and 400 ships, but modern ships and unequaled by disheartened owners that this year only the dozen headed north.

They carry the most modern radio and sealing equipment, but are never a match for the grinding ice fields where they find the young seals they seek.

Russians Aware Of Horrors Of Atomic War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest recently expelled from Russia said today the Soviet people are "very much aware" of the horrors an atomic war would bring.

Rev. Georges Bissonnette said the "horror of it is stressed" continually in Russian literature. He added the opinion that the Russian people are "very much afraid of war," but not "maimed" to the fact that they are being "excited by bloodthirsty capitalists" and that they might have to "fight for their existence."

The 33-year-old priest discussed his experiences in a copyrighted interview published by the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

Father Bissonnette stressed that his comments were based on personal observation.

Dental Professor Loses Friendship Of Colleagues

TORONTO (CP)—A University of Toronto professor says his colleagues at the faculty of dentistry "never speak to me" because he is against fluoridation of the city's drinking water.

Dr. J. H. Johnson Sunday night was a member of a panel opposing fluoridation at a meeting of a similar panel spoke in favor of it.

Dr. Johnson condemned "phony jump-ups and self-appointed scientists" who unreservedly favor fluoridation.

U.S. Increases Foreign Aid In Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reported today a "significant acceleration" of foreign aid operations that year in Asia, "where communism is stepping up its efforts of expansion."

A report covering the July-December period of 1954 was prepared for Congress by the Foreign Operations Administration, headed by Harold Stassen.

As said, the agency is spending the $2,800,000,000 in new appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, and $2,500,000,000 in carryover funds.

QUARTER FOR ASIA

One fourth of the new appropriations were earmarked for Southeast Asia and the western Pacific, FOA said in through March 1 this year it had approved $535,600,000 in that area for military and mutual security programs other than military assistance.

Eisenhower, in a letter transmitting the report, noted the stepped up activities in Asia and, speaking of the over-all pr-gram, added:

"These world-wide programs of military aid and of economic development and technical co-operation are instrumental in promoting security and economic progress of the United States and our co-operating partners in the free world."

The report emphasized strongly the shift from Europe to the underdeveloped areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The storm which prompted rain in southern Ontario today turned northward and is giving snowblizzards in northern Ontario. However, a developing storm in the southwestern United States will bring clouds and rain to southern districts and snow to northern districts Tuesday. The cold northerly winds of Sunday will give way gradually to milder southerly winds, and mild temperatures are forecast for tonight and Tuesday.

WORST BLIZZARD OF SEASON HITS SASKATOON AREA

18.5 Inches of Snow Deposited in District

REGINA (CP) — Winter took what westerners hoped was its dying kick at the prairie provinces this weekend. It was a good, healthy swat with no holds barred.

In Saskatoon, the storm which broke Saturday night and continued without let-up until late Sunday night, was declared one of the winter and the worst March storm since 1951. In 22½ hours it deposited 18.5 inches of snow in the Saskatoon area.

In southern Saskatchewan, winds that at times reached 55 miles an hour whipped four inches of snow into blinding drifts which hid highways and played havoc with bus and train schedules at many points.

Roads in southern Manitoba were blocked as five inches of snow, driven by Sunday night's winds gusting up to 39 miles an hour piling the fall into drifts. And in Saskatoon, the Manitoba storm moved eastward.

Alberta escaped the storm though forecasts were for snowflurries this morning in southern areas.

Dead are: Jack Landon, 30, of New York City and Elizabeth Marie Vasordien, 30, of Detroit. Mich. Miss Hazel Lynch, also of Detroit suffered a compound fracture of the skull and was in critical condition. She was taken to hospital in Montreal.

Jean Jones, 20, also of Detroit, identified as owner of the car, suffered cuts and bruises. Her condition was described as not serious.

Police said Landon was the driver of the car. The four American Detroit suffered a compound fracture of the skull and was in critical condition. She was taken to hospital in Montreal.

Jean Jones, 20, also of Detroit, identified as owner of the car, suffered cuts and bruises. Her condition was described as not serious.

Police said Landon was the driver of the car. The four American cans were returning from,'a skiing holiday in the area and were badly smashed police had to cut the bodies and injured from the wreckage. The driver of the truck was unhurt.

Lifeboat Upsets, 19 Are Drowned Off Italy's Coast

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters) — Nineteen seamen were drowned during the night when a lifeboat from the British luxury liner Strathaeden capsized while carrying crew members to the Greek freighter Jason which sank in the Ionian sea, reports reaching here said today.

The dead included two Britons and 17 Greeks. Survivors were Strathaeden's crew and 11 members of the Greek ship's 15-man crew.

The Britons and four deamen from the Jason's crew were picked up from the storm tossed sea.

The 23,732 - ton British liner steamed into the area, just off the heel of Italy, after the small Greek ship radioed that her engines had failed and she was foundering in heavy seas. Italian corvettes and a rescue plane also sped to the scene.

The 448-ton Greek ship's batteries had failed and she was limping from Piraeus, Greece, to Scotland. She lost her direction and sank.

Woman Burned At Ski Resort

ST. SAUVEUR, Que. (CP) — A 24-year-old woman, believed to have been a Montreal model, was burned to death and others injured early day when fire swept a two-storey frame house in this ski resort centre.

He said he was not reassured by Churchill's assurance given to the House of Commons that the amount of radiation produced in the atmosphere by nuclear explosions was very small.

These scientific experiments, he said, increased the possibility of a wide change in the whole composition of the air. Saying the long-term effect of radition was not known, he asked "would it not be worth while having an authoritative statement made by scientists drawn from both sides of the Iron Curtain?"

The Labor leader asked: "Cannot a halt be called to further experiments on either side of the Iron Curtain?" He was pressing with anxiety at this continued experimentation. "How would it be to institute a conference of interlational agreement?"

Hefferingly in the illness in 1953 which kept Churchill from trying to arrange such top-level talks, Attlee said the illness had cooped at an unfortunate time for the world.

Churchill disclosed for the first time that while on Easter leave back from the United States last July on its rules in all cases or whether there was "some other reason in some cases." he said.

The Sunday Pictorial of London's 11 Sunday papers gave prominent play to the reported romance.

The Sunday News urges Buckingham Palace to make a public statement about the marriage reports.

"The truth must be known in full without delay," Reynolds News says. "Is it not time court advisers decided to recommend a statement that would either demolish or confirm the rumors?"

In Sydney, Australia, the morning Sun-Herald announced it had fired the correspondent who, after an interview in Brussels with Townsend Friday night, quoted her as saying:

"If a situation should demand it, I would marry the right man, lady, we should, of course, accept it."

Townsend Sunday described this statement as "pure invention" and said that he would "continue to refuse to express any opinion on the private affairs of Princess Margaret."

The Sydney paper said that after the paper's correspondent, Richard Martin, it was "satisfied that Group Capt. Townsend did not use the words he now denies."

Bishop of Bradford Urges Princess to Give Up Townsend

LONDON (AP) — An Anglican bishop, who two years ago warned King Edward VIII against marrying a divorcee, urged Sunday that Princess Margaret abandon say plan to wed divorced RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Dr. Alfred Blunt, Bishop of Bradford, says in an interview with the Sunday newspaper The People that he did not see how Queen Elizabeth II, as "defender of the faith", could consent to her sister entering such a union.

The Church of England has steadfastly opposed the remarriage of divorced persons, even when they are the innocent party, in Townsend's case.

The bishop says that if newspaper reports about the princess' social plans were true, "it would seem that the only course open to her for one of the parties involved to say they would not go ahead with the plans."

The bishop caused a wide stir when two years ago Edward, now the Duke of Windsor, against marrying Wallis Warfield Simpson.

The paper quotes Bishop Blunt as saying he did not see how the public could relax its rules for Margaret.

"The church would in fact have to decide whether it was to insist

Two Scientists Stand Firm In Warning Against Radiation

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Two leading American scientists Saturday stood firm today on their radiation warnings, while there was a flurry of reports over possible harmful effects from Nevada atom-bomb test.

The scientists split off a controversial dust, drifting eastward from Nevada, may be a threat to Colorado's public health.

Governor Ed Johnson of Colorado termed the statement a "public-ity stunt" and said the scientists "should be arrested." Spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said they had discussed the situation but declined to give scientists after learning of their statement. The spokesman said the AEC does not consider radio activity from the Nevada tests dangerous.

conferred Sunday with Dr. Ward Darley, Colorado president.

Afterward, the scientists told reporters they remained at by their statements. They said it was not their intention to alarm the AEC.

However, Lanier and Puck reaffirmed that the safety margin between radiation in Colorado as a result of the Nevada tests and known long-range dangers for the state's residents. They said the bad effects might be "several times" the safe operations."

They then urged that an intensive study be made to determine what is a "safe" radiation dose. They said the safety margin has been revised downward several times. The mean exposure margin has been obtained thus far.

Darley said he believed the conclusions were the scientists' remarks stemmed from the difficulty of translating scientific informa-

Attlee Is Fearful Churchill May Be Wrong About H-Bomb

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor leader Attlee suggested today that Prime Minister Churchill might be miscalculating in estimating that it will be long before the Soviet Union has hydrogen bomb equality with the West.

Opening a House of Commons debate on a Labor motion censuring the government for not calling top-level talks with Russia, he said:

"There have been many miscalculations before. The pace of scientific advance is almost miscalculated.

"That perhaps tended to give some people an unwarranted suggestion that delay was possible in the hope that we could get what we could go on without worrying too much."

He said he was not reassured by Churchill's assurance given to the House of Commons that the amount of radiation produced in the atmosphere by nuclear explosions was very small.

These scientific experiments, he said, increased the possibility of a wide change in the whole composition of the air. TOWNSEND SAYS PRINCESS HAS NOT DECIDED TO WED

So Far as He Knows No Decision Yet Made

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Group Capt. Peter Townsend said today that as far as he knows Princess Margaret has made no decision to marry him.

The 40-year-old divorced air hero issued his statement through the press section of the British embassy here, where Townsend is air attache.

In the statement Townsend refused to a previous report quoting him as saying he and a "certain lady" would accept exile if necessary.

"This implies that Princess Margaret has made a decision. That is his statement continued. The Princess has made no such decision known to me, nor have I any reason to believe she has made such a decision."

NO MORE INTERVIEWS

Townsend said today:

"I have already described this alleged statement as a pure invention and said that it should be completely disregarded. In view of this statement, again of course alleged to have been made to me, as well as a number of other statements also attributed to me, I shall now be forced to seek escape from reporters."

Belgian dodging reporters ever since he came to Brussels in 1953. Townsend has made himself available to questioners for the last week. He refused repeatedly, however, to answer specific questions about his relations with the princess.

Soviet Red Diplomats For Espionage

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish government is expelling all members of the Romanian and Czechoslovak legations involved in military spy cases, a reliable source said today. The reported "everybody concerned" w a s ordered to leave Sweden.

Sweden moved quickly against the legations of the two Soviet satellite countries after security police dug up two nation - wide Communist spy rings and jailed 11 persons.

The police linked the spy rings to Romania and Czechoslovakia.

The number of Romanian and Czechoslovakian legation officials to be declared persona grata was not disclosed and they were not immediately identified.

RED AID INEFFECTIVE

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Finland's leading Communist Unity party has broken off co-operation with the Communist party. A resolution, accepted Sunday by the fourth annual party conference, said efforts to co-operate with the Communists had not given "desirable results."

The split ended only two seats in the parliament.

Unsmiling Chinese Orphan Girl Speeding to New Home, Parents

VANCOUVER (CP) — A wide-eyed but unsmiling little girl from Red China sped toward New York today for her first glimpse of new home and new parents.

Nine-year-old Chang Mao, adopted Canadian citizen, was completing a 10,000-mile journey that started in an orphanage in Communist Shanghai and ended when she joins her new parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kee Ling of New York.

The little girl was extremely silent on her 5,000-mile flight from Hong Kong to Vancouver. Airlines plane from Hong Kong to Vancouver.

She would Chang, scheduled for adoption under the United States' 1953 Refugee Relief Act, was nothing about her overnight stay in Vancouver prior to her departure Sunday night via United Airlines.

One of 2,000 Chinese orphans scheduled for adoption under the act, Little Kitten was wide-eyed as she looked around Vancouver's international airport. But not once did she smile, despite the pleadings of airline stewardesses and a host of welcomers.

Picturesquely dressed in a purple quilted brocade jacket, red shoes and red corduroy overalls, she shook her head negatively when offered an orange-flavored soft drink.

Clutching her doll tightly, she sat quietly, refusing to spend the night in Vancouver with a Chinese family. She was content to clutching doll and still staring impassively when she returned to Shanghai after the short stop journey.

Through a Chinese stewardess, Chang said she had no recollection of her first parents, but said she remembered living in an orphanage.

There was no explanation as to how she had reached Hong Kong from Shanghai. She is the first Chinese orphan to arrive here under the act.

Stewardesses on the Pacific flight said Little Kitten was a "perfect passenger, but slightly reserved."

Throughout the 27-hour flight, the stewardesses realized the friendly advances of two Chinese boys, travelling with their parents.

The boys paid ignoring the boys and sought the friendship of the Wife in Serious Condition After 17 Hours' Exposure

Find Naked Body Of Toronto Man In Car In Garage

Police said his wife, Ila, 40, suffered from frostbite and exposure after spending 17 hours in the car in the unheated garage.

Investigators said the doors of the garage had been locked from the inside. The car's ignition was on and the fuel tank empty.

Mrs. Curry's condition was so serious she could be questioned only briefly, police said. She told them the last she remembered was driving along a road with her husband.

Police could not suggest why the Curry's clothing was off. The clothing was found scattered on the floor of the car.

'Copter Guiding Tractor Train Crashes in North

OTTAWA (CP)—James Ormond Burton, 24-year-old army veteran bush pilot, was killed Friday when his helicopter crashed in a blinding snowstorm in a bush-covered area of northern Manitoba, it was reported here today.

Burton was piloting the helicopter which was being used to guide a tractor-train through the bush on a defence project about 450 miles east of The Pas, Man.

Also killed was James Davis, 39, of Winnipeg, an employee of the Patricia Transportation Company, of The Pas.

The helicopter was owned by Okanagan Helicopters of Oshawa, Ont., and was under contract to Bell Telephone Company.

A veteran of the Second World War, Burton had been busy flying for about a year in the Lake Winnipeg - Lake Manitoba area, The Pas, Man., and Fort Churchill, Man., before he was killed.

Will Not Extend Tuesday Deadline For Car Licences

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Allan of Ontario said today there will be no more extensions of the deadline for obtaining 1955 motor vehicle and drivers licences.

Even Tuesday it will be illegal to drive without new plates and drivers' licences, Mr. Allan said, to enforce the act.

The Highway Act provides a $10 to $50 for the first offence.

Russian Gunman Shoots Way Into British Embassy

MOSCOW (AP)—A husky gunman shot his way into the British embassy Sunday night seriously wounding a Russian police guard who tried to stop him.

The fur-hatted Russian intruder was overpowered and disarmed by two unarmed British embassy attaches after he had forced his way past stairs to the living quarters of Ambassador Sir William and Lady Hayter.

Sir William and Lady Hayter had been in bed asleep at the time of the incident and returned just as the gunman was being handed over to Russian police.

No motive for the armed invasion of the embassy could be learned.

(This dispatch was telephoned from Moscow to London. The call was broken at this point by an operator who said in Russian: "There will be no more of this call for the present.")

After a delay of 72 minutes, the connection was restored. The next word sent briefly from the correspondent resumed dictation with the words "the gunman was described as a Russian." Communication was taken to mean that the man was identified as a Russian.

There was a three-minute wait. Then the dictation began again.)

Burton was described by a resident, a British embassy spokesman said:

"The report which has reached correspondents is substantially correct."

He said the embassy reported the incident to the Soviet government.

The embassy, a mansion on the banks of the Moscow River, is across from the Kremlin, has two Russian policemen who stand 24-hour guard over the gates to the courtyard.

The gunman was described as incoherent and pouring forth gibberish in Russian.

A prosperously dressed youth of about 25, he approached the gates at 6:15 p. m. (9:15 a.m. est.), pulled out a pistol, shot one of the guards in the chest and then ran to the front door.

He forced aside the British guard at the door and ran up the broad staircase. He was pursued and subdued by a frightened Russian maid.

Lady Hayter, who had her head or tail of the words pouring from the intruder's lips. He ran into the great state dining room, with its portraits of Queen Victoria, King George V and King George VI and was trapped there by the embassy attaches.

PAPER BOY SEES 2 ROBINS ON ROUTE

The early bird may get the worm, but this is the case of the early boy getting the "bird".

Don Matthieson, 10, living at 211 Dufferin Avenue, spotted a pair of robins early this morning while delivering his morning paper route.

It was about six-thirty and, Don says, one of the red-breasts was sitting a tree chirping to its mate across the way at the corner of Charles and Alexander Streets.

Are Excavating For Addition To Kresge Store

Excavating for the footings for a new addition to the S. S. Kresge Co. Ltd. store on Front Street was started today by the contractors to enable them to have an area of well over double the size of the present sales area.

General contractors for the brick addition are the St. Lawrence Contracting Company Ltd., of Belleville.

The new addition to our store is an expression of confidence in the future of Belleville," stated Mr. David Lunn, local store manager. "Our company expects Belleville to grow and we want to keep pace with its progress."

No date for the completion of the new store addition was given.

Mr. Lunn stated that the new addition would extend 124 feet to the rear of the present store and would be the same width. The new area will be of one storey construction with rest room and lounge to be on the second floor. There will also be a second storey stockroom at the rear of the new addition.

The store manager stated that as much as possible of the subcontracting work would be done by Belleville firms.

Milltown Family Homeless After House Destroyed

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Aseltine and their four young children of Milltown, 10 miles east of here, are homeless today following a fire, which early Saturday evening, completely destroyed their large frame farmhouse and most of their household possessions and other belongings.

Members of the family were all away at the time of the fire and returned to find nothing but their home aflame.

Belleville firemen answered the alarm but the flames had already gained too much of a start and nothing could be done to save the burning dwelling. Nearby buildings were endangered by the flames but firemen prevented the fire from spreading. Water was pumped from the nearby Salmon River. Origin of the blaze was not determined.

Firemen said that only a few articles of furniture were saved from the ground floor rooms before the flames made it impossible to enter the building.

The Aseltine home was situated on the north side of No. 2 highway just west of the Milltown bridge over the Salmon River.

World Scout Jamboree In Canada Presents Challenge To Scouting Association Told

Over 200 representatives of Scouting associations in Eastern Ontario assembled here Saturday to confer on common problems and mull over mutual aims.

Hosted by the local Belleville association and officially dubbed the western-area conference of the Eastern Ontario Region of the Boy Scouts Association, the assemblage, meeting in Queen Elizabeth School and later at the Masonic Temple:

Heard Chief Executive Commissioner F. Finlay tab coming world jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake a "tremendous challenge" to Canadian scouting and an opportunity to put Canada its paces with the rest of the scouting world.

Was emphatically told by Ontario Provincial Commissioner W. J. Tindale to have all Scouting groups connected with and sponsored by a church, and Indulged in an active round of business sessions and discussions, climaxed by a gala evening banqueting atmosphere.

Canada for the first time, this year is playing host to a world Scout Jamboree, on Niagara-on-the-Lake from August 15-23.

Scouting officials are flushed with excitement and pride over the event and Saturday it was the big topic here.

At the morning sessions of the conference held in Queen Elizabeth public school, group leaders of Scout and Cub packs were given a concise background of the organization, its aims and problems pertaining to the jamboree by Commissioner Finlay.

"The world jamboree is the biggest thing that has ever hit Canada scouting," he said, and group leaders.

Finlay said it presented to Canadian scouting a "tremendous challenge" to show the world what it could do. "We should put Scouting in Canada on the map.

"This jamboree, more than anything else can enhance the value of Scouting in this country.

"We have a wonderful chance and I am sure we are going to take advantage of it," he said.

CURRENCY RESTRICTIONS

The scouting association now is tackling probably the biggest organizing problem posed the success of the jamboree international currency restrictions.

Every scout attending the jamboree must have $50 in Canadian funds to cover the $30 camp fee and incidental expenses during their stay here, donuts from international currency areas are unable to obtain Canadian dollars.

However, the Canadian scouts are endeavoring to bypass the currency barrier by raising subscriptions from various sources to supply those scouts from the restricted areas with the necessary dollars.

(Presently, about 12 such guarantees have been received in the Belleville area.)

"The scheme is going very well in my opinion," Comm. Finlay said, and added it had given other countries quite a boost and encouraged them in attending the jamboree.

"My estimate now we will have a representation of 40 to 50 countries", he said. Registration now has reached 8,000 and this indicated that there would be well over 10,000 scouts jamboree.

The program laid on for the jamboree will be an ambitious one, even by North American standards.

Biggest item scheduled is the transporting of the entire jamboree contingents of 10,000 to Toronto to parade in the opening ceremonies.

"This can be one of the biggest things that ever happened," enthused Comm. Finlay.

The CNE is declaring the event "International Boy Scouts Day" and the jamboree will go in the next day for 5,000 of the scouts.

WILL AVOID CONGESTION

Due to the large multitude of the undertaking restrictions have had to be imposed on visiting packs during the jamboree, Finlay also said and the U.S.. No pack will be allowed to travel within a 50-mile radius of the jamboree location to avoid congestion in the area, which is already taxed with two roads.

A host of chaplains also will be set up to attend the religious responsibilities of the jamboree.

Billeting of scouts from the Canadian homes prior to the jamboree also is keeping the organizers busy.

"What we want them to do before the jamboree is to sample Canadian home life," Mr. Finlay said.

Fire protection, first aid and police systems are being set up for the camp site, which is being fully manned, is being planned, while operation cases will be treated in hospital at Niagara-on-the Catharines.

To help defray expenses of the organization the Federal government has granted the scouting association $40,000, which assurance also has been forthcoming from provincial sources.

"It is really wonderful the way people are coming across and helping us out," Mr. Finlay said.

"But for that we couldn't operate. Training of this magnitude on a $30-fee."

Opening the conference, regional commissioner Lewis Lewis noted the great satisfaction the scouting movement should derive from its drive to assist financing of Scouts, in soft currency areas to attend the camp at the jamboree.

Also the present response to bring in boys of all nationalities, color and creed far outweighs all our previous efforts.

AIM FOR NEW HORIZONS

The Boy Scout Association is the finest citizen training program in the world and let's keep it that way," he said. "It make this best year yet and aim our sights on new horizons for the country."

Climax of the conference was a banquet in the Masonic Temple Saturday night, with courtesy by W. H. J. Tisdale, provincial commissioner for Ontario.

Comm. Tindale spoke at length on the organization of local scouting groups, emphasizing the value of close teamwork. Or the scouting movement he said: "I think with the right kind of leadership, and that leadership properly trained, it can give the boys today the sort of thing boys are looking for."

It gave them adventure and also a definite character building process, he said.

"In my own opinion 'if there is anything Christ-given or Christ-inspired, it is in the doing of the good turn and in that scout law—helping other people at all times."

He stressed to the group leaders that the completion of teamwork "is to have your group connected, with the church and sponsored by a church and have the minister of that church as chaplain."

"And we will be that much closer to our aim of getting our ministers and our God, in the doing of that. That is one of the cornerstones of scouting."

He emphasized a group leader should move closely with a boy in building his character so that later he can go out in the world better equipped morally and mentally at all times."

President O. Owen, Belleville association, was chairman at the banquet.

Toronto Choir To Sing Here On Saturday

The Toronto Philharmonic Choir of 75 voices will sing a program of orchestra, accompanied by classic music in Bridge Street United Church Saturday evening, March 19th.

The appearance of the choir in Belleville is being sponsored by the choir of College Hill Unit of Church.

Last concert appearance of the Toronto Philharmonic Choir was in the Belleville area, Wednesday Orchestra in Massey Hall in February.

The choir was formed by its present conductor, Robert Hately, at the Hydro Electric Power Commission in 1943 to lead Toronto's civic celebrations on V-E and V-J days. Following its memorial concerts some of the original 375 members joined Mr. Hately to form a permanent choir. The Toronto Philharmonic Choir was formed in 1945 as a result of the members' request and in its ranks today are persons from all walks of life.

In the past 10 years the choir has performed works ranging from the "Samson" and "Elijah" oratorios and parts of the Messiah to Negro spirituals, folk songs, and musical comedy hits.

The program scheduled for Belleville includes a variety of music from sacred songs to popular hits.

Licence Bureau Expects Busy Day

With but 80 per cent of the motor vehicle licences expected to be issued gone out, a busy day and a long line-up is anticipated by the Belleville office of Provincial Secretary Dr. J. Simmons.

"There is bound to be a long line-up tomorrow," stated Mr. Simmons, Monday, "but the 80 per cent of the licences have so far been issued will be definitely no extension or the deadline the past March 15th.

But just to take care of the expected late comers Mr. Symons will have licence issuing office would be open on Wednesday afternoon. This will be a convenience for the delinquent motorists who delayed just a little too long and were caught in the last minute rush.

Trenton Pounds Midland 67-50; Wins Hoop Series

TRENTON (Special) — Doug's Insurance Men of Trenton came through in the clutch here on Saturday night handing Midland a 67-50 setback to win the home-and-home series of the Ontario Intermediate "B" Basketball semi-finals by 75 points.

In Midland a week earlier Trenton lost 45-41 which meant the locals had to win by an impressive margin to take the round.

Now the Insurance men meet either Fort Erie or Leamington for the Ontario championship.

Doug's boys faced a grim situation at halftime Saturday night. They were eight points down and there were no signs that Midland would let up on the throttle.

Then the Trenton team, sparked by sharpshooters Warren Whitley and Allan Mitchell, reversed the play and practically tied the visitors hands. When the final whistle sounded the final whistle the locals led by 17 points.

Stars for Trenton were Warren Whitley and Allan Mitchell who accounted for 33 of their team's total. Gordon Smith 13 and Windover with 12 were Midland's best scorers.

The teams:

Midland: Powers, Cadeau, Windover, Smith, Holmes, Ambeau, McIntyre, Day.

Trenton: W. Whitley, T. Jeffery, Walsh, Stinson, Oosterhoff, Mitchell, J. Ethier, M. Jeffery, Wannamaker, Whitley, Whitley, Parks.

Referees: Don Seeley and Bill Dell, Oshawa.

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. Jack Turner's prompt action Saturday night saved her home and belongings after an oil furnace, just installed two days, sent clouds of smoke pouring from the cellar into the living quarters.

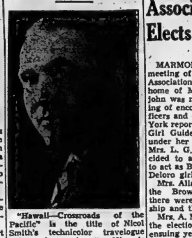
Turner home was lying down resting when she detected smoke. She jumped out of bed to the basement, leading to the basement. From the stairway she could see flames through the smoke. She ran to the telephone and called the firehall.

In a record-record dash over slippery streets, firemen rushed to the Turner home in time to check the flames, shooting like a great torch out of the back of the furnace. The whole house was filled with choking smoke," one fireman remarked on returning to the station.

Blamed on a carelessly thrown cigaret butt, a fire burned a hole eight feet long and four feet wide in the main awning on the Simmons Drug Store at midnight Friday. Stubborn embers gave firemen more work than a fire of that size usually would.

Siamese Twins Being Sent To United States

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand is going to send a pair of Siamese twins to the United States for examination and possible surgery, Premier Phibunsongkhram announced today.



The twins — 20-month-old girls named Napbh and Krisna Pholpitayon—are joined from chest to abdomen and have a common liver. They will be sent to the Albert Merrill Children's Hospital in Chicago.

Joined twins became popularly known as Siamese twins in the 19th century because two who appeared in a U. S. circus—Chang and Eng —were born in Siam, which now is known as Thailand.

ELECT OFFICERS

TORONTO (CP) — Herb Caplan of Toronto today was elected president of the Ontario Association of Radio, Television and Appliance Dealers. Harry Say of Toronto is treasurer and directors include Ken Caldwell, Sudbury; Al Brundell, Blenheim; A. C. Perkins, St. Catharines.

"Hawaii—Crossroads of the Pacific" is the title of Nicol Smith's technicolor travelogue being shown in the Kiwanis Travel and Adventure Series' final showing this year, Thursday, March 17, at the Belleville collegiate.

Nicol Smith's lifetime of adventure was well under way before he was 20 when he paddled a canoe the length of the Danube. During World War II he was U.S. secret agent in occupied France, and later, as a Lt.-Col. in the Office of Strategic Services, directed the 'infiltration of U.S. trained Siamese agents behind Japanese lines in Siam.

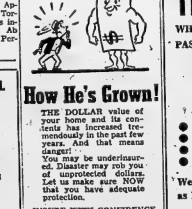
Nicol Smith's "Hawaii—Crossroads of the Pacific" is a pictorial record of the fabulous Pacific playground from land, sea and air.

O.S.D. Teaching Demonstrated At H. S. Assoc.

TWEED — The monthly meeting of the Tweed Consolidated Home and School Association, met in the assembly room recently having with a large number of members and friends in attendance. President Graham Mouck was in the chair for the business portion of the meeting.

Mr. Alec Gordon, senior staff member of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, was the guest speaker. Accompanying Mr. Gordon was the class of the second year senior school, who demonstrated the result of their instruction.

Mr. Mouck welcomed the gathering and called on Mr. Gordon Nelson, School Inspector, to introduce the guest speaker.



The speaker in his initial remarks noted that the enrolment at the OSD was 380, ranging in age from five to 20 years, and came from all over Ontario. There were three divisions at the school, junior, intermediate and senior. The pupils' lessons were taught vocational subjects, so that they would be able to take their places in society on graduation. Mr. Gordon showed the difficulty facing these children in learning to speak and how they are taught. The pupils each answered questions asked by their instructor. They also sang "Jesus Loves Me", and played as a rhythm band.

Thanks were expressed to Mr. Gordon and his class by Mr. Charles Hunt for their fine program.

Principal H. S. Connor read a letter of regret from the principal clothing and other articles by the "Canadian Save the Children Fund".

The membership convener revealed that the association now has a membership of 90, and it was noted by Mr. G. H. Nelson, school inspector, that the theme of Education Week this year was "Education is Everybody's Business."

Five Injured; Truck Rams Tree

BANCROFT (Special) — Driver of a panel truck and four boys riding with him were injured here last night when the vehicle left the road and hit a tree on Highway 28, on the western outskirts of the village.

Injured were William Barker, 33, driver of the truck; Norman Stringer, 16, his brother John, 15, Wayne Stringer, 13 and Robert Mc-Donalds Barker, McDonald and Sword are still being detained in Bancroft District General Hospital, where their condition today was described as "pretty good".

All are employees of Norcana Mining Engineering, operating at the Faraday Mines near here, and were moving his furniture from Bow Lake to new accommodation in Bancroft with the aid of six boys when the accident occurred.

Gordon Stringer, 11, and Douglas Hayton, 15, escaped injury.

The injured were treated at the scene by Dr. Tom Lamb, Bancroft, and taken to hospital by ambulance.

The vehicle was badly wrecked, the body being jacked up to free Robert McDonald who was trapped in the front seat.

Police Blotter

Despite slippery road conditions Saturday night, both city and provincial police reported an exceptionally quiet week-end, accidents-wise. Arrests on the crime front were also at low ebb.

Provincial police reported a clean sheet on the crime book, while city police reported two minor break-ins. One of the break-ins was at Bill Delinc's on Coleman St. where entry was gained, although it was not known late this morning if anything was missing. The other break-in was at Tabernacle Church where money was taken from a choir girl's purse.

City police reported two minor accidents with damage in both instances being less than $100.

McCarthy Ready To 'Start a War' To Free Captives

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) says that if necessary he would "start a war" to wh freedom of 526 United States servicemen he claims are being held prisoner in Red China.

In a talk Sunday to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, McCarthy said: "If it were necessary, to start a war to get them back I would say yes, by all means. But we needn't start a war."

He suggested the United States tell "our so-called allies" that they "won't get one red cent of American money" until the Americans are freed.

McCarthy sent a letter to President Eisenhower Saturday saying he "would like to hear from you as to what if anything, you are doing or propose to do to secure the freedom of those young men."

How Huck Finn Found a "Genuwyne" Investment

Huck Finn was a boy with all the instincts of a good investor. Once, when Tom Sawyer asked to trade a tooth for Huck's wood-tick, Huck replied, "Is it genuwyne?" and made Tom expose his "vacancy" to prove it. Huck had the good sense to investigate before he made the exchange.

Like Huck Finn, we like to "look into" every investor's requirements as thoroughly as possible before we advise him. Our job begins with a thorough discussion of the investor's aims . . . what he wants his investments to do for him. Having established this objective we prepare a list of securities designed to meet his personal needs. Usually the client accepts our suggestions and asks us to purchase the securities we have recommended.

We've been doing this sort of thing for a good many years. Because we think much of it could be of help to you, we'd like to give you a hand with your investment planning. You can be sure that, like Huck Finn, we always want to find out what's "genuwyne"—what's best for you.

ANY GARBAGE FOR THE SPACESHIP?

It was a grey March dawn in the year 2168 A.D. The Belleville Garbage Department truck rolled smoothly along the dry, bare pavement. When the Works Department had finally repaired the holes three years before, the city fathers had gone the whole hog and had installed asbestos tarvia for the work of putting steam pipes under all streets and sidewalks. There had been a howl of protest at the Council undertaking such an expensive project without a vote of the ratepayers, but the finance chairman had proved conclusively that the city would actually save money by using garbage to heat the streets rather than paying for its disposal.

The garbage truck slid to a stop beside the curb and two grotesque figures, moving slowly in their lead suits, picked up shoe-box size containers and lifted them into the truck. Then the truck sped away to the rocket station.

Science fiction stuff? Well, maybe, but if the vice-president of the Vitro Corporation of America knows what he is talking about, which appears probable, and if he both manages to say what he means and have his words accurately reported, which is not so certain, something like this spaceship disposal of excess atomic fuel will have to be devised by mankind in the future.

Eugene B. Hotchkiss, said vice-president, addressed the Prospectors and Developers Association convention in Toronto. Once the "windfall" era for the uranium industry is over and it faces free competition, greater care must be taken by the mining companies to keep costs reasonable basis, he said. And then, according to the Toronto Star, he casually mentioned a problem which no other industry has to face. He is quoted as follows: "Nuclear fuel after initial use is not exhausted, and in time breeder reactors are expected to produce as a by-product more fuel than they consume."

Now this seems ceased arguing with atomic scientists ever since the day the first atom bomb dropped and blasted to smithereens not only Hiroshima but that portion of our pugnacious educational which accepted that matter was indestructible. Indeed, we were able to make a fairly rapid adaptation to our changed environment and were soon mouthing the axiom about the indestructibility of matter and energy regarded as two different forms of the same thing.

We had, however, clung gallantly to the notion that perpetual motion was a pinnacle of impossibility. It is fairly obvious, though, that if breeder reactors start turning out more fuel than they consume not only will there arise a pressing problem regarding the disposal of the excess fuel but also perpetual motion will not be merely possible but inevitable. Not only will perpetual motion be an actuality, but householders will have no more problems in keeping an adequate supply of fuel to last them through the winter. Once the household's original fuel supply is laid in, the breeder reactors will keep this pile growing, so that ultimately it will be the size of a house at present. Eventually, though, this growing fuel pile will present the householder with a problem and he will find he has to get rid of some of it. As everybody else will have the same problem, the fuel will, in effect, be rubbish.

As for our garbage spaceship, how else can you get rid of a radioactive fuel except by conveying it into space? Now, if the scientists are worrying today about the effect on mankind of a few puny experiments with this sort of thing, under the strictly type of control by three of the world's greatest nations, it is obvious that it will be impossible to permit every little one-spaceship municipality to blow up its own garbage in its own backyard. The garbage will have to be taken far out into space and there dumped. Unless the next garbage spaceship is going to take a chance of running into the freewheeling garbage ship, the garbage would have to be converted into energy, or in other words exploded.

Can't you just hear the Martians complaining: "I didn't sleep a wink last night, what with the baby crying and those darned Earthmen blowing up their garbage only five million miles from my back door."

The ultimate insult was delivered recently when a clothing merchant spoke about a competitor as follows: "Even when he is pulling the wool over your eyes it is half serious."

The Vancouver Sun, over a story on town planning, put the following heading: "Don't Be Too Technical Planning Told." What does one call a town planner who is not too technical? An alderman?

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO
MARCH 14, 1930.

Mrs. Reginald Skinner has returned home from Peterborough where she attended the Normal School "at home" and spent a few days with relatives.

Mrs. Ernest Bowerman, wife of Wellman's Loyal Orange Lodge No. 172, district master John Wellman presided and the following officers were elected: worthy master, Fred King; deputy master, Reginald McGee; chaplain, Charles Morton; treasurer, Earl McAdam; secretary, Harry Preston; financial secretary, Ernest White; director of ceremonies, Murney Scott; lecturers, Clarence Scott and Thomas McMullen; tyler, Herbert Hoover; committeemen, John Simpson, Carl Clancy, Walter Scott, George Heagle and W. H. Scott; outside tyler, Ernest Hall.

Dr. Harold Canniff, son of Mr. Police Magistrate Canniff, Belleville, formerly of this city, has been elected president of the Provort, Toronto, Medical Society.

Mrs. Charles Wilmot has returned to her home here after spending the last three months with her daughters, Mrs. Jack Coates and Mrs. Harry Rutherford, in London, England.

30 YEARS AGO
MARCH 14, 1925.

The names of 1,500 former Belleville boys and girls to be enrolled in the membership of the Old Boys' Re-Union here early in August have been obtained. Secretary John A. Kerr wants 2,000 names—so get busy and send in him the names and addresses you know.

Mrs. Ida Wilson have accepted a challenge from the city officials to compete with them in bowling match.

Mr. W. E. Wiggins of Bancroft, warden of the county, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. C. T. Hunt of this city is attending the Methodist choir concerts in Toronto.

Mr. Roy Stafford went yesterday in Deseronto on business.

40 YEARS AGO
MARCH 14, 1915.

"Boomer" the railway dog is stopping at Cobourg this week. "Boomer" is a well-known dog to all Grand Trunk Railway employees who travel regularly between Bowmanville and Belleville. He gets on and off the trains at his own whim and when he gets tired of one town he goes over to another. He is a great pet with the trainmen.

Mrs. W. R. Luscombe is spending a few days in Toronto.

Student membership in the local Y.M.C.A. has been reduced to $3.

Mr. W. Crooksley of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting her parents here.

Mrs. George Duggan is visiting her brother, Mr. D. N. DeMille here.

Jungle Violet Is Popular

(BBC London Letter)

How many people have heard of the Greater London Saintpaulia Society which, though formed only a few months ago, already sends out a monthly bulletin? Saintpaulia Ionantha is the Latin name for the African Violet, a native of Tanganyika in East Africa, and the Saintpaulia Society is a body of men and women whose great hobby is growing these jungle violets. English people have always been addicted to the pursuit of private hobbies and the Duchess of Bedford, Dame Hooper, broadcasting about the new society in "Radio Newsreel", said that it was formed by an architect, Hugh Minty, and the first meeting between people was held in his office. Now the Society has a hundred and twenty-two members scattered throughout Britain and is wondering whether it can "hold a conference" from its title. The Society's scientific adviser is an atomic physicist at Harwell, but amongst the ordinary members, whose ages range from fifteen to eighty, are well-known actors, a school teacher, housewives, typists, a clergyman, a Government director and Covent Garden traders. There is an African member attached to the United States Embassy in London, who is making arrangements for varieties not grown in Britain to be flown across the Atlantic; there are also two diplomatic correspondents in Fiji, New York, Australia and, of course, Tanganyika.

The aim of the Saintpaulians is to bring African violets to the notice of the millions of city dwellers who have no garden and whose only indoor flower cultivation, but who would like to brighten their windows with flowering plants that bloom all the year round. African violets are shade-loving plants, easy to grow indoors and they can be grown happily in an average room that has not only a fairly constant temperature. Saintpaulia Ionantha is not strictly a violet, although it looks like one, but it looks like a larger version of the English wild violet. It has clusters of heart-shaped leaves that are sometimes green and sometimes grey and they are thick, smooth or furry and it comes in every color except true red and yellow. It gets its name from Baron von Saint Paul Illaire who was governor of Germans East Africa, which is now Tanganyika, and who brought it to Europe in 1893. A few specimens were sent to Kew and the United States but for many years the African violet was known only to a small side East Africa. It was only when the Saintpaulia Society in American growers discussed its potentialities as an indoor plant for pots and as a cut flower for the year and is easily propagated by cuttings.

Mr. Minity, whose drawing room is filled with African Violets of different colours, also has an interesting glasshouse full of them for the Society's meetings and lectures. Here he grows sixty different varieties, many of which he has developed from leaf cuttings, and he has between thirty and forty more potential varieties which may or may not "take".

Bad Writing Nothing New

(Christian Science Monitor)

A newly formed organization, "Handwriting Foundation, Inc.," has set out to restore legibility to American script.

This news alone is almost as heartening as the invention of the "typewriter signature" which took place around 1918. If the professor succeeding we will have witnessed a revolution comparable to the invention of the typewriter itself.

Not that bad handwriting is a modern evil. It is not. Horace Greeley's editorials were almost unreadable. Even if, of course, the typos were apocryphal which Mark Twain tells about Horace Greeley's atrocious handwriting, there is ample evidence of his loyal subscribers, a good lady in Kansas whose son had acquired an obsession for making burnt wine, Mr. Greeley sent a letter in his own script. Mr. Greeley's penmanship was completely illegible, and the key sentence was a request for "Boston, botany, cakes, folony undertakes but who shall allay?" This seemed to the lady enough. Another and third attempt got no better results. "Boston, botany, cakes, fill any undertaker, we'll wean him from his filly." Finally, one of Mr. Greeley's clerks sent a translation: "But diet, botany, etc., etc., fulminate formly, we'll wean him from his folly."

We know a man who, in his childhood, was first taught vertical writing. He developed a "Spencerian." The result must be seen to be believed.

This writing is not, it so happens, a was written in long hand. There were considerable doubts about its surviving in the text morning, as to what was originally said.)

But for many years the African violet was known only to a small side East Africa. It was only when the Saintpaulia Society in American growers discussed its potentialities as an indoor plant for pots and as a cut flower for the year and is easily propagated by cuttings.

Dog Owner Appeals To User of Poison

Ontario Intelligencer.

Just over a week ago I read an article in your paper about the dogs in the Burton, Wellington and Charlotte Streets area that had died of what was thought to be strychnine poisoning. Everyone in this district with a pet dog has been most careful with them, but this terrible thing is still happening. There have been at least three deaths now. Our children were playing with our little wire-haired terrier just after 12 o'clock Friday, and she became ill about 1:30, and died before 1 o'clock in the arms of our son while on the way to a veterinarians. We got her as a pup four years ago this spring and she was the cutest and smartest little pup anyone could ever wish for. Everybody could ever know how anyone could be so heartless as to kill these dogs in this way.

The main reason why I am asking you to put this letter in your paper, is to appeal to whoever is doing this either intentionally or unintentionally. There is an old blind man up in this district who goes out and walks every day with the use of a cane and a little dog that leads him. Just think how terrible it would be if anything like this happened to his little dog.

"One of the unfortunate residents of this District."

HAPPINESS—A PRIVILEGE

First of all, I believe it is a duty to be happy, and to be as happy as well. You see, it doesn't rent upon possessions, but upon a state of mind of the one desiring happiness. Many of us miss it, and in fact many of us miss because we do not take our spirit in it.

People who are happy spread themselves like perfumery does, and they are welcome wherever they go. They are constantly influencing all those about them. Our children are happy people have no hired publicity agents. They are their own advertising agents. No matter where they go they leave a generous bit of themselves.

A happy person can almost change the atmosphere of an entire town, or even a district. Such persons have their dark days and disappointments, but they hide these and give out only that which uplifts and cheers.

I recently attended an evening performance given as a benefit for the bereaved children of Miami, Florida. The star of the show was Herb Shriner, the humorist from Indiana. He kept the big crowd in a constant wave of laughter. It was just the thing needed in this world of unbalance, but everywhere he goes to entertain he gives it the same-cheerful original fun. He is a distributor of happiness and an asset to the nation.

Mark Twain went through a great deal of trouble in this life time, but everywhere he went he uplifted the community by his unique humor. He lives in the hearts of millions to this day. He hid his own troubles and sorrows and made others strangers to their own.

That's what a humorist does. He gives of the tears and puts laughter there instead.

We owe it to others, as well as to ourselves, to be happy, accepting it as both a duty and a privilege.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In most cities and municipalities there are by-laws regulating or forbidding the owners of dogs to keep them from becoming a public nuisance as confining dogs in the owner's property, or holding them on a leash. Some municipalities even have bylaws forbidding dogs to run at large in public parks. These bylaws are mostly observed in the breach, and are let lie dormant until a complaint arises, as they sometimes do, when too many dogs appear in the community, or when there is an outbreak of rabies or viciousness. The bylaws are there for silliness' sake. Meanwhile, a man's dog's life is sporty good life, with freedom to range the neighborhood, and a comfortable home when night falls.

But cats are pretty well without, beyond and above the law. The idea that cats have the responsibility to attach, or indeed to a cat's owner even to the limits of a cat's trespass. Cats just naturally are at large. The whole neighborhood is their back yard. They do not taught the rudiments of private property, or possession. But not a cat. As far as cats are concerned, there are: no boundaries; and fences were made to break on, jump over or climb.

A friend of mine owns a large, bushy garden in the suburbs. His neighboring yards, it is a jungle, full of lilac, syringas and other shrubbery, and a beautiful, beautiful, that is, to my friend and to cats. Cats for blocks around, for the cat fox terrier which he is training to hate cats and love birds.

"And when spring comes," he says, "the dog house will be in the shadows at the bottom of the garden."

Personal Health Talks

By Dr. WM. BRADY

SIR WILLIAM NEVER SAID IT

Dr. Brady

Please do not bother me with questions from any magazine or newspaper story, or with hearsay or their inferior interviews.

Wrote Dr. Osler in the sixth edition of his famous Practice of Medicine, published in 1906:

Alcohol will not raise the blood pressure in fever, and the studies of Briggs and Lyon in many words would indicate that it is not of value in preventing wear and tear of tissue lapse. This does not mean, however, that it may not have a place in the treatment (English stage of pneumonia), and I should be sorry to give up its use in the severer forms of enteric (typhoid fever) and pneumonia.

I call that professional quibbling. It reminds me of the quibble of another famous authority, Sir Humphrey Davy, Bart., Dr. Hobart A. Hare, the tenth edition of whose "Textbook of Therapeutics was published in 1942, in 1943 Dr. Hare said "The chief uses of alcohol are as a rapidly acting stimulant" in heart failure, surgical shock, fainting, snakebite etc., and as a food." Dr. Hare wrote me explaining the contradiction:

"It is quite conceivable that alcohol could be of service under other functions of which, as yet, we know very little, as, for example, the role it may play in resistibility."

Absolutely! Yes, and so is a mouse nest in a cat's ear, I wished I had my money back—$3.75 paid for the book, and I proceeded, no fooling, whether I had my money back or not, to make use of my productive life to become a physician.

What did Dr. Hare know about the ability of the body, any body, to resist infection? What do we all know about it? What does anybody know about it today?

Nothing.

Since no one knows anything about "resistance" and no one can describe or define such a condition as even half enough for anyone else to comprehend what he is trying to say, it is easy for the author of a textbook of eminent specialists and ethical quacks to rest a yard of stereotyped bunk about it whenever the dumb layman dares to ask questions.

Watch Dogs Prove Pests

(Sydney Post-Record)

A watch dog is fondly regarded by the owner who feels security by the barking of his animal at intruders. Unfortunately the guardian dog too often is a menace to people going about their lawful affairs, a pest to the postman and a bane to the police forces. There is something antisocial about people who own unpleasant dogs and dote on them.

One may deplore the difficulties encountered by postmen with the other fellow's dog and yet confess that we have dogs in our neighborhood in the same-cheerful original fun. He is a distributor of happiness and an asset to the nation.

Mark Twain went through a great deal of trouble in this life time, but everywhere he went he uplifted the community by his unique humor. He lives in the hearts of millions to this day. He hid his own troubles and sorrows and made others strangers to their own.

That's what a humorist does. He gives of the tears and puts laughter there instead.

We owe it to others, as well as to ourselves, to be happy, accepting it as both a duty and a privilege.

Prospector Here to Stay

(Northern Miner)

Geophysics, we submit, is here to stay, but it cannot be used as a substitute for prospecting. The two will complement each other.

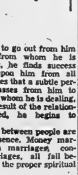
It cannot be disputed that most of Canada's known ore deposits were discovered by the old prospecting and mining methods. Even in recent years, when the more spectacular of these methods have won most headlines, they have proved their worth.

Prospecting, to give just one example, can take credit for the discovery of the Lake Dufault Canadian uranium deposit yet uncovered.

Modern prospecting we might add for the benefit of anyone who may be thinking of it, involves no hardy profession, isn't the rough and arduous work that it was in the old days.

Modern transportation, combined with improved food packaging, have helped to soften old hardships. Prospecting classes are available in most of the big mining provinces. Government publications, maps and reports are more comprehensive every year.

Capital for backing is more plentiful than it has ever been.



And there is plenty of good ground still unprospected.

We're not trying to say that prospecting is easy work. It still means bending back, a stout heart, and the kind of spirit that can't be dulled by clipping at grass.

But we do say that it offers good rewards for the man who is willing to put in a little on the chance of winning a lot.

Television Baby Has Arrived

LONDON (AP)—Britain's over-the television baby was born Sunday and viewers of a program called "Family Affairs" now can relax.

Mrs. Betty Lait, 26-year-old actress and the program's mother-to-be, gave birth to Sarah Mary Catherine, who weighed 7¼ pounds.

The program had planned to follow Mrs. Lait's stages of pregnancy, the birth of her child, and on into young motherhood. But the BBC was thrown into confusion when the expected arrival date of Feb. 18 went by and there was no baby.

As the day, and then the weeks, passed TV addicts became a bit nervous.

The BBC did not film the birth but said a still picture of the mother and child would be shown. Mrs. Lait and baby will return to the program April 6.

Cub, Scout News

The YMCA swimming pool is very busy place on Saturdays at 2 p.m.

Nine boys have qualified for badges so far. Cubs Gary Mooney, Richard Graham and Donnie Graham of the 4th Pack. Cub Ernie Summers of the 6th. Cub Harold Hobbs and Scouts Bill Tyron and Stephen Wilson of the 8th. Cubs Richard Lewis and Garth Stephenson of the 9th.

The Eighth have most boys registered but the Third are far ahead in attendance. Trailing the third are the eighth, fourth and ninth in that order.

The Cubs are fortunate this year in having the services of an expert swimmer, Mr. John J. Trainor, who is very popular with the boys. Assisting him is Scout Glen Stewart, a very faithful young man, who really keeps his Scout promise. Mr. Bob Collins, Mr. Joe Miles, Mr. L. Andrews and Mr. Phil Stewart have also given their time and efforts to this worthwhile project.

Cub Tommy Seymour, who was recently awarded the Silver Cross for saving two boys from the Bay of Quinte learned to swim in this YMCA. The Cubs feel very proud of Tommy.

Those who have helped in the past and are helping now feel empty round when backsliders like this happen. In this case "the good that men do lives after them."

We are anxious to enlarge the classes. Scouts are not very numerous. Our objective this year is one hundred badges. With Cub leaders and Scoutmasters please get their boys interested Every Scout in Belleville should have this swimmer's badge. Make this one of your good deed.

The YMCA is right behind us and we are very grateful for their continued interest.

Boy Is Found

TORONTO (CP)—Herbert Smith, 12, missing from his suburban Etobicoke township home since early Thursday, was found Sunday at the home of relatives in Timmins.

It was the second time in three weeks he had left home. Police found him in Niagara Falls Feb. 25. The boy is believed to have feared his parents would punish him for truancy.

BEST GLIDER

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Ames, 36, an engineer at the A. V. Roe of Canada Limited plant here, was acclaimed the outstanding glider pilot of 1954 at a meeting of the Soaring Association of Canada here Saturday. Mr. Ames flew a glider 169 miles from Kitchener to Mountain View, Ont., last August.

19 NATIONS IN "ATOMS-FOR-PEACE" PLAN

President Eisenhower gave a personal welcome at the White House to the first "atoms-for-peace" students from 19 countries. He is shown talking to Andre Rene Gautier, of Seine et Oise, France. The students will be the first enrolled in the School of Rector Science and Engineering at Argonne National Laboratory, Chicago, in centre is Lewis Strauss, chairman of the AEC. ESCAPES MAULING FROM PET LION

Quick action of a London zoo attendant saved Prime Minister Churchill from a bad mauling by his pet lion, "Rota", right. The 80-year-old British leader was feeding his sick pet a chicken when the snarling animal lashed out at him with its paw. Head keeper Charles Hitchcock swiftly pulled the unconcerned Sir Winston back to safety. The lion, nearly 17, was presented to Sir Winston by British colonists in Africa to commemorate one of his wartime visits to that continent. (Central Press Canadian).

Man Is Charged With Attempt To Murder Nehru

NAGPUR, India (AP)—A 32-year-old rickshaw puller charged with attempting to murder Prime Minister Nehru was reported under observation today in a mental hospital.

Babu Rao Laxman Kochale leaped on Nehru's automobile here Saturday with a six-inch knife. The 65-year-old prime minister pushed the man away and police arrested him at once.

He was arraigned before a Nagpur magistrate Sunday on 2 charges of attempted murder and ordered held for a further hearing within two weeks. Officials said further action would be decided after they receive the report on the mental examination.

Police also were reported seeking past associates of Babu Rao. He is a native of western India's Maharashtra region. A man from the same region was hanged for having a part in the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi in 1948.

RIOTS FEARED

Nehru was unruffled by the occurrence, which he termed of "no significance." He flew back to New Delhi Sunday in high spirits.

New Delhi newspapers tended to minimize the prime minister's brush with the knife wielder, apparently in response to Nehru's plea that the occurrence not be exaggerated. The government feared prominent displays of the story would touch off communal rioting and killing such as followed the assassination of Gandhi.

HUGE WAGE DIVIDEND

ROCHER, N. Y. (AP) — The Eastman Kodak Company will distribute approximately $28,300,000 in wage dividends today to 31,400 company employees in the United States. The dividend was described by the company as the largest ever to be distributed in the 43-year history of the wage dividend plan.

47,000 Acres Of Timber Land Lost in Fire

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP) — Weary firefighters considered artificial rainmaking to stop a giant forest fire raging in north Florida today while a new blaze south Georgia blaze appeared under control.

Behind the menacing fire fronts some 47,000 acres of valuable timber land lay charred and smoking. Veteran forest rangers said only heavy rains could remove the danger from the drought-stricken sections of the two states.

About 400 men were battling the fires in the two states. They were still setting backfires and building new defence lines with bulldozer and hand tools. Winds which sometimes pushed the flames faster than a man could run died down during the night.

The Florida fire was discovered Thursday. It doubled in size as it raced northeastward Sunday along a 18-mile front. Flames fanned by high winds developed a rapidly fire fighters had to drop back from a prepared defence line and start constructing a new line.

Rangers estimated fires burned more than 10,000 acres in north Florida last week. None of the fires threatened inhabited areas.

Budget Cover-Up For Road Scandal Says Oliver

STRATFORD (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said Saturday the Ontario government's "Santa Claus" budget was worked up for the highway scandal, expensive hydro-electric power and lack of provincial aid for the unemployed.

Mr. Oliver, speaking at a Perth riding nominating convention attended by more than 500 persons, said the change-over from 25 to 60 cycle hydro electric power would cost more than $500,000,000.

"We believe we are in danger of losing cheap power in Ontario," he said.

Commenting on investigations into irregularities in the highways department, he said "some day, in some day, we will bring the truth out about these scandals."

Lawrence Feick, formermayor of Stratford, was nominated as Liberal candidate to contest Perth riding in the next Ontario election. The sitting member is J. Frederick Edwards, Progressive Conservative.

To Hold Autopsy

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An autopsy was to be conducted today on the body of a 24-year-old London mother who died Sunday night under what police described as mysterious circumstances.

Mrs. Norma Faye Hicks, mother of two small children, was found dead in her home when police arrived. She was reported to have fallen from a chesterfield on which she had been standing. Her husband, John, tried unsuccessfully to revive her.

Police said an inquest will probably be held after the post mortem.

Develop New Method of Processing Yarn

Heralded as a boon to Canada's slumping textile industry is the revolutionary method of processing yarn which increases the strength of textiles from five to ten times. The discovery was made by two Canadian national defence department research experts, Dr. J. V. Wotsberger, left, and Col. H. A. Delcellier, right. Seven Canadian mills already are spinning yarns under the new system. Strength of the new yarn comes from use of a centre core made of nylon or an equally strong material and the special way in which fibres of other materials such as wool or cotton are wrapped around. Textiles which would give radiation protection are foreseen under the new method. (Central Press Canadian Photos.)

Toronto Milkmen Win Wage Hike Of $1.75 Week

TORONTO (CP) — More than 1,600 Toronto milkmen and dairy employees have won a wage increase of $1.75 a week and increased overtime pay in a union approved Sunday, the union said.

The contract, negotiated between the Milk Drivers Union (AFL) and the 12 dairies of the Toronto Milk Distributors Association, also will give the milkmen a little more sleep. Under the contract terms, dairies will have to have trucks loaded for the drivers when they arrive for work, meaning drivers will start work at 7 a.m. instead of 5:30 or 6 a.m.

The wage increase, approved by a union membership meeting, raises the basic wage for milkmen from $57.50 a week to $59.25. Inside employees now will earn from $39.25 to $58.75.

Demonstrate Belts

HAMILTON (CP)—Members of the Ontario legislature will be invited to attend a demonstration on the use of safety belts in motor cars Wednesday in Toronto.

Art Child, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Wentworth, said here Sunday night he will extend the invitation to the members today. He will also distribute pamphlets on a report conducted by Cornell University on the features of the safety belts.

WISH HE'D STAY AWAY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Dutch Maid Grill has had a persistent customer three times in the last four weeks but he's one they could do without. The gunman escaped with $25 from the cash register Sunday. A week ago he took $195 and on Feb. 20 between $40 and $50.

NEW CELLS FOR LIFERS

HELSINKI (Reuters) — Nearly 50 life-term convicts will be moved in heavily-guarded trucks from the Lehrter Strasse prison to new cells here this week. With them will go a guillotine once in daily use by the Nazis, but inactive after the Second World War.

RESTRICT PANTIE HANGING

LITHERLAND, England (AP)—The town council notified housewives in a municipal housing development today they must stop hanging their panties in the front yard, or move. "The flats face the main road," said Councilor R. W. Lloyd, "and many people are embarrassed by some of the things they see hanging on clotheslines."

DOG ON WHEELS

HAMBLE, England (AP) — A seven-year-old dachshund named Jenny went rabbit hunting Sunday lowing her own hind quarters in a two-wheeled cart. Jenny's owner devised the cart after the dog sprained her back and paralyzed her hind legs on a hunt 11 months ago. The veterinary recommended a return to hunting to give Jenny "an interest in life."

WAR CHRONICLE DEAD

AVEZINO, Switzerland (AP)—Theodor Plivier, 63, German author, died Sunday after a heart attack. He emigrated to Russia in 1933 and in 1947 returned to Germany. Plivier was the author of "Stalingrad," "Moscow" and "Berlin," describing the battles for these cities as turning points of the war.

Education Week At St. Michael's Academy Held.

The P.T.A. meeting of St. Michael's Academy recently held was the first extra- curricular activity of education week. Mr. B. R. Collins presided. Miss Jean Foley read the minutes of the previous meeting and also the correspondence. The treasurer's report was given by Mr. S. Kvarda. Sister Mary Claude's class won the attendance plaque.

Mr. Cecil Kennedy, program convener, conducted the remainder of the meeting. Grade XIB provided the first part of the entertainment. A vocal duet, "Whispering Hope", by David Bruyea and Timothy Cook was followed by an interesting talk by Dale Burley on Mr. Mackenzie Bowell, a resident of Belleville, who was chosen Premier of Canada in 1896. The entire class then participated in a pleasing rendition of a "A Half-hour with Stephen Foster."

A panel discussion concluded the meeting. The members of the panel, which was conducted by Mr. Carl Casey, were: Rev. Peter Murphy, Mrs. R. Allore, representing the nursing profession; Mrs. B. Burley, secretarial work; Mrs. G. Donoghue, teaching; Mr. D. Casey, engineering; Mr. E. Kelly, banking; Dr. F. R. Ross, the medical profession.

Mr. Casey spoke on behalf of numerous occupations which had not been represented.

Each member of the panel answered the following questions: "What part of your formal education made the greatest contribution to your day-to-day work in your chosen field?" "What advantages over my education have received, does our present educational program provide?"

On Tuesday, Grade XIB students repeated their program for the other classes.

"Open House" was Wednesday's special feature. During the afternoon a large number of parents visited the classrooms where regular work was in session. The home economics room, the commercial room, and the shop were centres of activity.

By way of recreational activity, St. Michael's hockey team played the Cathedral school team on Thursday evening in Kingston.

On Friday afternoon Dr. Edith Peterkin addressed the Grade Ten students. In her lecture on "The Lay Apostolate" she enumerated the many opportunities to do good which occur in the ordinary individual's daily life.

Bay of Quinte W.I. Hears Talk on 'Ceylon'

The Bay of Quinte Institute held its March meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Clapp with a nice number of members present. It was opened in the usual manner.

The topic was "Who Runs Our Schools?" The district president, Mrs. John Reid, was appointed and her talk was on "Ceylon." Mrs. Reid said that ladies from several countries came to the World's Conference of W.I. Women held in Toronto. It was invitations for the next World Conference to be held in their land and Lady De Cica of Ceylon was one of these. Her offer was accepted, and the next World's Conference will be held in Ceylon in 1956. Ceylon is about 55 miles south of India. If one took a map of Ceylon and placed it on the map of Ontario, it would cover it in and one-half times. They have six million people and their religion is Buddhism. In the ancient past there were great palaces of stone built, but some of these today are in ruins.

RESTING PLACES

They have resting places so far apart in Ceylon, made of stone and they compare to Ontario's tourist camps. In 1948 Great Britain gave Ceylon her independence. Under the Colombo Plan, Canada's part is in hydro development. Canada has technical assistance. Under the Colombo Plan, Canada's part is in hydro development. Canada has technical assistance over to Ceylon to show them how they could develop their fishing industry. Twenty-five years ago, a group of women met in Colombo to see how they could improve conditions for themselves. Today they have 850 Institutes in Ceylon with 50,000 members.

Last year there were 45 new Institutes formed. Their organization had a handsome three storey of a large building built in Colombo where they might meet each of different things they might use this building for. Some of the ladies today live without some of their meals so that they could help to pay for the rent of this building. It was really a school and store for community centre. They send in their work to be sold and raised and here it is sold. Little girls are trained and sent out to teach in villages. Sometimes they have to go through part of a jungle alone to get to their places. They are doing everything they can to better conditions in their country.

MODEL HOME

At their school in this building they have a model home where girls are taught all sorts of things even to taking care of sick hens, for hens are quite scarce there and hard to get. They have educational tours. Of course, at these villages to which the girls are sent are only four or five mud huts, and these people never have been any further than these villages in their lives, but this school is doing a lot for the betterment of these people. Seeds are also divided among the people and they are encouraged to make gardens and plant them.

Here the A.C.W. will meet in 1956.

A contest was provided by Mrs. A. Ketcheson and won by Mrs. Jeffrey.

Refreshments were served by the gracious hostess and convenors.

Next euchre party will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, on St. Patrick's Day.

Bridge St. Church Men's Club Sponsors St. Patrick's Day Tea

A St. Patrick's Day tea sponsored by the Men's Club and the Women's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church, was held in the Sunday school rooms of the church, Saturday afternoon. The walls were decorated with shamrocks, horseshoes and green and white lattice work as well as stove-pipe hats; and the tea table with a large shamrock plant, silver candelabra and green candles.

RECEPTIONISTS

At the door, Mrs. Fairman and Mr. Harold Parker received the guests and Mr. Ken Pinder served as treasurer. Also on the reception committee were Mr. Ken Ross, Mr. T. K. Franklin.

The following officiated at the tea table: The Rev. W. J. Robinson, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan; the Rev. R. A. Bowyer, the Rev. H. M. Davis, Mr. W. J. Morrison and Mr. W. H. Finkle.

Those assisting in the kitchen were Mr. J. Chapin, Mr. Don Stanton, Mr. Basil Vanderveet, Mr. O. W. Bell, Mr. Ron Cass, Mr. F. Buchanan, Mr. H. Mott, Mr. Jos Demers, Mr. Don Williams, Mr. Drury Denyes, Mr. William Easton.

SERVING

Those who helped with the serving and receiving were in costume and "perfect ladies" they were even to earrings and picture hats and some with blonde curls. They were Mrs. Ken Graham, Mr. T. K. Franklin, Mr. Alex Maguire, Mr. W. J. Armstrong, Mr. Carman Whiteman, Mr. G. B. Hyde, Mr. Alec Gordon, Mr. Ken Pinder, Mr. Dick Kunitz, Mr. Ken Ross, Mr. Harold Parker and Mr. Jim Allen.

Mr. Ken Graham added to the pleasure of the afternoon by singing several solos. He was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Alec Gordon.

Mr. C. L. Hyde was chairman of the men's section for the tea which was most successful from an attendance standpoint and was much enjoyed by everyone present.

THURLOW W.M.S.

9TH LINE THURLOW — The W.M.S. held its meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James Huffman with an attendance of 16 adults and five children. Mrs. G. Livingston opened the meeting with a poem of Tennyson's and led in prayer.

Mrs. Barnes paid her membership fee and the thank-offering envelopes were distributed. An invitation to Canniffton on the 31st of March was accepted and Mrs. Hodgen extended thanks for the contributions in the time of her bereavement.

Mrs. O. Bertrand was appointed the delegate to attend the Presbyterial at Picton.

Mrs. Fred Bell took charge of an instructive worship service using the theme "The influence of a Christian Leader." The Scripture was read by Mrs. C. Martin, Mrs. Everett Jones read a story "Out of the Experience of One Missionary", and the hostess Mrs. James Huffman led in a "Prayer for Christian Leaders in India."

Mrs. Gerald Swan gave a chapter of the study book and asked if "What has been our contribution to the New India?" She quoted that things which are spiritual, such as healing goes hand in hand with evangelism in India.

Mrs. Hodgen gave a paper "What Difference Does Prayer Make?" and Mrs. Earl Trevorrow an instrumental solo on her guitar, "It is No Secret What God Can Do." A reading "Teach Me Thy Way," was given by Mrs. Walter Jones, and a solo "I Can't Feel at Home in This World Anymore," was contributed by Mrs. G. Bertrand.

Christian Stewardship was the secretary's study on her work and asked in part, "What is our response to Christian Stewardship?", "Is it determined by the growth of our character, The measure of Wealth, Giving is the measure of our love and when my understanding Master shall check the account of His blunderfilled children sweet will be the words, if he can say "Well done, faithful,". Refreshments served by the hostess and helpers, closed a social and profitable afternoon.

Singer Draws Rave Notices In Europe

MONTREAL (CP) — Maureen Forrester, whose vibrant contralto voice earned her a trip to Europe, is being acclaimed as one of the outstanding performers to visit the Continent.

The overwhelming praise the audiences have accorded the Montreal woman has been echoed in the press since her tour began in Paris two weeks ago.

Miss Forrester had just finished her second song in the biggest concert in Paris, the Salle Gaveau, when her listeners started calling, "Bravo." At the end of the concert they were on their feet shouting acclaim. After three encores, one critic called it "not a success, but a triumph."

SOUND OF MUSIC

One Paris review, Activites Musicales, commented: "We possess none like her here—this singer has a voice exceedingly pure and flexible such as is rarely heard." »

Later, she was asked to sing at the International music festival in Strasbourg, one of Europe's leading music"festivals.

The same enthusiasm followed Miss Forrester's concerts in Lisbon which more than 1,600 persons attended. The city offered her two public engagements for next season.

The tall young woman is familiar to both radio and television audiences and has appeared as guest soloist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

She was born in a French district of Montreal of Scottish-Irish parents and has been self-learned from her childhood friends has helped in her singing career. She now sings in seven languages.

Miss Forrester was chosen for the European tour after her audition records were played at last year's international convention of La Jeunesse Musicales, an organized concert series made up of young audiences in major Western countries.

Regis Club Hears Talk On Lay Apostolate

Guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Belleville Regis Club last night was Dr. Edith K. Peterkin.

Text of Dr. Peterkin's address concerned the work of the Lay Apostolate in which she stressed to members the need to carry on Christian mission work in their own personal way and particular environments.

Dr. Peterkin was thanked by Bernard Mawson. Following the conclusion of a question-and-answer period between members of the club and the speaker, members participated in a social hour.

ARREST SPIES

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The arrest of a Czechoslovakian Sunday night raised to 10 the number of spy suspects in custody as security police cracked down on a Communist espionage ring said to have been operating for three years in Sweden.

Albert College W.G. Sponsors Dessert Party

The Albert College Women's Guild held a delightful dessert party on Thursday at the Manor, on Highland Avenue.

Tib desserts were arranged on long tables in front of the fireplace, and looked most appetizing.

The members and their guests formed a long line and walked around the tables helping themselves to their favorite dessert. Coffee was served by members of the social committee, under the convenor, Mrs. T. C. McMullen.

PROGRAM

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Miss Helen Sulman. A number of students from Albert College took part in the program.

They were Betty Ann Butterfield, from Peru; Curtalene Gilbert, from Bermuda; Alfred Jay from Hong Kong; Jerry von Griesham from Columbia, South America; Frank Brown, from Toronto and Bobby McMurdy, from Scotland.

In answer to questions asked them by Miss Sulman, these students told the circumstances which had influenced them in deciding to come to Albert College. They all agreed that they enjoyed their life at the college, and found it is splendid to meet students from so many different countries.

FRIENDLY HELPFUL TEACHERS

They said that they found the teachers friendly and helpful in aiding them to fit themselves for their future careers.

Bobby McMurdy has been out of school for eight years, part of which time was spent in the army in Korea, and other eastern countries. He is now preparing to enter the ministry.

It was most interesting to hear these young students discussing their aims in life and the program was much enjoyed by the members of the Guild and their guests.

Health Services Not Yet Provided At St. Joseph's

A monthly general meeting of St. Joseph's Parent-Teacher Association was held on March 10, 1955. Mr. W. Meagher presided and opened the meeting with a prayer.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Callaghan. Mr. C. Ford gave the treasurer's report.

Correspondence read by Mrs. J. Hanley included a letter from Rev. Father Morocco regarding the circulating Catholic Library which has been established at St. Michael's High School on John St. This library fills a need in the city for easy procuring of Catholic literature. As well as lending books, pamphlets may be purchased. This will be completely voluntary and donations of books are always welcome.

The health committee reports that health services were to be provided in St. Joseph's School within the past two weeks but nothing has been started as yet.

Rev. Father Sullivan from Peterborough was introduced by Rev. Father J. J. Buckley of St. Joseph's. Father Sullivan recommended that we send a delegate to the Ontario Safety Education Association in Toronto during Easter Week. Father Sullivan felt that a delegate could bring back to this unit a valuable fund of information on P.T.A. activities.

A motion was made by Mr. Trepanier and seconded by Mr. Brophy that money be provided for a delegate this convention. The motion was carried.

Reverend Father Buckley commented on the records concerning sex instruction to children which had been played.

The attendance prize for this month was won by the class of Rev. Sister Mary Helen Rita.

At an executive meeting held after the general meeting extensive plans for an outdoor social were made. The date is the June 15. It is hoped that all the members will offer their full co-operation to make this a successful event.

Mother of Five Handles Wheel Of Heavy Truck

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mrs. Richard Devee, 36, a mother of five, counts it routine to set out at night at the wheel of a heavy diesel truck - trailer combination with a 78,000-pound load of lumber railway equipment destined for a High Sierra logging camp.

Two sets of gear shifts mesh into 24 forward and 4 reverse speeds. If anything breaks down en route, she's good enough mechanic to fix it.

Mother of two girls and three boys ranging in age from 12 years to three months, she didn't start out with any notion of pioneering a new career. She was trying to be a good wife to her husband, Richard, who used to come home exhausted after long driving hours of cattle. She started going along to relieve him at the wheel.

Three years ago Devee switched to general freight and bought his with a rig of her own. To date Margaret Devee has a perfect safety record.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE'S NOT "TOO OLD AT 50"

A woman who signs herself "Too Old at 50" takes issue with me because I said recently that it is a poor idea for mothers to live with their married children.

Her complaint is that, while she is willing to go along with me in the general principle that married children should be independent of mothers and mothers-in-law, she thinks I should offer some workable alternative when the mother has no means of supporting herself.

"What I want to know is," she writes, "have you ever made up to look 30 or over and then started out to find a job?

"Well, I didn't need to make up, as I am in my late fifties. I can hold down several kinds of jobs, and I also went to night school to learn things I could do to make a living, but this didn't help me, as the answer I always got was: 'We want younger girls.'

"I have many women friends in the same fix that I am in, and I have also encountered other older men applying for work at the same places I was applying, and I know many widows who are looking for that job, too, and can't be found because they are no longer under 40.

"I have two sons at home, whom I would like to see married, but unless I have a few thousand to set them up in business I don't think they should stay with me. I have told them I would not live with either of them once they were married. I knew a way to support myself, and I am sure they would soon be married, and if they wait much longer they, too, will be too old to hold down a job to support a wife, as they are now in their thirties.

"Just what do you and others think women like me should do between 45 and 65? It seems to me the old age pension should be lowered. It burns up one who is trying to find a way to be self-supporting. To hear wise people say: 'Don't live with your married children.' If you live in my boots, you, too, would be awake nights and try to figure a way out. Those of us who have this problem are not old—but try to tell an employer that! I hope I have not taken too much of your time, but I have been hurt enough without reading such an article as yours."

Well, I must admit there is a great deal in what this correspondent says. It is perfectly true that the majority of employers in this country are prejudiced against the older worker, and do turn down older applicants for jobs with some such answer as the "We want younger girls," which she reports. Needless to say, once one has met with a number of such turn-downs, bitter discouragement sets in, heavily and naturally tinged with resentment.

However, the situation is not entirely hopeless. For there are plenty of women over 50 who have good jobs they are trying to hold successfully. It often takes much time and persistence to find such a job, but if an older woman is in good health—and this ones does not suggest that she is not—there will be a job for her somewhere.

Has she, for example, paid a visit to her State Employment Office? She lives in a large city where there almost certainly is such an office. I suggest that, if she has not done so already, she look into this immediately.

Has she called at other employment agencies in her city to find out if any of them might have something on their books which she could do?

Has she, for another thing, put an ad in Employment Wanted section of her local newspaper, stating the kind of work she is prepared to do? If she has not thought of this, then here is something else for her to try.

Has she any skill she could put to work at home? Many women today have found a way to earn at home, and I have a list of books on this subject which tell just how they have done it. If she would like to have this list of books, any of which she should be able to find at her local library, I would be very glad to send it to her if she will let me have a stamped self-addressed envelope so that I can send her a personal letter.

I hope this woman will try out these suggestions I have given her, and then let me know how she makes out. I am quite sure that she is not "Too Old at 50," and that if she will have the patience, determination and will power to persist in hunting for it, she can eventually find a way to be self-supporting and independent of her children.

A MAGIC way to concentrate "green thumb" interest is when thrifty gals put a WALL with carrot ends from which feathery foliage sprouts in a few days. Cut the carrots straight across about an inch from the top, and set them in shallow dishes with a little water.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

PERFUME POINTERS

Flower fragrances have and always will contribute to feminine charm and loveliness. They are the final touch when a woman has arrayed herself in becoming clothes for a social evening. They give her a feeling of elegance. And don't think she isn't pleased when someone she passes takes a deep breath, and asks the name of the perfume. Selecting a perfume isn't easy as shopping for other toiletries. Scents are very personal, like demure little girls. Others are a bit over-powering, like the over-dressed woman who wears too much make-up.

Blonder, especially should select delicate offering's—jonquil, gardenia, lily of the valley scents. They seem to suit the girls with golden crowns and delicate complexions.

If you are about to buy perfume, do not make a selection unless you find it captivating and exciting. An unfortunate choice of perfume may make the family rage at you and, in course of time, you may not be able to live with it yourself. What may seem appealing at first may not wear well. It's best to purchase the smallest possible amount and give it a fair trial.

If you find a blend or bouquet that does something to your soul, it makes you forget a lot of things you don't like to think about, stick to it. Adopt it for your very own. It will become part of your personality.

Your entire wardrobe will be impregnated with it. That is a more economical plan than changing from scent to scent. With perfume so high, it is plain sense to conserve the beauty budget.

If possible, buy sachets of the same fragrance, Grandma used to buy sachet powder in bulk, make little satin bags and fill them.

If the jars have wired tops, cut off or loosen the wire strands and twist, they are somewhat rust-proofed. Wipe off the dust briefly in a dampened linen towel. The leather will then hold enough moisture to become pliable again. Then you can restore the original appearance by smoothing and shaping the gloves on your hands.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD REGIN TO GIVE THEIR OWN PARTIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I (married last November) have a two-and-a-half room apartment; a 14-by-21 living room, bedroom, and a very small kitchenette. This means that it is not easy to entertain here. My husband's mother and father live in a nearby suburb, in a lovely big house which they own. Every time I suggest to my husband inviting a few friends to our apartment, he immediately insists we transfer the party to his parents' house, and they immediately "second the motion."

Although I firmly insist we pay all expenses (and we do), naturally we can't explain this to our friends, and I'm sure they feel that the party is not ours, but a party given by my husband's parents. Now this situation is coming to a head, because I'm hearing that many of my friends who gave showers and other pre-wedding parties for me are saying that they have never been invited to our home. Do you think it would be out-of-order for me to plan to entertain in such a small space as we have? We occasionally have a hearty maid, but my husband says there wouldn't be room for her in out tiny kitchenette if we were also doing any cooking. — Fran.

Dear Fran: I'm hoping that many of my friends who gave showers and other pre-wedding parties for me are saying that they have never been invited to our home. Do you think it would be out-of-order for me to plan to entertain in such a small space as we have? We occasionally have a hearty maid, but my husband says there wouldn't be room for her in out tiny kitchenette if we were also doing any cooking. — Fran.

Dear Fran: I'm hoping that couple would consider you and your husband extremely fortunate to have a fair-sized living room, a bedroom, a kitchenette, and a possible alcove "waiting" maid. You and your husband should reconsider your attitude. It's high time you start doing your own entertaining, and you certainly have the space and the wherewithal to do it . . . apply in your own home the suggestions you've been applying rather fruitlessly to parties given in your husband's parents' home. Buffet parties are the answer to your entertainment-problem.

Suburban Shopping Centre With Huge Parking Area Hurts Business on Front St.

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A shopping revolution sparked by the push to suburbia means big pickings for some merchants and lighter pockets for others.

The suburban shopping centre with its huge parking area has hurt business on Main street in the smaller communities and downtown in the cities.

But some of the new shopping centres riding high today are in for trouble tomorrow. Main street and downtown may recoup by facing the facts of the motor age and modernizing accordingly, say architects and planners.

U. S. GONE SUBURBAN

The suburban centres have mushroomed as an estimated 40 per cent of the United States population has gone suburban, Chain Store Age, magazine of that industry, estimates there are 2,000 shopping centres now and 800 to 1,000 being built.

Some have sprung up too fast for their own good. They're hastily-thrown - together strip developments—a string of stores along the highway with minimum parking facilities.

Many were built with no regard for the surrounding residential areas. The result: neighborhood deterioration and a future retail slum.

Sol G. Atlas builder-owner of $30,000,000 Cross Country Centre in Yonkers, N.Y. says it has 8250,000 square feet of selling area and parking space for 2,400 cars.

BIG BUSINESS

In its first year the 70-acre centre will gross $45,000,000, said Atlas. The gross should rise to $85,000,000 next year, he added, because two new department stores, a medical centre, skating rink, recreation area and two restaurants will open.

In the northern part of the Greater Detroit area is Northland Centre, 70-store centre developed by the J. L. Hudson Co.

Its rental area totals 992,000 square feet but its site is 159 acres. It claims to be the largest completely - integrated retail-shopping district in the world. It has parking space for 7,000 cars.

A department store attracts customers to the carefully-selected shops clustered about it, says architect Victor Gruen whose firm designed Northland.

COMPETITION POSSIBLE

Can Main street and Downtown fight back against the drift to suburban shopping?

"Some of the lessons learned in the planning of suburban shopping centres undoubtedly can be applied in downtown areas," writes Gruen in the Harvard Business Review.

Gruen says five elements are needed to save existing retail areas from damaging competition by suburban shopping centres:

1. Easy exit and entrances; 2. ample parking space; 3. integrated neighborhoods instead of surrounding slums; 4. entertainment and cultural facilities; 5. separation of pedestrian, private auto and truck traffic.

Picture of a man improving his community

Whether he's working or playing, eating or sleeping, this man helps to develop Canadian communities in many important ways.

How can he do this?

Simply by owning life insurance.

You see, every time he makes a payment on his policy, the money is invested for him in sound securities. And these securities, in turn, finance the building of many new homes, utilities, public works and industrial plants.

Likewise, he helps his fellow-citizens to enjoy better health. For it is he who makes it possible for life insurance companies to give financial aid to various medical research projects. From these studies may come new freedom from disease and extra years of life for you and yours.

Even the security his family enjoys with life insurance also benefits the community. For if anything happens to him, his loved ones will not have to depend upon others for their support.

In all of these ways, millions of life insurance policyholders are helping to make Canada a better land to live in.

P.S. FROM YOUR LIFE INSURANCE MAN

"All these investments earn interest that makes it possible for you and your family to enjoy the benefits of life insurance at such low cost. If you have any questions about how to make life insurance fit your own special needs, give me a call. I'll be glad to help you!"

Seventeen Die Violently In Eastern Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two children shot accidentally and a man who suffocated when his car fell off a jack and forced his face into mud were among 17 persons to die violently in eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey showed 11 deaths in Ontario, five in Quebec and one in Newfoundland. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island reported no fatalities.

Nine persons died in traffic accidents, three died of gunshot wounds, two were suffocated, and drowning, fire and hanging claimed the other three.

Douglas John Trudeau, 8, was killed at Peterborough, when a .22 rifle being handled by his 10-year-old brother discharged. Gail Orr, 9, died in hospital at Timmins after being accidentally shot in the head by her brother.

Henry Selvarright, 38, Toronto, who was working under his car, suffocated when the jack slipped and the car's weight forced his head into muddy ground.

John Mallice, 68, was suffocated in a rooming cottage near Windsor, Ont., when a gas burner consumed all the oxygen in the small room.

Bert Batten of North York, a Toronto engineer, was killed Saturday when his car was involved in a traffic accident.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, 84, was killed Sunday night when struck by a car as she crossed a highway near her home five miles outside Brantford.

Two persons were killed and two others injured when a car struck a transport truck near Brockville Saturday night. Dead are Jack Landon, 30, of New York and Elizabeth Marie Vanorden, 30, of Detroit.

Frank Lacro, 65-year-old owner of a motel at Fruitland, near Hamilton, was killed when struck by one car and run over by two others as he attempted to cross a highway.

George Ray McCabe, 23, was killed at Alvinston, Ont., Saturday when his car struck a telephone pole guy wire.

Wayne Teasley, 11 was drowned at New Saram, near St. Thomas, when a creek bank from which he was fishing collapsed and threw him into the stream.

A six-year-old boy accidentally hanged himself while playing in a barn at Notre Dame de Ham, Que. Police said Augustin Laliberte fell from a cattle crib and a piece of rope coiled around his neck.

RECOVER DIAMONDS

LONDON (AP)—About 90 per cent of the diamonds carried by a British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) Stratocruiser that crashed Christmas Day have been recovered, a London insurance firm said Sunday night. The plane crashed and burned at Prestwick, Scotland, with the loss of 28 lives. It carried 40 packets of diamonds believed worth one million pounds ($2,800,000) assigned to United States buyers.

TRAPPED MINER DIGS HIS WAY OUT

After spending 19 hours trapped 300 feet under a silver mine at Cobalt, Ont., Basil Ruddy walked out "feeling fine." An experienced miner, Ruddy managed to dig his way out after rescuers had cleared away most of the rock that had enclosed him. The father of six children, the miner gratefully thanked his 15 co-workers who dog out more than 400 tons of rock. During his entombment, he club precariously to a niche in the mine wall five feet by four feet wide. Rescuers drilled a pipe through the rock wall and through it fed soup to the 38-year-old man.—Central Press Canadian.

Two Female Wolves Shot Near Deloro

MARMORA — Harry Hamberg, native of Holland, and resident of Deloro for only six months, is wearing one of those smiles just now that does not wear off easily. For two consecutive Saturdays it has been his good fortune to bag a female wolf at no great distance from the smelting village. He is an employee of the company there and on Saturday afternoon, February 26, taking his shotgun with him, his own hound and two belonging to his fellow resident, Alphonse Clemens, he hiked westward to cross the township road half a mile away where stands the former cheese factory that Steve Glimbiski has converted into a rooming house.

To his surprise he saw wolf tracks close to the building and the dogs then took up the scent. Soon he saw the wolf about fifty feet away and took sure aim, bringing it down with one shot. It was a female which weighed just over 70 pounds and measured from end to end, six and a half feet.

The following Saturday afternoon he was prompted to go in the same direction and his friend Alphonse Clemens, accompanied him. Sure enough other wolf tracks were spotted but it was dusk before Hamberg again had success with his gun, getting another female, practically a duplicate of the other. His chum, too, fired at another wolf but it, although wounded badly, made a get-away.

BRITAIN HONORS U.S. AIRMAN

Captain Curtis K. Parkins, of Royalton, Minnesota, chats with the Duchess of Kent in London after he was presented with the R.N.L.I. silver medal by the duchess for his work in the rescue of the sole survivor of the South Goodwin lightship by helicopter against raging seas and gales on November 27 last year. Presentation of the award to Captain Parkins of the U.S. air force marked the first time the medal was given to an airman and the first time in this century that an American citizen has been given the award. Traffic Delayed Twenty Hours By Derailment

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP)—Traffic on two rail lines was delayed almost 20 hours Saturday after a Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental train crashed into a steam car.

The steam car was part of an Algoma Central Railway diesel passenger train standing in Franz station, 33 miles west of here. No one was injured.

The car, used to heat passenger coaches, was hurled through the station baggage room wall when struck by the CPR Toronto-to-Vancouver train. Service was restored Saturday night when the track at the CPR-Algoma diamond crossing was cleared of wreckage. The CPR train continued on to Vancouver.

WAS DECORATED

DUNNVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Major J. G. Henderson, 43, former officer commanding the St. Catharines military proving ground, died Sunday. He had been decorated with the Military Cross and the Serbian Order of the White Eagle for gallantry in the First World War. tend.

A "PRINCESS" IS LAUNCHED AT GLASGOW

Gliding down the slipway at Glasgow is the CPR's new passenger train-and-car-ferry, the Princess of Vancouver. The vessel was christened by Mrs. Arkle, wife of the CPR's European general manager. The 7,000-ton Princess is a twin-screw ship and can carry 800 passengers. An unusual feature of the ceremonies was the fact that her funnel had been fitted prior to the launching. Tiny pieces of nickel speed cabled words three times faster across the Atlantic

THE NEW UNDERSEAS CABLE "BOOSTER" being lowered to the ocean floor, where it will amplify trans-Atlantic signals—allowing us to get messages from Europe three times faster than before. This is possible only because of the use of tiny pieces of nickel in the amplifier's vacuum tube.

1200 FEET DOWN, on the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean is a metal case. In it is an electronic amplifier. Electric signals weak from the long journey by cable are here amplified and reshaped into stronger, clearer signals. With this single installation the cable's capacity was increased from 50 to 167 words a minute.

This is possible only because of the presence of tiny pieces of nickel in the amplifier's vacuum tube.

For years now, communication between this Continent and the United Kingdom and Europe has been a problem. It was particularly serious during the war when communication channels were overloaded by Allied Governments, military and press.

The first of these amplifiers was installed recently by Western Union on the company's cable which stretches under the Atlantic from Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, to Penzance, England.

Case Must Last For 40 Years

Nickel alloys were used at vital points to guard the case containing the amplifier against the many forms of marine corrosion that occur below the ocean's surface. A life of 40 years was demanded.

Inco research and development teams in co-operation with industry have been in the forefront of the world's metallurgical developments since 1921. The knowledge and experience gained are among Inco's greatest assets. Inco research points the way to Inco's future!

The hangar is a new type from which the jet fighter can make its take-off without taxiing to the runway. (Central Press Canadian).

Fatally Injured

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—A visitor from Canada was injured fatally in a two-automobile collision Friday.

Patrolman Gordon Lord identified her as Mrs. Carolyn Watt McDonald 68, of St. Catharines, Ont. She was riding in a car driven by her husband, Graham A. McDonald, 63.

Lord said McDonald drove from a side street onto a main highway and his car was in collision with one driven by W. D. Ward, 38, of Lakeland. McDonald, Ward and three children in the Ward car all received minor injuries.

The officer said he charged McDonald with failing to yield the right of way.

Advocates of Legal Guarantee Of Freedom of Press Have Little Chance of Achieving Objective

Continued public discussion, rather than written guarantees is the main safeguard of freedom of information in British countries. The following story, last of a Canadian Press series on freedom of the press, reviews the situation in Canada. Written for The Canadian Press

BY FRANK FLAHERTY

Advocates of a binding legal guarantee of freedom of the press and other fundamental freedoms in Canada have little chance of achieving their objective in the foreseeable future.

An attempt to write an international charter or convention guaranteeing freedom of information for the United Nations to which Canada could subscribe has failed. The only kind of document on which the member nations could agree is one that would spell out so many grounds for restriction of freedom as to give governments to cut down on the freedoms Canadians now enjoy.

Several attempts in Parliament to get a guarantee written into the Canadian Constitution have come to nothing. The latest one, at the present session ran into opposition from Justice Minister Stuart Garson, backed by two Quebec Liberals members and by the Social Credit party. There was no vote but the debate didn't come up again this session.

SERVED GOOD PURPOSE

Yet the question of the problem in Parliament and elsewhere has served to focus attention on the importance of citizens' knowing the facts and having access to uncontrolled sources of information.

An independent commission of American scholars recently found that, despite a guarantee of freedom of the press in the Constitution of the United States, freedom has always to be fought for and in danger now and always will be in danger.

The preservation of freedom of all kinds—and freedom of the press is basic to other freedoms—is a continuing job. It is the responsibility of governments, of the public, and of the press itself.

Over a large part of the earth's surface the average man has no means of knowing much except what his government wants him to know. That is true in the Communist countries. It has become true even in some non-Communist countries that formerly had a free press and in which governments there are explicit guarantees of freedom. Argentina is one.

Seeds of freedom disappear elsewhere makes thoughtful people in democratic countries wonder whether it can happen here and seek to build up defences for freedom. As yet they have found no new legal defences but the new alertness can help. Incipient encroachments on the freedom of the press which appear to prevent the newspapers from serving the public's right to know can be spotted and checked.

RECOGNIZE CHALLENGE

The government's alertness to the challenge to freedom can be seen in the careful study and reasoning that went into Mr. Garson's speech in the House of Commons on the Bill of Rights proposal. Parliament's alertness is evidenced by the fact that three prominent members of three different parties initiated moves looking to a Bill of Rights.

The public's interest is evidenced by the large number of eminent citizens who support the move for a Bill of Rights and the amount of discussion the subject aroused in groups and associations all across the country.

That the press is aware of its responsibility can be seen in the fact that the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association has a committee giving continuous study to the problem. Newspapers show their awareness also by reacting promptly to judicial or official acts that hamper the securing and presentation of news.

A reporter is called on to disclose the source of his information or lose his defence in a libel action. His case has been discussed all across the country.

The Vancouver police interfere with press photographers taking pictures of accused bank robbers. There is an apparent clash between an accused person's right to a fair trial and the public's right to know about police activities.

DISCUSSION HELPS

Public discussion of the rights and wrongs of such incidents can help to preserve the freedom of the newspaper to do a job essential to the exercise of the public's right to know. If such interests are ignored authority grows more demanding and restrictive. Open discussion and criticism ensures that authority will keep within the bounds of our well-established traditions of freedom.

It is those traditions, embodied in the British Constitution and not spelled out in any law, that must remain the main safeguard of freedom in the light of the failure or inability of Parliament to provide a constitutional guarantee.

This became clear in the daylong debate precipitated by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) with a double-barrelled resolution saying immediate consideration should be given to the introduction of a Bill of Rights and that the government should seek the opinion of the Supreme Court of Canada on the extent to which fundamental freedoms belong to federal or provincial legislation.

CCF leader Coldwell, informed there could be only one debate on the subject, turned a resolution proposing a new clause in the British North America Act to forbid either Parliament or the provincial legislatures from restricting freedoms into an amendment to the Diefenbaker motion. David Croll (L—Toronto-Spadina) supported the Coldwell - Diefenbaker effort.

Mr. Garson's argument bolled down to three points:

1. A Bill of Rights would restrict the power of Parliament and so is inconsistent with the basic principle of the Constitution, supremacy of Parliament.

2. Freedoms never existed longer and are more secure under the principle of the supremacy of Parliament than under any other system in the world.

3. Any further that would restrict the powers of provincial legislatures could not be enacted without their consent, which would be (a) unlikely; (b) could best be sought after a picture of how it evolved for amending the Constitution in Canada, without the permanent necessity of action by the British Parliament.

He went further and questioned the value as well as the feasibility of a Bill of Rights. It might look good on paper but it would not work better than the British system of a supreme Parliament had worked in practice. Any Bill of Rights would be interpreted by the courts and the courts were not immune from the pressure of public opinion.

In the poll tax states of the United States the constitutional guarantee of the franchise did not assure every citizen a vote. The American Bill of Rights had not prevented the abuses of what was called McCarthyism.

Mr. Garson said he had not consulted his colleagues and so was not speaking for the government. The fact, however, that he and his officials were the people who drafted the government on legal and constitutional matters, indicates that caution there is a change in the Diefenbaker - Coldwell - Croll ideas have a slim chance of being translated into law very soon.

Words of London Columnist May Come True for Princess

BY ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Two years ago a London columnist wrote:

"Why not open the golden cage and let the pretty little figure out?"

Today it looks as though just that may be about to happen. Princess Margaret, most talked-about young woman in the kingdom, is reported thinking of marrying Peter Townsend, a commoner who has been a close friend all her adult life.

If the royal wedding bells do ring—and most people seem to think they will though there is no official confirmation — the Queen's 24-year-old sister with step out of the gilded cage forever.

As Townsend's wife, she would renounce her rights as third in succession to the throne, give up her £6,000 yearly allowance and be free for the first time of the suffocating round of royal duties.

LITTLE PRIVACY

It would be a big change for the violet-eyed, photogenic princess who has been conspicuously in the public eye—and has apparently enjoyed it—since her first public dance at the age of 14.

In that time, she has known privacy only with her family and a small circle of trusted friends. Though gay and carefree by nature, she has always felt the dangers of a chance remark, the worries of a long-range camera catching her in an undignified pose.

But when Margaret was asked whether she ever yearned to be the anonymous girl in the crowd, she replied decisively:

"No. I cannot imagine anything more wonderful than being who I am."

Millions of words have been written about the princess and her personality. Despite that, little is known of her real character. One London newspaper, repelled by "nauseous publicity," said stories about her constituted probably the most lewd excursus in branch of contemporary journalism."

Typical of the perhaps apocryphal anecdotes about the princess is one that appeared in a Paris magazine. This reported that when the Queen reproached Margaret for wearing something too gay, the younger girl replied:

"Look after your old engine—and let me look after my dresses."

Probably nearer the truth is the popular picture of the princess as a pleasure-loving, witty and talented person who likes dancing into the dawn, plays the piano with passing skill and enjoys a practical joke on occasion.

Marion Crawford, governess to Elizabeth and Margaret for 15 years, has told of her fondness for pranks—such as stuffing acorns in the shoes of court attendants—and another reasonably well-authenticated story has it that she once painted Charlie Chaplin moustaches on statuary in Windsor Castle.

Certainly the princess seems to have a prayer and more spontaneous nature than her older sister, who is more serious and occasionally carries out public duties with an appearance of constraint.

But Margaret—Prime Minister Menzies of Australia described her as a woman of "great intelligence, high spirits, immense charm"—has also shown seriousness of purpose and occasionally, an indefatigable determination.

Her life has fallen into four main phases. Born Aug. 21, 1930 at Glamis, her mother's ancestral castle home in Scotland, she had a happy, cloistered childhood in a gentle family atmosphere at a London house in Piccadilly and later, in wartime, at Windsor Castle.

Soon her puckish sense of mischief, budding attractiveness and love of a good time gave Britain's "little princess" a place of her own in royal stories. She was billed as the fun-loving fashion plate whose main ambition was to dress like "Aunt Marina," the Duchess of Kent, memorize hit songs from shows such as "South Pacific" and run through a dazzling list of escorts.

She favored late parties and loved to dance—danced the can-can with ambassador's daughter Sharman Douglas, stole the show from seasoned actresses at premieres and gala first nights. It was a grief to her that she was small, just a shade over five feet, she hid it under a mask of gaiety.

She was quick with a quip—after Prince Charles was born she said she'd prefer to be known as "Charley's Aunt" — and made friends laugh with her talent for mimicry.

LIFE STOOD STILL

Danny Kaye, a favorite comedian, said she was good enough to get by on the stage. When the late King George VI was alive, she delighted in making him fall for one of her tricks. After a visitor left the King, Margaret would rush to the door and, keeping herself hidden, pretend she was the visitor returning for forgotten dream.

Her father died Feb. 6, 1951, and "life seemed to stand still" for the play-girl princess. The deeply religious side of her nature came to the front and there was even a report she would enter a religious order. At the time, a Buckingham Palace spokesman told this writer it would not surprise him if the report proved true.

More recently the princess has seemed to revert to her old carefree self.

Some might say this is because Margaret, four times a bridesmaid, sees the time approaching when she will be a bride. Her old girl friends, such as the Marchioness of Bristol and the Countess of Dalkeith, now are married and have children, and Margaret may feel out of things when she visits them.

Nobody will know for sure until a formal announcement, if any, is made. The story goes that when the present queen was being courted by Lt. Gen. Philip Mountbatten, Margaret was horrified at the way the romance became public property. She resolved to keep her own affairs of the heart strictly private.

Eskimo Erkolie, who lives at Chesterfield Inlet, Northwest Territories, gazes in amazement at the movie camera owner by Victor Jurgens, right, cameraman for the American Polar Basin expedition which will make an assault on the North Pole later this month. Members of 20-person expedition spent two weeks testing equipment at Chesterfield Inlet and left the Eskimos amazed at the antics of the whites. While the Eskimos, right, curiously poked into the intricate devices of the expedition, they were a big help to the white men, giving them tips on how to weather the 60-below-zero temperature. Undue Interest in Stocks May Have Adverse Effects On U.S. Economy Probe Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the federal reserve board said today he sees signs of "unhealthy tendencies when business men or the public generally become unduly preoccupied with the stock market and stock prices."

"An unusual speculative psychology may then develop that can have adverse effects upon the economy," chairman William Martin Jr. told the Senate banking committee.

Martin did not say what consideration the board may be giving to raising margin requirements—that is, the amount of cash which buyers of securities must put up—in the light of current market conditions.

The stock market had its sharpest break in 15 years last week as the banking committee, headed by Senator William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.), started a "friendly study" of its operations and of the rise in stock prices during the last 18 months. It is widely debated whether the Senate inquiry influenced the break.

Martin told the committee margin requirements by themselves may not halt excessive speculation. He said "they are not and cannot be cure-alls for stock market excesses or abuses."

All told, Martin said, loans on securities total some $7,200,000,000 today, an increase of around $2,000,000,000 since the end of 1946.

But Martin said the total increase in credit since 1946 is nearly $200,000,000,000, so that stock loans make up only about one per cent of the eight-year increase.

Martin stressed that the federal reserve board has no responsibility toward determining stock prices.

He said it insists on more cash only to check "excessive use of credit." And that, Martin said, "is largely a question of judgment."

Martin said elimination of credit-buying by raising margin requirements to 10 per cent, would not necessarily check rising prices.

"Even if all credit were eliminated from the stock market, cash purchases could bid up the prices of stocks to high levels. Regulation can restrain the use of credit for stock market purposes, but it cannot serve as a guarantee against all speculative excesses."

The FRB chairman said he regarded the Senate inquiry, which some Wall street sources regard as a cause of recent price breaks, as "useful and constructive."

No Decision Is Yet Reached On Financing of Gas Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of how to finance the proposed 2,200-mile natural gas pipeline from Alberta to the East is still a question.

The federal cabinet met Saturday to consider the second item in a week a request for Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., for a government guarantee of $200,000,000 expected to total about $275,000,000.

After the meeting, Prime Minister St. Laurent told reporters the cabinet wants "something concrete" from the company before deciding whether to back the $200,000,000 project.

The company has been discussing it with the Industrial Development Bank, and still is," said Mr. St. Laurent, "and if the bank comes along with a method they agree would be proper and likely to be successful, that method would get consideration."

Meanwhile, any government source "will have the information we get."

The company sought federal backing when it ran into snags completing supply and sales contracts.

Under its present setup, the Industrial Bank couldn't be of much help. It can make loans to private companies, but only out of its $25,000,000 capital is already on loan. The government has been reported considering the issue of the Industrial Development Bank legislation to allow help for Trans-Canada.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

DESERVED IT!

Cornwall hockey authorities, while keenly disappointed over, what was to them, the surprising elimination of the Colts by the Belleville Memes, or any other team, admit the better team won the series—and the secret of the defeat was the fierce, two-way checking of the Easterners. The downeasters did not sell the Memes short by any stretch of the imagination even after the 10-0 debacle that marked the first Cornwall victory. Sportswriters and commentators in the dopes-seat city repeatedly warned their club of the potential of the Memes—and how right they proved to be.

The Memes ousting of the powerful Colts, who proved one of the topflight teams in schedule play, came as a surprise around the circuit. Peterborough, Kingston and Whitby scribes picked the Colts to win apparently on the basis of schedule play. They couldn't or didn't believe that records of the season were so much water under the bridge. The Memes proved differently.

Two factors stood out in the defeat. The first saw the Memes' unexpected 4-3 overtime victory in Cornwall in the fifth game—and the second was the two lightning goals scored in 97 seconds in the sixth and deciding tilt. Cornwall had banked practically everything on the win in the fifth fray with the possibility of the Memes tying it in the sixth and the seventh being played in Cornwall yesterday. Here are the Cornwall scribe's comments on the fifth game:

"It was a shocked and silent crowd that filed out of the Cornwall arena last night. Most of us felt that the game would be close but counted on a Colts' win on home ice, especially with the stakes so high. We were beaten by a better team on the ice-surface and that is about the only explanation that can be offered. Colts had an edge in the first period and most of the third but were unable to collect any more than two goals. One of those, the first one, was a "natch." The Belleville Memos possess a style that effectively hobbles the free wheeling Colts. The secret is checking. The Memos check like fiends. Their sticks seem to be everywhere. Their most deadly checking zone is the Colts' end ice. This time, the Colts, on the Cornwall club seemed unable to get the puck out of its own zone when under pressure.

"The Memos appeared to be in better shape and to have more drive. Guns they took every shot as a goal lead in the second period they hung on grimly. Near the middle of the third period they abandoned their pattern of checking up front and hung back waiting for the Colts to come to them. The change-in tactics was a wise one and paid off for the Colts. Their attack finally picked up momentum and at the 18 minute mark of the frame they had notched the winning counter. While Jack Marshall knotted the Memos' count the defensive strategy and bounded the locals in the Cornwall end of the rink. The result is written in the score sheet."

The Memos' three attacking divisions split the scoring honors fairly even in the six-game series, actually it was five games as far as points are concerned. The Drennan and Ted DeGray topped the pack with six goals and 13 assists. Doran, Duncan and Peter Jones garnered eight and five for 13, while MacDonald, Davy Jones and Joyce had six and four for ten. Ted DeGray led the goalgetters with four, while Ed. Duncan paced the "assisters" with nine. Muckler and Wilson were the only defencemen to score, each getting one, while Bob Macer had three and six assists. Tony Parisi, forgetting that 10-0 nothing business had 13 goals scored on him in the next five games. The Memos outscored the Colts 29-13 in the final five games to win the five-goal score in the first tilt gave the losers a 33-32 edge in the series.

CLOSE ONE!

Lee Turner, bowling in the Stewart-Warner League, missed a perfect game by a mosquito's whisker last Friday. Lee toppled the pins for ten straight strikes then left the five-pin and spared on the eleventh. They dropped over and knocked other than that. One observer said that pesky five-pin wobbled—then decided to straighten up and rob Turner of that elusive "perfect score."

HERE AND THERE

Kingston Goodyears took a three-two lead in their senior "B" semi-final series Saturday night, defeating the Whitby Dunlops 5-3 in the eastern city Community Centre. The teams clash in the sixth game of the series . . . night in Whitby and the seventh if necessary, is slated for Kingston, Thursday night. The Goodies can wrap it up with a win . . . night, but this Whitby crew is a tough nut to crack in its own backyard.

Manager Bruce Smith of the Memos has just informed this corner that the Goodyears win . . . night in Whitby, the group finals series will start in Belleville Friday night of this week, with the second game in Kingston on Saturday night. The third game will be played here Tuesday or Wednesday. However, if Whitby forces the series to seven games, other final arrangements will be made.

It seems the Gagnon-Irvine feud has scarcely cooled off. The Kingston player is out of the rest of the series with a dislocated shoulder as a result of a clash with the Whitby coach Saturday night. Gagnon drew a schedule suspension as a result of a crash with Irvine, and it appears like a battle every time the players meet. Saturday night's incident, we understand, is being reported to the OHA.

NORTOWNS LEAD

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Nortown defeated Windsor AKOs 111-81 in the first of a two-game, total-point series for the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association junior final here Saturday night. Toronto will carry a 30-point edge into the second game at Windsor next Saturday.

GAVILAN, TRAINER, FINED

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Miami Beach boxing commission fined former welterweight boxing champion Kid Gavilan and his trainer $100 each Saturday for protests they made to newspaper reporters after The Kid lost a close decision to Hector Constance here Feb. 23.

Canadiens, Maple Leafs Slip In Bruising Stretch Hockey; Rocket Gets Fine, Suspension

By Jim Peacock
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A plugged nickel to a hole in a doughnut is a good bet today if you're trying to pick the National Hockey League winner.

The weekend left the race for Stanley Cup positions as tight as a drum and only eight games remain in which to determine the championship. Two of those games are all-important.

The league - leading Montreal Canadiens and third-place Toronto Maple Leafs slipped a little during the six-game weekend as the bruising stretch - drive hockey brought violence and injury.

Detroit Red Wings, refusing to give up hopes of a second-straight NHL flag, won twice at home, nipping Chicago's last-place Black Hawks 3-2. Saturday in a game that knocked captain Ted Lindsay out for a week or two with tonsilitis Toronto 6-1 Sunday. He hurt his shoulder that later kept him out of 14 games in mid-season.

ROCKET SMACKS OFFICIAL

Montreal, meanwhile, split with Boston Bruins with a home-and-home round that saw temperamental Maurice (Rocket) Richard fined by linesman Cliff Thompson with a wicked right-hand punch under the eye. Thursday night in the Montreal Saturday but dropped a 4-3 decision in a rough-house game at Boston Sunday.

Leafs lost the services for the season of defenceman Richard Day while being beaten 3-1 by fifth-place New York Rangers at Toronto Saturday. Rangers whipped Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 at New York Sunday.

Red Wings' double win pushed them within two points of Montreal while Bruins closed the gap between themselves and Toronto to a single point with the win Sunday.

Richard, the league's leading scorer, went wild Sunday at Boston after being cut over the head in a melee with Boston forward Hal Laycoe. When Thompson tried to intervene, Richard pushed the referee against the boards and one of his blows caught the official under the eye, raising a large swelling.

CUT UNDER BOTH EYES

Laycoe was cut under both eyes. He said one of the cuts came from Richard's stick and another from a punch.

Richard told Thompson twice and the outburst cost him a match penalty, sailing the official flew and suspension until his case is reviewed by league president Clarence Campbell.

The injury to Lindsay and Richard's suspension will not have an effect on the final standings since Detroit and Montreal meet twice before the 70-game schedule ends Sunday. Each has three games remaining and the two Detroit victories would mean Wings could wind up no worse than a tie for top rung.

Leafs and Bruins each have two games remaining—Boston against Detroit and Chicago and Toronto against Canadiens and New York—in which to decide third place.

FROM BEHIND

Wings came from behind against Chicago Sunday night, scoring twice in the second period for victory. Vic Stasiuk and Wing Adams had 1-0 in the first period, but Hawks came back with goals by George Sullivan and Larry Wilson—early in the second. Then Johnny Wilson and Marcel Pavelich scored for the win.

Bobby Rebel sparkled in Wings' Sunday night victory over Toronto, scoring three goals as Detroit rang up its seventh straight win. Marcel Pronovost scored twice and Red Kelly got one.

George Armstrong robbed goalie Terry Sawchuk of a shutout with less than three minutes left, but the weekend results put Sawchuk three goals ahead of Toronto's Larry Lumley in the race for the Vezina Trophy.

Sawchuk also got an assist in the game. In the second period he made a diving stop of Bill Smith's shot and Pronovost picked up the puck and went the full length to score.

Saturday night at Montreal, Bert Olmstead scored with 43 seconds left in the game to give Canadiens victory. All the scoring came in the third period, defenceman Bob Armstrong putting Boston ahead only to have Calum MacKay tie it up five minutes later.

The game was rough and fast, but didn't compare with the lively outburst at Boston. Bruins had the game clinched with a 4-1 lead on two goals by Ed Sandford and one each by Flem Mackell and Real Chevrefils when Richard went wild with five minutes left in the third period.

Dickie Moore got Montreal's first goal in the opening period and Tom Johnson added the other with only five seconds left in the game.

Richard refused to discuss the incident. Laycoe said he and Richard were skating after the puck following a faceoff. He said the Rocket swung his stick around, cutting Laycoe over the eye. Laycoe swung back, cutting Richard. Laycoe drew a major and a five-minute misconduct.

The two had also bounted in the first period when Laycoe was sent off for charging Richard.

It was not immediately known whether Richard's suspension would be lifted Thursday when Canadiens meet Red Wings at Montreal.

COSTLY COLLISION

Horton, a fine rushing rearguard who was named to the second all-star team last season, collided with Ranger defenceman Bill Gadsby in the closing night Toronto game and suffered a broken right leg and bruised ribs.

Leafs were leading 1-0 then on a second-period goal by Tod Sloan. Defencemen Allan Stanley and Jim Morrison each had assists.

Rangers won Saturday's game in the third period on a goal by Danny Lewicki, Vic Howe and Larry Popein fired in three more goals in the second. Harry Watson and Metro Prystai added for Hawks.

Dutchies Lead Windsor Dogs By 3-1 Margin

By The Canadian Press

Windsor Bulldogs, their backs to the wall, snapped out of a weary losing slump Sunday to keep Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen from a clean sweep of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A final playoffs.

They lost to the high - flying Dutchies 4-2 in a sizzling overtime game in Kitchener Saturday, their third straight loss in the best-of-seven series, but recovered Sunday on home ice to trim the Dutchies 6-3 before 5,300 fans. It was Kitchener's first setback in their last seven games and only the second in nine playoff encounters.

Fifth game of the finals will be played in Kitchener Wednesday.

TREY PRODUCED

The Bulldogs took note of coach Murph Chamberlain's produce-or-else threat. Frank Battigate, who hadn't got a goal in the earlier games, came through with two Sunday, while defenceman National Hockey Leaguer, also connected with two, his second and third of the series.

Reg Abbott and Andy McCallum also counted in Windsor's scoring with single markers.

Kitchener managed a goal in each period, Ralph Backstrom, Ken Hamilton and Charlie Brooker. The score was 1-1 after the first and 5-2 after the second period.

Fights and near fights flared in the rough game and 30 penalties were handed out, including two majors apiece. Eight of the minors went to Kitchener.

GOALIE SHINES

Bulldog netminder Bill Harrington was spectacular in both games. He had 39 shots to stop in the Saturday loss and was mainly responsible for making the game into overtime. Kitchener peppered him with 23 shots in the third and overtime periods while Dennis Brodeur, Dutchie goalkeeper, was seldom troubled by nine shots in the same time.

In the Saturday contest Kitchener scorers were Jim Logan, Joe Schertzl, George Scholes and Ken Laufman. Windsor counters were Bob Brown and Chuck Henderson. Scholes and Laufman counted in the overtime after a scoreless third period.

SANTEE ALL ALONE

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wes Santee made it a one-man show Saturday night as he won the featured mile in the fifth annual Milwaukee Journal indoor track games in 4:06.6.

Canada Seventh in Pan-American, Jackie MacDonald Finishes Fifth

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

MEXICO CITY (CP)—A pretty Toronto school teacher who almost missed going to the second Pan-American Games because her specialty was not on she venue was Canada's first point-winner Sunday.

Tall Jacqueline (Jackie) Macdonald kept Canada among the first 10 countries in the unofficial standings by finishing fifth behind Argentina's Ingeborg Pfuller in the women's discus final with a heave of 37.23 metres (122 feet, 5⅝ inches).

On the basis of the traditional unofficial point system of 10-7-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six placings, the 22-year-old blonde with the statuesque figure scored a of two points for Canada.

Argentina won two gold medals against one for the United States in the opening day of track and field competition with the world-rounded American squad—350 athletes in all—predicted champion-ships in fencing and weightlifting.

The evening victories in the latter two sports gave the United States well ahead of Argentina in the unofficial point score. The U.S. had 46 points to 34½ for Argentina. Mexico, the host nation, was third with 22 and Panama fourth with 15. Cuba had 10 points, Chile, 7; Brazil 4, Haiti 3, Canada 2, Puerto Rico 2½, Venezuela and Canada 2 each and Guatemala 1.

In addition to the women's discus, Argentina won the 10,000 metres while the United States finished one-two in the high jump.

SPRINTERS QUALIFY

Only a handful of the 70-odd Canadians, competing in the games for the first time, saw action on the opening day which was confined mainly to track and field. Sprinters Bruce Kidd of New Westminster, B.C., and Bruce Springbett of Vancouver qualified for the 100-metres semi-finals this afternoon.

Miss Macdonald didn't come close to her best distance in the discus—126 feet—but it wouldn't have made much difference as far as the winner was concerned.

Miss Fuller, runner-up in the 1951 Games, won the first gold medal for her country with a throw of 43.19 metres (141 feet, 8½ inches) to set a Pan-American record.

The old mark of 38.55 metres (126 feet, 5⅝ inches) was set by Ingeborg Mello of Argentina in 1951. The world record is 57.4 metres (187 feet, 1⅛ inches) held by a Russian.

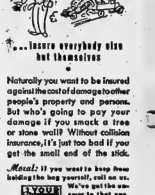
HOLD BIG LEAD

The one-two finish in the discus and victory in the 10,000 metres gave Argentina, the defending champion, a big lead at the end of the first day. On the unofficial scoring basis, Argentina had 25 points against 16 for the United States and 11 for Mexico. Other scorers were Chile with 6, Canada 4, Canada 3, Guatemala 1, Puerto Rico 1.

In the 10,000 metres, Oswaldo Suarez of Argentina and favored Gordon McKenzie, of the United States raced together for the first third of the distance, which is over six miles, but McKenzie dropped out when he ran out of steam.

Suarez went on to win in 32 minutes, 42.6 seconds, considerably slower than the Games record of 31.06 Vincente Sanchez of Mexico was second and Jaime Correa of Chile third. The American said the hitch withdrew—1,300 feet—affected him.

The men's high jump provided real drama for the 35,000 fans in huge University Stadium which can seat 110,000. Trevor Shelton and Herman Wyatt of the United States and Games record of five metres (six feet, seven inches).



But Shelton was given first because of fewer misses. The old mark was six feet, 4½ inches.

BUFFALONIANS WIN

TORONTO (CP)—A team from the Buffalo Bait and Fly Casting Club won the international casting championship at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show here Saturday. The winning team, Jim Fragale, Tony Fragale, Allan O'Neill, Robert O'Neill and Dave Tempko, posted a score of 96.6 after 50 casts.

NOW DERBY CONTENDER

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Pin Oak Farms' heavily favored Roman Patrol outclassed his field with a Bougainvillea victory in the $40,000 Louisiana Derby Saturday and became a leading contender for the Kentucky Derby.

Garrison Juniors Win Three Badminton Events

Junior members of the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club came up with a highly creditable showing in the Central Ontario Badminton Association junior championships held in Peterborough on Saturday.

While the three teen-aged young ladies did not capture any major honors they won the consolation ladies' singles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles, annexing the latter with the court assistance of a young man from Oshawa.

Sandra Tatham, 17, won the ladies' consolation singles honors after teaming with Jackie Tatham, 15 to annex the ladies' doubles. Anne Smith, 15, playing with Richard Lawrence, Oshawa won the consolation mixed doubles.

Mrs. Kay Smith, of the Belleville Garrison Club, who championed the young charges was extremely proud of the showing made by her proteges. "They played like veterans," she said, "and give them another year or so of age and they will give the best in the district some stern opposition. They show exceptional promise and should be a real asset to the Garrison club."

Incidentially, Anne Smith showing exceptional court form, fought her way to the ladies' singles in the main events and was eliminated after hard-fought games in the semi-finals.

Mrs. Smith said that general play in the tournament was of high calibre. Some 35 teen-agers from all parts of the district covered by the COBL took part in the tournament. Ages ranged between ten and eighteen.

Coaches Get Heave-Ho In Quebec Playoff

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The battle for second place in the Quebec Hockey League is going right down to the final whistle.

Montreal Royals remained in the fight for the runner-up spot Sunday by edging the league-leading Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 3-2 at Montreal in a game that saw a chair tossed on the ice and both coaches tossed out.

They remained two points behind Quebec, however, as the Aces downed the last-end Valleyfield Braves 5-3 at Valleyfield. Quebec has three games left to Montreal's two.

Referee Georges Gravel called every infraction in Montreal and wound up handing out 22 penalties, including three misconducts and one match misconduct. Roger Leger, coach of the Sagueneens, drew the game banishment for mimicking Gravel.

Pete Morin, coach of the Royals heaved a chair on the ice in protest of one of the penalties and was promptly thumbed out of the game by Gravel.

Fans Honor Dean Prentice

TORONTO (CP)—Dean Prentice, Schumacher-born left winger with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, was honored here Saturday night by the first organized team he ever played with.

Leo Del Vilano of Schumacher presented the 22-year-old forward with a leather suitcase on behalf of Carlo Cattarello, coach of the South Porcupine Gold Kings Juvenile team. Prentice, in his third NHL season, joined Rangers from Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series.

Galt Club Must File Entry By March 18

Previously club directors set March 15 as a deadline for their decision and now are reported awaiting word from Bill Lindsay of Detroit, who has expressed interest in operating a club here.

If the club does not operate this season the franchise will be forfeited to the league.

BOB BEATS VAUGHN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson pounded Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles, the California middleweight titleholder, all over the ring Saturday night and gained a unanimous 10-round decision in a non-title bout. Olson won nine of the 10 rounds and dealt out terrific body punishment.

Essex Schools Take Three Titles In Hoop Tourney

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Essex county high school champions captured four of four championships in the annual Western Ontario Secondary School Association basketball finals here Saturday night.

Windsor Patterson won the senior A title with a 46-39 victory over London Beck, champions of the London and district conference. It was Patterson's eighth championship in the last nine seasons.

Windsor Assumption downed another Beck squad to take the junior A championship while Riverside collegiate retained the junior B crown with a 64-46 win over Petrolia.

Only title that went to a school outside the border county was the senior B. It went to Delhi after a 40-30 victory over Arthur Vosden vocational of St. Thomas.

Assumption defeated Kitchener-Waterloo 42-31 in the junior A semi-finals while Beck scored a 57-36 win over Woodstock collegiate.

In the senior B semi-finals, Arthur Vosden came from behind to edge St. Rose's of Amherstburg 32-28. Delhi trounced Exeter 46-28 in the other semi-final. Riverside scored a 53-39 victory over Exeter in the junior B semi-finals while Petrolia downed Delhi 34-28.

CAMPBELLFORD

P.S. Board To Purchase School Supplies

CAMPBELLFORD—The March meeting of the public school board was held in the new library on the 2nd floor of the Campbellford public school, where all future meetings are to be held. All members were present and Mr. F. Frederick presided.

Mr. Gilbert Stephens, speaking for the Seymour Agricultural Society, asked for the usual grant, and it was granted.

It was decided to buy all supplies for school children in 1955, as has been done in the previous months. Buying in large quantities saved at least as much as it cost, they have found, and wherever possible, tenders are given to local people. Reports from parents, it was stated, give a great saving, but children had learned to take much more care of supplies, since new ones could not be given until the old ones were satisfactorily filled and in good condition. In order that the parents might know this, it was decided to send a statement home to them, acquainting them of the fact, that unless paper is lost, torn or a book destroyed, there would be no necessity for the parent to purchase any school supply.

EDUCATIONAL TRIPS

Permission was granted to the principal and staff to arrange for the educational trips so graciously sponsored by Mrs. Kinnear, to Toronto and Ottawa this spring.

A small grant was granted to send a local primary teacher to the O.E.A. this Easter week. This teacher will attend all meetings of the primary meetings and will report in full to the school primary teachers.

Mr. Rothwell, school principal, reported a timely gift to the new school library, of used books, of interest and help to the public school child. The gift was made on behalf of the Library board by Miss Lillian Benor.

BOOK DISPLAY

A three company display of books will be shown in the school on March 21, 22, 23 and 24. The companies are Copp Clark, Longman and Green, and Thomas Allen. All interested parents are invited to visit the school in the late afternoon or evening to see these books.

The janitor's salary was raised $200, bringing it in keeping with the salaries of the other town employees.

Mr. Forrest Dennis and Mr. F. Frederick were appointed delegates to the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association, to be held in Kingston on March 23rd.

Campbellford

WELLINGTON

'Brotherhood' Demonstrated At G. C. Meeting

WELLINGTON. — The meeting of Brotherhood was finally demonstrated, Monday night at the 1st Wellington Group committee meeting, when it was unanimously voted to sponsor one Scout from Group, that he might attend the World Jamboree to be held in Niagara Falls in August. They also plan to sponsor their own quota of boys at this important event which will not be held in Canada again for many, many years.

Don Morden, chairman of the committee, presided over the meeting attended by Rex Huff, secretary; George Dorland, treasurer, Clifford Cleave, Henry Dick, Tom Nash, scoutmaster and Mrs. Claire Stoneburg cubmaster.

Plans for the annual 'Father and Son' banquet were discussed and April 22, was the new date set provided arrangements can be made for the Women's Institute to cater.

Word has been received that Mrs. Claire Stoneburg has been appointed District Commissioner for Cubs and Milton Saider, District Commissioner for Scouts of Prince Edward County.

A newly organized 'Rover Crew' has been started under the leadership of Mr. Claude Winters, to guide the older Scouts along the path of scouting. The Club motto is "Do Your Best"; the Scouts "Be Prepared", and the Rovers, "Service."

If the boys can raise enough funds to-days a day at the Jamboree will be their reward. So friends keep your cardboard, waste paper, magazines and margarine carton ends for them to collect.

All leaders and committeemen were reminded of the Area conference to be held in the Queen Elizabeth school, Belleville and on March 26. Much valuable information may be obtained by attending.

Little Benny's Notebook

Today was pop's night to go bowling, and he was in a hurry to get his lunch again, and after dinner he said to me, Wot I dont know, it seems to be easing up.

Meening his back, and ma said, Willum, I'm sure you're luinnatic that you are even dreeming of thinking about going out with your back, you must be talking in a daze.

Oh I dont know, a little gentle exercize may help out what my back needs pop said. Nature is a great healer, he said, and ma said, Nature has nuthing to do with a grate, hulking, massive bowling ball. It would be like a chickie at bay, and if a straw broke the camel's back, why should you be any exception? she said.

I've heard that camels are allergic to straw, pop said, and ma said. Now Willum, when you use your brains why dont you add a little sense?

You see, my dear, I'll just let my back stiffen up from inactivity, pop said, and ma said, Oh, all right, if you'd rather your theory will work, I'll give you a chance to try it out if you promise to go very carefully and go easy. I've been mentally debating whether the room didnt look better after all when the sofa was where the 3 big chairs are, she said.

Yes gods, do you want to put me in the hospitle? pop said. I meen, after all, I guess there is no use taking a chance, you may be right, my dear, he said, and ma said, Well, if you really feel that way, Willum, you know best.

Pop just looked at her kind of slapcious, and ma just smiled to herself as if she thought she was petty smart.

Which she is.

Garden Notes

All-American Award Vegetables

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Each year a board of agricultural experts review the performance of newly-introduced strains of vegetables and flowers. This group is known as the All-American Selection Board, their "All-American Award" citations establish the "blockbusts" among new varieties.

This year there were three awards, Semilate snapbeans, golden beauty sweet corn and pennsweet muskmelon. This is an unusual even since awards in the vegetable field have been few and far between for some years.

Semilate snapbean received a silver medal. This is recommended for areas where early snapbeans are grown. This has longer pods than the well known tendergreen, which was an award winner some years back. The new bean is disease resistant, and stringless.

EARLY TYPE

Golden beauty sweetcorn, also a silver medal winner, is both early and tender. It is among the earliest of sweetcorn types and far superior to most of the early types. This, too, is disease resistant and has a high yield. The average ear is eight inches long with 12 to 14 rows of tender kernels of excellent flavor. This was primarily grown for northern gardens, but has proved equally satisfactory in southern Florida as a winter crop.

Pennsweet melons are also a find for the northern gardener as they are an early type. The flesh is thick, salmon-colored, and of fine flavor. The melons are oval in shape and of medium size. They average four to five fruits ripening at the same time from each vine, with others maturing rapidly.

REPORT ON WINNERS

That is the report on the current winners. Let's look back at some of the earlier winners which are high performers and should be chosen to assure the most prolific and best quality varieties for your 1955 vegetable garden.

1. Lima Bean, Fordhook 242
2. Pea, Alaska, Early Prolific Straightneck
3. Beets, perfected Detroit.
4. Carrot, Imperator.
5. Radish, Cherry Bell
6. Soup Bean, Topcrop
7. Cucumber, Early Surecrop
8. Spinach, American
9. Tomato, Pritchard
10. Lettuce, Great Lakes
11. Sweet Corn, Iochief, Hybrid
12. Cabbage, Chieftain, Savoy.

USE NO SALT

Remember, if you use salt to melt snow, or ice on the sidewalk the salt you use will damage grass roots and destroy the soil structure, which will make it difficult to grow grass in that area again. Use fine sifted ashes to cut slippery surfaces.

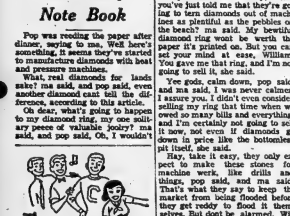
Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reading the paper after dinner, saying to me, Well here's something, it seems they've started to manufacture diamonds with heat and pressure machines.

What, real diamonds for lands sake! ma said, and pop said, even another diamond cant tell the difference, according to this article.



Oh dear, what's going to happen to my diamond ring, my one solitary piece of valuable jewelry? I said, and pop said, Oh, I wouldn't worry just yet.

Why shouldn't I worry, when you've just told me that they're going to turn diamonds out of machines as plentiful as the pebbles on the beach! ma said. My beutiful diamond ring wont be worth the paper it's printed on. But you can set your mind at ease, William. You gave me that ring, and I'm not going to sell it, she said.

Yee gods, calm down, pop said, and ma said, I was never calmer, I assure you. I didn't even consider selling my ring that time when we owed so many bills and everything, and I'm certainly not going to sell it now, not even if diamonds go down in price like the bottomless pit itself, she said.

Hay, take it easy, they only expect to make these stones for machine work, like drills and things, pop said, and ma said, That's what they say to keep the market from being flooded before they get reddy to flood it themselves. But dont be alarmed, William, I'll keep your ring for sentimental reasons even if diamonds pour from the sky like proverbial hailstones, she said.

Thank you, my dear, you're a blue white gem of infinite carrots, pop said.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Historian

The easiest kind of a game to make in bridge is that in a major suit. Although no-trump needs one less trick for game it is usually more difficult to take tricks in that denomination.

Therefore, wherever possible, partners prefer to go for game in hearts or spades. But only if they can find support for the suit and tricks enough in the combined pair.

Hold the north hand shown here:

♠Q 8 4 3
♥A Q 8 6
♦K 5 2
♣Q 5

Suppose the bidding starts off like this:

South	North
1 Club	1 Heart
2 Hearts	?

What is your south partner showing you by his jump assist in the major suit you mentioned? What is he expecting you to do about it? What should you do about it with the hand you have?

Your first response admits having a biddable heart suit; three tricks with two high cards among them. His jump assist says he can see game in that suit. So, he must have the other seven tricks.

Having failed to show a new suit among his admitted seven tricks he is probably short suited in spades or diamonds. So, he is asking you to go game in hearts unless you can see help for a slam.

How would you know there may be a slam in your pair? If you had as many as five tricks. Why is this so? Because he shows seven and you and five your pair would have a count of 12 tricks.

Even with 12 tricks you may not have a slam unless your pair has enough aces and kings. So, even with five tricks you would not go to a slam unless you could invite ace and king information.

Consequently, your second bid here would be only four hearts. Better a safe game than a lost slam.

York City In Semi-Finals Cup Draw

LONDON (Reuters)—York City, bidding to become the first club from the third division to reach the final of the English Association Football cup competition, will meet either Huddersfield or Newcastle in the semi-final March 26.

The match will be played at Hillsborough, Sheffield.

In the other semi-final, Sunderland will play Manchester City at Villa Park, Birmingham.

As a result of today's draw, there is a possibility of an all-Tyneside final between Sunderland and Newcastle for the first time in the history of the competition.

The first Newcastle, which survived at Huddersfield Saturday with a goal in the closing minutes, will have to win the replay at Newcastle Wednesday.

Should Newcastle succeed in reaching Wembley they would-ge-ste a record. It would be their 10th appearance in the final, a feat achieved by no other club.

Laprade Retires From Pro Hockey

TORONTO (CP)—Veteran Edgar Laprade, New York Rangers' free-wheeling centre, has retired from professional hockey.

Ranger coach Muzz Patrick announced here Saturday night that the 35-year-old pivot man had been given permission to return to his home in Fort Arthur and that he had decided to hang up his skates. Laprade suffered a knee injury a few weeks ago, returned to action for two games and then decided the pace was too much.

The fast skating forward broke into the National Hockey League with Rangers in the 1945-46 season and won the Calder Memorial Trophy as the league's best rookie. One of his best seasons was the 1949-50 campaign when he scored 22 goals, had an equal number of assists and was winner of the Lady Byng Trophy for gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability. He picked up only one minor penalty in 70 games that year.

A fine stick handler andoften use d to kill off penalties, Laprade is a n a t u r a l for retirement two years ago to devote his time to business interests in Port Arthur but was persuaded back after the Rangers lost centre Don Raleigh with a broken wrist in a pre-season exhibition game.

Stars Last Night

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bert Olmstead, Montreal, who scored with 15 seconds remaining to play to give the Canadiens a 2-1 win over Boston at Montreal Saturday.

Fela Coancher, New York, whose third-period goal gave New York a 3-1 win over Detroit Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

Wis Stasiak, Detroit, who scored one goal and assisted on the winner as the Red Wings downed Chicago 3-1 in Detroit Saturday.

Ed Sandford, Boston, who scored two goals and assisted on a third as the Bruins whipped Montreal 4-2 in Boston Sunday.

Earl Reibel, Detroit, who scored three goals and got one assist as the Red Wings walloped Toronto 6-1 in stroit Sunday.

Danny Lewicki, New York, who scored one goal and assisted on a pair as the Rangers stopped Chicago 3-2 at New York Sunday.

Bisons Trail Hornets by Point

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, hoping to repeat as American Hockey League champions, trailed the first-place Pittsburgh Hornets by one point today with only one week of the regular season remaining.

Ken Wharram's goal with 40 seconds left in overtime gave Buffalo a 4-3 victory over Springfield Indians Sunday night. The triumph put Bisons in undisputed possession of second place.

The setback dropped Indians into a third-place tie with Cleveland Barons, who downed Providence Reds 6-3 in the only other game played. Springfield and Cleveland have 63 points apiece and are two points ahead of the fifth-place Hershey Bears.

Dick Gamble sparked Buffalo with two goals. His second, late in the third period, sent the game into overtime.

Cleveland scored in every period against Providence with Fred Glover finding the range twice. Ed Olson, the league's leading scorer, also gave the Barons a big lift by producing a goal while his team was a man short.

CHILD KILLED

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Seven-year-old Sandra Smitheram was killed and her sister Myrna, 10, severely injured Friday night when the sleigh on which they were riding through the gate of their farm home shot directly into the path of a car. The girls are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Smitheram of Cameron.

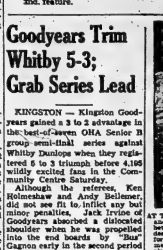
AT THE McCARTHY — This dramatic scene depicting an attempted prison break is from "The Steel Cage", opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Paul Kelly, Maureen O'Sullivan and Lawrence Tierney are featured. "Trouble in the Glen", with Margaret Lockwood, Orson Welles and Forrest Tucker is the 2nd. feature.

AT THE CAPITOL — Richard Widmark (centre) and Karl Malden battle humorously over Elaine Stewart in M-G-M's rugged comedy drama, "Take the High Ground!" stellar attraction at the Capitol Theatre tonight. Carleton Carpenter, Russ Tamblyn, Suzanne Courtland, Steve Forrest and Robert Arthur are also featured in a big cast. On the same program adventure in Technicolor "All the Brothers Were Valiant", starring Robert Taylor, Stewart Granger and Ann Blyth.

Goodyears Trim Whitby 5-3; Grab Series Lead

KINGSTON — Kingston Goodyears gained a 3 to 2 advantage in the best-of-seven OHA Senior B group semi-final series against Whitby Dunlops when they registered 6 to 3 triumph before 4,165 wildly excited fans in the Community Centre Saturday.

Although the referees, Ken Rolmeshaw and Andy Bellemer, did not see fit to inflict any but minor penalties, Jack Irvine of Goodyears absorbed a dislocated shoulder when he was propelled into the end boards by "Bud" Gagnon early in the second period and Ted Toppazzini was struck by Gagnon while the latter was en-route to the penalty bench in the final session. For this second offence Gagnon was not punished.



The sixth game will be staged in Whitby tomorrow night and the seventh, if necessary, in this city on Thursday. In the event that Goodyears wind up the set tomorrow, it is thought likely that the finals against Belleville Memos will begin Friday.

M-G-M's "BEAU BRUMMELL" In Color Magnificence

1 Captain Brummell gives a brilliant exhibition of horsemanship while on parade, but arouses the ire of the Prince of Wales when he criticizes the uniform—which was designed by the Prince himself.

2 That night at dinner Brummell is given an opportunity to apologize, but instead offers further impertinence. The Prince rises and shouts, "I won't have you in my regiment—get out!" Lady Patrick, left of the Prince, is an interested listener.

3 Later in the palace, Brummell, by his glib wit wins over the Prince, and before Wales realizes it, this grandson of a valet is bidding him comedy how royalty should behave.

Wartime Writer Of Mademoiselle Dies at 72

SUTTON, England (Reuters)—Edward C. H. Rowland, 72, who wrote the First World War song "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" died Saturday at his home.

A waitress in an Armentieres cafe,' where he was sitting one day in March 1915 trying to think up a bright number for a troop show, inspired the song. Rowland wrote the lyric in half an hour and a Canadian friend, Lieut. Gitz Rice, set it to music.

He sang the song for the first time at the troop show same night—and it brought the house down. But though the "Mademoiselle" became popular throughout the world, Rowland did not make a penny out of his song. He did not take out a copyright.

He retired six years ago after almost half a century in show business.

Evangelist Will Tour Europe

Embarking on the French liner Liberte, Graham told reporters the tour will cost $150,000. He said about 70 per cent of that amount already has been realized through contributions.

Graham, who visited England last year, said the people in Europe are expecting a religious revival.

"I cannot bring it," he said. "If it comes, it must come from God."

He said that, if it is true the West needs a spiritual revival to survive, the mission he is on "is more important than any diplomatic or political mission."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 15,

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)— Take no undue chances with time, money or other assets. There are important "musts" to take care of without risking your energy on useless matters or those which can, and should, wait. Patience.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)— Advice to Aries also pertinent to you. Keep your mind open and gains are possible for you.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)— Some "ifs" and "maybes" and some which are not. Be shrewd but reasonably and observant. Work for healthier conditions for all. Be peppy, discreet—and loyal.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)— Manufacturing, merchandising, handling household commodities, educational affairs, charity, religion strongly sponsored. A good day to get going—but gently, and tactfully, for all-round good.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)— Maybe you should spend some time with loved ones and children so they can get to know the real you better. Business matters call for extra tact, accuracy. Don't be too positive in making assertions.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Work diligently at putting your house in order, with thought of others, too, and you will go a long way toward winning the day's battle. Get proper rest.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Take things in stride. Today calls for astute judgment in whatever course you follow. You have qualities which should bring you new gains, accomplishment that will be pleasant and long-lasting.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Reconnoitre for better means and methods of capitalizing on your talents. Don't pass on rumors or cliques in gossip. Be cautious in all unfamiliar matters.

November 24 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Getting the right start is important to quicker, better achievement. Diplomacy and sufficient knowledge of your subject are avenues to advancement. Don't hurry.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — No need for anxiety, and don't promise too much. A pressed tendency to rush into things is not advisable for the general good. Fine results today with you capable help. Avoid needless strain, worry.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Analyze your schedule carefully, then act with precision. Express your thoughts where you feel you have sound suggestions to make.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Although you are innately orderly, you may tend to become much too upset at the opposite trait in others. However, don't compromise with principles. You can help yourself to new benefits.

YOU BORN TODAY usually get along with associates, make congenial, loving (though not always demonstrative) and hard-working lifemates, parents. You are usually tidy, capable combination, 7th U.S. president; Harold Ickes, ex-secretary of Interior.

LEFT $2 MILLION

CHICAGO (AP)—Florence Dibell Bartlett, who plunged to her death from her 17th-floor penthouse May 2, left more than $2,000,000 to charity, it was disclosed Friday. Mrs. Bartlett, daughter of Adolphus Clay Bartlett, a hardware firm founder, left assets of $2,411,761.

BRIAN DONLEVY ARRESTED

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) Actor Brian Donlevy was arrested Friday on a drunk-driving charge. Police said Donlevy's new convertible hummed over a curb into a parking lot at a street dead end, blowing out right front and rear tires and ripping a gutter section. Officers heard the crash and booked the 53-year-old movie and television performer.

Cy Barriage Heads New Executive Belleville Softball Association

Cy Barriage, well known to softball circles in Belleville, was appointed president of the Belleville and District Softball Association succeeding Cord Steward in the annual election meeting of the executive held at the Moira Street Fireball yesterday afternoon. Ted Agnew was named vice president while Ken Pennington will act as secretary - treasurer, forming a complete new executive for the 1955 season.

Approximately twenty interested persons attended the Sunday's meeting including Mr. Ernest Simpson, life member of the Kingston Softball Association and past president of the O.A.S.A. but none of the officers was contested. Representatives from only three teams were present, the Bobcats, Frankford and Point Anne while Northern Electric and Steward - Warner definitely announced they would not enter teams. Don Lee, O.A.S.A. representative for this district, felt that the lack of entries caused little worry since most teams do not attend the meetings so early in the season, and will show up as soon as a deadline for entries has been set. Trenton have expressed desire to place a team in this summer's grouping.

MADE LIFE MEMBER

Harry Rollins, ex-Belleville mayor and a constant worker for better sport in the city was made a life member of the association by unanimous vote. Mr. Simpson stated that he and his friend with Mr. Rollins for many years and was certain that no one could be more deserving of the honor.

During the business portion of the meeting it was decided to raise the cost of a protest to $15.00 from $5.00. It was felt that this would cut down on the number of protests made because of minor differences and Mr. Simpson testified this by pointing out that not a single protest was registered in Kingston last year when the plan was put in use. Those present also felt that a shorter schedule and a longer playoff series would aid the financial situation as well as allowing plenty of time to decide the city championships before the O.A.S.A. playdowns got under way. The city playoffs were never completed in the 1954 season thus no champions were named in either the "A" or "AA" sections.

Leo Culhane once more was appointed as umpire-in-chief and congratulated on the excellent job he has done in the past while a broke of thanks went to past-president Cord Steward for his work while leading the organization. Mr. Barriage accepted the chair to complete the meeting.

The active and advisory boards were named although many of those appointed were not present. Bill VanTassell, Lloyd Doran, Jack Devine, Leo Culhane and Raymond Howe of Frankford compose the acting board. The advisory board consists of all team managers, Don Lee, George Carver, Claude Rice, Frank Grandmaison, Harry Rollins, Don McNevin and fire chief Gerald Vance.

Jaguar Said Race Winner

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Briggs Cunningham's British Jaguar is the unofficial winner of the 12-hour Florida international grand Prix but the jury still is out, pending a hearing on a protest and a recheck of the timers' records. An official ruling is expected sometime today.

A new mimeo before the 10 p.m. EST ending Sunday night, the loud speaker blared the news that the Jaguar had taken the lead from the Jaguar.

Then the Ferrari's driving crew of Carroll Shelby of Dallas and Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., raced to their distance that the officials had declared the Jaguar the unofficial winner by a few seconds.

Cunningham, West Palm beach millionaire who has won the race the last two years, told reporters from his timers and viewers indicated the Jaguar had won by "a lap and a few minutes." (A 2.3-mile lap normally is negotiated in about four minutes).

The Ferrari's crew filed the protest.

Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican diplomat and cafe society figure, spun off the course and hit a spectator's car. He was uninjured.

GIVEN 3 MONTHS

TORONTO (CP) — Albert Nell, 33, whom police said kicked his six-year-old daughter in the mouth and caused such a severe wound that six stitches were needed to close it, Friday was sentenced to three months in jail. The child had been drinking a glass of milk.

Big Seven

The order of Montreal's high-scoring trio was shuffled during the weekend but they still remained far ahead of their nearest opposition in the race for National Hockey League scoring honors.

Maurice Richard of the Habs was held to one assist in two games but continues to lead the pack with 74 points. Bernie Geoffrion picked up a pair of assists to move past Jean Beliveau into second place with 72. Beliveau has 71.

George Sullivan of Chicago clung to fourth place with 60 points, picking up a goal and an assist. Gordie Howe of Detroit, with four assists in two games, moved into fifth place with 59.

Bert Olmstead of Montreal, the league's leading playmaker with 48 assists, holds down sixth place with 58 points. Earl Reibel of Detroit, who ran wild with three goals and two assists, took undisputed possession of seventh place with 56.

Richard is the league's leading goalgetter with 38, one more than Geoffrion and two more than Beliveau.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Richard, Montreal	38	36	74
Geoffrion, Montreal	37	35	72
Beliveau, Montreal	36	35	71
Sullivan, Chicago	18	42	60
Howe, Detroit	27	32	59
Olmstead, Montreal	10	48	58
Reibel, Detroit	21	35	56

United States Defeats Canada 5-4 For North American Badminton Title

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Powered by two strong doubles combinations, the United States Thomas Cup team Saturday night defeated Canada 5-4 in the best-of-nine North American zone badminton tie and now will meet the Asiatic zone champions at Malaya, May 24-25 in further international play.

The Canadian squad did not capture any of the four doubles matches during the two-day competitions, but came up with surprisingly strong singles play, winning four of the five events.

BENT SHOWING

It was Canada's best showing against the U.S. in three meetings so far. The Americans won 8-1 in 1949 and 6-3 in 1952.

Dave McTaggart, 34, last year British Columbia singles champion from Vancouver, started Saturday nights sweep of the singles matches when he came through with his second successive win.

The youthful McTaggart, playing the best badminton of his career, downed Dick Mitchell of San Diego, Calif., 15-4, 9-15, 15-7. Both players were No. 2 men on their respective singles teams.

Friday night, McTaggart had upset the Americans' No. 1 man, Joe Alston of Pasadena, Calif., 15-4, 6-15, 15-11.

ON EVEN TERMS

Don Smythe of Toronto, who had lost his opening match against Mitchell, put Canada on even terms when he handed Alston his second straight singles defeat. The Canadian singles champion came back to down Alston 7-15, 17-16, 17-14 in one of the hardest-fought sets ever seen here.

In the last clash of the two countries' No. 3 men, 29-year-old Bev Westcott of Toronto showed too much all-round experience for Bill Berry of San Diego, defeating him 15-12, 15-11. The win gave Canada the lead for the first time.

But Smythe and his partner Bud Porter of Toronto were no match for the smashing shots of Carl Loveday of San Diego and Bobby Williams of Pasadena, who romped to 15-11, 15-12 wins.

In the deciding match, Alston, 29-year-old FBI agent, and Wynn Rogers of Arcadia, Calif., had no difficulty in defeating Daryl Thompson of Vancouver and Cord Simpson of Montreal 15-8, 15-5. Both American doubles combinations had won their games easily Friday night.

Training Camp Notes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No one expects miracles, but manager Walt Alston of Brooklyn Dodgers was wondering today whether Karl Spooner is a real, genuine "phenom."

The 23-year-old lefthander came up from Fort Worth at the end of last season and proceeded to strike out 27 batters in 18 innings. He didn't allow a run in the two games and had the Brooklyn fans wagging their heads.

But Alston has seen too many youngsters flop the following season after looking as though they were going places.

During the winter, Spooner underwent surgery to have a cartilage removed and Sunday Alston decided to test him out against Chicago White Sox. He hurled creditably for two innings, giving up two hits and no runs. Alston decided that was enough.

"He knee didn't bother me a bit," said Spooner. "But my shoulder was stiff. I guess I'm not loose yet."

CHICAGO WINS

White Sox went on to win the game, 6-5, pasting Billy Loes and Johnny Podres for three runs apiece during their stints.

New York Yankees, the erstwhile Bronx Bombers, set a club record in reverse by dropping their fourth straight exhibition game, this one to the Boston Red Sox 4-2.

The Kansas City Athletics also went down to No. 3 in a row, a 7-4 defeat at bie hands of Washington Senators. The game went 12 innings before rookie catcher Ed Korchek broke it up with a bases-loaded double.

Three clubs continued to look good and, surprisingly, one of them was Pittsburgh Pirates. The Bucs edged Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in the 10th inning when Dick Groat, the former all-America basketball player from Duke, singled home the winning run. Pirates collected 14 hits off three Phillie hurlers.

THUMP THE CARDS

Cincinnati Redlegs, with perhaps the most potent slugging line-up in the National League, gave St. Louis Cardinals a little sample of their might with a 9-2 triumph while the baby Detroit Tigers polished off Milwaukee Braves, also by 9-2.

Ted Kluszewski hit a home run, a triple and a single and Wally Post hammered a home run for Redlegs in hanging the first defeat of the exhibition season on the Cards.

Cleveland Indians whipped New York Giants again, 13-6.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Rest of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Chiang's Planes Sink 10 Red Ships Nearing Quemoy

50 Junks and 20 Gunboats Turned Back from Island

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — Chinese Nationalist planes sank 10 Red Chinese gunboats and armed junks in an attack on a Communist fleet heading for the Nationalist island, stronghold of Quemoy, Nationalist communique reported today.

It was the biggest action off the Chinese mainland since last month's naval battle off the Yukiro-Chutien coast shortly after Nationalist evacuation of the Tachen islands.

The communist vessels, belonging to a fleet of 50 armed junks and 20 escorting gunboats, were first sighted heading for Quemoy by a Nationalist patrol. The Nationalists claimed the attack attacked and sank seven junks and three gunboats, and that the convoy fled.

Nationalist Foreign Minister George Yeh said today the Communists would "hit back" if the Communists attacked the off-shore islands.

He told members of the legislative Yuan (parliament) that a Communist attack against the islands would immediately be interpreted as the prelude to an invasion of Formosa.

Yeh did not say whether the United States would regard a Communist attack on the islands as the start of an invasion of Formosa and the Pescadores, but he told the legislators the Nationalist government rejected a proposal for a cease-fire in the Formosa strait put forward by State Secretary Dulles during talks with Chiang Kai-shek early this month.

A Nationalist official described as "absolutely groundless" press reports that civilians are being evacuated from Quemoy and Matsu.

Police Officer Holds 4 Others At Bay With Gun

TIMMINS (CP) — Police said today an off-duty provincial police officer held two fellow officers and two Timmins town policemen at bay with a pistol for 20 minutes Monday night in a hotel lobby.

They identified him as constable Robert Harrower, a member of the provincial force for six months.

In Toronto, commissioner E. W. McNeil of the provincial police said today that Harrower probably has been suspended and charged under the Criminal Code with pointing a firearm and with threatening.

Timmins police said Harrower was reported to have threatened several persons before reaching the hotel. They said he appeared to be under the influence of alcohol and was "hysterical" when first seen.

Town police encountered him when they entered the hall to the hotel where a fight was reported in progress. Constables Ken Gallagher and Don McKay said they found him outside the hotel, erecting a barricade. They put him in a cruiser and took him home. He was not armed.

Indications were that the constable had been in a fight with five business men and a member of the RCAF, police reported.

Twenty minutes after Harrower was taken home, police received a report that a man with a revolver had been seen at one of his gold-mining town's main intersections.

The same two constables, answering the call, said they found Harrower again in the hotel lobby. They said he was brandishing a police revolver.

Gallagher and McKay reported that Harrower ordered them to sit on a sofa in the lobby while he kept them covered with the pistol. They tried vainly to talk him into handing over the weapon.

Provincial constables M. J. Richard and Leo Royal, who also been called by the town police, then entered the lobby and found Harrower pointed the gun at the provincial officers and told them to "stand quiet or be shot."

A crowd of miners and business people watched the tense scene from a safe distance.

Royal tried to get behind Harrower to disarm him. Harrower spotted the move and warned Royal he would shoot him if he came any closer.

Finally, Harrower broke down under the strain and the other officers were able to take the pistol from him, police said.

Ontario Budget Is Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — A CIO labor leader here Monday night condemned the Ontario budget which, because, he said, it contained no provision for relief to the unemployed or no plans for any incremental housing.

Harry Hatajisas, assistant research director of the United Steelworkers, told the Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council (CIO-CCL): "Our criticism may be summarized in a single word — late."

Premier Frost's prediction that the 1955-56 budget will open 50,000 new jobs in Ontario is "highly optimistic", Mr. Hatajisas said, even even if it proved true the new jobs would fall far short of meeting the critical unemployment problem.

"In the meantime, he said, "who is to say who is hungry?"

THE WEATHER

A complex disturbance extending from southern Manitoba across Lake Michigan to northern Ontario this morning is giving a mixture of rain, freezing rain and snow in northern regions, showers in central regions and showers mixed with thunderstorms in southern Michigan. This storm will move across the province today, and by Wednesday morning colder air will cover the whole province, bringing improving weather but lower temperatures in all forecast regions.

PRIORITIES ON USE OF DEFENCE NEEDS FORECAST

Aluminum, Copper, Nickel Shortening

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's production chief says it likely will have to reimpose priorities on the use of defence materials.

Defence Production Minister Howe said in the Commons Monday that Canadian and United States officials are considering a return to control and priority system for aluminum, copper and nickel. There also was a shortage of scrap iron.

The last of the priority controls on defence materials had ended only a month ago, because of more plentiful supplies.

He spoke on a government resolution to extend indefinitely the powers of the Defence Production Act, due to expire July 31, 1956, which give him wide powers of allocation and procurement of defence supplies.

The resolution was adopted over strong criticism by Progressive Conservative and Social Credit spokesmen of the broad powers it will continue.

Quebec Auto Licence Bureau Robbed of $40,000

QUEBEC (CP) — Thieves broke into the Quebec automobile licence bureau vaults during the night and escaped with $40,000 in cash. Provincial police opened the burglary as the "largest ever staged" in this city.

A watchman reporting for duty this morning saw the door of the vault was ajar. The combination lock smashed. He called police.

A province-wide alert was sent out for the thieves who apparently forced their way into the downtown building after midnight.

Police said indications were the burglars worked "many hours."

They also contained large sums of cash and cheques because automobile owners in the past few days have been lining up to buy their 1955 licences. The deadline for buying the licences was Feb. 28 and police put on pressure. Monday to get motorists to get their 1955 licence quickly.

Queen Steps From Dais To Shake Hands

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen stepped down from her dais in Buckingham Palace today to shake hands with a second commoner.

The lieutenant, Blinded Michael Wyley, was led before the Queen by a royal page to receive the medal of Member of the British Empire for heroism in fighting the Mau Mau terrorists in Kenya. He was blinded in the jungle engagement.

The brief ceremony, at which awards were presented to some 200 men and women, was the last of six weekly investiture ceremonies for the presentation of awards announced in the New Year's honors list.

Atomic Test Is Cancelled

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An atomic blast, which it was expected, might be the last for the current series of tests, was called off shortly before it was scheduled to go off Monday morning.

The atomic energy commission announced the cancellation, giving unfavorable weather conditions as the reason.

Falcon, Newest Guided Missile, Only Air-to-Air Missile With Own Brain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Air Force today described the Falcon, its newest guided missile, as the only air-to-air missile with a brain of its own.

Removing some of the secrecy wrappings from the weapon described its size and said more secret bombers, the air force said it is the first line of defence against them.

This latest and smallest American guided missile is in production and will soon be supplied as fighting armament to U. S. all-weather fighter-interceptor jet units stationed around the approaches to the North American continent.

The U. S. Navy already has in use the Sparrow missile, also for carrier planes, but it is a craft against enemy planes. One version has a built-in guidance system that uses some of the features incorporated in the Falcon, but the air force said its missile contains many improvements and refinements that place it in a class by itself.

In words and pictures the air force disclosed the Falcon to be a 6-foot-long missile, launched from a rocket and about six feet long. It is described as not any bigger than a man's head.

When the pilot spots an approaching enemy bomber on his radarscope, the target is "locked" in the plane's brain, and the electronic computer takes over and fires the missile automatically.

In films taken of recent tests, a drone B-17 bomber was the target. Monday the air force described a bomber manoeuvered in attempts to dodge, the missile climbed to the target and scored a direct hit. The air force said a similar result was achieved when the target was a jet fighter.

French and Germans Needed At Parley Table With USSR —Churchill

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons Monday night voted down an opposition Labor motion to censure Prime Minister Churchill for failing to set up top-level Russian - British - American talks on banning the hydrogen bomb. The vote, which followed party lines, was 296 to 265.

The House immediately after approved, 299 to 264, a Conservative amendment saying any such big-power meeting must await ratification of the Paris agreements on West German rearmament.

The votes climaxed a debate on the government's H-bomb policy, highlighted by Churchill's assurance that he is still working for a big-power meeting to ease world tensions. But he suggested that such talks should include West Germany and France.

"We cannot agree," he said, "that France and Germany should be left to be discussed and treated the task of resolving the fears and disputes which beset Europe and the world today."

Churchill previously had advocated a conference of the United States, Britain and Russia. He explained earlier that an illness which left him paralyzed for a time forced him to drop attempts to get such a meeting with the Russians in the summer of 1953.

Emphasizing the need for quick ratification of the Paris agreements, Churchill said:

"The only safe policy for us to pursue is peace through strength; without unity there can be no strength.

"The sooner we can get our Parliament ratification of the London-Paris agreements) settled, the sooner a top-level four-power conference can come—it may be a five-power conference."

Blame Senate Investigation For Stock Market Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury Secretary George Humphrey told the Senate banking committee today that its stock market inquiry may be undermining public confidence in the United States economy.

Humphrey's voluntary statement brought a demand from Senator Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) that he end to the group's inquiry into stock prices.

Chairman William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) retorted that the committee has a duty to investigate practices and speculation about what they might be in the way of "restrictive action" can "easily contribute to a questioning of confidence and uncertainty as to what the future may hold."

The treasury secretary declared the United States is " on sound economic principles." But he added, "I do not like the way some of the market has gone, I think, over the last couple months of business activity the United States has ever had.

Humphrey said the current reference in his prepared statement to the eight-day-old multi-billion-dollar break in stock prices but Capehart. He said the current inquiry had a tendency to cause investors into a false feeling of crash might be imminent.

In testimony prepared after Monday's price break, Humphrey said he made it plain Monday, however that (1) he doesn't regard the present inquiry as the main cause of the market break, and (2) he regards stock prices as only one of many factors of important one—a conference in his prepared statement to the investigation.

Nova Scotia PM Wants Tax Pacts Made Permanent

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier Henry Hicks of Nova Scotia said Monday present federal-provincial tax rental agreements make provinces too dependent on the federal government and are not permanent enough. He would like to see them guaranteed by the constitution.

Existing agreements are due to expire in two years and the first step towards re-negotiating them is expected to be taken at a meeting Prime Minister St. Laurent has proposed for April 20-21 in Ottawa.

The present taxation setup began in 1947 when all provinces but Quebec surrendered their income tax fields to Ottawa in return for annual tax grants.

Premier Hicks said "the thing that concerns me is that we are so dependent on Ottawa for the money for approximately two-fifths of our provincial revenue. We don't want to have our revenue dependent on agreements that expire and have to be re-negotiated every five years."

He said a better solution might be a constitutional amendment or agreements containing automatic renewal clauses. "Then we would be in a position for the provinces to participate in the distribution of national income."

Charge 1,000 Pounds For One Minute on TV

LONDON (AP) — Advertising on Britain's new commercial television will cost up to £1,000 a minute. Only one one-minute commercial will be shown in each hour of telecasting.

The rates were announced Monday night by the Associated Broadcasting Co., one of several firms which will put on the commercial programs when they start in the autumn. They are banned by the government-sponsored BBC.

ABC said the top price will be charged during the peak viewing hours in the London area.

Communist Spy List Discovered At Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A card index giving the names of Communist agents throughout Scandinavia was uncovered by police in a raid on the office of one of 11 persons now under arrest as members of a Communist spy ring, it was announced here today.

No details of the index were disclosed, but it is expected to provide a possible key to the ring, said to have been set up to get information on Atlantic pact decisions in Scandinavia and pass it on to Russian satellite countries' intelligence agents in East Europe.

Swedish security officials have informed Danish and Norwegian police about the discovery of the index, which is now being investigated in the file.

Sweden Monday night lodged protests over the espionage with the ministers of Communist Czechoslovakia and Romania, and demanded that four of their aides leave the country here.

Security officers cracked down on the ring after they had captured a courier carrying top long classified ads inserted in newspapers.

Protest Limit On Trailer Use

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Mobile Home Association said today it will petition against proposed Ontario legislation to restrict the use of trailer homes to 60 days in a year in municipal campgrounds.

Gordon McCaffrey, managing director of the association, said "civil rights are endangered by such a bill."

Mr. McCaffrey said the association also protested a section of the bill which would remove the present $10 limit on trailer park licence fees.

The legislation seeks permissive legislation which will recognize the trailer parks and set an adequate limit on licence fees which may be levied on each trailer.

1918-TYPE FLU EPIDEMIC HITS BRITISH COLUMBIA

Half of Scholars Ill, One Death Is Reported

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doctors in two British Columbia centres are fighting outbreaks of influenza in epidemic proportions that have claimed one life and closed at least two schools.

The outbreaks, described by one doctor as having symptoms similar to the deadly virus that touched off the world-wide 1918 epidemic, were reported at Campbell River on Vancouver island and the Howe sound settlement of Gibsons.

Neither community has called for additional medical assistance but medical authorities are keeping a close watch on the situation.

Less serious outbreaks were reported at Kelowna, Rutland and Vernon in the interior of the province and at Alberni and Duncan on Vancouver island.

MYSTERY DISEASE

Dr. D. A. Clarke, medical health officer for Kelowna, said the majority of those taken ill were from 11 to 17 years of age. All three schools in the district where the peak of the epidemic appeared to have been reached at mid-week when upwards of 40 per cent of the high school enrollment at Kelowna, Rutland and Vernon were unable to attend classes.

Only a few patients required hospital treatment, the majority being confined to their homes.

Dr. Clarke said the illness generally lasted from three to four days with a slight fever, headache, weakness and upset stomach.

Charges Hydro, Highways Dept. Violate Laws

TORONTO (CP)—CCL trade unionists charged Monday that both the federal national employment service in violating federal anti-discrimination laws and that Ontario Hydro and the Ontario department of highways are violating similar provincial laws.

The accusations, made at a meeting of the Toronto and District Labor Council, arose from reports that forms, asking for race, religion and country of birth were being distributed by the university branch of the federal employment service.

Rodney Armstrong, financial secretary of the Massey-Harris-Ferguson local of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), said a complaint will be filed with the federal department of labor.

Ceylon Calls Ex-Servicemen To Check Reds

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon's government announced today that it is ordering 5,000 ex-servicemen to form guard duty to check disturbances feared from a spreading Communist-fomented bus strike.

Premier Sir John Kotelawala also announced plans to arm army units of 2,000 rifles and 900 Sten guns recently purchased from Britain.

Though Kotelawala's National Government is pro-Communist, the Reds control local governments in Colombo and throughout the south. Observers here believe the strike has said he is determined to crush the Communist-backed strikers.

Buffalo Car Driver 'Blacks Out,' Jumps Curb, Kills Three Children

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Three small girls strolling along a sunny sidewalk after school Monday were killed and two others injured critically when a speeding automobile jumped the curb and wrecked a grocery two-block path of destruction.

The automobile burst through the brick-and-plaster wall of a grocery store, injuring two women in a shower of canned goods and cartons.

The driver, who told police he "blacked out" at the wheel, received minor cuts and bruises.

Authorities said witnesses estimated the car's speed at about 70 miles an hour.

Killed were Lynn Douglas, 11, Sandra Ann Pavel, 11, and Anita Arena, 6. Reported in critical condition in hospitals are Diane Arena, 7, and Betty Scheuer, 11.

Police said Douglas was struck by a driver at the Bell Aircraft Corp., was placed under observation at hospital. He was charged with criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle.

Decius told police he was under treatment for an ailment which the physician said could cause a blackout. He was later quoted by the physician as saying he has been suffering recently from convulsive

Police Set Trap After Ransom Demand For Girl

Plan Fails But Believe They Now Have 'Hot' Suspect

TORONTO — (CP) — The Telegram says police set an elaborate trap for the person who demanded $15,000 ransom for Judy Archer, 8, missing from her east-end home since Feb. 25.

It says the plan did not work and police now think two ransom demands came from a crank.

The girl has been missing and rewards totalling $1,500 have been offered for information about her whereabouts.

A few days after the girl disappeared, police reported that her stepfather, William McLeod, received a phone call from a man who asked $15,000 for her return.

The paper says a ransom note, also demanding $15,000, was sent to McLeod. The note asked that the money be placed in a lunch box and left by a certain time at a point on uptown Bloor street. Forty-five minutes before the appointed time, McLeod was warned by telephone that he should have the money there 2000.

McLeod out newspaper pages from the plan of bank notes, put them in the lunch box, and left the box at the designated spot while police watched, the paper says.

But after three hours, police gave up the vigil and called the plan a failure.

The same day the parents received a mailed note in childish printing. It said:

"Mommy, please come for me." Police, considering this note hint for the child, said Lionel John Crookes, 30, a charge of indecently assaulting a seven-year-old girl, will be questioned about Judy's disappearance. They said he could be a "red hot" suspect.

Rocket Ordered To Hospital For Examination

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice Richard was ordered to hospital for examination as an outcome of his high-sticking, punch-throwing episode in a National Hockey League game here Saturday night.

Richard reported today for practice with the National Canadiens and coach Dick Irvin noticed that the Rocket, leading scorer in the NHL, was not up to par. He decided that Richard was complaining of headaches and dizziness.

Irvin called in club physician Dr. Gordon Young and the Rocket was ordered to the Montreal Neurological Institute for a check-up.

ILL ON SUNDAY

Club officials said the headaches apparently resulted from the blows suffered by Richard in a stick-swinging duel with defenceman Hal Laycoe of Boston. Richard is completing a month-long suspension on the trip home from Boston.

The Rocket immediately known whether his removal to hospital would postpone his scheduled appearance Wednesday before president Clarence Campbell to discuss the incident.

The outburst came at a time when it could have ruined the Rocket's and dreams as well as his pocketbook.

Will Use A-Bombs Only in Big War Says Gruenther

PARIS (Reuters) — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said today his forces plan to use atomic weapons only in the event of all-out war.

He told the SHAPE Correspondents Association that his command has not considered the use of atomic weapons in the event of a limited "brushfire" war.

He stressed that while NATO strategy was based on the use of atomic weapons, the final decision on whether to use them lay with the political leaders.

He said that in the case of a partial war, nuclear weapons were not precluded. But "SHAPE simply has not dealt with the possibility of using the atom bomb in a local war."

'Most-Wanted' Man Arrested In Mexico

OTTAWA (CP) — Michel Sisco, one of Canada's most sought fugitives, has been arrested by Mexican police in Mexico and will be taken to New York in face charges pending in the United States, the RCMP said today.

Sisco, 40, Antonio d'Agostino, has been sought since 1950 when he failed to appear in court in Montreal to face narcotics charges. He was convicted in Toulouse, France in 1940 for treason and sentenced in absentia to death and loss of civil rights.

Sisco was included among fugitives listed by the RCMP on its list of "most-wanted criminals" list in 1952.

Suburban Planning Board Wants $1,950 Grant Restored

The work of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board will be jeopardized unless council restores the grant in the amount of $1,950 as the city's share of the board's 1955 budget.

This was stated before council Monday evening by the planning board chairman, J. Stuart Bridges, who headed a delegation consisting of himself, Paul Wiegand and J. T. Ramsay, local land surveyor.

In asking that council reconsider its decision in cutting out the $1,950 grant to the planning board, Mr. Trudeau emphasized the importance of planning in the suburban area should the city decide to annex.

Last year a topographical survey had been completed in Thurlow township east of the city, the survey taking in 800 acres. A similar survey was planned for this area where 2 proposed streets in 765 acres with much of this work already having been completed by the planning board had anticipated spending $3,000 this year, he said.

Mr. Trudeau went on to say that the planning board had accomplished considerable work since its inception. An area map showing proposed street extensions to facilitate traffic problems had been prepared by the board.

Board member Paul Wiegand told council that planning should be considered suburban planning a necessity and stressed the importance of continuity. "Sidney and Thurlow had already approved of their share of the board's budget," he said.

SEEKS TO WITHDRAW CLAIM

Alderman Hyde said there had been some objection in council to the program of the planning board in that all work was being done outside the city and suggested there may be some merit in the city withholding its share of the board costs until some of the work was done in the city.

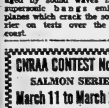
He said that council felt the board of municipalities was unfair to the city. The city has been paying 50 per cent, Thurlow 25 per cent and Sidney 10 per cent of the board's cost.

Mr. Trudeau replied that not all work done was in the suburban area as subdivisions have been submitted to the board for approval and plans therein being considered for the extension of Victoria Ave. and Bell Blvd. and also the elimination of a bad turn at Moira and Sidney Sts. were being considered.

In addition water area problems were also considered by the board.

But Alderman Graham felt the city's proportion of the cost seemed out of line with regard to the benefits benefit it could derive.

When the matter came up for discussion under general business Alderman Hughes recommended it be referred to the city planning committee.



NEED FOR PLANNING

A general discussion followed during which Mayor Lott and Alderman Humphreys that the planning committee had taken it upon itself to recommend that the $1950 be cut from the planning budget. Alderman Darell noted that although council had approved the distribution of costs unfair there was still need for planning. Alderman Frank Trudeau was of the same opinion, pointing out that there was bound to be problems some day.

Mayor Both stressed that the townships were getting the benefit of the planning board's work and would continue to get the benefit from the work to come."

The matter was referred to the city planning board for consideration and report.

Possible Location of New Post Office Concern of Council

Belleville city council is interested in rumors to the effect that the proposed new post office building will be constructed at a site other than the present location and had directed the city comptroller to write the local member seeking information.

Alderman Jane Forrester broached the matter of the possible change in the location of the post-office noting that council had a responsibility to citizens and adding that all available information on the matter should be tabled.

She said that the citizens had a right to look to their mayor for leadership in seeking the information.

She said any proposed change in the site of the postoffice should be of interest to council for three reasons. 1, because it served all citizens, 2, because acquisition of new property by the government meant a change in assessment, and 3, because any new location for the post office involved changes in bus routes and deliveries.

The mayor thanked the alderman for her remarks, noting that if the council looked to him for leadership "it was the first time they had done so." He said he had no information regarding any possible new site for the post office.

RESPONSIBILITY MENTIONED

Alderman Keegan suggested that the local representative Frank E. Totten should be the one to make to contact. He said efforts should be made to interview him and proposed site to ascertain if the location were suitable.

"It is the duty of council to look into the matter," suggested Alderman Hollis Graham, "An answer from city council would have more weight than one from the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Alderman Tice suggested that when plans for the post office were ready council and the citizens would be so advised by the member for the riding.

On recommendation of Alderman Graham council directed the city comptroller to write to Mr. Follwell asking if there was any proposed change in the location of the post office.

Public Works Will Review Plans for Installation Of Storm Sewers in Parkwood

The city public works committee will review plans for installation of storm sewers in the Parkwood Heights district and will also consider communications from engineering firms with respect to providing required engineering service.

Plans call for the construction of storm sewers to serve the Churchill Heights district, being the work of the Women's Association when health permitted and was Past Worthy Matron of Madoc Chapter O.E.S. No. 143.

Resting at the Mackenzie Funeral Home, Madoc. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Letters with respect to engineering services were received from F. D. Ransom of Belleville, Gore and Storrie of Toronto, J. R. Lee and Company of Kingston, and Proctor, Redfern and Laughlin of, Toronto.

RECREATION COMMITTEE

Provision of an additional sum of $1,000 for the recreational committee was approved by the grant to the Belleville Community Swimming Pool was authorized by council. The $1,000 is outstanding at the time the budgets were prepared and the money was provided in the recreation committee budget to pay the outstanding account.

Authorization of the additional sum was approved by Aldermen Argue, David, Forrester, Graham, Grandmaison, Humphreys, Hyde, Keegan, McCabe, Parks and Morgan. Opposing votes were cast by Aldermen Darell, Tice and Clarke.

The city is still in the real estate business with several offers for city-owned lots in the Parkwood Heights area having been received. The city still has about a dozen building lots and these will be advertised.

A request from the Belleville Horticultural Society reported by a petition from fourteen property owners in the district, asking that the waterfront area on the east side of Front Street, below the C.P.R. bridge be changed to class "D" commercial for building purposes, was referred to the planning board.

An advertisement in the provincial lawn bowling annual solicitation costing $36 was approved. Council as was a recommendation from the city parks board leasing the 36-foot section north of Panter's Park to John March as a parking area. The lease is for ten years at $10 per year.

A committee of Aldermen Hyde, Forrester, Graham and Grandame, was named to meet with a committee representing veterans to discuss the proposed increased payments in lieu of taxes for veterans' housing units in the city. The increased payments in lieu of taxes would mean increased rentals of up to $3.50 per month.

Alderman Effie McCabe reported briefly on fire services provided at the Holy Rosary and St. Joseph Separate schools. She said recommendations would be prepared before council at the next meeting.

George DeVuyst, local restaurant operator, addressed council requesting a traffic light at the corner of College Street and Canniffon Road. He said the city was spending large amounts of money in providing schools but apparently was not providing proper signals for the protection of school children crossing the streets.

Mr. DeVuyst also referred to the lack of new industries locating in Belleville and asked what was wrong with the industrial commission. "We have the location and the necessary transportation but not a single industry has located here in the past two years."

He said new industry would provide jobs for the city's young people and they would not find it necessary to leave the city.

Mr. DeVuyst also referred to Belleville hospital, noting that it needed considerable money to modernize wards in the old wing. He congratulated the nurses who, he said, were doing a splendid job under the circumstances.

Youth Guilty Of Assaulting Police Officer

CAMPBELLFORD — Gerald Villeneuve, 19, of Centre St., Campbellford, was found guilty of assaulting Police Officer Bailey officer, and also of a charge of purchasing liquor, while a minor. He was fined $10 and costs on the liquor count, but Magistrate R. B. Fraser reserved sentence until March 24th, for sentence on the assault charge.

William Gratton pleaded guilty on a charge of being drunk in a public place. He was fined $10 and costs. Convicted of driving while his ability was impaired, Leonard Smith was fined $50. and costs.

A total of 18 arrests were made in Campbellford last weekend. All involved were held under the LCA and the Criminal Code. The remainder of the charges will be heard in the Magistrate's Court here on March 24th.

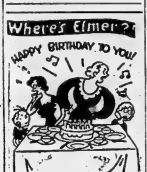
Stradi-Virus Hits Hastings

Anyone for Strads?

For the past five days the gums of unscathing Stradivarius violins, or rather reproductions thereof, has been a fast and furious one in Hastings County.

Since the Ontario Intelligencer published a comprehensive story on March 11 on the discovery of a supposedly genuine Strad in Tweed, reports have been pouring in from across the county of the unearthing of many, oh but many, Stradivariuses.

In fact it seems to have become a fever, and by all appearances the whole county may yet be bitten by the Stradivirus bug.



Authenticity of the Tweed antique (if it be one) is built on the discovery of a printed tab inside the violin bearing the words "Antonius Stradivarius, Cremonensis Faciebat 1717," and a trademark, the encircled initials "AS".

Latest discoveries of Strads this week were in Madoc and Bancroft. Stanley Baumbrough, retired Madoc farmer reported today he has been playing a Strad (or a reproduction thereof) for the past 45 years. It contains the identical identification tab, save for the date, which is 1713.

Meanwhile in Bancroft, also reported to have a Strad (or a reproduction thereof), with all its papers in order, save once again for the date, which this time is 1714.

With the exception of the Tweed incident, none of the others owning a Strad places any possible exceptional value on his possession. However, since it may become fashionable sport nobody dabbling such a fiddle sees any harm in jumping on the bandwagon.

We repeat: Anyone for Strads?

Bennett Calls Liberal Quitting People's Victory

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia's Social Credit premier says the resignation of all the Liberals in the B. C. House would be a great victory for the province.

Premier Bennett, discussing the resignation last week of Gordon Gibson, Liberal member for Lillooet, said Monday the Liberal party made him resign and then "claimed it as a great victory."

There are four Liberal members besides Mr. Gibson and Mr. Bennett added: "It would be five times the victory if all five of them resigned, a great victory for the people of B. C."

The Lillooet member resigned in protest of the government's administration of forest management licences. He said he will seek re-election.

The Nova Scotia government was urged to alter the automobile insurance field, Russell Cunningham, CCF member for Cape Breton East, made the suggestion during throne-speech debate.

"We believe the time now has arrived, especially after the dismal failure of our automobile insurance program in this province, for the government to take over this field," he said.

Dr. Metcalfe Named Medical Health Officer

Dr. R. A. McCaul Metcalfe of Toronto will be the new medical officer of health in Belleville, City council Monday evening made the appointment and passed the necessary by-law naming Dr. Metcalfe to the position made vacant by the resignation of Dr. A. M. Breuls who has gone to Scarboro. The salary will be $5,000 a year.

The by-law calls for Dr. Metcalfe as part time medical officer of health, although it is the understanding of council that the new M.O.H. will devote as much time as is necessary to his position. He will not do any general practice in the city, his duties will commence on March 21st.

The new medical officer is 36 years old, is a graduate of McGill University and is registered in the province of Ontario. He was in general practice until eight years ago and served as medical officer of health in Hamilton before. He has also served in the capacity as assistant M.O.H. in Toronto.

The appointment of Dr. Metcalfe saw general approval of council although Alderman Wm. Argue of Ward 4 took objection to the by-law which he said did not clearly define the duties of the M.O.H.

It was pointed out by the city controller that the duties of the M.O.H. were laid down by provincial statute.

The new M.O.H. will only serve the city of Belleville.

MARMORA

Pt. Anne Wins First Game Of Int. 'C' Series

MARMORA — The first game of the OHA Intermediate C Series played between Point Anne and Marmora at the latter's rink on Monday evening went in the Cement Town's favor 6-3. The game was close as suggested by the score and was fought at a fast pace.

Marmora was unfortunate in losing the services of Slayter through an injury early in the first, this player being later removed to the Peterborough hospital. At the same time his team mate, Jones, was hit in the mouth by the puck to lose a couple of teeth, but he soon returned to the game. Point Anne midget, Killian also received an injury early in the third. Despite the set backs the Marmora team played doggedly and fans were provided with a thrilling game.

Marmora started off promisingly, Blute and Lavender scoring within the first two minutes, each assisted by Leonard. Gilmour scored for Point Anne midway through the period on assists from Strahan and Mulvihill. G. Guyer added another on assists by P. Green and Hunter, while before the bell sounded to close the frame Carswell netted agsin for Marmora on K. Trumble's assist.

Point Anne scored through Mulvihill twice early in the second, Strahan assisted with both and Semark got an assist on the second of the goals. Leonard evened the score by baffling Letman on assists from Blute and Mantle. Two more goals were acquired by the visitors before the period closed. Gilmour beat Killian on assists from Mulvihill, and Strahan and Strahan got the next count with assists going to Gilmour and G. Guyer.

Strahan put his team further ahead at 5:56 in the third getting assists from Gilmour and Mulvihill. On a solo effort, K. Trumble responded for Marmora, to mark got the last goal for his team at 18:09 assisted by Mulvihill and Trumble a minute later replied for Marmora with assists Ander and Jones on the assists. Marmora got five penalties and Point Anne collected four. About 200 saw this game and the second fixture in the best-of-three series will be played on Tuesday night at 8.15.

Point Anne—goal, Letman; defence, Green, J. Green; centre, G. Guyer; wings, Williams, Hunter; alternates, Semark, Gilmour, Strahan, Mulvihill, Stewart; spare goalie, Bates.

Marmora—goal, Killian; defence, Darrah, Leonard; centre, Marmora; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; Alternates, Jones, Blute, Mantle, Hayler, Carswell, Smith; spare goalie, Swee.

Referees—W. Holway, R. Moss.

Council Members Not Entitled To Attend Special Committee Meetings Ruling of Mayor

Whether members of city council are privileged to attend the meetings of each committee of which they are not members is a question to which several city aldermen would like to know the answer.

And Monday evening after the question was asked whether a council member could be excluded from such meetings, they got the mayor's interpretation of the matter.

The answer was that meetings of special committees are only for members of the special committee and others are not entitled to attend.

Alderman Jane Forrester raised the point, asking since when were the meetings of special committees secret and could the time and place of such meetings be changed for the purpose of excluding another council member. She said that she was at the city hall at the time for which a meeting of a special committee had been called to go into the matter of hiring a medical officer of health. She had been interested in attending the meeting but had been told that the time and date of meetings were secret.

Mayor Wright replied there was no reason why an alderman not a member of a special committee should attend such meetings.

Alderman Graham failed to agree and asked if it were the intention of the mayor that council members not members of a special committee could be excluded from meetings.

What is what I said," returned the mayor. "Special committee meetings are for members only."

ALD. DENIES CLAIM

"Are you suggesting that I was out of order when I attended a board of health meeting?" asked Alderman Ross David. "It was my understanding that any member of council was welcomed at any committee meeting."

"I don't think you had any business there," replied the mayor.

Alderman McCabe denied that she had used the word "secret" when speaking to Alderman Forrester regarding the meeting of the special committee. "I did not use those words," she said. "What I said was that only members appointed to the special committee could be present at the meeting."

"I am very sorry," interjected Alderman Keegan. "I was with Alderman Forrester during the conversation and the word "secret" was used.

Alderman Moxam wanted to know if he was entitled to know such instances and asked if any alderman in previous years had been excluded from special meetings. The Alderman did not get a satisfactory answer to his question.

And it was there the matter rested with the mayor reserving his interpretation that only members of special committees were entitled to attend meetings.

Chief Charges No Co-operation, Resigns Post

HAMILTON (CP)—Frank Campbell, chief of the Ancaster township police force, has submitted his resignation, charging he has received no co-operation from township council since his appointment at the first of the year.

The resignation is effective March 24. However, the chief said that unless there is a change in his duty pay he claims is owing, "the township will be without protection as of tomorrow morning."

Chief Campbell said the township, with a population of 8,000 and an area of 68 square miles, is policed by himself and "one green recruit." One day a week there is protection for only eight hours, and there is one eight-hour period every day when no police-man is on duty, he said.

The chief said he had been promised extra men when he took over the job, but he has given me the run-around."

Chief Campbell served 18 years on Brantford police department.

Constable Donald Rogers has also resigned as the township force, effective today. He is going to another job.

Iggy Expects To Begin First Day of School

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Iggy Crotty expects to begin his first day of school today, 10 months after he was struck down by a car and sent into a 116-day coma.

The record-old boy became Canada's most famous accident victim after funds were collected to send him to Toronto for treatment after he woke from unconsciousness.

In four months there, Ignatius—Iggy for short—learned to walk and talk again, and is expected to soon be as good as new. He returned only two weeks ago.

He planned to go to school Monday morning, but by stress kept him home until afternoon. He thought he should take a taxi, but his mother decided it would be better for him to walk from the very beginning.

He phoned his mother after school and told her he had a "great time." He said he should kept him in a few minutes after his grade 3 classmates left so there wouldn't be too much excitement for him. He had completed grade 2 at the time of the accident.

Urges Public Be Made to Pay For Using Parks

MONTREAL (CP) — Delegates to the 20th Town Planning Institute Conference entered another busy round of meetings today after hearing the U. S. government urged for its policy on national parks.

J. V. J. Wagar, chief of the conservation department at A. and M. College, urged Monday that the public be made to pay more for using the parks' facilities.

"The increasing popularity of toll roads attests the public's willingness to pay for reasonable service at its source," Mr. Wagar said. "We have business men in Saskatchewan who would expect them to devise a system by which visitors pay needed costs."

In his address, Mr. Wagar also took business men to task for their projects which "destroy the recreational values of forests."

Edward A. Ackerman of Resources for the Future Inc., Washington, D. C., said the time has come for water management planning and development in North America to proceed on an international basis.

Mr. Ackerman estimated the U. S. government will have to spend $200,000,000,000 before all U. S. water resources are developed.

Awarded Medal For Extracting Oil from Sands

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Karl A. Clark of Edmonton, who has had his fingers in Alberta's Athabasca oil sands for 35 years, has been awarded the gold medal of the Professional Institute of Public Service.

The medal, awarded annually, is given for work that has made "a more than ordinary contribution to national or world well-being," the institute said today in announcing it. It is considered the top award in the public service, federal and provincial.

"Dr. Clark qualifies in both (the national and world) fields," said institute president James H. Lowther in a statement. "For three decades he worked tirelessly to develop a method of extracting oil from the bituminous sands of Alberta.

"He won through to success against odds that would have daunted a less dedicated man. Just what the long-term value of Dr. Clark's work may be to Canada may be judged from the fact oil reserves in the Alberta sands have been estimated at 100,000,000,000 barrels."

ONTARIO NATIVE

The results of his long years of research were confirmed in 1949 in a pilot plant built by the Alberta government at Bitumount, in the northeastern corner of the province where the oil sands lie. The demonstration showed that separation of oil from the sands was commercially feasible.

Oil companies have since taken out 13 exploration permits to carry out core drilling along the Athabaska river over an area of some 650,000 acres.

A native of Georgetown, Ont., Dr. Clark received his Master of Arts degree from McMaster University at Illinois in 1915. His son and three daughters are all graduates of the University of Alberta.

He will receive his medal Saturday at the institute's annual luncheon here.

Electric Railway Service May End

GALT (CP) — Electric railway passenger service in the Waterloo and Port Dover area will be replaced by buses April 24 if the switch is approved by the Ontario municipal board.

Applications by the Grand River Railway and the Lake Erie and Northern Railway to discontinue radial car service were granted Monday by the board's three commissioners.

The change must be approved by the Ontario municipal board, which has been asked to allow Canadian Pacific Transport Lines to extend their bus lines to Brantford, Simcoe, Port Dover, Preston and Hespeler.

Both railways are subsidiaries of Canadian Pacific Railway. The bus line is also a subsidiary of the CPR.

If the bus service proves unsatisfactory, rail service would be reinstated, the commissioners said.

Company Interested in Buying 13-Acre Site for New Industry

TRENTON (Special) — Confirming a rumour started last July that Trenton was on the threshold of acquiring an important addition to industry Senator W. A. Fraser disclosed in a letter to council last night that negotiations had progressed to the point where a company showed interest in the purchase of 13 acres of land in the vicinity of Lawrence Company situated on LeCaw's island in north Trenton. The Senator, now holding under option 10 acres of hydro land along the Trent canal north of the town offered to purchase three acres of land from the town for $500 an acre. He indicated that he proposed to join these two parcels together and offer the whole piece to the prospective buyer without profit. He also indicated that the company he was carrying on negotiations with proposed to erect a plant covering 70,000 square feet. Town clerk and treasurer C. W. Larry mentioned that he had seen a floor plan and the measurements of the factory the Senator talked about.

Senator Fraser pointed out that the 13-acre site would be sold with the understanding that the purchaser would build 25 per cent of the factory in the first six months and 75 per cent within the period of one year.

Mayor Ross Burt commenting on Senator Fraser's announcement said: "I have been given to understand that a company plans to amalgamate three or four smaller plants into one big plant and location is Trenton."

The Chamber of Commerce asked council for a grant of $2,000. The matter was handed over to the finance committee. Last year council gave the chamber a grant of $700 for the first time.

Council favored a request from the Children's Aid Society for a grant of $750. The finance committee was instructed to consider the request when preparing the budget for this year.

An application by E. E. Ealon of Trenton for the job of dog catcher for the town calling for a monthly salary of $150 was accepted.

Brakeman Dies As Trains Crash

MCGIVNEY JUNCTION, N. B. (CP)—A diesel-powered Canadian National Railways freight plowed into the rear of another freight at this central New Brunswick railway junction early today and demolished a caboose, killed a brakeman and derailed nine empty cars. Both trains were moving westward.

The dead brakeman was not immediately identified.

The brakeman was riding in the caboose of a train moving slightly when the diesel-powered freight, also moving slowly, crashed into it. Because the cars were empty damage was relatively light.

A spokesman said workers and salvage trains were en route from Moncton. He could give no explanation for the cause of the accident which occurred in bright weather.

Two other members of the leading train crew suffered minor injuries and were treated on the spot.

McGivney Junction is about 35 miles north of Fredericton.

WHAT ARE THEY TRYING TO PROVE?

Boom!

The spring series of atomic tests is continuing in Nevada and the whole plot gets thicker by the minute.

The latest A-blast was the 37th fired by U.S. atom authorities in Yucca Flats and frankly we are starting to wonder what it is all about. What are the scientists trying to prove? They already know The Bomb goes pop? Are they like the little boy in the Christmas play who keeps blowing his paper herald's trumpet just to be sure that it still makes a noise? Are they afraid the bombs will get rusty from lack of use?

Shooting off A-bombs in Nevada seemed to be a relatively remote annoyance until now. However, with the H-bomb coming up we are not so certain that anyone is remote from the possibility of its effects.

When scientists in the U.S. start talking about radioactive fallouts blanketing 7,000 square miles of territory, and descriptions of cloud dispersal include east and west winds carrying the atomic mushroom into the Carolinas on a front of 200 miles in one direction and over the Pacific Ocean in the other direction, we think it is time to call a halt and reassess our position.

Scientists have also broached the theory that even minute quantities of radio-activity might cause subtle changes in human genes and affect "generations unborn." The Atomic Energy Commission assures us that the radioactivity is confined to the atmosphere above and goes ahead with preparations to shoot off another bomb. It is kind of the AEC to offer reassurance about something nobody knows anything about, including the AEC, but more concrete information is desirable than the bland confidence of Chairman Lewis L. Strauss.

It would be unwise to suggest that atomic research be halted until the effects of radio-active fallouts can be measured. But it is too much to ask that this alarming series of atomic bomb detonations be halted until some significant feature of the atomic program warrants the firing of so great a charge as the testing of new firing mechanisms? At present it would appear that atomic bombs are being exploded for the sake of the explosions—as if atomic authorities need constant reassurance that the blast has lost none of its old sound and fury.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS ON DISTRICT MINES

A preliminary report for the year 1954 by the Ontario Department of Mines contains the following references to the Bancroft district:

"The widespread prospecting and exploration activity in the Bancroft area of eastern Ontario has resulted in the discovery of a number of potentially important deposits of uranium. Interest in this area showed no sign of decreasing at the end of the year.

"Several operations have started near the Bancroft area to explore underground uranium-bearing ores. Croft Uranium Mines Ltd. drove an adit and did considerable drifting; Centre Lake Uranium Mines Ltd. drove an adit and drifted, and then sank a shaft one level below the adit level and explored that horizon by drifting; Faraday Uranium Mines Ltd. are drifting from two adits; Cardiff Uranium Mines Ltd. installed a new headframe and equipment to explore the underground workings."

The Department's report also contains a section on the Bethlehem Steel Corporation iron mine, at Marmora, stating that the present estimate of the ore reserve workable by the open-pit method is 20,000,000 tons "but it is believed that exploration in other neighboring areas by Bethlehem and other interests has revealed a much larger total tonnage throughout the district." Production of ore at the Bethlehem property, now called the Marmoraton Mining Company Ltd., is starting in the near future, the orebody having been laid bare in several places as the result of work started in 1952, and proceeding steadily ever since, by stripping a capping of limestone 150 feet thick from the orebody. Annual production, the Department of Mines reports, will be 1,270,000 tons of ore, which is less than 2% of the 60,000,000 tons of ore reserves referred to above would last for almost 16 years.

GYMTORIUM NOT HORRIBLE

The Sudbury Daily Star commented at some length recently on the "horror" of manufactured words in general and on "gymtorium" in particular.

Belleville's newest collegiate, the Quinte Secondary School, has a gymtorium, and students enjoying its facilities for three months, find it anything but horrible.

MIRROR TALKS BACK

When I'm shaving in the morning, which is frequently the case,
The mirror seems to whisper: "Will you tell me what you're about to face.

That fellow I'm reflecting is no stranger gazing by.
You're the man that you are seeing. Can you look him in the eye?

"Could you smile at him this morning if he looked the self-same way
That he did when he was angry only just the other day?

That's your image you're beholding. "It's your face for from chin to brow.
Would you say his conduct pleased you, as you're looking at him now?

"Did you ever think about it, as your whiskers you removes,
Is that fellow in the mirror one whose manners you approves?
Every day you have to face him. Can you look at him and say
That you'd like him if you saw him as he was just yesterday?"

Phone Gadget Ends Torture

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Though the years are piling upon millions of people trying to read newspapers or work crossword puzzles or just sit and think would have their sleep-time pursuits menaced. The menace would come from not only being called to the telephone, but from having to listen to half-conversations.

Millions have discovered that it is virtually impossible to read Dick Tracy with proper concentration when someone in the hall is gushing monosyllables of alternating horror, delight and denial into the telephone mouthpiece. What on earth can they be talking about?

These one-sided conversations have aroused much mystery, suspense and hidden meanings that arouse curiosity even in the most stolid. Parents of a teen-ager talking real cool with a Mona Lisa smile can be driven to the verge of distraction.

The telephone industry has something on the back of the stove that may end all this. It is a hands-free phone. The new gadget has neither receiver nor mouthpiece. A midget microphone in the new phone picks up the voice from as far as ten feet away, while a midget loud-speaker makes the other party heard anywhere in the room.

This should take some of the mystery and delicate torture out of telephone conversations for third parties.

Hat Workers Push Sales

(Ottawa Journal)

Twelve thousand military workers in New York who had been demanding a larger pension fund to be financed by their employers have taken a second look at their union contract.

These workers have agreed that the money which might have gone into a larger fund for pensions should be spent instead to sell more goods and jobs. They resigned a three-year contract, and it is estimated that the payroll contribution of one per cent, which all employers in the group have agreed to contribute, will produce $1,000,000 by the end of 1957. The money will be spent in advertising, in fashion shows, and other forms of promotion and publicity. It is a decision which showed good judgment. They are concerned with jobs and security, and they know that in the long run nothing can do as much for them as a strong and sustained demand from the public for the goods they produce. They are looking ahead.

Few Typewriters

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

Legible writing is getting scarcer-and scarcer. Imagine it, in these times of push-button and nuclear fission, the majority of people have no knowledge of the use of the typewriter. They telephone their neighbors, listen to the radio, sit back while the world is brought into their homes by TV, make an effort to have a new car every two or three years —and never seem to give a thought to owning a typewriter and writing, not only their letters, but a variety of other things, sightly and easily.

Trees 3,000 Years Old

(By Anthony Netboy, in the New Leader.)

A few months ago, John D. Rockefeller Jr., contributed over a million dollars for the purchase of 60,000 acres of a choice giant sequoia stand in the foothills of the Sierra mountains in northern California. The state of California contributed about the same amount, so now these 3 unique trees will be saved from the woodman's axe and remain in perpetual ownership of the state.

The giant sequoias, which are found only along the Sierra Nevada, are 250 to 300 feet tall. With their cinnamon colored bark, pilfared trunks clear of branches for a hundred feet, fat limbs and broad, tufted crowns, they stand like Gulliver in Lilliput among the sugar pine, fir and other trees.

This is the oldest living tree species on earth. Many of them are 2,000 to 3,000 years old and are even older and still growing. In their ability to overcome adversity—floods, fire, blights and insect enemies—they are matched only by the coast redwood. Only fire or man can destroy them.

Some of the sequoias have a diameter of 30 to 32 feet, sometimes much larger. A few have been 15 to 24 inches thick—a woodsman's load. Their bark, almost 2 feet thick, is fire resistant, and their wood, though soft, is extremely durable. Yet, it is anchored on slender roots. Each tree is different in every direction as far as 300 feet from the trunk. And the seeds of this monster are so tiny and feathery that it takes about 3,000 of them to make a pound.

It was not until the California gold rush brought settlers into the groves that scientists became interested in the big trees.

By studying living specimens

they unravelled the mystery of the species: It was found that the redwoods and giant sequoias were survivors of the Tertiary period, preceding the ice age, when glaciers covered a large part of the northern hemisphere and completely changed its topography and climate. Forests of redwoods and sequoias flourished in the United States, Greenland, Alaska, Western Europe, and central and eastern Asia.

When the earth passed into a long glacial epoch, the sequoia could not thrive. Incessant cold winds and endless snows killed all but a small number of them. The few which survived into the milder postglacial period, dating from about 20,000 years ago, gave birth to the ancestors of the impressive trees that grace the Sierra mountainsides.

Today, there is no danger that the species will become extinct unless another glacial epoch strikes. But the giant sequoia groves are protected in state and national parks and in national forests.

There are probably around 20,000 giant sequoias in existence, concentrated in a few places. One of the best known is the internationally famous, The General Grant tree in Kings Canyon National Park is 272 feet tall, has 600,000 board feet of wood and weighs 91,000 tons. One of its limbs has a larger diameter than most trees in the Rocky mountains.

The most interesting tree is the Grizzly Giant in Mariposa Grove. It is 3,300 years old. So far as we know, it is the oldest tree on earth.

The Grizzly Giant has probably seen more of history than any other living thing: It was 2,000 years old when King Tutankhamen sat on the throne of ancient Egypt, and had passed its 2,000th birthday when St. Paul preached the New Gospel.

Clock Hitler Failed to Kill

(Louisville Courier-Journal)

Britain's Big Ben is as much a conversation piece as a timepiece. There are gasps of unbelief when somebody discovers, as happens once in a while, that the big, red great clock has stopped. It happened recently when a blizzard wind from the Thames sealed the hands with ice.

Once before a rat's nest fouled the works, and then there was the time when so many starlings roosted on the hands that the giant clock dragged along five minutes late.

The most serious stoppage took place during World War II. That was the time when a German bomb hit the House of Commons and destroyed the clock tower. Such hits could never be admitted at the time, for fear of giving guidance to the enemy. But the deep throated chime of Big Ben had sounded time and time again on the British Broadcasting Co.'s programs ever since 1923, and its noble tone would have caused "alarm and despondency," those ills that Churchill wanted to avoid.

A recording was quickly substituted, and Britain's morale went out across the world. Sir Winston kept the chime: "It's Big Ben! Big Ben! The clock they could not kill, Chime after chime it fell all men that England's England still."

The clock has a history to record of accuracy. On only five days a year is it more than a second off. Even the Greenwich royal once revealed how the clock was kept in accurate time: "Big Ben! Big Ben! The clock they could not kill, Chime after chime it fell all men that England's England still."

The clock has a history to record of accuracy. On only five days a year is it more than a second off. Even the Greenwich royal once revealed how the clock was kept in accurate time: A tray is fixed halfway down the pendulum, and when the clock is slow pennies are put on the tray. If it is fast pennies are removed.

Such has been Big Ben's record since it went to work in 1859. Sometime this year workmen once again must stop it deliberately while making final repairs to the air raid damage. Recording of its voice will again be used, but British people out across the world will hold their breath a little until "the clock they could not kill" is back in action again.

Fur Trading Days Near End

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

It used to be that a St. Louis businessman would make a trading trip with an assortment of assisting of red flannel, hatchets, ribbons, mirrors, the jewelry called argenterie, the fire water named eau de vie and a load of Brazil tobacco. He would return with a wealth of furs.

The trading post business founded a fur trading post here, and founded St. Louis almost incidentally. The Spanish government granted Manuel Lisa, and John Jacob Astor's men scoured the plains and mountains from here to Astoria seeking furs. Even the Encyclopedia Britannica says St. Louis "is one of the largest of all primary fur markets, for hides, horses and mules."

Now we're saddened to report that the local fur trade seems to be going the way of the mules, not to mention the buffalo. Ferdie Labuta, conversation commission agent, thinks that business in the fur trade here in St. Louis is absolutely dead." He adds, "Unless we have some big change in the less desirable furs very soon, the outlook for dealing may be telling for the fur business in St. Louis."

It is hard to imagine St. Louis without furs. It will be harder to visualize a real fur capital without furs. Let us hold no pelts, not yet. But somebody might nail a beaver hide on the door to the chamber of commerce, just for ol' times' sake.

DOES RELIGION MAKE A DIFFERENCE?

In a modern novel one of the characters upon the mention of religion, cries, "I've never worked very well for me."

For many people religion is an escape from the world. For them it is an extra-curricular activity. We speak of people being good. The question of real religion is not, "What are they good for?" For of this we can be sure—if religion fails to make a difference not only in what we believe and the way we live, but also in our moods and aspirations, then it is not religion.

The Christian faith is optimistic. Its faith is spoken of as power. The Christian religion is concerned with the fact that evening shapeth to had happened to them, changing their outlook, their behavior, their tastes, and their appetites. If religion must change us, else it is not religion.

The chaplain of one of our universities tells the story of our little daughter's first day in school. The children were asked to give their names and tell their father's business. "My father is a fireman," said a little boy. "He puts out fires." "My father is a grocer," said a little girl; "he sells bread and vegetables." Then the chaplain's daughter rose. "My father is a minister," she said proudly. "He says he said, "and he doesn't do anything."

Some folks are that way.

per care of yourself when you have a cold . . . and winter is upon us I'm quoting this ponderous gobbledygook from a January '53 magazine), it is important, to protect your general health . . . get all the sleep you need, eat a balanced diet and avoid exposure to severe weather unless properly dressed . . . your resistance to colds . . .

From the January '54 number of the same magazine I quote a variation of the inanity: Build up your resistance. Remember that respiratory infections are most likely to strike when a person is "run down" or "tired out". So, it is wise to get plenty of rest and sleep, take some exercise, and dress warmly to avoid becoming chilled.

From the season, dear, I was a boy in Canadagua and we Buttend kids used to collect free almanacs at the Barker and Hubbard drugstores, the almanac quacks, nostrum mongers, public health commissioners and the ever loving corporations have been talking this hunk of bunk for centuries.

It will probably make no difference to the eminent authorities who tell you how to build resistance, but I iterate nevertheless that you physician is the authority has defined or can define "resistance", apart from immunity, for the simple reason that no such condition or state exists.

Moreover, there is no evidence that being tired out, "run down" wearing insufficient clothing or becoming chilled impairs in the slightest whatever immunity ope has against any particular disease.

In one of the quaint preachments from which I quote (55) there appears a glimmer of light. "In addition" to eating a balanced diet and avoiding exposure to severe weather unless properly dressed it says "keep away from anyone already suffering from a respiratory ailment."

Some twentieth century doctor must have wormed his way into the conference room where the tycoons were composing the '55 almanac.

In 1951 the January number of the same magazine carried a page of advice about "colds" by the same corporation, including this: "Avoid people who cough or sneeze excessively." January 1953 ditto: "Keep away from people who . . ." January 1954 ditto: "Stay away from people " " " ".

But the January, '54 number carried a paragraph about "hints for winter health" and even although it is the body's privilege to continue to fight against the invading "germs", but that time I imagine the body's defenses have passed the twentieth century intruder hiding under the table, indignantly quoted him and released the annual pronouncement on "colds" without the slightest trace of attention of such communicable disease.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

While we are so infatuated with the speed and efficiency and ease which characterize our wonderful generation, it might be well to look over our shoulders once in a while. On Friday, I got the idea I would like to paint a garden bench in the cellar, in preparation for spring. I telephoned one of the hardware store which brings quantities of machine to my house as a matter of routine.

The paint did not come Saturday. It did not come Monday. Tuesday, in vexation, I telephoned the great store, famous the world over, its vast merchandise, its values, its charge accounts, its countless conveniences. A commissionaire is to sources. My indignant outcries got me switched on the telephone to the Adjustments Deapartment.

"At what time Friday did you place the order?" enquired the gracious young lady.

I didn't recall.

"Well, if you placed it after two p.m.," said she, "it would not be delivered Saturday, and as Monday is no delivery Monday, that being the drivers' day off, you naturally wouldn't get the goods until Tuesday."

Friday to Tuesday, for a can of paint! When it came, Tuesday, I had lost the urge to paint the garden bench.

Just to show it isn't one store, I visited another large emporium to buy a common school slate, £1.49. There were fresh out of them. Well, could they deliver me one, tomorrow?

The very idea shocked the book department clerk.

"I could get the order in now," she explained, "but it would not go out before Monday, and next to-morrow, which means the publishers wouldn't get it until the next day. It usually takes another day for the publisher to fill the order, receptionist, and then to deliver . . ."

Why, was all I said; for I could remember the days when this great store was in the throes of being delivered by horse and cart as a scandal to be without the merchandise a customer wanted, and, blushing, the whole organization would go madly into action to get the goods, even at the trouble and expense of sending a messenger . .

Apparently the old law of compensation is at work. The speedier we are getting in one respect, the slower we are getting in others.

ON BEING MISJUDGED

With every one of us a separate entity, or, in other words, a unique personality, it is not to be wondered at that we should be constantly misjudged, even by those who profess to know us best. SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Senators Refuse To Accept Secret Copies of Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators from both parties have backed the refusal of Senator Walter George (Dem., Ga.) to accept "confidential" copies of the Yalta conference record.

State Secretary Dulles announced Monday that he had decided not to publish the papers dealing with the wartime Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting in the Russian Crimea, but would send copies to key members of Congress.

Henry Suydam, state department press officer, mentioned national security and allied unity as reasons for Dulles' decision not to make public the record of the 1945 conference which over the last 10 years has been a point of Republican - Democratic controversy in United States.

WANTS NO LEAKS

George said Monday he would not take responsibility for possible news leaks and would turn back three copies assigned to the Senate foreign relations committee which he heads.

"The information in these papers would leak out and I don't want to accept them and find myself in the position of having to make them public," George said.

Senator Homer Capehart (Rep., Ind.), a member of the committee, said in an interview that he feels "the same way Senator George does."

Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, Democratic foreign relations committee member, said he supports George's position. He would have no objection to their publication.

PLEDGES MADE

At the Yalta conference the big three set the terms for Russian entry into the war against Japan. In the years since the Republicans have accused President Roosevelt and his aides of selling out Chinese Nationalist interest in Manchuria. The Democrats have contended the Russians broke pledges they made at Yalta, and in fact made more concessions than did the allies.

George said he doesn't believe it would be wise to make the documents public now, as certain information in them might affect ratification of the Paris agreements for West German rearmament.

London Paper Is Critical Of Townsend

LONDON (AP)—The Conservative newspaper Daily Mail has sharply criticized Group Capt. Peter Townsend for statements to reporters about his reported romance with Princess Margaret.

Ending the two-week silence it has maintained since some London newspapers published rumors that the princess soon would wed the divorced RAF officer, The Mail says in a front-page editorial:

"It seems to us he would have been better advised and served the interests of the princess and the Royal Family better if he had refused to speak at all. . . We can at least hope that the group captain has spoken his last word in hurried and unconsidered interviews. . .

"Group Capt. Townsend is a man of 40. He cannot be innocent of the ways of the world or of the value which could be made of any ambiguous statements he made about Princess Margaret."

DENIED REPORT

Townsend, now British air attache in Brussels, Monday repudiated a weekend report of an interview with him which he said implied "the princess has decided to marry me."

"The princess has made no such decision known to me, nor have I any reason to believe she has made a decision," he declared, adding that henceforth he will avoid reporters. After 18 months of public silence following his transfer from the royal household to Brussels, he recently had allowed himself to be interviewed frequently in connection with the latest flareup of rumors about himself and the princess.

Despite the captain's statement, informed circles in London believe that the 24-year-old princess' plans to marry him this fall. She will be 25 in August and may marry after that without the Queen's official consent.

Three Named to CID

TORONTO (CP) —An Ontario government order in council Monday announced appointment of three new inspectors to the criminal investigation branch of the Ontario provincial police.

Former staff sergeant J. L. McDermott of Timmins is a former Pembroke police sergeant. Ex-sergeant J. W. Harris of Perth formerly worked out of Brockville and Perth. Former sergeant David Adair of Pembroke worked out of Cobourg, London, Bradford and Pembroke.

ANGLICAN BISHOP APPEALS TO QUEEN TO STOP MARRIAGE

Dr. Alfred Blunt, Bishop of Bradford, has appealed to Queen Elizabeth to restrain her sister, Princess Margaret, from marrying Group Captain Peter Townsend, a divorced man. His appeal to the Queen was on the basis that she is the nominal head of the Anglican church which opposes the remarriage of divorced persons.

One of the few photos of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Townsend was this taken in 1947 while the royal family were visiting South Africa. Princess Margaret may wed without royal consent after her 25th birthday, Aug. 21.—Central Press Canadian Photos.

Council Approves Amendments

TORONTO (CP) — Amendments to the Assessment Act proposed by Attorney-General Porter are supported by the conservation council of Ontario, Eric Baker, chairman of the council's regional planning committee, said Monday.

The proposed amendments would provide that farm land adjacent to suburban or urban developments be given a lower assessment than nearby industrial or residential land. The farmer would be relieved of increasing taxation that might force sale of his land for other than agricultural use.

The proposed legislation would protect golf courses and all other green belt property from the high taxes of industrial and residential development.

Morrisburg Wants Highway To Run in Town

MORRISBURG (CP)—Residents of this St. Lawrence river community, 30 miles west of Cornwall, are insisting that highway No. 12, to be partly submerged in preparation for the giant seaway Hydro project, be reconstructed along the new riverfront.

The highway's new route has been a major point of disagreement between the town council and the Ontario hydro electric power commission in plans for the relocation of the hall of this community that will be flooded out.

About 35 miles and 20,000 acres of riverfront will be submerged, including the town's business section.

Hydro wants the highway to run north of the relocated town, but residents feel the route plays too important a role in their lives to be ignored.

A. K. E. Bunnell, consultant for Ontario's planning and development department and a frequent referee between Hydro and seaway valley communities in problems of land expropriation, said Monday he will check with Hydro authorities and the government to see if an agreement can be reached on the town's request.

Lost Both Hands

KITCHENER (CP) — Michael Schwager, 24, of Kitchener said Monday he lost part of both hands in a machinery accident on a farm. He is suing Lloyd Heipel of Heidelberg, his employer.

Schwager said he had been helping Heipel operate a forage harvester when the accident happened. Both had found it necessary to place their hands in the cutting section of the harvester to clear out grass. This had been done while the machine was running.

Schwager said Heipel started the machinery without giving a warning.

Toronto-Built Planes Turned Over to U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — The first six of an order of 90 Canadian-designed Otter planes were turned over to the United States army at a ceremony Monday at the de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited plant at suburban Downsview.

Maj.-Gen. Lewis W. Prentiss, commanding general of the engineers' centre at Fort Belvoir, Va., accepted the planes on behalf of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway, U.S. chief of staff.

The Toronto-built planes will be delivered to the U.S. Corps of Engineers for use in mapping and topographical survey work in Alaska and the Caribbean area.

Reserve Judgment

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Benjamin Fishman, a clothing store proprietor, and his wife Edith Fishman, were tried on a charge of perjury. Magistrate Johnstone Roberts reserved judgment for one week.

The perjury charges were filed in connection with evidence given Feb. 11 at a trial of two juveniles, who admitted breaking into Fishman's store. They confessed stealing $347 and clothing valued at $336 was stolen.

Police said the boys were caught at the back door of the store and police found $8 in silver on them and several articles of clothing. Police said they remained at the store until Fishman arrived.

Fund Diversion Said Dubious

TORONTO (CP)—Diversion of $100,000 in funds from a Moulton College expansion fund to other uses by McMaster University board is "legally dubious," officials of the Woodstock College Alumni Association said Monday.

Fighting the closing of the 96-year-old women's college, the officials said they have been advised by Terence Sheard, a trust law authority, that the McMaster board's position is far from clear.

They charged the university has "earmarked" the $100,000 for other uses.

McMaster, which has governed Moulton since it was established in 1888, closed the college in May, 1954.

Woodstock Alumni Association officials said they have been advised by Mr. Sheard that the McMaster board has "freedom only and not proprietorship of money in the fund."

Association officials said they will seek a legal ruling as to how the money can be used.

Presentation Marks Retirement

Last Saturday evening a happy time was spent at the home of Mr. F. Weir, South Front Street, when a turkey dinner was held in honor of Mr. James Lacy, of North Front Street, who had retired recently from the Canadian National Railways after 42 years of active service.

Mrs. Victor Morris was hostess for the occasion, and the home was beautifully adorned with St. Patrick Day emblems.

Following the dinner, at which the immediate family was present, an address was read by Mr. Weir, on behalf of the relatives, and a presentation made of a sterling silver cigaret lighter and case, for which Mr. Lacy expressed his appreciation and thanks.

Cards, and a singsong of old favorite songs brought an enjoyable evening to a conclusion.

Women's Activities

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

FRANKFORD — On Thursday afternoon members of Frankford United Church W.A. met in Rose Lowery hall with Mrs. Frank Rabel presiding.

Mrs. Rabel conducted the worship service, the theme for the day being "What Will Thou Have Me to Do?" The Scripture was read by Mrs. J. Bleecker from Luke, chapter 17: 11-19. Mrs. Rabel gave a talk on the theme and led in prayer.

A poem, "Love Eternal," was read by Mrs Rabel.

Roll call showed 24 members and four visitors present. The flower committee and parsonage committee gave their reports and it was decided to have some redecorating done on the parsonage. The correspondence was read. The W.A. received an invitation to attend the Batawa St. Patrick's tea and home cooking sale on Wednesday.

The usual business period was conducted and a birthday box was decided upon, also the date for the annual fall bazaar and plans to be made after mid-day Nov. 16th.

The ladies of the W.A. are sponsoring a play: "Absent Minded Professor," from Stockdale Young People's on Friday, April 15.

The program consisted of a reading by Mrs. H. Terry, "Party Line Operator"; vocal solo by Mrs. W. Morrow, "Peggy O'Neil," and a reading, "Do You Want to Borrow a Jack," by Mrs. R. Jewell.

Birthday gifts were given Mrs. P. E. Reinsteel, Mrs. J. Bleecker and Mrs. H. J. Madill, who celebrated birthdays in March.

The meeting closed. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. F. Charlesworth, Mrs. H. W. Rose and Mrs. Blake Sickle.

SHANNONVILLE U. C. W. A.

The monthly meeting of the W. A. of Shannonville United Church, was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Shetler on Thursday evening with 19 members and seven visitors in attendance.

Mrs. K. R. Vivian extended a cordial welcome to all.

Mrs. Claude Clarke, group leader, read, "The Man of Sorrow," from Isaiah. Mrs. Raymond Clarke the Scripture lesson from St. Mark. Miss Sara Stickney the lesson thoughts, and Mrs. Claude Clarke, a poem.

As this was the last meeting before Easter, hymns, readings and prayers centred around the subject of the crucifixion and resurrection.

Mrs. Vivian thanked the group for its fine devotional. The secretary called the roll and read the correspondence. A card of thanks from Miss Maxina Martin for the card she had received when in the hospital, and one each from Mrs. Gene Stratton and Mrs. Lorne Uens of Belleville.

A donation of $60. was voted to Albert College and $200 to Mr. Claude Clarke for the local fund.

Mrs. Vivian thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. John Craig, as the guest speaker, gave a synopsis of each of the chapters of the Reverend Charles B. Templeton's book, — "Life Looks Up."

Mrs. Craig read the last chapter, "The Crucifixion and Resurrection", which was most appropriate to the theme. Hymns sung by Mrs. Templeton were used on the record player, and greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Craig was thanked by Mrs. Vivian, the group leader.

The Reverend L. W. Scott expressed appreciation to Mrs. Craig for her fine contribution to the program.

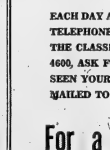
In closing, the theme song the Templetons used while here in the city a year ago last fall, was sung.

Following the benediction, Mrs. Shetler and the group in charge, served refreshments.

There were several men and three children present who remained for the social time which was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Claude Clarke.

TRINITY W.M.S.



MADOC — March meeting of Trinity WMS was held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Reid, with 21 members and six visitors present. Mrs. A. Empey was in the chair owing to the absence of Mrs. Carman.

Mrs. Empey gave a brief talk on Sacrifice and then called on her offered a special prayer for the missionary, Miss Joyce Kilpatrick, Central India.

During the business period, it was decided to have West Huntingdon present their play "Medicine Man" here on March 31st. Mrs. E. Moore and Mrs. A. Empey were appointed refreshment and stage conveners respectively. Mrs. Charles Johnston was chosen as delegate to the Presbyterial in Picton, on March 24th.

Mrs. L. Bennett led in the Worship service. Theme: "Let this Mind be in You." As it was close to Brotherhood Week the opening number was a reading, "Your Brother". Mrs. W. J. McCoy read the Scripture taken from Phillipians 2 and 3.

A talk by Mrs. Bennett was given based on the theme. Mrs. E. Burnside gave a review of the study book dealing with the growing together of the churches in India. Church membership was 100,000. Mrs. E. Moore, assisted by a reading on New Delhi which stated there were 361 million people in India; 70 percent engaged in agriculture. Also a reading "We do not need to keep a diary". Rev. J. F. Lane pronounced the benediction, after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mesdames Tanner, Adams and Gordon.

Kiwanis L.A. Plans Pot Luck Supper

The monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held at the Kiwanis Centre, recently. The president, Mrs. W. Cook, presided at the short business meeting.

Guests were introduced and welcomed and the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read. Plans were made for the dance to be held in May, with Mrs. W. Slade as convener.

It was decided to hold the next meeting a week early, on March 31. The men of the Kiwanis Club would be invited, as guests, to a pot-luck supper.

The group was asked to give more assistance to the Girls' Hobbycraft classes, and also to help with Red Cross sewing and knitting.

A white elephant sale was held, with Betty auctioneering for Mrs. J. Cowan and Mrs. C. Mott.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Clapp and her committee.

Women of the Moose

The first meeting of the month was held in the Moose Hall of the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435. Senior Regent Michaeline Calbury presided over the meeting with a good representation of members present.

One candidate was balloted on, the ballot being favorable, and one candidate was initiated into the defending circle.

Guide Connie Pringle, and assistant Guide Florence Carufel, presented Sub. Lieut. Ed. Richards, C.P.O., Pat Brown, P.O., Jim Woodacre and L. S. Jim Haley at the altar.

Senior Regent Michaeline Calbury presented C.P.O. Pat Brown with the Women of the Moose award, which is a large silver trophy for being the best Sea Cadet for the year 1954-55. C.P.O. Pat Brown also received a small silver trophy for his own personal use. The Women of the Moose award will be left in the R.C.C.S. Quinte.

P.O. Woodacre and L.S. Haley were presented with silver shields for being runners-up, respectively.

THANKS TENDERED

Sub. Lieut. Ed Richards thanked the chapter for the cups and said that the corps appreciated the interest the chapter is showing toward the corps.

The Senior Regent read a letter from Grand Recorder, Zola Kenney, concerning Moosehaven Baby Village Day, which will be held in Belleville, on Sunday, in the Knights of Columbus Hall at 1.30, which is an open meeting to which all are invited. An appeal was made by Mary Peopples to each member of the chapter to attend this meeting.

Cards of thanks were received from Emily Jeffrey, Kay Donovan, Irene Reed and Lucienne Mathews.

A banquet will be held for the White Cane Club at the next meeting, and a cheque presented to Mr. P. I. Timmins for the St. Lawrence Home in Kingston. This will be an open meeting.

A rummage sale will be held in March by Nellie Shandraw and Mary Van Dusen and any members who have donations will please contact these girls.

After the meeting was brought to a close euchre was enjoyed. Prizes were won by Helen Brenton, Peggy Mintz, and Annie Young.

Refreshments were served by Nellie Burke and her committee.

A draw was donated by Lena Connell and won by Hazel Whitmarsh.

A euchre was held last Tuesday night at Audrey's which was a large success.

Prizes were won by Annie Young, Marg Wright, Doreen Burns and Annie Young.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IPLL HELP IF YOU TRY TO UNDERSTAND THIS BOY'S SITUATION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old, and have been going with a boy 17 for about six months.

This boy will be going into the army soon, and he asked me if I would wait until he came back and then marry him. I told him that I would think about it. Then, all of a sudden he started going with one of my girl friends.

Should I try to get him back? After all, he did say that he loved me. — L.S.

Dear L.S.:

When boys are going into the service, they are very likely to do impulsive things, and often mistake their feelings, believing that they care more about certain girls than they really do. It seems to me this is what may have happened in the case of this particular boy. That is, he was a little hasty in asking you to marry him, suddenly realized it and didn't know how to deal with it except to go off with another girl.

Try to understand that a young man who is going away from home and friends is apt to be confused, and don't hold what this chap did against him. You will have a much better chance of getting him back if you don't make a big thing of this, but just act as though nothing had happened between you. When you meet him, be friendly and natural, and carry on from the kind of a note you left off on.

If he should write you, keep right on trying to hold that friendly attitude, and it will do a lot toward giving you an understanding of people that will be of great help and value to you.

One more word: It would be wiser to skip any talk of marriage with anyone right now. You're a bit young for that, yet. Instead, keep on having a good time, and there'll be a happy marriage waiting for you when the right time comes.

"LOVE" IS A BIG WORD; DON'T USE IT LIGHTLY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old, and have been going out with a boy who is about five years older than I am.

When I first met him, we went together for six months, then he walked out on me. Later, he wanted to go with me again, so I did, but after awhile he walked out on me again, without giving me any reason why.

I love Marvin very much, and I'm sure he loves me, too, and just goes with other girls to spite me. Then, when he gets lonesome for me, he comes back and wants me to start going with him again. I go with other boys, but I can't get my mind off Marvin, so will you please give me some advice?

— Alice S.

Dear Alice:

"Love" is a pretty big word to use, and you'd be wise to save it for later on. If you teen-age girls would just be willing to think of boys as your good friends, even though some are more special than others, you would not only save yourselves a lot of heartaches, but you'd be giving yourselves a chance to learn to recognize the difference between liking a person very much, and loving him, which would be of great help to you as you grow older.

Be that as it may, the whole trouble in your present situation may be the five years between this young man and yourself. You must recognize the fact that while your chief interests still lie in schoolday activities, the chief interests of a young man of 20 have, as a rule, grown beyond those things. They should have, at any rate. For this reason, while this chap no doubt likes you a lot, and enjoys being with you occasionally, he probably feels you are too young for him as a steady companion.

Since you say you do go out on dates with the boys, I advise you to consider them your real friends, and have most of your good times with them, and consider any dates with this 20-year-old just special treats.

YOU WERE THE ONE AT FAULT AND SHOULD APOLOGIZE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been wearing the school ring of a certain boy for about six months.

Recently I was told that he went out with another girl, and when I heard this, I was so mad that when he called me up, I coolly said good-by to him. He asked me what was wrong, but I would tell him nothing. However, I just don't know how to tell him that I had heard he was going out with another girl, so simply hung up on him.

Now he hasn't come around for two weeks, and I want to know what I should do. I really love him very much, and I know now it was foolish of me to act the way I did.

Dear Dorothy:

Since you realize that you did a foolish thing in refusing to tell your boy friend what was troubling you, there is one way you can remedy the situation. That is, you can write him a note and tell him exactly what the trouble was.

You were doubly foolish when all you were going on was a rumor that you had heard about him going out with another girl. Certainly

ALL-PURPOSE COAT"

By VERA WINSTON

Imported tweed in beige with white overtones has been worked into a handsome coat for town, for country, for wear en route, for anything but quite dressy occasions. The collar is draped and is shown here open. There are geometric lines in the buttoned band centre front which is crossed by the stitched band into which pockets are worked. Sleeves have casual, turn-back, notched cuffs and are in the length that is becoming increasingly in demand for suits and coats, since it looks so different from the accustomed length.

It wasn't very fair of you to judge him before giving him a chance to explain or to prove to you that the rumor was false, as it may well have been.

I think it is up to you to apologize for your hasty conduct and make the first move toward trying to straighten things out.

Luxurious Eating at Bottom Prices

By Mary Moore

On the week-end before the wedding we will have four very welcome guests—Herbie's family. The mind of the hostess and mother of the bride is working overtime and in high gear, it make things run smoothly during those precious days.

I have a new recipe for sliced beef which I wanted to try before I gave it to you for your next Christmas feasting. So since spliced beef is a good meat to have standing by when you have a house full of guests I placed an order for two brisket points from grade A beef.

When the order arrived the meat was so choice I decided to try roasting one of the points. It is the succulent results of this unexpected change of mind that gives me my story today. I will give you the recipe for the spiced beef later on when it has gone through the processing.

ROASTED BRISKET POINT

Roasting brisket may be an old story to some of you but I have never done it before. The meat I got, boned, cost 65 cents per lb. and weighed 3 1-4 lbs. You know it had a fat layer on both sides and because it was top grade beef it was finely marbled with fat through the lean. That is why the flavor was so fine. Specify Red Brand Grade A beef.

After breakfast I poked holes in one side of the brisket point with my 3-tined cooking fork and sprinkled it generously with unseasoned meat tenderizer. I rubbed that in well with my fingertips. An hour after I turned it over and did the other side and the ends the same way. It was left at room temperature until roasting time when I sprinkled it generously with pepper and paprika (no salt for the tenderizer has plenty in it) and put in the oven at 300 deg. Fahr. for 3 1-2 hours. I did not cover or baste it or add water.

It was served on our silver platter just as if it were Sunday's Porterhouse roast and surrounded with stuffed baked potatoes. I had four particularly fussy eaters for dinner last night and one of them who is very sparing with her praise said "Kid you done good!" Try it and see what your favorite critics have to say.

I say there isn't one cook in this audience that does not need to know the virtues and merits of this boneless inexpensive roast.

What's more, the telephone rang at 5:30 a.m. this morning. The old firehorse was the first out of bed to answer, as was The Registry wanting Nurse Moore at once in Children's Ward. So Nurse Moore's mother was glad in her sleepy state to haul nice allicella beef from the refrigerator, fresh whole wheat bread from the breadbox and rustle up a quick lunch before she got a hasty and egg breakfast to the table in a dead heat with crisp white-clad Flo, Nightingale the Umpteenth. I could be sure she had two nourishing meals that day. The cold brisket sliced perfectly for her sandwiches.

But to get back to last night's meal here are the

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES

Scrub large baking potatoes eating clean and bake at 475 deg. Fahr. until very tender —1 hour does it. With high heat. Cut slices from top, scoop out centres and mash them with 2 tablespoons each (for 4 potatoes) butter, cream, grated cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with paprika or grated cheese. Return to hot oven until heated through and golden.

Braten egg white may be added to filling for extra fluffiness if desired.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

ABOUT FEET AND NOSES

The girl who has cute little feet is proud of their slender line and dainty dimensions. What she spends on glamorous shoes wear takes a big bite out of the balance in the checkbook, but what does she care?

It is this young lady, with mind bent on displaying her attractive feet, who scorns sensible shoes with flexible leather soles sufficiently heavy to protect her feet from cold pavements and bitter weather. You will see her, from the first fluff of snow to the melting slush of spring, tripping along in boots that were designed for indoor wear and for parties.

Girls who have the sniffles are among the misguided ones who do not realize the need of keeping their feet protected from cold and moisture. When feet are uncomfortable, a girl huddles up into her coat collar, throws her shoulders forward. Her chest flattens and her back is rounded; posture is thrown completely out of form. And we mean form!

The right shoes are important to health, so keep that in mind if you catch cold frequently. You might also be interested in what Dr. Charlotte C. West has to say about red noses, which often accompany colds, in her interesting book "Ageless Youth."

"Because it is so prominent, local troubles of the nose seriously mar the appearance of the individual and prove a serious detriment to her welfare," writes Dr. West. "For instance, what can be more disfiguring than a chronically red nose? The causes are rarely local.

"The underlying conditions are, first of all, circulatory, although it may be the result of anemia. The blood and its circulation are, therefore, always faulty in cases of red nose and this is a subject of superlative importance and interest to all seekers of beauty and health."

To increase the circulatory function, do deep breathing exercises, have plenty of outdoor life, take an alternating hot and cold shower every day.

GOOD-MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HER ESCORT DIDN'T LIKE HER "TAKING OVER"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a new beau, and he's so attractive that I did want to make a good impression on him. But last evening I don't think I did! We have had several dates together, movies, dancing, and so forth. But last night was the first time we dined together in a restaurant. When I gave him my order from the menu, I said I'd like to have hot milk with my coffee, not cream. When he asked that the waiter had brought me cream, I signaled to him and asked him to change it to hot milk. When the waiter left the table, the new boy friend certainly told me off, insisted I should have told him about the hot milk for my coffee, that as host he should give the orders, I'm sure, seemed silly to bother him about such a small detail of my order. Was he right, or was I? — Kay.

His was right, and so right. You learned your lesson the hard way . . . but now you should courteously remember that when a man is your host he expects you to be a polite and knowing guest, letting him give your orders to the waiter, and letting him give all directions to the waiter. You just won't make a good impression on a man who is your host at dinner if you habitually insist on taking over any detail of the host-ship.

INVITING THE "SUBSTITUTE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently when we had what I thought was a very interesting and important discussion about a problem which has never happened to come up in our household, but which might, I realize, come up at any time. It was about what the hostess should do when she asks someone to come to a party in the place of a guest who at the last minute finds she cannot, for some reason, come. Group A (which included me) maintained that the hostess should be frank about the situation, explain it straightforwardly to the 'substitute' being invited. Group B (which included my husband) maintained that the hostess should try to every way not to have the substitute guest know that he or she was a substitute, should give the impression that the party was impromptu. What is your point of view about this? — Myra

As you say, this is a problem that may arise at any time, and a hostess must face it and know what to do. I'm one hundred percent for facing the situation straightforwardly, honestly . . . thus avoiding any possible future complications, such as the 'substitute' discovering the why of the last-minute invitation. The hostess might telephone, "How would you like to do Ken and me a special favor? We're giving an informal little dinner tonight, to be followed by bridge, and one the players has suddenly been taken ill. You're such a good friend (and such a good bridge player) and we'd love to have you come. Will you?"

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W. M. S. Holds Fine Meeting

RAWDON — Last Wednesday Mount Pleasant Woman's Missionary Society was entertained by Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher at Rawdon United Church parsonage. There were 14 members and three visitors in attendance. Miss Ruth Linn presided at the piano and played soft music.

Mrs. Frank Jeffs offered prayer, and said, "The Apostle Paul was fond of reminding his friends of the way his attitudes had been changed when he became a follower of Jesus. All sang "May we in faith receive Thy Word, in faith present our prayers, and in the presence of our Lord, unbosom all our cares."

Following routine business the offering was dedicated by the pastor. The corresponding secretary read a letter from St. Paul's Inviting the group to attend their evening church service on March 20th, and this was accepted. The treasurer reported seven fees paid and almost $12 offering for February.

GOD'S STEWARDS

Mrs. Herbert Smith, the new stewardship secretary, gave an article on, "God's stewards who convey deeds of love and kindness to others."

Mrs. Gordon Linn has received a letter re supply work and a leaflet re overseas relief, and this was read. Plans were made to hold a quilting at Mrs. Linn's home on Wednesday next. The Community Friendship secretary and the Christian Citizenship secretary each spoke briefly.

Delegates were appointed to attend Presbyterial at Picton, on March 24th. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Jeffs, Keywood, "Easter."

ANNUAL MEETING REPORT

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a report of the annual meeting of Cobourg Presbyterial held in Frankford, in January, which she attended as a guest. The theme was, "The Christian Hope and my Responsibility".

It was pointed out at this meeting that auxiliaries should study all they can about their Missionary for prayer. Write her letters, pray for her work, and send her cards on special days.

In 1955 the Dominion Board is asking for $65,000 as an extra gift for building advance, to supply cars, scholarships, and bursaries and for special work at Indore Christian College and the Children's home at Neemuch, India.

CHRISTIANITY CHANGES THINGS

Dr. Winnifred Bryce, professor of Indore Christian College, India, gave a timely message on books for adults and children in the forenoon. She was the special speaker in the afternoon and made a colorful picture in her deek wine sari with satin and embroidery trim. Her theme was, "The Difference that Christianity makes in the Church and Home Life of the Indian Villages". She gave a graphic picture filled with timely illustrations of her work in that land, and stressed the value of Christianity, as presented by the missionaries.

Mrs. Ross Jeffs synopsized "The Growth of the Church in India". As yet the Christian church has made no real impact upon the lives of the high caste people, but the work amongst India's poor, underprivileged and oppressed, bears testimony to the high ideals of the missionaries. There are approximately ten million Christians in India.

It costs a great deal to each individual who decides to accept Christianity as he or she literally cuts himself or herself off from his own community, and so in many cases the mass movement of a whole group together accepting Christianity has seemed to be the better plan.

CHURCH EXPANSION

A distinctive feature of church expansion in India has been the work amongst the primitive peoples and those who live in the hills of India. Many of these tribal groups have no written language and very little literacy, and so the translation of the Scriptures into their own tongues presents a great challenge to Christian missionaries.

An interesting account was told of a leper colony which provided enough rupees from their meagre incomes to support two young men as missionaries to carry the riches of Christ to the islands of the Brahmaputra River. These lepers felt it was impossible to be a live Christian and not be missionary minded.

The devotional, prepared by Mrs. Eric Summers, (who was unable to attend), was in charge of the president. She read an article, "Let This Mind be in You", and all sang "Come Holy Ghost". The Bible lessons as found in Philippians were read by Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. John Holmes. Mrs. Will Potts offered a special prayer for India.

MISSIONARY NURSE

Mrs. Douglas Campbell read a descriptive account of the work of Mrs. A. E. Graham, Missionary nurse at Mandleshwar Hospital, India. This told of progress with electric lights installed during the year.

Owing to the failure of the monsoon many patients suffered from hunger as they had not had proper food. The powdered milk from Canada was a great boon, drinking glasses were improvised from tin cans and each child received daily a steaming cup of hot milk, and this did wonders for the children. When the government inspector called for his routine visit he was loud in his praise of the missionary spirit at those hospitals and felt the state hospitals needed to improve.

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, with Mrs. K. Weaver as accompanist, sang "Open My Eyes that I May See".

Mrs. Roy Thrasher read, "A Lenten Meditation", in preparation for Easter, as written by Lillian McKillop in the monthly. It tells how to have that inner joy and peace, which Jesus bequeathed to His disciples.

The service closed with a poem entitled, "Thoughts" and the hymn "Thy World is Open Everywhere".

The pastor and his wife served light refreshments, and all enjoyed a time of fellowship together.

Roslin

ROSLIN W. I.

ROSLIN — The Roslin Women's Institute meeting was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Don Sills, with 17 ladies present.

With Mrs. A. Bates, the president, presiding the meeting was opened in the usual way.

The secretary Mrs. J. Fargey read letters of thanks from the school children for the new metal mark packs which the Institute have had placed in the school.

Plans are being made for the "Work Shop" which will be held in the church hall the last two weeks in April.

The members have contributed 25 cents each to the A. C. C. W. fund. This money will be used to send delegates to the next world conference.

The conveners of standing committees will meet the last week in March to compile their reports.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. K. Sharpe, Mrs. W. Colden, and Miss A. Wilson.

In the absence of the leader, Mrs. A. Gray, the motto, "Her dominion shall stretch from sea to sea" which she had prepared, was given by Mrs. D. Chisholm.

Several articles made during the winter were displayed.

A summary of current events was given by Mrs. F. Gray.

During the social half hour, refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

ROSLIN — One of the first sure signs of spring is the robins' return, and on Friday last Mrs. K. Sharpe saw a large number of robins near her home.

Mrs. William White's sister, Mrs. Nelson visited her during the past week.

St. Andrew's Young People presented their play, "Goodness Gracious Grandma", in Thomasburg Hall, last week.

BANCROFT

R. C. Directive Increases Hospital Rates

BANCROFT — Increased hospital fees were announced at the March meeting of the Bancroft Red Cross branch, held in St. John's parish hall with president Harold Petch in the chair.

A directive issued by Red Cross headquarters orders the following rates effective from March 16:

Ward rate $6. per day; semi-private $8. per day; private room, $8.50 and $10. per day; Major operating room $15.; minor operating room, $10.; Delivery room $10.; Special medicines at cost plus 10 per cent.

Campaign chairman, E. G. Thomas, announced that Red Cross campaign dates for the district would be from March 15 to 28, with a one night blitz for Bancroft village on March 22. Mrs. F. Hibbard and Mrs. Jack Brown were arranging canvassers for the Bancroft collection.

DELEGATES

Two delegates, Mrs. Clarke Rollins and Mrs. O. W. Anderson, were appointed to represent the branch at the Red Cross annual meeting to be held at the Royal York, Toronto, on March 23 and 24.

Branch members and a number of visitors present were shown a new Red Cross film, "Without warning". This picture was filmed in the Apsley and Burleigh Falls districts and featured members of the Bancroft hospital staff.

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell, of Thurlow, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hamilton and Mrs. P. B. Hamilton on Sunday.

The March meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Fairman, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Minaker were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hann, on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Way on Friday at the supper hour. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Way's birthday.

Later in the evening Mrs. Way's other children and their families gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sprague to help Mrs. May celebrate her birthday. There were about 30 when all were gathered together.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Miss Lillian Anderson and Mr. John Anderson were guests of Mrs. M. Mory at the supper hour on Thursday evening.

Mr. Farrow spent the dinner Picton, on Friday, hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hamilton and Mrs. P. B. Hamilton.

A number from here attended the funeral of the late Mr. Herbert Leavitt, which was held in Consecon.—(CP from National Defence).

Rules Delays Prejudiced Trial In Treason Case

BALTIMORE (AP)—John David Provoo, once convicted and sentenced to life for wartime treason, was ordered freed Monday when a federal judge ruled "deliberate" government delays prejudiced his chances of a fair trial.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen dismissed the indictment charging seven overt acts of treason while Provoo was a prisoner of the Japanese after the fall of Corregidor, and granted the 37-year-old defendant's petition for his freedom.

An appeals court set aside the 1953 conviction last August, ruling the government had wrongly tried Provoo in New York instead of Maryland and that the judge had wrongfully admitted certain testimony. The decision Monday automatically ruled out a second trial.

BREAKS DOWN

Provoo, a tall, scholarly-looking one-time bank clerk, broke down and wept when his four young court-appointed lawyers told him of Judge Thomsen's decision.

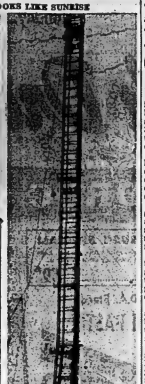
Judge Thomsen, in a 33-page opinion climaxing more than a month of hearings and deliberations, said he found Provoo "could not have a fair trial at this late date."

He found the former army sergeant had been denied the right of speedy trial and the government's "deliberate choice for a supposed advantage" in trying him originally in New York caused "oppressive delay and damage to the defendant."

"Further prosecution would violate fundamental principles of justice and fairness which we must apply even in the case of those charged with the most heinous offences," Judge Thomsen said.

STRANGE CASE

Provoo's indictment and trial grew out of one of the strangest cases to come out of the Second World War.



The government charged that Provoo shaved his head and donned the white robes of a Buddhist priest, greeted the conquering Japanese on Corregidor in the Philippines in May of 1942 and offered his services. Specifically, he was convicted of offering to aid his Japanese captors, informing on and causing the execution of a fellow prisoner-of-war, and on two charges of broadcasting propaganda for the enemy.

Provoo was sentenced to life imprisonment and fined $10,000, but the appeals court reversed the verdict last August.

SMALL A-BOMB LOOKS LIKE SUNRISE

The fireball of the fifth atomic device of the current series of tests gives a distorted "sunrise" effect as it peeps over the mountains surrounding the Yucca Flat proving ground. Unofficial observers called it a "medium baby" device, it was exploded atop the 500-foot steel tower, left, while jet aircraft buzzed close for mock attacks. Scientists tested the ability of oil smoke to sponge up the heat of a nuclear detonation — Central Press Canadian Photos.

This is one of the four 500-foot towers used for the first time in the current series of atomic detonations at the Yucca Flat, Nevada, The atomic device was detonated at the top of the tower. An increase of 200 feet in height over previous towers results in less particulate matter being sucked up into the atomic cloud and less fall-out.

Foote to Stress Rehabilitation Of Prisoners

TORONTO (CP)—Reforms Minister Foote of Ontario said Monday he will direct the largest possible amount of his department's $3,327,000 budget for the coming year to men, women and children who can be restored to society.

Mr. Foote, speaking in the legislature, said there was a large increase, disproportionate to the increase in population, of those who choose to live lives of idleness, deceit and dishonesty.

"There is, however, a large group of reclaimable children, men and women who, if treated in the most intelligent and enlightened manner that modern knowledge affords, can be restored to society."

He said the province's population during the last five years has grown about 14.4 per cent while the number of commitments of prisoners from the courts have increased by 25.2 per cent.

Rehabilitation work was discouraging but without it men would be in custody again and the cost to the province would be greater, said Mr. Foote.

In reply to a question by opposition leader Farquhar Oliver Mr. Foote said the practice of placing youths in jails in the province was not widespread. Some were behavior problems and could not be handled in training centres.

J. B. Salsberg, the only Communist Labor-Progressive member of the legislature, said the province's civil service refused to hire former prisoners although it encouraged industry to employ them.

His statement brought quick denials from Mr. Foote, Labor Minister Daley and W. J. Stewart (PC—Toronto Parkdale).

A campaign by service station operators in the province to have the government reconsider the taxes they pay on gasoline was brought up in the House by T. D. Thomas (CCF—Oshawa).

Mr. Thomas said he and other members have received telegrams from service station operators who claimed they should pay taxes on the amount of gasoline they take from their tanks, not the amount put in by suppliers.

The operators claimed the gasoline evaporated or contracted so they were paying taxes on gallonage that didn't exist. Suppliers collected the taxes for the province.

TO SEEK NOMINATION

KITCHENER (CP)—Mayor Donald Weber said Monday he will stand as candidate for the Liberal nomination for Waterloo North at the next Ontario election. The seat is held at present by Dr. H. F. Leavine, Progressive Conservative.

MANY ON RELIEF

SARNIA (CP)—Not since the depression of the 1930s have so many persons in Sarnia been on direct and indirect relief, city welfare administrator F. W. Holloway said Monday. He said the number is now dropping. There were 325 on relief in January, 195 in February, has it!!

Marconi TV

Dyna-Power Chassis — an amazing new achievement in television engineering — gives you superlative performance at a startlingly low price. For Dyna-Power TV, a revolutionary new TV design and new production techniques were developed by Marconi, the company with over fifty years of experience in electronics. These discoveries resulted in substantial reductions in production costs — these savings are passed on to you in the form of a new low price for top-quality TV.

The 21" table model illustrated here (TV2132) carries a list price of just $229.95.

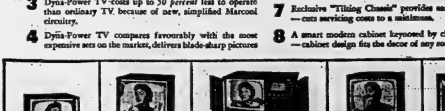
2 A new electronic development — Multi-Purpose "Controlled Warm-up Tube" System — provides extra ruggedness, lengthens tube life.

3 Dyna-Power TV comes up to 50 percent less to operate than ordinary TV, because of new, simplified Marconi circuitry.



4 Dyna-Power TV compares favourably with the most expensive sets on the market, delivers blade-sharp pictures ... it's super-powered, super compact. It's the most efficient television chassis available in Canada today.

5 Marconi's patented picture stabilizer maintains the steadiest picture ever, even under the most difficult reception conditions.

6 "Dip-soldered" Chassis — a special Marconi process to eliminate cold joints for extra reliability. Just one of the unique methods that mean production savings — and a lower price for you.

7 Exclusive "Tiling Chassis" provides easy serviceability — cuts servicing costs to a minimum.

8 A smart modern cabinet keynoted by classic simplicity — cabinet design fits the decor of any room.

RESCUED MINER THANKS HIS MANY RESCUERS

Basil Ruddy, right, has many men to thank while huge boulders fell past him. His fellow for saving his life, as he starts by shaking hands with those he could gather together in Cobalt, Ont. Ruddy survived 18 hours underground after a cobalt silver mine, trapped on a narrow ledge (Central Press Canadian) by a piece of steel through a pipe so that he was able to gradually block the falling stone.

RAIL CAR PUSHED INTO STATION

At Front, Ont., one railway car was pushed into the station house when the CPR transcontinental train ran into the rear of a standing train. No one was injured, but the line was blocked for seven hours. (Central Press Canadian.)

Union Convicted Of Interfering With Contracts

TORONTO (CP)—Local 713 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, (TLC) in the Niagara peninsula, Monday was convicted of "interfering with the contractual arrangements" of Smith Bros. Construction Co. Ltd.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan fined the union $310 damages. He also granted a permanent injunction restraining the union from picketing or counselling.

The dispute arose from work undertaken by the company on a number of projects in the Niagara area last year.

Evidence said no contract existed between the company and union; the union had not been certified by the Ontario labor relations board, and there have been any procedure towards certification.

The union rate was not being paid so three-man pickets at the five company projects were set up, the union said. The pickets were withdrawn when the company obtained a temporary injunction.

At the trial, the company said the union was "responsible for an unlawful strike" and that there was "unjustified interference" with its contractual rights.

Mr. Justice McLennan ruled there was no unlawful strike because there was no strike to be unlawful.

"All I wish to say is that picketing by [union] members of their employees . . . does not constitute a strike within the meaning of the act, or at common law," said Mr. Justice McLennan.

He ruled that, because other workers refused to pass the picket line, the union had interfered with the company.

"If the development of the trade union movement has reached the point where workers will not cross a picket line to go to work, there is just as effective interference with contractual relations as any other form of coercion might be," said Mr. Justice McLennan. "Loyalty to the union cannot be mentioned having been developed, the rule should not be abused for a wrongful purpose and where there is no justification."

Health Minister Martin Says Drug Addiction No Problem Among Teen-agers

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Martin said today there is no drug addiction problem among Canada's teen-agers.

"Our high schools are definitely not sources of drug addiction," he told the Senate committee on narcotics.

Health department records of criminal addicts showed only 26 under the age of 20, seven boys and 19 girls.

"Those young people, however, were not attending school when they became involved in this traffic," Martin said.

Health department records showed a total of 3,212 drug addicts among Canada's 15,000,000 population.

THREE ADDICT TYPES

He said the department records divide addicts into three groups:

1. Persons addicted as a result of treatment by narcotics during illness.

2. "Certain professional persons who have become addicted to drugs."

3. Criminal addicts, who obtain their supplies in the illicit market.

The first group generally was under medical supervision and the second could be dealt with administratively. Neither patronized the illicit market.

The 2,364 criminal addicts had brought about the need for the committee's investigation into drug trafficking in Canada.

He said most of the addicts are in Vancouver. But experience had shown this could shift to some other part of Canada.

CONVICT 349 IN '54

There were 371 persons convicted in 1952 of narcotic offences, 402 in 1953 and 349 in 1954.

Mr. Martin said control of drug imports and distribution and suppression of illicit distribution is a federal responsibility, [but treatment and rehabilitation of addicts come within provincial concern.

He asked Parliament last session amended the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act to distinguish between the drug trafficker and addict. Trafficking is an offence under the act, but addiction is not.

If provinces wanted legal custody over addicts until they could be cured, Canada would have to pass the necessary legislation.

Mr. Martin said enforcement authorities in Canada and the United States are unanimously opposed to any plan involving free drugs to registered addicts for self-administration.

Liberal Leader Advocates Fund For Unemployed

TORONTO (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Liberal opposition leader in the Ontario legislature, said Monday night Ontario should set up a fund to care for the unemployed from which municipalities could be reimbursed for a portion of the money they have spent on the jobless.

"Up to the present, Ontario has not paid a cent and has left the whole burden on the shoulders of the municipalities," he said in a broadcast in the free-time "Provincial Affairs" series over a CBC Ontario network.

His remarks were included in a text given to the press prior to the broadcast.

Office Workers Get Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Almost all 520 office employees of de Havilland Aircraft Corporation will receive wage increases ranging from $4 to $36 a month under a new contract announced Monday.

Webster Cornwell, international representative of the United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO) said all but a handful of the most highly-paid employees will receive raises.

It is the first UAW office contract in Canada to provide employees with automatic progression in the top salary range in each bracket, said Mr. Webster.

Neutral Canada Unthinkable If U.S. Gets Into Major War Pearson's Formosa Comment

TORONTO (CP)—The neutrality of Canada or the United States if either becomes involved in a major war would be "unthinkable," External Affairs Minister Pearson says.

And while Canada has not accepted U.S. commitments covering aid to the Chinese Nationalists in Formosa, "that is not the same thing as saying that they may not involve us."

In an address Monday to the Canadian Club here, Mr. Pearson said:

"Twice in this century Canada has been involved in a major war, a life and death struggle, for periods of two years or more before our American neighbors came in.

"Today, I think that the neutrality of either of us, if the other were engaged in a major war in which its very existence were at stake, would be unthinkable.

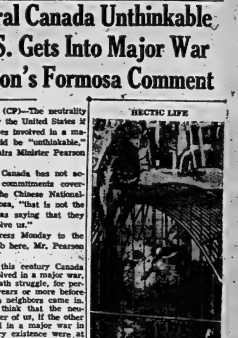
"That is a tremendous change and one which must affect all our policies and relations with the United States.

MUST NOT FORGET

"Our position in this regard is something that we should never forget when we say, and correctly, that certain U.S. commitments, those, for instance, covering help to Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa and certain Chinese coastal islands have not been accepted by us.

"But that is not the same thing as saying they may not involve us. And it is certainly not the same as saying they do not concern us."

In his address on relations between Canada and the U.S., Mr. Pearson hinted that more U.S. forces may be stationed in Canada.



He said the resources needed for such things as early warning lines and defence installations to maintain the deterrent effect of certain and massive retaliation, may require substantial economic effort and the stationing of increased forces in Canada; especially air forces.

On economics, Mr. Pearson referred to proposals by U.S. interests that imports of crude oil into the U.S. be restricted on defence grounds.

Mr. Pearson said this suggestion is difficult to understand at a time when large supplies are being available from Canada's operations connected with U.S. refining facilities.

"Only confusion would such a proposition, if implemented, tend to discourage the development of this continent's oil resources," he said, "but it seems entirely to the advantage of the United States oil exports to Canada are already far greater than our exports to the U.S."

Labor Headed for Showdown Which May Be Most Significant Event in British Politics

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—An uneasy Labor party appears headed for a showdown which may prove the most significant event in British politics since the last general election.

The general expectation is that the party's 293 MPs, at a private meeting Wednesday, will vote to withdraw the whip from Aneurin (Nye) Bevan, restless spokesman of the Labor left.

Such a course might lead later to Bevan's expulsion from the party, a shattering blow to Labor unity. Labor would retain its hard core of voters but its chances of defeating the ruling Conservatives in the next general election would be adversely affected.

SWING TO TORIES

Labor recently was reported slightly ahead of the Conservatives in public favor—as indicated by public opinion polls—but now the Tories are back in the lead. The next election must be held by the fall of 1956.

The present dispute is the latest in a series during a four-year period, interplay of three main factors can be traced in what is sometimes called Labor's "struggle for its soul."

One is the powerful, impulsive personality of Aneurin Bevan, a radical in the old Socialist tradition. He is the component of all-out socialism, the darling of the rank and file, the spell-binding orator who has no equal in the party.

But his bulldozing manner and sometimes - intemperate language offend and occasionally alienate a big part of the electorate. Now the moderate leaders, including former prime minister Clement Attlee, apparently feel the time has come to freeze out Bevan.

BOMB WORRIES PARTY

A second influence in current Labor uneasiness is the party's attempt to "live with" the hydrogen bomb. Since its inception 20 years ago, the Labor party has always placed emphasis on idealistic and humanitarian concepts which occasionally spill over into what has been called an "ancestral pacifism."

These elements of traditional Labor sentiment result in such explosions as the resignation last Thursday by Sir Richard Acland, Labor member for Gravesend, Kent, in a hook-and-bomb bid. He and others like him will support Bevan in the coming dispute.

Third factor affecting the struggle is that Labor has probably lost momentum since it was thrown out of office from 1945 to 1951. It has run out of ideas. The party thinkers may be in a somewhat frustrated mood as they seek new rallying cries.

SEEK RODENT EXPERT

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's city fathers have approved the hiring of a rodent control man. The chief qualification appears to be familiarity with the habits and breeding places of rodents. A secondary quality is the ability to carry on an educational campaign with the public for control and eradication of rodents.

Jelke's Second Trial Scheduled To Start Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Jurors in the Mickey Jelke trial today began hearing testimony about cafe society playboys and their call girls.

Pat Ward, admitted former call girl, was scheduled to be the first witness.

Miss Ward, now 21, was the state's star witness in Jelke's first trial in 1952. She is expected to repeat previous testimony about falling in love with Jelke and then sharing with the oleomargarine heir the fees she got from dates she said he arranged for her.

In his first trial Jelke, now 25, was convicted of inducing her to live the life of a prostitute and of trying to do the same with Marguerite Cordova, now 25.

This conviction was thrown out on appeal because Judge Francis L. Valente had closed the trial to the press and public during prosecution of the prosecution's case.

The appeals court ruled that this deprived Jelke of a fair trial.

The new trial is expected to bring out the names of men who allegedly paid fees up to $500 for the favors of Jelke's girl friends. The men, some reported to be prominent figures, were previously protected by the court ban against publicity.

In selection of the final jurors Monday, defence counsel George Washington Hertz indicated some of the testimony may be seamy. He told one juror "sex perversion" may be discussed, and to another he said "some exhibits might be rather shocking, possibly pornographic."

Move to Pare Estimates In Department Lost

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative member has tried unsuccessfully to pare what he describes as over-padding from the sums asked from Parliament for immigration spending.

J. Waldo Monteith (PC—Perth) proposed Monday that five per cent, or $443,000, be sliced from the immigration branch's estimated expenditures of $8,874,000 in the fiscal year starting April 1. The move was defeated by a vote of 7 to 4 in the Commons' committee on estimates, currently studying planned expenditures of the citizenship and immigration department.

Mr. Monteith said Parliament voted 10 per cent more than actual expenditures for immigration in the 1952-53 fiscal year, 22 per cent more in 1953-54 and 7.3 per cent more in the current year.

THERE'S NO REASON

"There is no rhyme or reason for such over-estimating over the years," he said, adding it proves the people of Canada have been taxed unnecessarily.

Immigration Minister Pickers. gill agreed to consider dropping the question on religious affiliation from immigrants' application forms.

Mr. Pickersgill said immigrants were asked their church affiliation "if they make a request . . . as to meet requests by employers of persons of certain religions. The other was to aid voluntary and social agencies who wanted to help individual immigrants.

UNDERGROUND ROOMS

SARNIA (CP) — Three shatterproof rooms below the YMCA-YWCA building here will become the central headquarters for the Sarnia civil defence organization, it was reported Monday. The rooms will be 22 feet underground and reinforced with two-foot thick concrete walls. One has already been constructed.

Trans-Canada Air Lines Ends Up in Black

OTTAWA (CP) — Trans-Canada Air lines, despite two costly crashes and a big development program, wound up 1954 operations in the black for the fourth straight year.

Operating revenues rose 10 per cent to $68,764,321 from $62,796,564 in 1953 and passengers, freight, express and mail carried also were above the figures for the previous year. Operating expenses increased to $67,131,512 from $61,433,700.

The government owned company's annual report, tabled in the Commons Monday, said last year's profit was down to $1,632,809 was an increase of $239,916 from the 1953 profit, but below the $977,179 in 1952 and $3,890,957 in 1951.

The report said major factors increasing costs included airport development, higher labor costs and increased services.

The airline, as a result of the loss of two aircraft during the year, was required to pay corporate income tax. Its tax liability was partially offset by the destruction of a North Star and a Constellation.

The North Star collided with an RCAF Harvard over Moose Jaw, Sask., in June, killing 37 persons in TCA's first fatal accident in seven years. The Super Constellation crashed in flames and sank near Toronto Dec. 17 without loss of life.

Passenger traffic remained the most important source of income, bringing $61,231,512 from 861,430,700 carried rose to 1,438,349, a 10-percent increase over the 1,307,210 in 1953.

The report, signed by president G. R. McGregor of Montreal, said TCA plans no major route extensions this year, though the number of flights on transcontinental would be increased and converted North Stars will put a five-flights-weekly transcontinental all-cargo service this summer.

A service to Timmins will be started this year in a move to improve service to the Ontario city. This will eliminate a previous stop at Foreign Junction.

OFFICER SUSPENDED

PICKERING (CP) — Township Clerk Dave Freeman, 42, of the Pickering township police, was suspended from duty Monday for conduct discreditable to the force. Chief Lester Hill, in announcing the suspension, said Sgt. Freeman would appear before a three-man commission Friday. He declined to specify the charges against the police sergeant, who has served on the force the crash.

Others said the sharp selloffs were probably a natural reaction to the overbought market of the past few weeks.

But Washington, Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.-Ariz.) told the U.S. Senate there could be a disastrous break down in the banking committee's study and Monday's major selling wave.

He said "there's a dark cloud passes over, sometimes there is rain."

On the New York exchange, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $3.30 to $151.50. The fall indicated an approximate loss of $4,000,000,000 in the quoted value of all listed securities.

On the Toronto market, the industrial index, based on prices of 29 key stocks, fell 5% points to 378.19, the greatest decline since a six-point fall Jan. 5. Golds, base metals and western oils indexes also fell sharply.

Stock Prices in Canada, United States Take Sharp Fall

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stock market prices in Canada and the United States turned sharply downward Monday, but New York market tumbling to its heaviest day's loss in almost five years and Toronto suffering its biggest decline in two months.

The New York exchange registered its largest daily drop since June 28, 1950, two days after the Communist invasion of South Korea.

Brokers had varied opinions on the reason for the fall, On Wall St. they said the action was a continuation of last week's major shakeout, the greatest weekly fall of the last 15 years.

In Toronto, brokers said the six-day decline coincided with the U.S. Senate banking committee hearings on stock market conditions. A key economist told the committee last week that present high stock market levels had "disturbing" resemblances to the 1929 market be-

Dulles Goes to Ottawa Thursday For 3-Day Goodwill Visit

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles goes to Ottawa this week for a three-day goodwill visit that will give the Canadian cabinet an opportunity for a fill-in on latest developments in United States foreign policy.

He is expected to fly up Thursday morning aboard a U.S. Air Force plane and return to Washington sometime Saturday. While in Ottawa, he will stay with Governor-General Vincent Massey.

State department officials emphasize that the trip, Dulles' first since he became secretary of state two years ago, is an official "goodwill" visit with no particular significance and no specific subject for discussion with the Canadians.

However, other highly-placed informants say there is little doubt Canadian cabinet members will seize the occasion to get the latest U.S. viewpoint on key world problems and to acquaint Dulles with the Canadian stand. Hence a common continental interest also are expected to be touched upon.

It has been customary for distinguished visitors to Ottawa to be invited to sit in with the Canadian cabinet and the expectation here is that Dulles will be asked to join in a cabinet session.

Informed sources here expect he will place before the Canadian ministers a broad outline of American foreign policy, particularly in the light of his recent two-week visit to the Far East. Dulles attended the Bangkok conference of Southeast Asia defence treaty powers and went on to Formosa, where he signed the U.S.-Formosa mutual security pact and re-emphasized U.S. determination to defend the nationalist stronghold.

There is also perhaps an added concern in the Formosan question through the presence in Korea of a Canadian infantry battalion, the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. A Canadian destroyer is stationed in the area.

Other problems, closer to home, are certain to crop up during the possible visit.

One is a bill now before Congress to restrict imports of coal and residual fuel oil into the U.S. Market. The effect of this legislation, sponsored by 17 senators from oil and coal-producing states, would be to shut out imports from Canada, including those from Canada, at about the present rate of roughly 250,000,000 barrels a year. If adopted, the restriction could have serious consequences for Canada's growing western oil industry.

The Canadian embassy in Washington is reported to have advised the state department of Canada's concern about the proposed law.

In the same general field is Canada's interest in the progress of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, now under study by the Senate finance committee. The act, which has passed the House of Representatives, would extend to 1958 the president's authority to reduce tariffs in return for concessions from other countries, without obtaining prior approval from Congress.

Another problem is a U.S. proposal to divert water from the city of Chicago the diversion to be through a drainage canal at the head of Lake Michigan.

A bill providing for diversion was passed by the last Congress but President Eisenhower failed to endorse it within the 10 days provided by law for presidential signature. He based his decision on the fact Canada had not been consulted and might protest about the alteration of Great Lakes' water levels. This year's version of the bill for diversion have been introduced in Congress.

Smallman Freed From Serving 18-Month Term

TORONTO (CP)—John Leonard Smallman, youthful heir to a $2,400,000 oil fortune, Monday was freed from serving an 18-month jail sentence imposed when he was convicted of robbing one of $47.

Smallman's conviction was upheld by the Ontario Court of Appeal after three justices ruled there was too much doubt as to his guilt.

The 21-year-old millionaire, who was left the money by an aunt when he was 14, was convicted Nov. 16 of beating and robbing Frederick G. Nash, Toronto salesman, of $41.

Nash said he met Smallman with two friends, one of whom had fair hair, in a Jarvis street bar Dec. 17, 1954.

Smallman, who formerly lived in London, Ont., married a London telephone operator Feb. 16, 1952. After their honeymoon in Mexico, the couple settled in Toronto and Smallman got a job as a jewelry salesman.

SOLD JEWELRY

Nash said he and Smallman discussed jewelry and Smallman offered to sell him some.

After the bar closed, Nash said he was walking up the street with Smallman, he was struck from the general direction of the blond man."

Nash said he felt a hand rummaging through his pockets, then saw the three men running away. Nash later identified Smallman as one of his assailants. The other two men were never caught.

ACCEPT INCREASE

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Collegiate Institute teachers have accepted a $400 salary increase, board of education was advised Monday night. The board made the increase retroactive to Jan. 1 unless setting minimums at $3,200 for non-specialists and $3,400 for specialists. Maximums are $5,900 for non-specialists, $6,000 for specialists and $6,200 for department-heads.

TO DISCUSS PRICE WAR

CHATHAM (CP)—Gasoline station operators in the district will meet Thursday night to discuss a recent price war which has dropped gasoline prices to as low as 29.9 cents a gallon. Retail dealers here charge from 35 to 37 cents for second grade gasoline. Wholesale charges amount to 31.1 cents a gallon.

Legal Bills Committee Approves Reducing Size of Petit Grand Juries

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's legal bills committee Monday approved a government bill which would reduce the size of petit juries in civil action to six from 12 and of grand juries to seven from 13.

The bill, which includes several other amendments to the Juries Act, has already been given first reading in the House. Second reading was postponed until the 24-man committee, which includes 13 lawyers, could consider it.

A group of Ontario lawyers opposed the change. The group was headed by E. L. Haines, a past president of the Ontario division of the Canadian Bar Association.

In a brief submitted to the committee the group said the reduction in the size of juries "is bound to be the thin edge of the wedge that will destroy the system completely."

ARGUE 12 BETTER

It said no person who seeks the justice of the courts should be required to accept anything less than 12 jurors.

The brief argued that 12 men are more apt to reason with one another and to overcome domination by one or two. Reducing the number of jurors would cut back the number of citizens able to take part in and learn about administration of justice.

Prof. Bora Laskin, professor of law at the University of Toronto, said there is no indication that civil juries of fewer than 12 members in other jurisdictions were unsatisfactory. This view also was expressed earlier by Attorney-General Dana Porter who said he had talked to lawyers from other provincial meeting of the Board, Mr. J. Wheatley who has probably known Dr. McCaffrey as long as any resident in Chilliwack, introduced the Doctor and reviewed some of the many hardships with which he had to contend in his early days in Chilliwack, making many trips by canoe, horseback, and on foot, being the only doctor between New Westminster and Hope. PRIORITIES ON

Opposition leader Drew said that although certain powers are necessary to meet "the continuing threat" Parliament should grant no unnecessary powers. There should be a new expiry date written into the act.

Mr. Howe referred in one of the powers most criticized by the opposition—permitting the government to force a company to manufacture defence supplies.

Mr. Howe said some companies would not want to abandon their civilian markets even in times of national emergency. Power to force them to do so should be retained.

KNOWLES APPROVED

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) supporting the government proposal, said no stronger indictment of private industry had been made than by Mr. Howe.

John Pallett (PC—Peel) said renewal of the powers in the bill is one of the greatest setbacks to Canadian democracy in recent years.

The act was a complete denial of the private enterprise system espoused by the government. Fundamental principles of freedom were being laid on the altar.

Frank E. Leonard (PC—Wentworth) said the government is at least partly to blame for the reluctance of some firms to accept government defence orders. During the Second World War, the government had been slow in its payments for the orders.

INCREASE WELCOMED

The Commons then turned to a debate on government plans to boost the federal contribution towards elimination of railway grade-crossings to $5,000,000 from $1,000,000.

Transport Minister Marler said the government has accepted all but one of seven recommendations made by the board of transport commissioners following an inquiry last year.

Members of all parties welcomed the increase in federal payments into the grade-crossing removal fund but some said the increase is not enough.

N. C. Schneider (L — Waterloo North) urged that the proposed $5,000,000 fund be doubled or tripled. Canada lagged far behind other countries in providing adequate protection at level crossings. A major increase in the size of the fund also would help solve the unemployment problem.

Sybil Bennett (PC — Halton) asked that highway signs at level crossings be standardized by a central authority.

She said the problem is acute in rural areas because of an increasing use of township and county roads by motorists, buses and other vehicles. There were 176 crossings of this type in Halton county which were virtually unprotected.

DRIVERS SHOULD STOP

Frank Lennard (PC—Wentworth) said laws should be passed forcing drivers of vehicles to stop at level crossings.

At the opening of Monday's sitting Trade Minister Howe announced that an interim payment of 10 cents a bushel on the 1954 barley crop has been approved by the Canadian wheat board. Cheques totalling some $8,000,000 would start going out early in April.

During the question period Mr. St. Laurent said the Red Ensign, which bears the Union Jack with the coat-of-arms on a red field, will continue as the "distinctive Canadian flag" as long as a 1945 order-in-council authorizing its use remains in force.

He told Fernand Girard (Ind.—Lapointe) that the order-in-council does not refer to the Red Ensign as the "official flag."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In the bridge you play there are many encouraging bids you can get from your partner. Perhaps the most pleasing of these is a jump shift of his to a suit that has not been mentioned before.

You hold the north hand shown here:

♠A Q 10 4
♥7 2
♦K Q 8 3
♣7 8 4

Suppose the bidding starts off like this:

South	North
1 Club	1 Spade
3 Diamonds	?

Your first response of one spade is a promise of a biddable suit in spades; three tricks; two high cards. If you have more you may have a chance to show it, if encouraged on the next round.

What do you see in the hand of your south partner when he jump-shifts to a new suit? His jump says he sees tricks enough for game in something. The trump suit has not yet been decided.

If so, he must see 11 tricks in the pair. With the three you have so far promised he must have eight. Therefore, he already knows you need one trick more for a probable slam. So do you.

Evidently he needs only slight additional encouragement from you to start slam proceedings. Having support for his diamonds you can jolly well give him the encouragement he seeks.

Your first response was not an increase in number. Therefore your raise in diamonds does not actually admit having a fourth trick. But he is encouraged to have it from your encouragement.

Why must he assume so? He knows you could discourage a slam by bidding three no-trump in that spot. Since you did not do so it is very evident that you are showing added values.

Bridge is not at all woodenly fettered by rules. Common sense is part of the equipment of every good player.

Bombers Sign Gerry James; Outbid Leafs

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers today announced the signing of Canadian fullback Gerry James for the 1955 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

No salary terms were announced but reportedly Bombers outbid Toronto Maple Leafs hockey club for the services of the 30-year-old hockey-playing footballer, who was named the most valuable Canadian hockey player in 1951.

James, who tolled for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit this winter, earlier was undecided whether to play professional hockey in the Maple Leaf organization or remain with the Bombers, for whom he has played since 1952. END ADV FOR 9 a.m. EST

Walt Disney, World's Most Versatile Creator, Wins Awards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A week ago champion award-getter Walt Disney received two more pieces of golden hardware, but this time there was a difference.

Although he has been in TV only 20 weeks, the entertainment world's most versatile creator won the TV Academy's emmies for the best variety show and the best individual program, beating such competition as Jackie Gleason, Toast of the Town and the million-dollar diamond Jubilee of Light.

Disney's collection of cartoon animals, frontier heroes, space men and nature studies has knocked the opposition for a loop. The damage to Joss Davis' rating helped lose her sponsor. And Arthur Godfrey, once the top banana on Wednesday night, has been singing the blues.

HABITS CHANGED

Kids from toddlers to teenagers are singing the ballad of Davey Crockett. Millions of youngsters have changed their bedtime habits Wednesday nights because they won't return until Disneyland is over.

The grownups go for the show, too. This is one of the many things about TV that amazes and delights Disney.

The success of Disneyland is established. How has Disney done it? By the same factors that brought him success in movies: Sound planning, expert staffs and the nerve to gamble millions on a vision.

Disney Studios Contain More Ideas Than Any Similar Space

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Si Wagon." Based on fact, it will show a pioneer caravan over the Oregon trail.

Among the other Disneyland subjects: Rocket Around the World; The Goofy Success Story; "Robin Hood" (two parts); "Legend of Sleepy Hollow," plus the Life of Washington Irving; History of the Animated Cartoon; American Folk Lore: A Day in the Life of Donald Duck.

Millions of TV viewers know Walt as the proprietor of Disneyland, an hour show that has brought new dimensions of entertainment and enlightenment to home screens. Although there has been no solicitation of mail, 15,000 letters reach the Disney studio weekly.

MORE FRONTIERS

The first year's product of 20 shows ended last week. On Sept. 7, Disneyland will start a new season of 26 shows. Because of the unlimited resources of the Disney Crockett trilogy, Walt will have more Revolutionary War yarns. One is "Johnny Tremaine," the story of a boy who lived during the American Revolution. Another is now called "Children of the Covered

Trent Valley Hockey

MARMORA — Point Anne in defeating Carr's Admirals of Trenton in the Marmora Arena by 12-7 on Saturday evening took the championship of the southern division of the Trent Valley League in a game fast and exciting.

At the end of the first, each team had registered three times, Gilmour had accomplished the hat trick for the Cement assisted on his first two goals by Graham and on his third by Williams. For Trenton, A. Schmidt was opening scorer on C. Scott's assist. Next to beat Bates was Beale assisted by Jones and Reeves who had assists from F. Scott and J. Scott.

In the second frame scorers for Point Anne were Williams assisted by G. Goyer, Strahan by Gilmour and then G. Goyer netting an unassisted goal. Williams — Maracle route. At the other end Beale was successful for Trenton helped by Schmidt and A. Scott registered on assists from Jones and Beale. Point Anne further outscored their rivals in the third time getting six goals in the following order, Graham (Strahan, Gilmour), G. Goyer (Hunter, Strahan), G. Goyer (Strahan), Hurst (G. Goyer, Graham).

Thus G. Goyer headed the scoring for the winners with four goals and an assist. The Admirals replied twice through Beale, each time assisted by A. Scott and this player starred for his team also with four goals and an assist. The only penalties were issued in the first period with three going to Point Anne and a single to Trenton.

Teams:

Trenton — goal, Green; defence, Schmidt, Reeves; centre, A. Scott; wings, Beale, Jones; alternates, Cousins, Graham, Hatfield, Campney. P. Scott, Istead, J. Scott; spare goalie, Hill.

Point Anne — goal, Bates; defence, Hunter, Hurst; centre, Gilmour; wings, Graham, Strahan; alternates, Williams, G. Goyer, Doran, Maracle.

Referees, Barrett and Holway.

Training Camp Notes

Pitching woes are piling up early for Lou Boudreau in his first season as manager of the transplanted Kansas City Athletics.

Unless the one-time "boy manager" can pull off a miracle and get profit by their change of scenery from Philadelphia to Kansas City, the club's plight appears hopeless.

With the grapefruit season now five days old, Boudreau would be willing to trade some of the club's aggressiveness for a sound Bobby Shantz.

Shantz came down with a sore and stiff left arm Monday, dimming his comeback aspirations. Club officials hope the ailment is not a recurrence of the injury that sidelined him for most of the 1954 season.

Boudreau's miseries Monday also included a 9-3 drubbing by Chicago White Sox for their fourth loss in as many exhibition games. The pitching staff has allowed 37 runs, or slightly more than nine a game.

YANKEE FIRST WIN

As now have the distinction of being the only major league club without a victory after New York Yankees shaded Milwaukee Braves 12-11 for their first grapefruit league win.

Mickey Mantle broke out of his slump with four hits, including a grand slam homer and he batted in six runs. Joe Adcock homered twice for Braves and also drove home six runs.

Stan Musial and Red Schoendienst found the batting range as St. Louis Cardinals tripped Detroit Tigers 10-8. Musial went four-for-four and Schoendienst collected three hits.

The Cincinnati Redlegs received some fine hurling from Corky Valentine, Corky Kelley and Jerry Lane and blanked Boston Red Sox 10-0. Bobby Morgan's double in the 12th inning scored Gus Niarhos from second base to give Philadelphia Phils a 3-2 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Bill Taylor walloped two homers and Jim Hearn pitched three scoreless innings and also homered to spark New York Giants to an 11-9 win over Chicago Cubs. Brooklyn Dodgers turned back the Baltimore Orioles 8-3 as Carl Furillo rapped a homer and two singles.

WILL CHECK PROSPECTS

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The American League realignment committee Monday set up a yardstick for picking new league members in the event the loop ever goes to 10 clubs.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox and chairman of the committee, said his committee worked up a check list for minor prospects should a league expansion ever come.

This yardstick for choosing members would include a check of attendance for the last five years, the population of the city's trade area and the size of the baseball park.

Schmidt Wins Main Bout

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Schmidt of Toronto won a five-round decision over George Ferenczi, also of Toronto, in the 10-pound main bout of a weekly amateur boxing show here Monday night.

Mike Zeduk of Guelph and Jack Henry of Toronto fought to a five-round draw in the 160-pound semi-final.

Preliminary results included:

147 pounds—Al Moss, Toronto, and Pat Campbell, Guelph, draw. Boni stopped at 1:42 of the third round when Campbell suffered a cut over his right eye.

AVILA GOES HOME

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Second baseman Bobby Avila of the Cleveland Indians' last holdout, left by plane Monday for his home in Mexico after refusing the Indians' latest salary offer.

Avila was offered $27,500 Monday but he wants $32,000. He got $18,000 last year, but figures he's due for a big raise after leading the American League in batting with a .341 average.

Manager Al Lopez said he would have to assume Avila won't be in the opening lineup. "That gives Rudy Regalado a good shot at the job and we also have Eddie Joost and Sam Dente who could go for it," Lopez said.

AT THE McCARTHY

"THE STEEL CAGE" PACKS LAUGHS, DRAMA, ADVENTURE

An exciting film showing three aspects of prison life, comedy, the desire for freedom, and the need for spiritual solace, made its local debut yesterday at the McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release. The film, "The Steel Cage," produced by Bernard Swartz and Walter Doniger, has a star-studded cast which includes Paul Kelly, Maureen O'Sullivan, Walter Slezak, John Ireland, Lawrence Tierney and many others.

Comedy is the keynote of Walter Slezak's characterization of an excellent cook doing time as a result of his fiery temper. When his fellow prisoners discover that his term is up they concoct an hilarious scheme to bring him back. An abortive jail break, planned by John Ireland, and escape from the start, shows another always present theme. Thought is the average prisoner's mind—escape. A disillusioned artist learns through bitter experience that man cannot live unto himself—he needs spiritual solace.

"The Steel Cage", carries with it the feeling of authenticity, and this is only right, inasmuch as it was shot on location at San Quentin prison. Walter Doniger, who co-produced, also directed and wrote the screenplay. His direction is tart, terse and suspenseful, three "musts" for a successful prison picture.

Second feature is "TROUBLE IN THE GLEN" with Margaret Lockwood and Orson Welles.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"WAR DECLARED"

There could be a severance of "diplomatic" and other relations between Kingston and Belleville during the next eight or nine days.

For their ice-lane representatives will endeavor to prove—and vice-versa—that the city of the pen is mightier than the city of the sward, insofar as senior "B" hockey is concerned.

That's it. Kingston Goodyears and Belleville Mesnes, hearty hockey foemen, will battle it out for the group title and the right to advance into the OHA playdowns.

Kingston won the right last night to enter the finals by defeating the Whitby Dunlops, 1954 senior "B" champions 4-3 in an overtime session that saw the Goodies come from behind to win. Paschuk was the hero of the piece scoring the tying and winning goals. The Goodies took the series four games to two.

And what shapes up to be a red-hot, sizzling series for the group title gets under way in Memorial Arena Friday night when the Goodyears and Mesnes tangle in the first out of a best-of-seven series. The second game is scheduled for Kingston Saturday and the third game in Kingston again next Wednesday. The following Friday the teams are back here again and the Saturday following in Kingston.

This revival of that terrific group final series of two years ago when the clubs fought to seven games before deciding a winner, should bring out the fans of both cities in droves. Capacity crowds should pack both fee palaces, we use the word reservedly in the case of Belleville, and break all former records, if that is possible.

BASEBALL!

The Ontario Baseball Association is holding its 28th annual convention in Cobourg, Ontario, on Friday and Saturday of this week. And from the looks of the agenda the baseball buckos are in for a busy session.

Friday is pretty well taken up with meetings of minor, intermediate and OBA executive officials with some grand entertainment said to be on tap for the evening.

The convention session proper starts at 9.30 Saturday morning and delegates will argue pro and con on some twenty or more amendments to the rules, changes to the constitution, etc.

And there should be some nitty goings-on in the election of officers. Clarence Riddell, present proxy is offering himself for re-election and will be opposed by Jim Turner of Preston—at least two have been nominated. Six have been named for the first vice-presidents jobs, five for second and three for Milliman, for third. Jack Kennedy have been offered for spots on the association executive.

Eastern Ontario is represented on this roster by Jack Carson, manager of the champion Belleville Rams, and Ron Sivel of Picton. This neck of the woods has not been represented on the OBA body since the passing of the late Ken Colling, former sports editor of this newspaper.

With all deference to Mr. Sivel, this department feels that Carson is the man for this part of "Lower Canada" as the OMHA dubs this district. Jack knows baseball from one corner to the other, and has been active in the game in an executive or managerial capacity for a number of years. He is well-known, too, to OBA executives and a large number of baseball men throughout the province.

Jack told this department today that he felt this district should have representation and intends to let his name stand for election to the executive.

Carson is a two-fisted, double-lunged "fighter," who never hesitates to battle for his team, his association, and what he deems is right. His executive ability leaves nothing to be desired and as far as managerial qualities are concerned, he took his Ratas to the Ontario senior "A" championship last summer, dividing the honors with the Oakville Oaks. We do not know of a man better qualified to represent this part of Ontario than he.

The Picton Lightfoot baseball club has entered an amendment to a rule on dates on which league or association championships must be declared. It suggests that all junior, senior and intermediate championships be decided by the second Saturday in August. The Picton club claims it got the run-around last season when it was forced to wait two weeks to allow two other clubs to finish their series.

BOOSTER CLUB

The co-sponsors and originators of the Belleville Memor' Hockey "Booster" Club are proud to announce that a goodly number of local sports enthusiasts have seen fit to provide their support to the hockey cause in a material way by donating cash and merchandise gifts to the players for their efforts which are so appreciated in the hockey series. A very capable hockey critic picks the four Belleville players in each game on which he feels have been the most productive on the game play. The four consist of the three stars of the evening with the fourth selection being made in the form of the team's most valuable player. The "Booster" Club has gained a large membership consisting of the following:

Bush Ambulance, Jack Bush; New Queen's Hotel, Jack Yaseyer; C. R. Holway S.S., "Cec" Holway; Wilbur Men's Wear, Newt Wilbur; City Hotel, Ben Yaseyer; Dolan's, Cleo R. Colling; Crystal Hotel, George Hargate; Reynolds, Harry Rollins; O'Keefe Brewery, Jim Williamson; Nine Percival, "Sis." Martin; Lipson's Dept. Store, John Gutsfeld; Cooke's Wholesale, Bill Cooke; Schwartz Gift Shop, Ben Schwartz; Lewis Auto Electric, Tom Lewis; Big "A" Co., Bill Bell; Paul Mercier; Ralph Graham; Ken Smith; Thomas', Don Thomas; John Lemmer; Keller's, "Howie" Walsh; "Corky's," Bob Farquharson; York Trading, Bill Fraser; Curtis Publishing, Dave Brophey; Quinte Paint, Harold Farrow; Penguin Fish and Chips, Murray Hussey; Ontario Intelligencer, George H. Gowsell; Gregg Supply Co., Orliff Lloyd.

It is the sincere hope of the above that the boys continue to show the fine spirit that they have displayed to date and any interested fans and sports-minded citizens are urged to join the above group to further the hockey interests of Belleville and give the players the added lift they need at this time. Please communicate with George Carver at 4600 or Orliff "Boller" Lloyd at 3689.

Habs, Wings Neck-and-Neck, Ditto Boston Bruins, Leafs; Sawchuk Favored for Vezina

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League's 1954-55 campaign moves into its final week today still cluttered up with question marks and dollar marks.

Still to be decided are:

The league championship, with Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings running neck and neck and about $500 per player hinging on the outcome.

The third and fourth positions, with Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins in another photo finish and $200 as the cash difference.

The individual scoring champion-ship, a scramble among three Montreal players plus the possibility the current leader, Maurice (Rocket) Richard, may be suspended and lose out in the wreckage run for $1,000 or even second-place $300.

NO SECOND MONEY

The terrific battle for goal-tending honors and $1,000—there's no runner-up money—between Terry Sawchuk of Detroit and Harry Lumley of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The jackpot championship race presents all sorts of possibilities. Canadiens and the Red Wings each have three games left. They meet each other twice, once at home and once away. Detroit will play away against Boston Bruins; Canadiens have a home-and-home against New York Rangers.

Canadiens, with 91 points, have won 39 games, lost 16 and tied 11. The Wings, with 89 points, have won 39, lost 17 and tied 11.

The fast-closing Detroiters may wind up in a tie on points with Canadiens. Then things become even more involved. There's no playoff for the league title.

If the teams are tied on points the team with the most wins takes the championship. If they're tied on points and wins, the team with the fewest losses takes the title. A tie on losses is also a possibility.

LEAD IN GOALS

If there's still a tie after all this, then Canadiens are home free. The regulations provide that the next step in declaring the winner is the team with the most goals during the season. The Montrealers are away out in front, 223 goals now to Detroit's 182.

Players on the winning team get approximately $1,000 each. Second-place money is about $500 each.

The Leafs currently have a one-point lead over the Bruins. Each team has two games left—Boston at home to Detroit and Chicago; the Leafs at home to Chicago and playing Detroit in New York.

The scoring race still rests with Montreal's big three — Richard, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Jean Beliveau—but there's already alarm in the Montreal camp. None of the three got a goal last week.

GEOFFRION MOVES UP

Richard is still in front with 74 points, getting only one assist last week. He leads the league on goals, with 38. Geoffrion collected two assists and moved into second place with 72 points. He has 37 goals. Beliveau, without a point last week, dropped to third place. He has 36 goals and 35 assists for 71 points.

George (Red) Sullivan of the last-place Chicago Black Hawks moved from sixth to fourth place on the strength of two goals and three assists. He now has 60 points. Gordie Howe of Detroit, collecting four assists, follows with 59 points. Montreal's Bert Olmstead, with one goal, dropped from fourth to sixth place and trails Howe by one point.

Harry Lumley of the Leafs was hanging grimly to his lead in the goal-tending tussle until Sunday. Then disaster struck, in the form of Terry Sawchuk's mates. The Red Wings potted six goals past Lumley. The Leafs beat Sawchuk only once. As a result the Toronto netminders credit margin of two goals collapsed to a deficit of three. The goals-against standing is: Sawchuk 129, Lumley 132.

Welland, London Bowlers Lead Five-Pin Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—Bowlers from Welland and London took the lead at the half-way mark Monday in the eastern Canada five-pin bowling championships at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

John Scholes of Welland topped the 13-man men's field, rolling a 1,315 score for five games. In the women's division, Mary Anderson of London led with a five-game total of 1,257 points.

The 36 high bowlers, regional winners from throughout the province, roll five more games today. Four entries in each division they will be eliminated and the remaining eight will meet in match play with the champions being declared at the end of the week.

Scholes rolled a single of 315 Monday to boost his total slightly ahead of Hank Kowalski of Windsor, who was in second place with 1,304.

Cord Burnie of Orillia was in third place with 1,281.

Miss Anderson has a comfortable margin over second - place Vera Ward of Hamilton who hit 1,171. Vi Warn of Toronto East was third with 1,163 and Grace Kaiser of Guelph had 1,133 for fourth. Rose Ross of Oshawa was close behind with 1,110.

TAY FOR GAMES

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto city council Monday approved making a formal representation to bring the 1960 Olympics to Toronto.

However, it decided against sending anyone to Paris next June to present the city's case. Controller Roy Belyea suggested that former mayor Allan Lamport be sent to Paris for that purpose.

Naturally you want to be insured against the cost of damage to other people's property and persons. But who's going to pay your damage if you smack a tree or stone wall? Without collision insurance, it's just too bad if you get the small end of the deal.

Mutals: If you want to keep from holding the bag yourself, call on us.

We've got the answer to that one.

Nothing Amateur About Boxing Says Mackenzie

TORONTO (CP)—Athletic commissioner Murray McKenzie of Ontario said Monday the biggest headache his office has is the so-called amateur boxing in Ontario.

He told the legislature's standing committee on government commissions there is "strictly nothing amateur" about boxing in the province.

"The simplest solution of the whole problem would be to let boxing remove itself from amateur status," Mr. McKenzie said. "But the trouble is that we are still trying to sort out amateurs because of the demand for assumed status from other jurisdictions which operate matches such as national championships or the British Empire Games."

RECEIVE FEES

He said it was well known that many boxers claiming amateur status receive fees. With wrestling there was no problem—it was frankly regarded as professional.

"In sports where there is money to be made, amateurism doesn't exist," he said. "In track and field matches, badminton, ping pong, weight-lifting and so on there's no problem.

"Nobody can make money out of them. Boxing, since still provides a profit, is amateurism that vanished."

The committee, headed by Alfred Cowling (PC—Toronto High Park), voted to demand more funds for supervision of sport in Ontario. It reserved formal completion of its recommendations until Mr. McKenzie can report more details of his office's financial operations.

Tod Sloan Out for Action Until Playoffs

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League said Monday right-winger Tod Sloan will be out of action at least until early in the Stanley Cup playoffs next week.

Sloan suffered a strained leg muscle in Toronto's game in Detroit, and will miss the final two games of the regular league schedule. Red Wings dropped the third-place Leafs 6-1.

Sloan is the second Leaf player injured in weekend games. Defenceman Tim Horton suffered a broken leg and fractured jaw in Toronto Saturday night as the fifth-place New York Rangers beat the Leafs 2-1.

Horton will be out for the rest of the season. Leaf officials said Sloan will probably be back in time for the first game of the playoffs.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

When the Irish and their descendants celebrate, this week, the birthday of their patron saint, they can include football in the list of sports events for which a native land is responsible. For it was an Irishman who invented Rugby, still played as such in all parts of the British Empire, the game from which our own Canadian football descended by a series of stages.

The legend that Rugby was transformed from soccer to a more volatile game in which carrying the ball was invented quite by accident, is perfectly true. And it was an Irishman who, perhaps involuntarily, made the transformation. There is a monument on the campus of Rugby, a famed English public school, that tells the inscription:

This stone commemorates the exploit of William Web'b Ellis who, with a fine disregard for the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game. A.D. 1823.

Now, it seems, the young man who performed in such unorthodox fashion, was an Irishman who had gone to ancient Rugby school for further education. And possibly, it was no accident that Ellis picked up the ball and ran with it. He had, no doubt, played or was acquainted with Gaelic football in the Irish homeland. The Gaelic game, time immemorial allowed handling of the ball, unlike soccer.

So it was intuitive on Ellis' part to grab the ball and "dribble" it a few steps before kicking on the run. The trouble was, he ran all the way across the goal.

It was typical of sports-minded Britons, who know a good thing and a dramatic thing when they see it on the field of play that, instead of heaping reproaches on the young Irishman for a breach of ethics, they turned his error into a game, and built him a monument. And, as always, they phrased it well. The wording, "with a fine disregard for the rules" could be developed only in a country that appreciated a fine individual action so much that it forced the Magna Carta at Runnymede.

Master Ellis meant no harm, no offence to the sports code. His innocent idea of soccer was to latch onto a loose ball and run S. And so a game was born. At the time, 123 years ago, Rugby was a school; not the label of a football game. The sports identification came later, all thanks to a young Irishman.

Spectacular Events Feature Second Pan-American Games

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Two of the longest broad jumps in track history and spectacular finishes in the sprint and hurdle finals highlighted the second Pan-American Games Monday as the United States swept six out of seven championships to move far in front of 21 other countries.

The Americans won four gold medals in track and field and two more in weight lifting to make it a total of nine championships out of 13 decided since the games got under way Sunday. They end March 26.

Going into the third day of competition, the U.S. led the unofficial team standing with 135 points to 41½ for Argentina, its nearest rival.

Canada, with only a small team entered in half a dozen sports, had five points.

EARNED THREE POINTS

Husky John Ivan Pavelich, a science and physical education teacher from New Westminster, B.C., picked up three points Monday, finishing fourth among the world's best shot-putters.

The 29-year-old Canadian gets another chance to add to Canada's total in the discus throw today.

Canada's two young sprinters, Harry Nelson of Vancouver and Bruce Springbett of Vancouver, came up against the best field assembled in years and were eliminated in the semi-finals of the 100-metre dash Monday.

Nelson, 20, and Springbett, 22, will try again in the 200-metre qualifying heats today.

BRAZIL WON

The women basketballers, Vancouver Ellers, made their debut in the five-country double round-robin tournament and were soundly beaten by Brazil 66-43 Monday night.

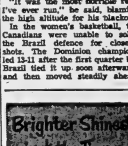
The four-time ladies' Canadian champions meet Chile tonight.

The Americans took all four men's events in track and field Monday and finished second and third in the women's 60-metre dash.

Rosslyn Range, a U.S. army private, won the broad jump with a sensational leap of 26 feet, 4¼ inches; Rod Richard captured the 100-metre dash by a scant yard from Trinidads Mike Agostini; Josh Culbreath made it 20 wins in a row with a hair-raising finish in the 400-metre hurdles and then collapsed, and world champion Parry O'Brien tossed the shot 57 feet, 8½ inches.

Needless to say, Pan-American Games records went by the wayside.

BLAMES ALTITUDE



Culbreath of Norristown, Pa., making his first run since last summer, won the 400-metre hurdles in a tight duel with Jaime Garcia, the defending champion from Colombia. The time was 51.5 seconds, just 1.1 seconds below the world mark held by Russia's Yuri Litvyev.

Culbreath and the Colombian raced neck and neck until the American pulled away in the last two hurdles. He collapsed shortly afterwards and it took an hour before he was strong enough to receive his gold medal.

"It was the most horrible race I ever run," he said, blaming the high altitude for his blackout.

In the women's basketball, the Canadians were unable to solve the Brazil defence for close-in shots. The Dominion champions led 13-11 after the first quarter but Brazil tied it up soon afterwards and then moved steadily ahead.

CONCENTRATION

A study in concentration is this activity around the goalmouth of the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game at Toronto. Goalie Harry Lumley of the Leafs makes a diving stop of a shot from Bill Ezinicki of the New York Rangers. Behind Ezinicki are Hugh Bolton, Ron Stewart and Larry Cahan. Rangers won 2-1. Lumley, who led the goalies for most of the season, had a bad weekend, letting in six goals against Detroit to drop into second place in the hunt for the Vezina trophy. (CP Photo).

Rocket Back on Familiar 'Carpet,' Pet Dream, Wallet Could Be Hurt

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice Richard steps back onto the familiar National Hockey League carpet Wednesday, with everyone expecting him to make another goodly contribution to NHL coffers.

The latest confinement to the NHL doghouse for the Montreal Canadiens star comes for a stick-swinging and punch-throwing episode at Boston Sunday night, with Brain defenceman Hal Laycoe. And it comes at a time when it can hurt one of the Rocket's pet dreams as well as his pocketbook.

Although he holds just about every other league scoring record, one that has eluded Richard is the league scoring crown. He is setting the pace now with 74 points, two more than teammate Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and three more than Jean Beliveau.

However, if league president Clarence Campbell decides to throw a suspension at him it could give Geoffrion and Beliveau a chance to move past him.

Campbell, who was in New York Monday for a meeting of league governors, has scheduled a hearing into the Boston affair for Wednesday morning at 10 a.m. EST. The game officials, coach Dick Irvin of the Canadiens, and Laycoe will be questioned along with Richard.

Boston reports said Richard lost his temper after a high-sticking scuffle with Laycoe. He tried to get at the bespectacled Bruin and when lineman Cliff Thompson intervened, dropped the official with a hard right-hand punch.

He then clouted Laycoe on the head with his stick. Richard was given a match misconduct—carrying an automatic $100 fine—while Laycoe drew a major and a 10-minute misconduct, with an automatic $25 fine.

It was Richard's second run-in with an official this year. In Toronto Dec. 29 he slapped linesman George Hayes in the face with his glove and drew a $250 fine.

PLANS LONG SWIM

Janice White, 16-year-old Toronto swimmer, has announced she will attempt to swim the treacherous Straits of Juan de Fuca, between Victoria and Port Angeles, Wash. Her coach Archie McKinnon (left) is from the Victoria YMCA. Miss White has started training for the swim described as being more difficult than the English Channel. (CP Photo).

Stanley Cup Tentative Dates Are Announced

NEW YORK (CP)—Despite the down-to-the-wire battles for first and third places, the National Hockey League Monday announced tentative dates for the Stanley Cup semi-finals opening March 22.

With Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings two points apart in the first two positions and only one point separating Toronto and Boston in the struggle for third, it was impossible to predict the opponents in series A, between the first and third-place clubs, or series B, between those finishing second and fourth. Both series are best-of-seven.

Here's how the schedule shapes up involving Toronto and either Detroit or Montreal:

March 22 and 24—Detroit or Montreal at Toronto.

March 26 and 29—Detroit or Montreal at Toronto.

March 31 (if necessary)—Toronto at Detroit or Montreal.

April 2 (if necessary)—Detroit or Montreal at Toronto.

April 5 (if necessary)—Toronto at Detroit or Montreal.

Here's the schedule when Boston plays either Detroit or Montreal.

March 22 and 24—Boston at Detroit or Montreal

March 27 and 29—Detroit or Montreal at Boston

March 30 (if necessary)—Boston at Detroit or Montreal

April 3 (if necessary)—Detroit or Montreal at Boston

April 5 (if necessary)—Boston at Detroit or Montreal

Garcia Stops Nate Brooks

BROOKLYN (AP)—Rudy Garcia a crouching, probing little puncher from Los Angeles, stopped Nate Brooks of Cleveland in 2:31 of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round fight at Eastern Parkway arena Monday night when the former Ohio pile bantamweight champion went down for the third time in the round. Garcia weighed 126¾, Brooks 125.

Garcia stalked his prey from the opening bell of the first round and Brooks, a 1953 Ohio champion in Helsinki, could hardly get a blow in. Although this was Brooks fourth consecutive loss, it was the first time in 29 professional fights he had been stopped. This also was his first start in the featherweight division.

Sports Popular With Canadian Infantry Brigade

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOEST, West Germany (CP)—The 3,800-man 1st Canadian infantry brigade group works hard—and plays hard.

Sport is a major item on the daily program, both as recreation and as a conditioner.

Eighteen organized sports flourish under supervision of a committee headed by Lt.-Col. Craig McFarlane, of Montreal, and kept under close surveillance by Brig. A. B. Anderson, brigade commander.

"Even soccer is quite popular in Canada, Canadian way," says McFarlane, who fears for the day that England is exposed to her national winter sport as played by the Canadians.

FRIGHTENING VIGOR

No unit is more enthusiastic than the Quebec Royal 22nd. "The Van Doos," 2nd battalion, have entered the spirit of English football with a vigor that is "frightening to watch," simply at subjugating of regimental fellows back home.

For inclement weather and hot inter-unit rivalry, boxing still takes first place. Hockey has come into its own with two open-air artificial rinks, each seating 1,000.

As might be expected, the calibre of play is more noted for its enthusiasm than finesse, but a brigade all-star team received its baptism in two one-sided losses to the world champion Penticton Vs and should go on to bigger things.

Yet to be avenged is a drubbing administered by the Krefeld hockey club, which like most German sports bodies figured every Canadian was a whiz on skates, and wheedled an exhibition game last year.

The Canadian army team, one of two practices under its belt, was beaten 13-0 and retired to bone up.

BASKETBALL CHANGE

The Canadian NATO forces have reigned as British army basketball champions for years. Refereeing are the 2nd Royal Canadian Horse artillery.

Baseball and softball are other main inter-unit sports. Then there are track and field, cross-country running—which "the Van Doos" carried into a Belgian meet with some success—skiing, target shooting, squash, bowling and the like.

Bowling has 10 regulation alleys—16 alleys in all—has developed into a major attraction with the distaff side of the 10,000-person community centred around the forces.

On the brigadier's orders, even garrison golf tournaments are cut once a week working off that office routine sag.

BOXER PLEADS INNOCENT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joey Giardello, middleweight boxing middleweight challenger, Monday pleaded innocent to four charges of hot and assault at the start of his trial for allegedly beating up a south Philadelphia gasoline station attendant last Oct. 29.

Giardello's three co-defendants pleaded guilty to two counts of rioting. Two of them also pleaded guilty to assault and battery charges while the third denied this charge.

Giardello has been unable to obtain a title fight with Carl (Bobo) Olson because of the trial. Olson refuses to fight the Philadelphia contender until he is cleared of the criminal charges.

Penticton Vs Leave for Home

LONDON (CP) — Penticton Vs, world hockey champions, left this morning for Montreal en route to Scotland, and Gander, Nfld., by Trans-Canada Air lines plane.

Their scheduled arrival time in Montreal is 3.30 p.m. EST tonight.

There are 26 persons aboard the plane—20 players and six officials and fans. The team arrived here Feb. 14 to play in the world hockey tournament in Western Germany which the British Columbia club won by shutting out Russia in the final game.

REGINA (CP)—A young skater who upset years in the shadow of another great was in the blades before attaining world prominence has a different kind of shadow trailing him in the North American figure skating championships opening here today.

Hayes Alan Jenkins, 21-year-old graduate student from Colorado Springs, Colo., spent so much time trying to break through the supremacy of Harvard's Dick Button that he once considered giving up tournament competition.

Now a world champion of three times standing, he is considered a cinch to reclaim the North American honors won in 1953—if his younger brother doesn't upset his plans.

Jenkins and his brother, David, dominate the entries in the men's singles, first event of the championships.

Hayes, in world competitions since 1949, almost gave up after the 1953 Olympics. He won his first world title in 1953 after Button retired. Now he has his brother giving him a close run.

Hayes won his third world title at Vienna last month. His brother finished third.

Another early entry is youthful Charles Snelling of Toronto, Canadian senior champion who finished eighth in the west German championships.

The women's singles will be run off this afternoon, with five skating for both singles events set for tomorrow night.

The two best women skaters head the U.S. entry in women's singles competition, Blonde Tenley Albright of Boston who won her third world title at Vienna and runner-up Carol Heiss of New York, second in Vienna.

Will Sign With Argos Says Ike Jones

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ike Jones former football end at the University of California at Los Angeles, said Monday he will sign this week with Toronto Argonauts.

Jones said he believes a former UCLA teammate, all American line backer Dan Mcmasus, also will sign with the Argonauts within a few days. Mcmasus now is studying at Princeton Theological Seminary, Jones said.

Jones has been doing motion picture work for the last two years. He was an assistant director on "The Joe Louis Story."

In Toronto, team manager Harry Southine of Argonauts confirmed that he had talked to the six-foot-one, 190-pound Jones. Southine said Jones, a Green Bay Packers' draft choice in 1953, is coming to Toronto this weekend to discuss contract terms.

The big, Negro end played for UCLA in 1950-51-52. He was out of football in 1953 and 1954.

Southine said he would like to sign Mcmasus, who played part of the 1953 Big Four season with Argonauts, but the player was reluctant to play a full season and Argos did not feel they should sign him unless he consented to do so.

York. Canada's hopes rest with Carole Jean Pachl of Ottawa, who was eighth in world competitions, and Sonja Currie of Calgary.

Canada is expected to retain the mixed pairs title with Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden of Toronto who won the event in the last North American tournament and captured world honors for the second time at Vienna.

The best of Tall tales

A friend of ours, a real born and bred Aberdonian, was given one of those magnifying shaving mirrors for Christmas. He used it until well into January then went back to using his old flat mirror.

The reason was quite simple. The magnifying mirror was making his face so big it took twice as much soap to work up a lather.

Ideal Husband Claim of Wife

LONDON (Reuters) — Middle-aged Mrs. Francis Love Monday put in a claim for having the most "ideal husband" in Britain.

In a letter to The Evening Star, she declared that her husband:

1. Gives her breakfast in bed before going to work.
2. Lights the fires daily and polishes the floors.
3. Peels the potatoes, cooks dinner if she's away, and does the shopping.
4. Washes the dishes—and the family clothes.

"All this after 37 years of married life," Mrs. Love wrote. "... I suppose I can say I am lucky. Or did I bring him up the right way?"

BOY OVERCOME

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Fire swept through the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Yates Monday morning, but their two-year-old son, Mrs. Yates received minor cuts and singed hair when she dashed into the house to rescue her three-month-old daughter, Karen. Her son, Allan, was overcome by fumes for five minutes. A neighbor dragged him out.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, March 16, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Thoughtful analysis of what is best to do and proper allocation of tasks and duties will help you score well at the end of the day. No need for anxiety but there is need for application, accuracy.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Tackle "first things" first, but spend some time in planning so as to speed work, make things run smoothly, pleasantly. Tactful and essential activities and interests are favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Couple your most productive talents with patience and today's credit rating should be a high one. Especially favored: essential building, railroading, mechanics, trades, science.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—This can be an unusually fine period for your special interests, for domestic harmony, for artistic and skilled trades, professions. Avoid irritation, work patiently, cheerfully.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—The energies will be highly stimulated now but you must maintain self-control to get the best from these agencies. Do not go overboard in anything or take undue chances with your job or other assets.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo) — Encouraging indications. Keep fit so that you can take advantage of fresh opportunities for creative work, for all matters requiring skill, artistry, unusual presentation.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra) — Ambition and honorable intentions, backed by your innate talents, should help you make a real go of things today. You may have to bear with some irritating persons and situations but you have the grit.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio) — This is the time to coordinate good ideas, advanced methods, profitable suggestions, and apply them in such a way as to further sound interests, occupational potentials. Listen to advice; it may be advantageous.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius—Notation to Scorpio applicable in your case now. Many fresh advantages in aviation, aeronautics, radar, new inventions and tools. Forward!

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — You of this Sign are innately progressive, constructive, and dependable. Today is responsive to such traits so put forth your bright ideas, make clever improvements, turn advancement.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius) — In Capricorn's chart you can find helpful hints for today. You, too, have inventive inclinations; take advantage of every good opportunity to get ahead in honorable activities.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces) — Get out front with the rightly ambitious and aggressive. You have talent, often sounder ideas than many who loudly promote theirs. Welcome competition, enter healthy discussions.

You born today have Mars aspected in your birth chart along with Neptune. Aggressiveness, ambition, impatience are sometimes your characteristics. These can be constructive, progressive traits but, wrongly used, can thwart your purposes. It's how we use our characteristics that counts. Head your intuition and others' opinions and don't fret over errors. Adept at diplomacy, careful in planning and with fine powers of concentration, you could be successful in either a professional, trade or in business. Birthsite of: James Madison, 4th U.S. President.

CAMPBELLFORD

S.S. Inspector Reports On School Survey

CAMPBELLFORD — Secondary School Inspector J. F. Swayze had completed his survey of the Campbellford and Warkworth High Schools in the North East Northumberland District.

Mr. Swayze said the Campbellford school was well organized and efficiently operated, offering a good variety of options. He predicted a reasonably constant registration during the next few years. A total of 266 pupils are registered.

With a staff of 11 teachers, the ratio of pupils to each teacher is 24.2. The inspector, in his report, said that the addition of another teacher to the staff would help to distribute the work more evenly, but that the present staff was efficient and hard working. He praised the extra curricular activities at the school, and complimented the staff for offering the school for the use of the night classes.

COMPLIMENTS BOARD

The inspector also complimented the board on the condition of the school building and facilities, and said that the caretaker, Mr. William Buchanan was doing a good job.

Mr. Swayze pointed out that in the June examinations last year, the marks for Grade XIII were well above average for the province, showing an average of 92 per cent obtained by all pupils.

A broader program of guidance was recommended as well as an extended program of boys' athletics. The inspector also said that a public relations program of the commercial class should be developed.

With regard to the Warkworth High School, Mr. Swayze praised the principal and staff, and pointed out that with only 64 pupils registered, the ratio of pupils to one teacher was 13. This was compared with the ratio of 24.2 to 1 at Campbellford High School.

The inspector suggested that by re-arranging the boundaries and transporting additional pupils, the board could increase the enrollment if the necessity arose. In the meantime, a fair variety of options are offered the pupils, but Mr. Swayze said that the pupils should be told of the commercial course at Campbellford High School.

FINE MUSICAL WORK

Speaking of the good spirit that prevails in the school, the inspector congratulated the principal and staff on their excellent work on vocal music and the part played by the schools in the music festivals. He recommended a tape recorder as a good investment for the school.

He said the boys of the school deserve credit for assisting in the renovating of the principal's office and the Home Economics room.

Since most of the pupils remain in the school for lunch, Mr. Swayze said that some effort should be made to provide something hot for the pupils. He said that this would also be a good idea at Campbellford." Another suggestion was that a good combination radio-phonograph, under teacher supervision, would provide a program of recreation during the noon hour at both schools.

TEACHING CONDITIONS GOOD

In general, Mr. Swayze said he found conditions and teaching methods in both schools to be good, and congratulated the principals and staff on the job they are doing.

Principal of the Campbellford High School, is E. E. Darling and of Warkworth High School, Mr. William Buckley.

REVIVE SOLOMON INDUSTRY

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—A copper plant is being constructed on the site of King Solomon's copper mines north of Elath, the Red sea port where the Biblical monarch's ships came in. This was announced Monday night in a budget debate in the Israeli parliament. Development Minister Joseph Dov said work on the project, which will cost $12,000,000 to equip, is due to start next month.

OPPOSITION CALLS FOR RESIGNATION OF ST. LAURENT

Increasing Jobless Given as Reason

OTTAWA (CP)—Increasing unemployment has given rise to an Opposition call for Prime Minister St. Laurent's resignation.

J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec West) said Tuesday night there is no alternative but resignation in the face of "complete and total failure" to provide full employment.

Mr. Dufresne, speaking in a continuing Commons debate on unemployment, based his argument on a Quebec City speech by Mr. St. Laurent last December in which he said: "If we are not smart enough to organize the economy of the nation to provide work for everybody we are incompetent."

That statement has been repeated frequently by opposition members in the current unemployment debates. But Tuesday night was the first time it was used as the basis for a resignation demand.

CLAIMS IT'S PROOF

Mr. Dufresne said the prime minister's own words are proof of his incompetence.

CANADA BRIGADE IN GERMANY WILL BE REPLACED

2nd Brigade to Take Over for 2-Year Term

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany will sail for home this fall and will be replaced by the 2nd Brigade with headquarters in Edmonton.

The army announced Tuesday that the 2nd Brigade will be stationed in Germany with North Atlantic Alliance forces for a two-year period. The 1st Brigade will have completed its two-year tour in October and November this year.

The seaborne rotation of the brigades will involve the movement of more than 10,000 soldiers and thousands of dependents. Sailing dates will be announced later.

The 2nd Brigade is commanded by Brig. Roger Rowley, 40, of Ottawa and the 1st Brigade by Brig. W. A. C. Henderson, 39, of Ottawa and Montreal.

LED HIGHLANDERS

Commissioned into the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa in 1933, Brig. Rowley by November, 1944, had risen to command the Lord Strathcona Horse (Royal Canadians), Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders. He led the unit through the fighting in northwest Europe and won the Distinguished Service Order and Bar.

He served as director of military survey and plans at headquarters, director of infantry and director of military training from 1947 to 1951 when he left Ottawa in December. He took over command of the 1st Brigade that time.

Major units of the 2nd Brigade which will go to Germany are: Royal Canadian Horse Artillery; 1st Battalions of the Royal Canadian Regiment, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and Royal 22nd Regiment; 1st Field Squadron Royal Canadian Engineers; No. 2 Transport Company, Army Service Corps; 4th Field Ambulance, Army Medical Corps; and 40th Infantry Workshop, Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

Major units which will return to Canada are: 2nd R 4 d m t, RCHA; D-Squadron, Lord Strathcona's Horse; 2nd Battalions of the Royal Canadian Regiment, Princess Patricia's and Royal 22nd Regiment; 1st Field Squadron, RCE; No. 54 Transport Company, RCASC; 4th Field Ambulance, RCAMC; and 42nd Infantry Workshop, RCEME.

Labor MP's Oust Bevan From Ranks For Disloyalty

Bevanites See Close Votes As Slap at Attlee's Rule

LONDON (CP)—Labor members of Parliament kicked left-winger Aneurin Bevan out of their ranks today on charges of disloyalty. This isolates him as an independent in the House of Commons.

The 57-year-old Welsh orator, a former coal miner, was reported to have told a closed-door meeting of Labor members of Parliament that he would never ask for reinstatement.

Action was on a motion to "withdraw the whip" from Bevan, meaning to remove the party label. The vote was 141 to 112.

This disciplinary move was sponsored by the moderate supporters of former prime minister Clement Attlee, the party's 72-year-old official leader. He has been subject to repeated attacks from Bevan and his followers in the last three years.

REJECT REPRIMAND

Attlee's supporters rejected a last-minute attempt to get Bevan off with a reprimand. The vote on that was 138 to 134.

Today's decision creates the biggest Labor party crisis since prewar days. Bevan's followers predicted after today's meeting that the decision has crushed the party's hopes of defeating the Conservatives if the government calls a national election this year.

Left-wingers believe the narrow margin at the two votes might help Bevan save face in a split throughout the party. Some said the leadership received only "a hollow" victory, and interpreted the closeness of the voting as a slap at the 77-year-old Attlee.

SOME ABSTAINED

There were abstentions in the showdown. Of the more are 292 Labor members of the House of Commons, and socialist peers in the Lords were eligible to take part in the meeting.

France Needs H-Bomb to Stay 'Aristocratic'

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Edgar Faure today announced that France will make the hydrogen bomb, either alone or in conjunction with other European nations.

Faure told a press conference: "It seems clear that soon there will be two classes of nations, those with nuclear weapons and those without.

"Those without are in danger of being driven into a lower rank of the powers than those 'aristocratic' nations that have the weapons. My government therefore proposes to consider the position from the French point of view in the near future.

Finnish Crew Has Refused To Sail Jet Fuel to China

HELSINKI (AP) — The Finnish Seamen's Union today said the crew of the tanker Aruba will strike rather than sail the ship and its cargo of jet fuel to Communist China.

The union said that as a result of Nationalist Chinese threats and the United Nations ban on strategic materials to the Chinese Reds, "the ship finds itself in danger of getting involved in actions of war."

Officials at the tanker's Finnish owners to "direct the ship to safer waters," the union announcement said the crew has refused to sail beyond Singapore.

The statehood tanker today was somewhere in the Indian ocean.

Shipping circles here suggested that the owners, the Re-Se Shipping Co., might divert the Aruba to Indonesia for reloading of the 13,000-ton cargo on to other Chinadestined ships.

A spokesman for the company said no action would be taken yet to divert the ship because no strike warning had been received from the crew.

The Aruba picked up its load of jet fuel from the Rumanian port of Constanza, on the Black sea. When it sailed for Red China early this month United States intelligence men launched a series of protests and the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa said they would intercept the tanker.

The British government said it was powerless to stop the Aruba because it was privately owned and chartered "to a foreign country"—reported to be China.

Shipping firms owned by the Chinese Reds.

The Aruba's case is similar to that of another Finnish tanker, the Wilma, which tried to take 10,000 tons of jet fuel to Shanghai two years ago. When the ship was forced to put into Singapore for fuel and water, British officials barred its departure. The U. S. finally got the ship's owners to sell the cargo.

Security officials in Singapore announced Tuesday that the Aruba also would not be refuelled there. The president of the Re-Se company, Gunnar Damstroem, countered that the Aruba would proceed into the safety and sail to Red China's Hainan island, off the south China mainland and far west of the Nationalist navy's usual patrol routes.

Plane Explodes At Lonely Lake In Ottawa Area

OTTAWA (CP)—Searchers today found the body of Allan Bourne of Thornton, Ont., on the shore of McGregor lake in a plane occupied by him and another man exploded and crashed Tuesday about 85 miles north of here.

The search is continuing for the body of Bourne's companion, Nicholas Thomas whose wife lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Durkin, Toronto. Bourne was 30-ish.

Bourne's body was found in the bush on the shore of the resort lake. He apparently was blown out of the flaming wreckage of the plane as it exploded.

Searchers found more evidence of the tragedy late Tuesday before nightfall and deep, slushy snow forced a halt to their efforts.

Honorable Prud'homme, police officer in the area, said the plane swept low over his cottage on the shore of McGregor lake and exploded. Flaming debris showered on the wooded shore and the lake, covered by two inches of ice and deep drifts of sodden snow.

The plane crashed through the ice into about 10 feet of water 500 yards from shore. Only its tail remained above water.

Prud'homme said he found near the shore a pair of flight boots with shoes inside and a watch stopped at 1:05—roughly the time of the afternoon crash.

The plane had left Uplands airport here about an hour earlier on an aerial-photography assignment flight.

Two unopened parachutes were found on the lake ice. The name Bourne was on one of the packs.

Searchers said there was no plane itself and turned back after attempting to make their way on foot through the deep snow on the lake ice.

Search officials declined to speculate whether the flyers had been thrown clear or crashed into the lake with the plane.

Call for Tenders For Seaway Job

OTTAWA (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority today called for tenders for the first land excavation work in the Lachine section of the seaway near Montreal.

The tenders are for a 4,000-foot section of a 27-foot-deep channel that will parallel the Lachine rapids. Tenders close April 14.

Dredging will proceed in the river itself opposite Montreal, started last fall.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: In the wake of Tuesday's storm cold air pushed down across the whole province during the night and the sun began breaking through in southern regions early this morning. Temperatures will be lower throughout the province today and Thursday, but a storm centred in northern Alberta this morning is expected to bring moderating temperatures and a return of unsettled weather by Friday.

HELSINKI (AP) — The Finnish Seamen's Union today said the crew of the tanker Aruba will strike rather than sail the ship and its cargo of jet fuel to Communist China.

Shipping circles here suggested that the owners, the Re-Se Shipping Co., might divert the Aruba to Indonesia for reloading of the 13,000-ton cargo on to other Chinadestined ships.

A spokesman for the company said no action would be taken yet to divert the ship because no strike warning had been received from the crew.

The Aruba picked up its load of jet fuel from the Rumanian port of Constanza, on the Black sea. When it sailed for Red China early this month United States intelligence men launched a series of protests and the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa said they would intercept the tanker.

The British government said it was powerless to stop the Aruba because it was privately owned and chartered "to a foreign country"—reported to be China.

Shipping firms owned by the Chinese Reds.

The Aruba's case is similar to that of another Finnish tanker, the Wilma, which tried to take 10,000 tons of jet fuel to Shanghai two years ago. When the ship was forced to put into Singapore for fuel and water, British officials barred its departure. The U. S. finally got the ship's owners to sell the cargo.

Security officials in Singapore announced Tuesday that the Aruba also would not be refuelled there. The president of the Re-Se company, Gunnar Damstroem, countered that the Aruba would proceed into the safety and sail to Red China's Hainan island, off the south China mainland and far west of the Nationalist navy's usual patrol routes.

Retail Merchants Want Gimmicks Done Away With

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's retail merchants say consumer goods would cost less if Parliament outlawed lotteries; draws, give-aways and similar "gimmicks" used by some large retailers and manufacturers to promote sales.

The Retail Merchants Association of Canada and the national food division of that organization made the recommendation in a joint brief to the Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

The brief said the lottery-type promotional part is, in most instances, a substitute for price reductions.

The two organizations, representing 40,000 independent retailers, said the cost of give-aways is paid by customers, including those who do not participate in the contest.

DOUBTS CAN PASS LAW

Justice Minister Garson said he doubts that Parliament can pass a law to make it a criminal offence for merchants to give something away. Any law stipulating that a manufacturer could give only so many goods also would not help small merchants. The big fellow still would be able to give away goods produced in his own factories."

Resigns at Queen's

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Rev. S. M. Gilmour, 49, has resigned as principal of Queen's University college, Rev. Dr. George A. Brown, chairman of the board of management announced today.

A committee of the board has been appointed to find a successor.

Riot Students in Cyprus Grab 2 Accused from Police

PAPHOS, Cyprus (Reuters) — Demonstrating students today grabbed from police two of 13 men accused of promoting civil war in Cyprus when they were being taken to the courtroom here to face trial.

The students, shouting anti-British slogans, seized the men and hustled them away in the streets.

Police gave chase and the two men were recaptured about 10 minutes later.

The hundreds of demonstrating students then stoned police, threw mud at them and smashed courthouse windows.

The students were members of this strategic eastern Mediterranean island's predominantly Greek population which has been campaigning for union of the island with Greece and an end to British rule.

Police reinforcements from Nicosia, 100 miles away, had been called in to guard the courtroom for the trial of the six Greeks and seven Cypriots. They were arrested Jan. 25 after authorities seized a Greek motorboat, the St. George. The boat is alleged to have had explosives on board.

The charges, without precedent since the island was ceded to Britain 71 years ago, include conspiracy to use armed force or a show of force against the government, and advocating the overthrow of the colony's constitution by revolution or sabotage.

Dulles Says Small A-Bombs Cut Danger of H-Bomb War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chances are that any future war in which the United States becomes engaged will be an atomic war, since it is a big or little conflict.

Whether the use of small, special-purpose atomic weapons would lead to the expansion of operations on both sides and to the ultimate employment of hydrogen bombs able to wreck whole cities is still a wide-open question.

Atomic Secretary Dulles told his press conference Tuesday he thinks that as the effectiveness of precision atomic weapons increases it lessens the likelihood that weapons of mass destruction would have to be employed. He argued that saturation bombing of the Second World War resulted from inability of the belligerents to destroy military targets precisely.

President Eisenhower, however, told press conference last January that he felt it was not possible to draw a sharp line between tactical and strategic atomic weapons. Generally, tactical weapons are relatively small bombs for use against military targets; strategic weapons are the city-wipers.

The essence of what Dulles said Tuesday was that atomic weapons in the shape of artillery shells and small bombs for precision attack are becoming conventional equipment for American armed forces all over the world. He imagined that such atomic weapons would be used against military targets in any tactical military activity in which the U. S. became engaged anywhere in the world.

At the same time Dulles advanced his counter-theory that the development of the H-bomb decreases the likelihood that big ones would have to be used.

His presentation of these two ideas was designed to serve two purposes.

First, he was trying to get across to the Chinese Communists a warning that if they press an attack on the Quemoy and Matsu islands and the U. S. gets in the fight, it may very well use atomic weapons against military targets.

Second, Dulles was saying to the world, and particularly to Western Europe, that he thinks the use of small atomic weapons would not of itself lead to the use of hydrogen bombs. He felt it was important to bring out this point because of the deep fears of a hydrogen bomb conflict which exist among the allies and have a considerable influence over their policies.

Egypt Considers Gaza Self-Rule

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Egyptian council of ministers tonight will consider a draft constitution for the Egyptian part of the Palestine military-controlled Gaza coastal strip.

The Gaza region at present is under Egyptian military government, since it is inhabited by about 200,000 Palestine Arab refugees.

Will Margaret Marry Townsend? Papers Ask for Palace Statement

LONDON (AP)—A new demand was heard in Britain today that Buckingham Palace break its silence on reports of a royal romance involving Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

The Labor newspaper, Daily Herald insists "it is clearly desirable that there be some statement from the palace" and declares "this is not simply a private matter."

Nineteen years ago the British press held off publishing details of the romance of King Edward VIII with American divorcee Wallis Simpson, and some British newspapers have adopted much the same attitude in handling reports of new royal romance.

The Daily Mirror says "surely this is nonsense," and declares in a widely displayed editorial this morning:

"Critics declare that the popular press, always called the 'gutter press' by peppery, retired Tory gentlemen who read only The Times, have forfeited their right, no right to concern itself or its readers with such affairs of state. They are wrong.

"Affairs of state, such as those of royal princesses, are of vital public interest. The public wants to know, and is entitled to know, how love affairs are going.

"Britons saw in their morning newspapers yesterday a picture of smiling princess, taken when Margaret attended the dedication of a new church in Leeds, and how London Tuesday night.

"They saw smiling as cries came from crowds hanging over Windsor-gates . . . 'We love you, Margaret, we're with you.'

"The princess is carrying on with her share of the Royal Family's social and ceremonial obligations. She seems of late to be interested particularly in activities of churches.

Six Union Men Refused Entry To United States

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Six members of the Trail local of the Communist-led International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Can.) have been refused permission to enter the United States.

The men had been delegated to attend the union's 20th international convention now in session at Spokane, Wash.

Officials here said the delegates were informed on written instructions from the U.S. department of justice under provision of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

The U.S. authorities gave no reason for barring the men.

The union has sent a protest to Ottawa, asking the government to protect U.S. authorities.

Eisenhower Backs Dulles On A-Bomb Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he sees no reason why atomic weapons should not be used in any conflict where they can be protected against strictly military targets.

The significance of Dulles' statement and of the president's comment appeared to be that any future war, big or little, in which the United States engages will be an atomic war to some extent.

Labor MP's Oust Bevan From Ranks For Disloyalty

Bevanites See Close Votes As Slap at Attlee's Rule

LONDON (CP)—Labor members of Parliament kicked left-winger Aneurin Bevan out of their ranks today on charges of disloyalty. This isolates him as an independent in the House of Commons.

The 57-year-old Welsh orator, a former coal miner, was reported to have told a closed-door meeting of Labor members of Parliament that he would never ask for reinstatement.

Action was on a motion to "withdraw the whip" from Bevan, meaning to remove the party label. The vote was 141 to 112.

This disciplinary move was sponsored by the moderate supporters of former prime minister Clement Attlee, the party's 72-year-old official leader. He has been subject to repeated attacks from Bevan and his followers in the last three years.

REJECT REPRIMAND

Attlee's supporters rejected a last-minute attempt to get Bevan off with a reprimand. The vote on that was 138 to 134.

Today's decision creates the biggest Labor party crisis since prewar days. Bevan's followers predicted after today's meeting that the decision has crushed the party's hopes of defeating the Conservatives if the government calls a national election this year.

Left-wingers believe the narrow margin at the two votes might help Bevan save face in a split throughout the party. Some said the leadership received only "a hollow" victory, and interpreted the closeness of the voting as a slap at the 77-year-old Attlee.

SOME ABSTAINED

There were abstentions in the showdown. Of the more are 292 Labor members of the House of Commons, and socialist peers in the Lords were eligible to take part in the meeting.

Skidding Cars Crash Into Homes

BRANTFORD (CP)—Heavy rain and slippery roads Tuesday night sent unexpected callers into homes of two Ontario families.

A car skidded through the wall of a house here after colliding with another vehicle. Police said Albert Edmison, 36, and Miss Edna Norsworthy, 43, suffered minor injuries. Damage was set at $1,500.

In Hamilton, less than 20 miles away, a car driven by Robert McConville, 40, skidded on wet pavement and smashed into the front door of their home as Mr. and Mrs. John Egan were finishing supper. No one was injured.

St. Patrick Would Be Amazed At Exuberance of World on His Day

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

That doughty missionary, St. Patrick, would be amazed at the exuberance with which the world celebrates his feast day on March 17.

But for the Irish themselves and more than roughly 1,500,000 of Irish descent in Canada—the day is essentially a religious holiday, as now, the celebrations coming afterwards in memory of the great Irishman who devoted his life to Christianity in the fourth century.

Irish tenors and dancers who started marching the great cities of the world a century and a half ago are just modern trimmings on the world-wide observance of St. Patrick's Day. Times have changed since the old days when the Irish priest roamed Muilcahey confiscated the two dates to March 17.

But it's many years since anyone quibbled over the details. March 17 is fun and fellowship in the world over are celebrating.

itself include a radio broadcast from Down Cathedral at Saul in County Down, which stands on the site where St. Patrick preached his first sermon after returning to Ireland from his days of slavery. Patrick are the ruins of Saul Abbey, said to have been founded by the saint himself.

Many evidences remain in Ireland of St. Patrick's zeal as a missionary. He won converts by the thousands and established more than 300 churches, schools and monasteries. Many of the round hills he have grown with the years.

Almost everything about St. Patrick is a matter for argument among scholars, including the year of his burial. But there is some evidence that he was buried at Down Cathedral. He also is believed to be the last resting place of St. Brigid and St. Columba.

The date of his death has been placed variously over the centuries since 461 AD. Some put it at March 8, others at March 17. The legend is that the Irish priest named Muilcahey confiscated the two dates to March 17.

But it's many years since anyone quibbled over the details. March 17 is fun and fellowship in the world over are celebrating.

Family Needs H-Bomb to Stay 'Aristocratic'

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Edgar Faure today announced that France will make the hydrogen bomb, either alone or in conjunction with other European nations.

Faure told a press conference: "It seems clear that soon there will be two classes of nations, those with nuclear weapons and those without.

"Those without are in danger of being driven into a lower rank of the powers than those 'aristocratic' nations that have the weapons. My government therefore proposes to consider the position from the French point of view in the near future.

Police Blotter

What to do when you find a strange man in your car, fast asleep?

The logical thing to do was what a College Street resident did Tuesday night. He called the police. Result was the sleeping man was booked on a drunk charge.

In fact drunks were responsible for most of the police activity during the night with two men and one woman charged for being drunk and so freely.

Provincial police reported the theft of a car at the RCAF station. The car was taken some time between 7.30 and 11 o'clock, but the owner found it was missing.

EARLY STROLLER

LONDON (CP)—Robert McNeil, walking on a city garbage truck, noticed two - year - old Raymond Birmingham trudging after the truck Tuesday. Police found the parents in bed, asleep. They thought young Raymond was also still in bed.

Judges Named For Local Art Exhibit

The Belleville Recreation committee has secured the services of Mr. Allan Cameron of Canning Place, and W/O J. A. McCaffrey, Trenton, RCAF Station, who will act as judges in the Belleville local Art Exhibit. Some fifty pictures will be on exhibit Friday evening at King George School Art and Craft rooms, that have been entered by the local artists, four artists of the City of Belleville and surrounding district.

The five best paintings chosen will be entered in the Travelling Art Exhibit which will open in Belleville in mid-April. Besides Belleville-Napanee, Kingston, Picton, Trenton, Warkworth, Campbellford, Hastings, Madoc, Bancroft, Haliburton, Lindsay, Peterborough, Cobalt, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne and Brighton, will be entering paintings in the Travelling exhibit.

Mr. Cameron and W/O McCaffrey are two artists well qualified to judge this local exhibit and to pick the best paintings to be entered in the larger exhibit. Mr. Cameron, who was born and raised in Owen Sound, Ontario, is a past Brighton, will be entering with the well known artist George Thompson. He has studied in the Toronto Art College and also in the Regent Street Polytechnic School, London, England, for nearly three years. He has exhibited in the Royal Canadian Academy, and has taught children and adult classes in Belleville as well as conducting a class at night school in the Belleville Collegiate. Mr. Cameron who does landscapes, is especially known for his portrait paintings. Mr. McCaffrey, who is now stationed in Trenton (RCAF) has attended the Nova Scotia College of Art and studied privately under Stanley Royal, who has been an exhibitor of the Royal Academy since 1920. Sheriff Scott was another teacher to Mr. McCaffrey, as well as numerous other artists of considerable note, before being reviewed in Paris. Mr. McCaffrey had paintings exhibited in Montreal.

Mr. Cameron and Mr. McCaffrey will judge the pictures on Thursday night, and the exhibit will be open to the public at King George school, Friday at 8.00 p.m.

Rotary Clubs Have Awarded 700 Fellowships

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on Rotary International activities written for Harold F. Mott, a past president of the Belleville Rotary Club. Rotary International is celebrating the 50th anniversary of its founding this year.)

By H. F. MOTT

Personal acquaintance has a special function in the training of tomorrow's leaders in all countries.

To illustrate: A young man is about to graduate from a university in India. His home town, financially club has sponsored him as a successful candidate for a Rotary Foundation Fellowship. The Rotarians' estimate of his character, ability and interest in the advancement of international understanding supports his desire to pursue his studies abroad. A career of great promise lies ahead of him. He has contributed substantially to his own country and to the world.

Since 1947, Rotary clubs in 57 countries have seen Rotary Foundation Fellowships awarded in more than 700 young men and women of their choosing. Equally distributed over the earth are these universities where they have studied. Here, in Canada, young men may be bound for medical training in Vienna, or his destination may be Oxford, Harvard, Yale, or the technical interests may take him to Tokyo.

CHANCE FOR SERVICE

Such is the uniquely international quality of the Rotary Foundation Fellowships. And no less unique is the part that personal acquaintance plays in developing the Fellowships as an opportunity for service.

Experience of Rotary Fellows is by no means limited to advancement in his own country other than their own." That is merely the focus of the project. Opportunities for personal contacts through the Rotarian circle in countries where they are studying, ...

"From the moment I made my first visit to the Rotary Club of Stockholm, I felt completely at home," wrote one of the Fellows. "The welcome I received wherever I went left no doubting that will stay with me the rest of my life."

Besides the warmth of welcome, considerable practical advantages flow from personal contact with leaders in business and the professions. The Rotary Fellow is able to gain a deeper knowledge of life in the country he is visiting than most travelers. He experiences the intimacy of family living. He is shown the background of the problems that confront that country and the achievements that are its pride. Above all, he learns to know the people of another nation as "personal friends"; he experiences that will indeed stay with him the rest of his life.

CAPTURED BY SPIRIT

Meanwhile, the apparatus of Rotary is training him to overcome the difficulties of communication between nations. He is invited to explain his own country's ways and purposes before Rotary clubs and other groups. On his return, the process of explanation is reversed as he tells of his experiences to thousands of his countrymen at Rotary gatherings, public meetings and over the radio. His interpretations are respected because of the firsthand contacts on which they are based.

Most important, something has happened to his own mind which enables him to resist misrepresentations and prejudice. If his contacts with Rotary have achieved their purpose, he has been captured by the international spirit; an enthusiasm not just for friendly relations with the country he visited but for the friendship between the persons who make up all nations. If this spirit can be developed in the leaders of tomorrow's world, the perennial search for peace by military fosters will have achieved the greatest service.

Prime Minister Received Fee Of $12,125

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent received a fee of $12,125 as legal adviser to the pre-war Howe-Gladstone commission which investigated federal-provincial fiscal relations.

This was reported in a return tabled Tuesday in the Commons. It also said that the late James McGregor Stewart of Halifax received an $18,500 fee.

Guy Roberge of Quebec City and Peter McMillan of Toronto received fees of $8,404 and $10,855, respectively, as counsel for the railway commission in arbitration, letters and sciences headed by Vincent Massey, now governor-general.

Kiwanis Club Views Film

"Pipeline for Progress", film story of the Niagara - Toronto natural gas pipeline, yesterday highlighted the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club here.

The film was presented by Bechtel-Mannix-Hester, combined contractors for the Trans - Canada pipeline and was introduced by their representative, Jock Farquharson.

The Niagara - Toronto line laid last summer, was the first section of the trans-Canada pipeline to be constructed.

Mr. Farquharson was introduced to the club by Ralph Graham and thanked by Harold Bateman.

George Predicts Yalta Documents May Be Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Walter George (Dem., Ga.) predicts that State Secretary Dulles may change his mind and make public the controversial Yalta conference documents.

George, who heads the Senate foreign relations committee, said in an interview that he thinks the record of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference of 19 years ago "should be made public and the state department should do it."

Dulles was also reported to have told some senators that he is reconsidering his decision not to release the documents, and will "pursue the matter further."

The implication appears that he will ask Foreign Secretary Eden if the British government still objects.

The British foreign office said Saturday an American request to make the Yalta papers public was rejected on the grounds that it is undesirable for detailed records of important international discussions to be published so short a time after their occurrence, and in particular during the lifetime of many of the participants. . . .

Senators who have talked to Dulles have quoted him as saying he does not believe there is "anything new or startling" in the documents.

Two Men Injured In Car Crash Near Roslin

Two Tweed district men, Francis R. "Barney" Whalen, 38, and Melvin Rivers, 28, were seriously injured this morning when their car went out of control on Highway 37 south of Roslin, rolled over and over through the ditch and came to rest in a farmer's field.

At Belleville General Hospital where the two men were taken by Bush's Ambulance examination showed that Rivers had suffered a fractured pelvis, while Whalen suffered lacerations to the face and leg and also complained of neck injury. Dr. Jack Empson of Roslin, who attended the two men said their condition was serious but not critical.

A slippery pavement was given as the cause of the mishap. The two men with Whalen at the wheel were southbound when just south of the old Roslin cheese factory the car struck a patch of ice on a curve and went out of control, then overturned, thrown from the rolling vehicle and were found some distance from the wrecked car.

Provincial Constable H. MacKenzie investigated the accident.

Reckless Abuse Of Union Power May Be Checked

MONTREAL (CP) — The industrial relations director of the Steel Company of Canada predicted Tuesday legislation will be enacted to curb unions if they persist in what he termed a reckless abuse of power.

Harold J. Clawson of Hamilton, addressing the Rotary club, said an atmosphere of friendly public opinion and legislation under which unions have prospered could "very quickly change."

Mr. Clawson, who represents management when negotiating labor contracts in his company's plants in Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton said he was not criticizing unions, as such, but rather some of their policies and activities.

He said that while unions once called strikes to remedy grave injustices or flagrant exploitation, they now are called on the "slightest of pretexts."

Pat Ward Repeats Call Girl Story In Jelke Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—Pat Ward was called back to the witness stand today in the Mickey Jelke vice trial to make another stab at telling about her life as a café society call girl.

The slim brunette went uncontrollably emotional Tuesday about her life with Jelke and the men who bought her favors for high fees.

Now 21, Miss Ward repeated testimony which the public and press were not allowed to hear in Jelke's first trial in 1953.

COUNT SET ASIDE

He was convicted at that time on two counts of compulsory prostitution, but the verdict was later set aside because the courtroom had been closed while the prosecution presented its case.

Miss Ward told of meeting Jelke in 1951 and of going to live with him in his east side apartment. She said that after a short time he told her he needed money and she could help him by taking fees from men she would meet through him.

WORK SUGGESTED

Miss Ward testified that Jelke had told her he would eventually be married but could use money that other men would give her in the meantime.

She said she suggested they both could get jobs and be married, but he said he wouldn't allow his wife to live in an unbecoming style."

There was little significance to the names of men whom Miss Ward said gave her money.

The only well-known men whose names have been linked with Miss Ward in the trial so far are actors Mickey Rooney and John Carradine. Both were mentioned as prejelke friends of the girl in defence counsel's opening statement, and both have said she was never anything more than a casual acquaintance.

Federal Voting Age Remains At 21 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons by a vote of 177 to 34 Tuesday rejected a CCF-proposed bill that the federal voting age be reduced to 18 years from 21.

The vote cut across party lines with the Liberals, including Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, leading 19 CCF members in supporting the measure.

The Progressive Conservatives, Social Credit members and the two independents in the house—Paul Cagnon, Chicoutimi, and Raoul Poulin, Beauce—joined the Liberals in opposing it.

Alleged Combine In Wire Fencing To Be Prosecuted

OTTAWA (CP)—Companies involved in an alleged combine in the manufacture of wire fencing will be prosecuted, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A return tabled in the Commons for Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) by Justice Minister Garson said counsel for the restrictive trade practices commission have been instructed to prosecute and now are preparing their case.

The commission issued a report late last year in which it charged that a number of steel companies had agreed to set the price of wire fencing by prearrangement. The companies included the Steel Co. of Canada, Consolidated Steel and Coal Corp., Canadian Steel Corp., Canadian Tube and Steel, Frost Steel and Wire Co. Ltd., and Lundy Fence Co. Ltd.

The return also said commission counsel still are considering whether there should be a prosecution into an alleged combine in the distribution and sale of coal in the Timmins-Schumacher area of Ontario.

NEW LIGHT ON THE ORIENT

Life Magazine has commenced the publication of a series of articles on the great religions of the world.

It is perhaps unfortunate that the magazine did not commence this series with a treatise on Christianity. This being a religion of which the majority of its readers on this continent have at least some knowledge, opening the series with such a discourse might have served to emphasize the obvious limitations imposed on any person who would attempt to cover such a complex subject in articles brief enough to earn wide readership. A recognition of these limitations might, in turn, have proven useful to readers when perusing articles about other religions, regarding which they know little or nothing. However, "Life" may well have hesitated to follow such a course because of a conviction, almost certainly well founded, that the article on Christianity would be followed by a vast flood of correspondence, much of it taking the form of protests from this or that sect which regarded its version of Christianity to be distorted or ignored.

One of the earliest articles in this series deals with Buddhism. From reading the observations already made with respect to the probability of controversy over the magazine's article on Christianity when it does appear, it is almost certain that few Buddhists would consider the article on their religion to comprise the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

In all religions there is, alas, frequently a wide and deplorable difference between doctrines preached and conduct followed. Buddhism is the religion of much of the teeming population of the Orient—but that does not mean that the vast majority of these people have in their daily lives always followed its high ideals.

Still, where ideals are preached idealism is seldom dead. No religion which wins and holds millions of converts is entirely bad.

Thus the words of Gautama Buddha must have been listened to with attention by thousands during the 25 centuries that have elapsed since his life on earth came to an end. Buddhism probably say since that one of his lives during which he attained enlightenment.

Those of us who have regarded the Orient as the home of mysticism, of superstition and of blind adherence to tradition will, therefore, find surprising and illuminating these words of Buddha quoted in "Life":—

"Superstitious monks, meditate not, because you have been told it—or because it is traditional, or because you yourselves have imagined it. Do not believe what your teacher tells you merely out of respect for the teacher. But whatsoever, after due examination and analysis, you find to be conducive to the good, the benefit, the welfare of all beings—that doctrine believe and cling to, and take it as your guide."

Here, out of the distant past, are words which might have been uttered by a man of the Occident only a few decades ago, as he sought to free the western mind from the shackles of the past and prepare it for the age of modern scientific thought.

PIPE THIS!

Of all forms of acquiring lung cancer by the use of tobacco probably least offensive to others is pipe smoking.

Pipe smoking is a serene occupation. Indians surrounded their pipes with ritual and ceremony. Smoking the peace pipe was the last act of treaty making and was esteemed, not so much for the inertia it produced as for its solemnity.

Modern pipe smokers are less contemplative than Buddhist monks but in the madding throngs of modern life they are oases of calm. The personal serenity of pipe smokers is infectious. Small children, watching their pipe smoker, come to a faltering stop. They gaze transfixed at the methodical packing of the bowl, the exploration of pockets for matches, the staccato puffing of lighting tobacco and finally the curly-blue haloes of smoke above the half-shut eyes and unfurrowed brow of the man whose pipe is well lit.

A contented pipe smoker, once the pipe is drawing properly, is a man to be seen and unlikely to be heard for the next half hour. This silence alone is not only one of life's greatest blessings but it is a clue to the inner strength of pipe smokers. It takes a degree of self-discipline, firm conviction and unwavering optimism to sit quietly, almost without movement, and visibly unconcerned about the whole world crisis and with his business and devote himself to the inhalation and enjoyment of a few strands of pipe tobacco.

The evident satisfaction of pipe smoking spreads subtly into the pipe smoker's environment. Human frenzy subsides in his presence. Domestic turmoil ebbs from the shoreline of his contentment. Even non-smokers known to alarm easily in the vicinity of cigarets and to become positively panic-stricken in the neighborhood of a cigar, mellow perceptibly in the hazy atmosphere of a pipe smoker.

Wives championing their husbands' abstinence from cigarets have been known to linger over the laundering of tweeds, gabardines and certain worsteds permeated with pipe smoke.

Pipe smoking should be compulsory for diplomats.

— TASK DODGER

Any trusting wife will tell you when the questioning begins,
Playing bridge is the excuse that her husband seldom wins.

When she asks about his future
he finds it the play,
Without any hesitation, "it broke even," he will say.

If his hobby is the race track and with horses keeps in touch,
The favorites always fail him;
but he never loses much.

"Did you call the day a winner?"
she may ask, and he'll reply:

"No. I lost the sixth and seventh, but I'm just two dollars
shy."

This may seem like underentertainment after any friendly game,

But to seven wives, seven husbands will give answers
all the same.

"I broke even," they will tell them, with the broadest of their grins,

Or: "I lost about a dollar," but nobody ever wins.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 18th, 1918

Married 72 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Addison Mabee observed quietly at their home in Bloomfield yesterday the 72nd. anniversary of their wedding. He has reached the age of 92 years and she is 90 years of age. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Mabee was Miss Jane Huyck of South Marysbury township. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home by a Wesleyan Methodist circuit rider, Rev. Mr. Miller, who rode on his horse over badly rutted roads for a considerable distance to perform the ceremony. Their son, Mr. Stanley Mabee, their only child, is home from Hillsgreen, Ont., for the happy anniversary. A message of congratulation and good wishes was received from King George and Queen Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. McNab spent the week-end in Toronto.

Miss J. Hay has returned to her home here after spending a few days in Kingston.

30 YEARS AGO

March 16th, 1925

At a meeting of the civic committee the suggestion made by the Chamber of Commerce that a footbridge be built between the C. P. R. and C.N.R. bridges over the river at the foot of Front Street, was considered. City engineer C. D. Campbell reported to the meeting that such a bridge would cost in the neighborhood of $1200. and in his opinion there is not sufficient demand for the bridge to warrant the expense. The engineer's report was adopted.

A citizen was fined $5. in police court this morning for failing to take out a building permit from the city engineer's office.

Mr. Clarke Diamond is home from the College of Pharmacy, Toronto, to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Davey Diamond, Foster Avenue.

Mrs. G. S. Way of Tweed is visiting friends here.

40 YEARS AGO

March 14th, 1915

The members of the 39th. Battalion who have enlisted here for active service overseas had a march out this morning.

The annual meeting of the Ancient Order of United Workmen will open in Toronto tomorrow. Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C. of this city, the Grand Master Workman, will preside.

Mr. D. M. Farrell of the local post office staff is attending the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East in Ottawa.

Mr. Eli Woodcock of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is renewing acquaintances in town.

When some Belleville streets were lighted by coal oil lamps. The following item is taken from our file copy at this time in 1895: Tenders are being called for the lighting of the street oil lamps on the streets of Belleville for a term of one year at a stated sum per lamp. Persons tendering are to undertake to furnish the oil, chimneys and wicks required. State in what part of the city they reside and the section of the city they wish to cover. Tenders are to be addressed to Ald. A. Robinson, chairman of water and gas committee.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: Eggs are selling at 12 cents to 15 cents per dozen and butter is selling at 17 cents to 20 cents per pound.

50 YEARS AGO

March 16th, 1905

Miss Ella Mills and Miss Jennie Mills have returned here to reside.

Mr. Fred Woods, wife and daughter of Bemidji, Minn., Minn., are visiting Mrs. Woods' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moon, Murney Street.

Mr. James Cummiss has erected a flag staff over his premises on Front Street.

The dates for holding the Old Boys' Reunion during the coming summer have been set as July 24th. and 25th.

Mr. Lundy Carter, son of Mr. Henry Carre, C. E., of this city, has left for Fort William, Ontario, where he will join a party of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway surveyors.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The State of Maine asserts, in one of its tourist booklets, that the total production of Maine toothpick factories is about 170,000,000 per year. Of course, the reason that the State of Maine is not the only state in the union, not to mention Quebec, New Brunswick and Ontario, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, in which the white birch will flourish, et. And, says Maine, one cord of sound white birch will yield 9,000,000 toothpicks. If Maine can turn out 170,000,000 toothpicks every living day and be safe in assuming that the daily world production of toothpicks must be in astronomical figures, away beyond human comprehension.

There, it isn't where toothpicks come from but where they go to that should seize our attention. How long is it since you saw anybody with a toothpick sticking jauntily out of his or her mouth? In my case, it must be years. True, beside the cash register at quick lunch counters I have, even in this day and age, seen little glass jars full of toothpicks for the comfort and convenience of the customers. But I have never seen anybody helping themselves. The fashion seems to have died out. Years ago, toothpicks were so fashionable and de rigueur that you would not feel you were properly clothed, when you walked out of a restaurant, unless you had a toothpick in your lips. On the dining cars, the steward always put a few quill toothpicks, neatly enveloped in paper, on the check with your change, when you paid your bill.

The last time I was on the Rome Express, that most fashionable train, I was delighted to note the way all the diners in the dining car, contessas and marchesas, dukes and what not, in the resthaut mode, the minute dinner was over, all bent behind their serviettes to dig and twiddle with their toothpicks. But that was back before the war.

I guess the 170,000,000 a day Maine toothpicks and all the other billions of the daily world production go to fastening canapes and hors d'oeuvres, sticking bacon around weiners, and spearing olives and Martinis.

Back to Work

(Reader's Digest)

A manufacturing plant in the Panama Canal Zone employed 20 local women. After a few months they all quit their jobs. Offers of shorter hours and more pay failed to entice them back—they had earned enough money to satisfy their needs.

The problem was solved when the manager, hired a mail-order house to send each woman a calendar showing its products. All 20 women returned to their jobs.

Gentleman Hatchet Man

(By Dock Barnett, writing from Hong Kong, in the Chicago Daily News)

Chou En-Lai, premier and foreign minister of Red China, is one of the world's most experienced and shrewd diplomats.

He is a charmer — suave, urbane, sophisticated.

But he is also a ruthless and dedicated Communist, a master political negotiator, and an unyielding foe of the U.S. and western influence in Asia.

The voice of Chou En-Lai is now shrill, belligerent and threatening in his barbs aimed at Formosa and the United States. But at the conference table his voice can be as be butter-smooth, pellte and soothing.

Chou En-Lai (pronounced Joe En Lie) is a paradox in many respects. Although he is one of the half-dozen top leaders of world Communism, he personifies the unusual picture of a stolid, granite-faced Communist boss.

Chou looks like an aristocrat, and his handsome face, disarming smile and impeccable manners have beguiled many of his foes, both Chinese and American, in the past.

The contradictions in Chou En-Lai's personality have led many people to misjudge and misread him. One American correspondent who knew Chou years ago has dubbed Chou "the gentleman hatchet man". Another had called him the "stolid, unbothered."

It is clear that Chou En-Lai is an extraordinary man and equally clear that he is a tough revolutionary with a disarming smile he is capable of using to fool those whom Americans should know something about.

* * *

Chou came from an upper class Chinese family, attended an excellent western-oriented Chinese university, and studied abroad in Europe, as well as in the U.S.S.R. His background is "bourgeois."

Chou En-Lai joined the Kuomintang in 1998, of a long gentry family. Chou spent his early years in Kuomintang circles in Canton. This was born into a tradition of official government service.

He received a first-rate university education which began at Waseda in Japan and was completed at Nankai university in North China.

It was in Nankai that Chou embarked upon his career as a revolutionary, leading a radical discussion group and later a student society (in which he met a girl who is now his wife and one of the women members of the Chinese Communist party central committee) and demonstrating against the government.

Returning to China in 1924, he immediately assumed a leading role in the Kuomintang-Communist revolutionary movement. Since then, he has always remained close to the top among the party's bosses, exhibiting a remarkable ability to survive purges and switches in party line.

It is ironic that one of Chou's first major jobs was as deputy to Chiang Kai-shek, whom Chou is now determined to destroy. He was during the period of Russian-Chinese Nationalist-Chinese Communist unity, political director of the revolutionary Whampoa military academy was headed by Chiang and Chou was chief of its political department.

The intertwining of the careers of these two men did not stop then.

In 1927 Chou En-lai organized the worker uprising in Shanghai, one of the first Communist-led uprisings in Chinese Communist history. But Chiang Kai-shek soon suppressed the workers, and Chou, who was arrested and sentenced to death, barely escaped with his life.

Nine years later, when Chiang Kai-shek was kidnapped by one of his own generals, it was Chou En-Lai who intervened and arranged for his release on condition that the Nationalists form a united front against Japan.

Today these two men are implacable enemies dedicated to mutual destruction.

After the 1927 split between the Nationalists and Communists, Chou En-lai went underground. During the ensuing period he spent several years in Moscow, studying and representing the Chinese Communists in the Comintern.

By 1931 he was back in China again and joined Mao Tse-tung's fledgling Soviet in Kiangsi province. He held a succession of top military and administrative posts, and he helped to plan and carry the Reds historic long march to northwest China.

It was no surprise, therefore, that Chou En-lai was made premier and foreign minister when the Reds set up a government in Peiping in 1949. He still holds both of these posts today.

* * *

Several important facts emerge from Chou En-lai's long career. The west would do well to remember them as Chou En-lai maneuvers on the international stage.

First, Chou has a very strong position within the Chinese Communist party. He is the party authority for the regime on foreign affairs and is not simply a mouthpiece for party beliefs or Mao Tse-tung.

En-lai and Liu Shao-chi are obviously the two leading contenders for the post of chairman of the party, a position Mao has relinquished to Mao Tse-tung.

Which one will win the succession to Mao Tse-tung is open to question and speculation to the contrary. Chou is among those Chinese Communist leaders who do not see eye to eye with the Soviet union.

* * *

With a combination of hard bargaining and soft words Chou has defeated many a shrewd negotiator at the conference table. Others he has beaten with a combination of soft words and hard words. He is not easily outsmarted or bluffed. He has rarely permitted his pride to yield or compromise on his and the Chinese Communist party's aims.

Chou En-lai, whether soft-spoken and smooth, or harsh and tough in his negotiations, is probably one of the most capable and dangerous enemies of the west.

What does Chou hope to achieve?

Stated bold," he states, "that interference in the internal affairs of Asian nations should be stopped. All foreign military bases in Asia be withdrawn, remilitarization of Japan be prevented and all economic blockades and restrictions be abolished."

New Style Flophouse

(Hamilton Spectator)

Something new in "flophouses" has made its appearance in Sheffield, England, and has received a public welcome. Called the hobos for whose use it is there.

A few of the professional knights of the road may still prefer overcrowded, uncomfortable about staying at this new hostel where the rooms are private, lighted by pastel shades, have gally-colored bedspreads, and the inmates have hot and cold water. Furthermore, there are first and second class sections, "for those who have seen better days" and "travelling unworkers".

This hostel is run by the Salvation Army and the old order of hospiles — no man is turned away, but the inmates pay for his lodging he must help with the work.

There will, of course, be critics who will sneer at providing these conditions for hoboes. But we are not among such critics; we do not see why a hobo should not live in civilized surroundings, he is a human being.

PROBLEMS CAN BE MANUFACTURED

One of the most uncomfortable experiences in life is being impaled upon the horns of a dilemma. There is no escape. Life is one which we definitely "either-or." The decision to steal or not to steal is definitely either-or.

But most decisions do not, thank God, approach the horns of a dilemma. And even though they may appear to do so, the conflict is usually found to be not different as they first appear to be. Some of the most unhappy and tragic things have occurred because distinguished thinkers allow themselves to be caught on the horns of a dilemma. They concluded that a certain problem demanded an either-or decision, and they accepted one position unreasonably and with scoffing repudiated the other.

Again it needs to be said that either-or is real in life particularly as regards moral problems, but where policy is involved, either-or does not occur as frequently as we usually suppose. Sometimes we add, "When you find yourself confronting the horns of a dilemma, blow both horns," which is a facetious way of saying that we sometimes create problems and things not intended to be problems at all.

There are plenty of real problems in life—don't let us manufacture any.

FIVE THOUSAND AND ONE CASES OF SYPHILIS

I began practice shortly before the close of the era of antiseptic surgery. It was my intention to hang out a neat sign, such as the big shots in the city used, announcing simply that I was a doctor, M. D., could be consulted here. The sign painter didn't like it. "You're a doctor aren't you?" he asked. "But why Mr. Brady?" But I was firm. Didn't the man know what M. D. meant? I called his attention to my diploma and my state license, documents certifying that I was qualified to practise as physician and surgeon. He seemed reasumed. "Oh, I see, well, that's all right then—you go on to the baligant and we'll have the sign finished when you get back." So that's how I scared 'em, young man, confined in a hospital for the insane, suffering from delusions. Without any further medical information I assumed that the young man, paralysis being treated, developed syphilis of the brain, which caused him to die. Now I wonder what the outcome would have been if the Wassermann test had been available then — whether a positive test would have convinced the young man. Without and some peculiar ideas of the wonderful remedial virtues of the young man, paralysis treated, developed syphilis of the brain, which caused him to die. Now I wonder what the outcome would have been if the Wassermann test had been available then — whether a positive test would have convinced the young man. Without and some peculiar ideas of the wonderful remedial virtues of the young man, paralysis treated by Bernarr Macfadden, of the wisdom of continuing treatment.

Dr. Brady

That is one case. We told about the other five thousand cases the other day, remember?

New Incentive To Clean Desk

(Windsor Star)

When ex-Premier Harold Connolly of Nova Scotia was cleaning out his desk, what should turn up but a collection of "Hansard" reports. As Howe was a stepfather of Confederation, this gives an idea of the stuff that can accumulate in drawers.

Come spring cleaning time, we may look into some long unexplored corners for our own file. Line with Mr. Connolly's experience, there's no telling what will be found there.

An old Indian treaty, maybe. Perhaps the best title to some valuous land grant of colonial times. Possibly a letter of marque permitting the bearer to prey on shipping on the Great Lakes.

Cleaning day will be a big day. We can hardly wait to postpone it.

Words Change Their Meanings

(Our Magazine)

When Francis Bacon, three centuries ago, referred to various people in the course of his "Essays" as "indifferent", "obnoxious", and "officious", he was describing them as "impartial", "submissive" and "ready to serve".

When King James II observed that the new St. Paul's Cathedral was "amusing, awful", and "artful" he implied that Sir Christopher Wren's recent creation was pleasing, awe inspiring, and skillfully achieved.

Mr. Johnson, only 175 years ago, averred that Milton's Paradise Lost "abounds more and therefore disgusting", he intended to say that it was "effortless, poetic and, therefore not in good taste".

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FIRST THINGS

The first important thing in the building of any structure is its foundation. Its long life depends largely upon this. Its the same with individuals. The foundation is everything. The right principles, the simple virtues, and sound ideals. They are what make up the plan of a useful life. .

Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote this: "To be wealthy a rich naturegis the first requisite and happy. But the second is that it must be remembered that a rich nature is not something that can be purchased. It has to be earned and paid for in experience.

Many try to handle the first important things, but to their sorrow learn that they are non-essential and no progress or happiness is possible without them. Every game has its first rules. Master them and you are ready to perfect your game, whatever it may be. I watched some golf players tee off and drive their first hole. I was reminded of all that my instructor told me when I first took up the game. I have seen the best of them play, and the greatest have simply mastered the first things.

It is amazing to learn how many useful inventions have been made by simply observing nature. We owe to her more than anyone ever suspects. There is no secret about by faithfully observing principles, rules and methods. Life is, of anything, is complicated in nature. Simplicity is its first rule. Observe how the spider's web is made and how the bird builds. Listen to their instructions to weave such a thing of beauty. Many a flower has its trap for the unwary. So do many fishes in the sea. Nature was first in so many things that she has come to be said to be our greatest inventor.

Never should we become discouraged so long as we know that we are engaged in mastering the all important first rules or laws. Perfection, as near as we humans can get to it, is nothing more than persistence magnified!

Tiger Killed By Spider Bite

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A post-mortem at Sydney's Taronga Park Zoo showed that one of the zoo's valuable, fully grown tigers had been killed by a spider bite.

The chairman of the Taronga Park trust, Sir Edward Hallstrom, said that poison from the spider had been found in the tiger's lungs. The spider was the highly dangerous funnel-web type.

The spider probably clung to the tiger's paw, and when the tiger put the paw to its mouth the spider bit him," Sir Edward said.

The funnel-web spider is the most lethal creature for its size in the world. It seldom measures more than 1½ inches, but its venom sacs secrete a poison sufficiently potent to kill an adult.

Several deaths of adults and children have resulted from its bite. The funnel-web is found mainly in New South Wales and shows a strong preference for moist and shady places. It is distinguished by the funnel - shaped entrance it makes to the centre of its web.

Research workers have a theory that the potency of the poison varies according to the season. They are hoping to discover an effective antidote.

J. LYONE HEPPNER

District manager of Confederation Life Assurance Company was principal speaker at the Sales and Ad club at the Shrine club on Tuesday evening.

Salesmen Urged To Intensify Their Activity

J. A. Lyone Heppner, Montreal district manager of Confederation Life Association, last night called on salesmen to intensify their professional activity to balance the scales between large bank savings in Canada and high sales inventories.

"Savings are high and inventory is high. That should be the greatest indictment against professional salesmen," he said.

"The money is there; the desire is there. Yet we, as professional salesmen are not capable of getting it to move," he told members of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club here.

At the outset of his address Mr. Heppner observed that for some considerable time the sales professional has been subjected to one of the most concentrated campaigns on the importance of selling.

Such a campaign could stem from fear of a recession, cancellation of war orders or just a search for new markets. But it also could be the fear that salesmen today "are not just what they used to be."

He emphasized the need for a salesman to make himself a necessary asset to his customer so that the customer becomes "anxious" to see him again.

Handing out some pep advice to the meeting he said that one of the most important requisites of salesmanship was personal respect for himself, his job, his company and its products and his clients. Respecting the intelligence of a client creates reciprocation of that respect, he held.

A salesman should be acquainted with all the facts before presenting his case to a client. "Analyzing the facts and customers goes arm in arm with a high ratio of sales," he said.

Mr. Heppner was introduced by Bill Meagher and thanked by Bill Gault.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrews, Coleman, Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bourk, of Ottawa, are spending a week of holidays in Miami, Florida.

Mrs. Bruce Olmstead, Medina, N.Y., attended the funeral of Mrs. Fred Stevenson.

Mrs. Morley F. Ward, Moira Street, is a patient in Kingston General Hospital, following a major operation.

Youth for Christ Meets In Collegiate

The Youth for Christ rally was held on Saturday evening in the Collegiate auditorium with an excellent representation present.

A film "Dead Men on Parade" was shown depicting the growing struggle between Godless Communism and Christianity. It was the true story of Pastor Chai, a Christian martyr, graphically told by Bob Pierce, missionary ambassador, U.N. correspondent.

The song service was conducted by Mr. Carl Green, assisted by the Rev. Theodosia Shotsie, of Toronto, at the console of the organ and Mrs. Floyd Cumming at the piano.

Mr. Bill James, film director of Youth for Christ spoke briefly on the need of supporting an orphanage in Korea for a year, also making mention that the offering would go to World Vision to help the needy Chinese refugees.

At the close of the service, some 40 young people stood and consecrated their lives to God to be used in whatever capacity He chose.

EGGLETON W.M.S. - W.A.

...MADOC JUNCTION — The March meeting of the Eggleton W. M. S. and W. A. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Russell Stapley, of Stirling. Mrs. Stapley, who was a resident in this community for several years before moving to Stirling, had always taken an active part in the work of the W. M. S. here.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy, president of the W. M. S., presided over a program which had been prepared by Mrs. Bruce Stapley, and opened the meeting by reading a short poem.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Harry Clarke, reading part of the 6th chapter of Matthew, and giving the meditation on the, Lesson, Mrs. Clarence Fitchett led in prayer.

Offering was taken and Thankoffering envelopes for the April meeting were distributed.

The secretary, Mrs. Gordon Nelson, read the minutes and called the roll, showing 14 in attendance.

The Community Friendship secretary reported one visit made during the month.

Mrs. Harry Clarke offered to prepare the program for the April meeting.

The W. A. vice president, Mrs. Carl Bridges took charge of the business period.

Final plans discussed for sponsoring the play "Ginger Girl", by Seymour Y. P. U. in the Stirling Theatre, on Tuesday night, March 22nd.

Mrs. Bridges invited the members to her home in afternoon of March 30th to cut out patterns and sew articles to be sent in the Missionary bale.

Arrangements were discussed to attend Presbyterial meeting of the W. M. S. at Picton , March 24th.

A solo "I'll Reach Thee Jesus" was sung by Mrs. Maurice Clancy, with the pianist, Mrs. Bruce Stapley playing the accompaniment.

Mrs. Gordon Nelson gave a reading "Should we Abolish Silver Tea?"

The 3rd chapter from the study book on India was then presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. B. Stapley.

The president thanked Mrs. B. Stapley for the invitation to her home. The program convener and all, who had assisted in any way on the program.

The hostess then served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Douglas Maines are shown signing the register following their marriage in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Ottawa. The bride, the former Janet Frances Torpey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Torpey of Quebec City. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Maines, of Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. K. D. King George H-S Assoc. Enjoys Fine Program

King George H. and S. Association met Monday evening with Mrs. E. Kilfedder presiding.

A business session was held. Cups and saucers are being purchased for the kitchen. Money was voted for a delegate to go to Toronto for one day to attend H. and S. Associations convention during Easter holidays.

The meeting for April is cancelled.

There will be an educational program with the teachers in charge on May 9th. Mr. Cousins, principal, said it was important for parents to attend this meeting when he will make a full explanation of a new "unit" system which the Board of Education is starting in September.

He also asked to have the names of beginners in the neighborhood sent in, as registration will start after Easter holidays.

PROGRAM

The Association was pleased to have an unusual and interesting program put on by a group of new Canadians from Holland. It was a delightful presentation of songs, humor and folk dancing.

Bill ten Hoope capably acted as leader, and M. C.

Those taking part were: Mr. and Mrs. Jan ten Hoope; Mr. and Mrs. Kleft and son, Bernard; Mr. and Mr. Jan Kleft; Mrs. Vandeerlee; Mrs. Suykins and sons Keith and Robert as pianist; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bylsma and George Bockstruss.

The program opened with the entire group singing folk songs in Dutch.

"De Wil Zat in de Olmen," "Owl in a Tree"; "De Zilver Vloot," "Silver Fleet"; Een Scheepje in de Haven," "Ship in Port", and "Waar de Blanke Top der Duhnen."

MAGIC STUNT

This was followed by a magic stunt. A pantomime on the trials of young love on a park bench. The unexpected way they solved it was most amusing. A shadow play of an operation, with sound effects, in a doctor's office appeared somewhat unusual, but the patient found relief.

A folk dance called "The Farmers' Dance," was interesting and enjoyable. The choral group formed the background, while Mrs. Jan ten Hoope and nephew, Bill, dressed in Dutch costume and wooden shoes, performed the dance.

Mrs. Kilfedder thanked the group and asked them to give an encore of the folk dance.

Refreshments were served.

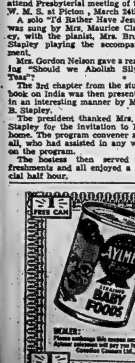
Mr. Fred Dier was again present and he had everyone enjoying themselves and getting acquainted by introducing various ways of greetings and changing partners, to the accompaniment of lively square dance records.

This was followed by square dance instruction and dancing which was wholeheartedly entered into by all, especially the new Canadian guests, who had never seen square dancing before.

Tabernacle E.A. Sponsors Pot Luck Supper

Following a delicious pot-luck supper at the home of Myrtle Lockyer, the members of Tabernacle E. A. attended the Lenten service at Tabernacle United church, with Rev. Keith Daniels, guest speaker.

They then returned to Mrs. Lockyer's home and Gladys Shane presided at a short business meeting.



Mrs. May of the Afternoon W.M.S. discussed sending a delegate to the School for Leaders at Whitby this summer.

Article play of the layette being made, were given out for members to make.

Mrs. Lockyer was heartily thanked for her hospitality.

Ontario School for The Deaf Displays Fine Art Exhibit

Vibratingly colorful, clear, crisp, and sparkling is the art exhibit displayed for the next two weeks by the Ontario School for the Deaf in the McCarthy Theatre.

It is comprised of finger paintings in shades of green, crimson, yellow, mauve, and in combinations of these colors, a rainbow of lovely hues used in whorls and scrolls, many of which were suggestive of underwater scenes.

In picture making, the students of the O. S. D. show their imagination, and keen sense of observation by their portrayal scenery of winter landscapes with evergreens. These included Peter Babbit viewing the wide expanse of winter; another depicted a lonely little child amid snow - covered hills with sleigh; and a log cabin deep in the heart of the autumn woods.

There were fine drawings of birds and animals; the white-headed eagle was shown in dessent with grasping talons after the unseen prey; a stump with active life comprised of little red squirrels, scampering around its base, while one sat in state on its top.

FINE POSTERS

Posters held a prominent place, and depicted the careful teaching in regards to fire hazards the students are receiving. These portrayed eye-catching designs on "Fire Costs Lives", showing a blazing home, and first aid being given one on a stretcher; "Check Fires in the Home" where firemen were playing hose on a burning home; "Fires Are Hard to Stop", showed a close-up of firemen with fire extinguisher, a most careful and detailed drawing; "Fires, Fires, Careless People", depicted a fire reel rushing to a fire, driven by a Boston bull dog, while another bull dog both in firemen's apparel were intent on the purpose in hand; "Fires Cost Lives" showed a blazing farm home with some furniture on the lawn and a group of firemen rushing forward with a line of hose; and "Protect Your Home from Fire" concluded an interesting display. This showed what the ravages of quainted by introducing various ways of greetings and changing partners, to the accompaniment of lively square dance records.

This was followed by square dance instruction and dancing which was wholeheartedly entered into by all, especially the new Canadian guests, who had never seen square dancing before.

fire could do in gutting the interior of a brick cottage, leaving but the skeleton standing, blackened and charred.

PASTE PATTERNS

There were a number of paste patterns showing cut-out paper birds, fishes, and children, and flowers. One of the birds was bringing the morning mail, a worm to hungry little mouths.

Various designs in oils were on view; these are made by certain oils placed on water, and the article to be painted dipped into the picture. The oils form irregular designs and mingle in most pleasing patterns. It requires great precison and timing in achieving a worthwhile effect. The India Ink drawings were clear cut definite, and most intricate in detail. One portrayed the wise old owl: another a knight on his charger, and others in modernistic and fanciful design.

FANCIFUL DRAWINGS

The fanciful drawings which lined the ramp were brink in color, and detail, featherlike in appearance, and flowing with life. All were delightfully done. Here, too, were more birds, showing a love of nature; the robin with its red breast; the lovely blue bird with big lawny-red breast, and blue wings; the sleek rat bird with his grey coat; the cardinal in all his flaming glory; the tawny owl, the great horned owl, and last, but not least, Sammy Jay, of Thornton Burgess fame.

In the alcove a showcase of leathercraft drew the attention. Here were coin purses in red leather and darker shades; key purses, comb cases, leather belts showing a succession of tiny rabbits; billfolds all nicely laced and on the adjoining mantel piece, note books in rainbow colors, showing to what advantage oil painting could be used. These had covers in greens and pinks; blues and yellows; greens and orange, and many combinations of color most pleasing to the eye.

In all, a fine exhibition of school art, splendidly executed, and nicely arranged. The teachers are to be complimented on this exceptionally nice display.

Presto Music Club Holds Musical Evening

The Presto Music club held its monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Miller on Monday.

A short business meeting was held with president, Mrs. Ina Miller, occupying the chair.

Following the meeting, a concert under the convenorship of Mrs. Myrtle Houston was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The numbers were as follows—banjo solo, Mrs. Wilma Houston, "Kashmiri Song" by Amy Woodforde-Finden; vocal solo, Mrs. Beverley Shaw, "Alcesta" by C. W. Gluck; violin duet, Mr. Herbert Brown and son, Herbert Junior, "Sonata No. 2" by Mazzy; vocal solo, Mrs. Dorothy Reilly, "Soft Were Your Hands Dear Love" by G. O'Hara and "A Little Bit of Heaven" by E. R. Ball; piano solo, Mr. Paul Timan, "Fantasie Stuecka" by Robert Schumann; vocal solo, Miss Helen Cook, "Kerry Dance" by J. L. Molloy, "Four Leaf Clover" by Ella Higginson; piano solo, Mr. William Connor, "Nocturne" by E. Grelg; vocal solo, by Mr. Ed. Brown, "Mighty Lak a Rose" by E. Nevin; "Ireland is Heaven to Me" by Fred Rose; piano solo, Mrs. Ina Miller, "Beethoven's Sonata No. 8— Allegro Movement."

Mrs. Ina Miller, Messrs. William Connor and Paul Timan were the accompanists for the evening. Hostesses were Mrs. Myrtle Houston and Miss Helen Cook.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, April 18th, at the home of Miss Helen Cook.

Bringing Up Baby

Note Collected by Mrs. Ann Cockell Mother of 10

A friend, who recently visited a foundling home, told me something which impressed me deeply. She said that apart from seeing to the infants' physical needs, all nurses were required to administer at least one or two hours of TLC to the babies each day. TLC is simply an abbreviation for "tender loving care"—or the cuddling, crooning and coaxing that gives a baby a sense of being wanted.

Babies say it unpopular with out-size grownups, but rapidly-growing babies need a good share of these energy-givers.

Middey Height. Soup for baby's lunch—delicious and nutritious—and easy to serve especially when you use Gerber's Strained Vegetable-Meat Dinners, by simply adding a small amount of milk or water. For these hearty dishes combine three important foods—vegetables, meats and cereal. All carefully blended for a delightful variety of savory flavors. 5 luncheon or 3 entire dinners, for tots with a few teens.

Spot this! Milk, meat and egg stains on baby's clothing are more easily removed if you use the arid-ized rinse in cold water before laundering in hot suds. Hot water, used first, will set the spot.

"Growing feels." Many a new mother asks: "Why meat for a tiny baby? Isn't it hard to digest?" First off, meat is the best-known source of the complete protein so vital to growth and the development of all body structures. Gerber's 6 Strained Meats for babies are rich in these important "growing tools." And easy digestibility is assured since they're specially processed to remove most of the fat and fiber. Made from young selected juicy cuts, they're all solid meat, with just enough natural meat broth to give a smooth, no-to-the-tongue texture. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Ltd., Niagara Falls, Canada.

GROOM TO BE ASKS ADVICE ABOUT FLOWER RESPONSIBILITY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm the groom-to-be, and I'm wondering about who is expected to provide the corsages for the bride's mother and the bridesmaids for the bride's father, and also the corsage and boutonniere for my parents. — Bob

All flowers are your responsibility, sir . . . a corsage for your bride's mother and one for your mother, and a boutonniere for your bride's father and one for your father.

INVITATIONS TO THE CHURCH CEREMONY ONLY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When there is to be a small wedding reception to which only the members of the immediate families are to be invited, would it be correct to send invitations to relatives and friends inviting them only to the church ceremony? — S.H.

Yes; this is entirely correct. And quite often done. Sometimes, when this is the case, the bride and groom, after the recessional, follow the friendly procedure of greeting relatives and friends in the vestibule of the church.

LAST NAMES, NOT AMOUNTS CONTRIBUTED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently in our church the minister thought it would be an excellent idea to have a group of women to take over the responsibility of sending flowers to church members, when they are ill, when there is a decease, and so forth. We would like to know; when these flowers are sent, should we list the names on the card, and should we indicate the amount each gave? — C.H.T.

List the individual names, but never definitely state or list the amount each contributed.

SHE WANTS NO "FANFARE" IN ANNOUNCING ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've just become engaged, and I want to announce the engagement without any fanfare. No engagement-announcement party — no printed (or engraved) engagement-announcements. By wedding is the best way be for my mother and father to send a formal engagement-announcement to the two local newspapers? Isn't that really all we have to do? — No Ja.

Certainly there need be no "fanfare" in announcing your engagement. An announcement party is never necessary. And sending printed (or engraved) engagement-announcement cards is definitely not in good taste. However, in excellent taste, of course, is for your parents to send to the society editors of the two local papers the formal announcement of your engagement.

But . . . are you listening, Flo Mc? . . . this formal public announcement is not by any means "all you have to do." Before this public announcement, you and your fiance should, individually, tell this happy news to relatives and intimate friends . . . verbally or by telephone to those who live nearby, and by friendly little notes to those who live at a distance. Keep this in mind: it's a chilling experience for a relative or intimate friend to learn the news of the engagement by reading about it first in the newspaper!

Beauty

CARE OF THE HAIR

There are certain rules applicable to hair health and beauty that should not be disregarded. Though the growth be luxuriant, this blessing should not be taken for granted. If neglected, hair can change in appearance, look sick.

All too often interest is centered on a chic hairdo, rather than on the quality and well-being of the hair.

There is small excuse for not brushing hair daily. It's a sure way to make it lustrous.

The often heard alibi against brushing, is that it weakens the wave set. This does not happen if the permanent is strong, as it should be, and if the wave pattern is always the same, week after week. Brushing often makes the waves more natural looking. But, even if this should not be the case, the well-being of hair is important. The fastidious woman has a shampoo every week or every two days; even the most casual wave set will survive for that brief period.

A brisk massage before the regular bedtime-brushing is also a good idea.

Spread out fingers and thumbs, and push the flesh. Do rotary motions front, sides, center and back.

If hair is inclined to by dry, breaks easily, and you find straggliers in your comb, have an occasional oil treatment. The night before a shampoo is the proper time for it. Part the hair at various places, trickle hot mineral oil along partings, then pinch and pummel for fair!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ARE THEY "SPLIT PERSONALITIES"?

An 18-year-old girl who is doing steady dating, is a bit worried over whether or not she and her boy friend have "split personalities."

Her reasons are these:

They have been going with a fellow 22 for almost two years. He is the sweetest, kindest and most considerate person I've ever met, but he has a friend who is completely the opposite. My boy friend is more or less settled, knows what he wants, and has his mind set on going ahead, while this other fellow is as shiftless and lazy as they come.

What has got me is that, any time we double-date with this fellow, my boy friend acts so different. He's more settled, starts to joins in, yet when we're alone he'd never think of telling any kind of a joke to me.

Tonight, though, I realized that I'm just the same; that is, completely different when I'm with my boy friend than I am when I am with other people. For instance, when I'm with my girl friends, I do and say crazy things that all the rest of them are doing, and later I wonder why, because it isn't really like me.

There's just one other thing I'd like advice about. That so-called friend has lied about him and talked about him to others, and he is positively no true friend. I've never told anything to my boy friend about this, because I figured that it was my place to do so, but now I'm wondering if I'm wrong or right."

Let me assure this girl that she can set her fears at rest, for it is a perfectly natural thing to act differently with different people, and everybody does it. That is, they feel they should try to be "one of the crowd," and it's a lively group they're with, they make an effort to be specially jovial, even though they may be quiet by nature. On the other hand, if they happen to be the lively type, they find themselves with a more quiet group, and along with that, too, it's all part of the human desire to be "different," and has nothing whatever to do with a "split personality." People simply think they are only doing their social duty to try and adapt themselves to others.

As for telling her young man that his friend is not loyal to him, I think she was right the first time in feeling that it was not her place to warn him. If anything comes up that would make it appropriate for her to express an opinion about the Green for Saint Pat.

By Mary Moore

The blessed old saint. It's fun just remembering to keep the memory of him green.

Although frankly if food does not grow green I'm not what you could call enthusiastic about it. Bread tinted green is going a bit far, and I'm pretty liberal with my food fancies.

But this recognition of St. Patrick's Day is mostly for our young people and I've a few ideas in mind you might like to carry out. One is for a snowy white coconut layer cake; the other is for a decked out glass of lemonade.

Have you made a coconut cake lately? If you hesitate about cracking, paring and grating a raw coconut you may use the moist canned variety — but you understand that it will not be the sensation a fresh coconut cake is.

COCOANUT LAYER CAKE (With Shamrock)

I am going to give you two different beters for this. Make your choice. One is for a 1-egg cake. The other is for a rich 6-egg white cake made in the new cream-lined method.

One-egg layer cake: Two cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 unbeaten egg ½ cup milk, teaspoon vanilla. Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder, salt and sift 3 times. Cream butter well and cream sugar into it gradually. Beat in egg for 1 minute. Add flour mixture alternately with the milk and vanilla, beating each time until smooth. Bake in 2 buttered 8-inch layer tins, lining bottom with round of waxed paper, at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes.

Six-white layer cake (rich): You must use very exact measurements for this and follow directions to the letter. Sift cake flour and measure 3 1/3 cups. Sift it with 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and 5 teaspoons baking powder. To it add 1 cup soft but not melted shortening, and 1 1/3 cups thin milk (half water) and 2 teaspoons flavoring. Now beat for 2 minutes or until smooth. (If electric beater is used have it set on low speed.) Now add 6 unbeaten egg whites (¾ cup exactly) and beat 2 minutes longer. Grease 2 9-inch layer tins and put round of wax paper in bottom, buttered. Pour in batter evenly — it may appear curdled but don't worry. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 35 minutes.

Put between layers and frost top with

Lemon Fluff Frosting: In top of double boiler mix together 1 6-oz. tin lemon juice concentrate, frozen, 1 cup sugar, 2 egg whites, dash of salt and 3 teaspoons light corn syrup. Mix and cook, beating continuously with rotary beater, until mixture forms peaks (over boiling water for about 9 minutes). Add 6 marshmallows cut in halves and beat until of spreading consistency. Spread between and on cooled cake. Sprinkle top and sides with pure white shredded raw or moist canned coconut. Decorate with green marshmallow cut in halves, then slit to look like shamrock leaves and put together like a shamrock.

GREEN ICE CUBES

To make these you may simply tint water with green vegetable coloring, pour into the ice cube tray and freeze it and use to chill and garnish lemonade when cubes freeze or color some of the lemonade mix below and freeze it into cubes and use to chill and decorate lemonade.

LEMON PUNCH

This amount serves 8 or 6. One 6-oz. tin frozen lemon juice concentrate, 1 cup cold water; 1 26-oz. bottle ginger ale, ice cubes. As suggested ice cubes may be green and may be made of this mixture. Mix all in large pitcher and serve at once, letting 1 or 2 green ice cubes go into each glass.

LABOR

Bevans reported retort that he would "never ask to have the whip back" seemed to dampen attempts to mend the split in the party despite the prospects of an election.

By tradition the whip is not returned unless the member concerned applies for reinstatement and even signs a declaration to abide by party rules.

The parliamentary party is a separate group—distinct from the Labor party itself.

UP TO EXECUTIVE NOW

Expulsion from the Labor party entirely can be imposed only by the national executive, the supreme disciplinary body. Attlee controls the 29-member executive normally, and only six members are classified as outright Bevan-ites.

Bevan still has a final appeal—to the Labor party conference as a whole.

The last occasion when the whip was withdrawn was last November when seven Labor members of parliament lost it because they refused to follow the party line in the House of Commons. All seven, on their own request, have been returned to the fold.

H-BOMB POLICY ROW

Bevan's heated opposition to the party line on hydrogen weapons caused the trouble.

Attlee and his shadow cabinet—15 leading party members who would become prominent ministers if the party returned to power—backed the Churchill government's policy of building and stockpiling H-bombs as a deterrent to Communist aggression.

"It's no good going to the Kremlin and thinking you can read them the Sermon on the Mount," Attlee said in a speech. "You have to talk to them straight."

But Bevan kicked over the traces with a call for a declaration that Britain would never use the H-bomb unless an enemy used one against Britain first. About one-fifth of the Labor members in the House, including ardent pacifists, supported him. The fight was joined with a declaration by moderate Sir Hartley Shawcross that Bevan's proposal was "suicidal, almost criminal."

SUFFERERS FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, WEAK KIDNEYS, LAZY LIVER, NERVOUSNESS AND GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION

EVERY PERSON who suffers can have a special introductory bottle of SYNTONA to try for ONLY 25 cents.

Simply read the offer below. Do this for your own interest.

This liquid herbal medicine known as SYNTONA, has helped so many people whom the writer of this page knew personally. Therefore, I want 2000 people, men and women 21 years, because we believe the people who are benefited will keep on using it. The offer ends next Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week only.

WHAT IT IS!

This is no salts or pill, nor is it a powder, laxative or tablet.

SYNTONA is an advanced medical compound of 12 of the finest herbs.

Simply take a teaspoonful after morning "Dr. Scott" and a bedtime snack and mixes with the food in one's stomach that it acts quickly to relieve stomach troubles. It acts within ten minutes to stop gas and sour stomach, nausea and loss of appetite. At the same time SYNTONA acts on the kidneys and relieves headaches, bladder irritations and weakness.

Now, whether SYNTONA will help you or not it has thousands of others. Whether it will end your suffering in a day or a week cannot be guessed. But in the light of what it has done for others, it is surely a sensible test to try it for 25 cents.

Take advantage of this special introductory offer in store Thursday, Friday and Saturday ONLY, so you can see if this advertisement has told us not as more. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

IT WILL improve your appetite and promote proper digestion of food for ENERGY and RESISTANCE.

It will make your liver tones active, thus relieving those of biliousness, constipation and upset.

Relieves those with rheumatic neuritic pains and backaches.

IT WILL clear up skin eruptions caused by the impurities in the system, will overcome the sallowness and pimples that come to those constipated.

SYNTONA will help build you up in general and make you feel like a DIFFERENT MAN or WOMAN. Obtainable from any druggist. Only 25 cents.

Coupon good ONLY at the store listed below. If deserved by mail send 25 cents, stamps or coin.

WHAT IT WILL DO!

SYNTONA will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe), and keep them into daily action.

It helps get rid of toxic and impurities (frequently from undigested food) which may have been the cause of one's poor tone, causing you many days or months with headaches, nervousness, sluggishness and sour, gassy stomach.

SYNTONA helps correct conditions, and help the digestive organs build into proper tone. Relieves indigestion, bloating, sour stomach, and nervousness.

Union Merger Seen as Threat To Liberties

VANCOUVER (CP) — Amalgamation of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations was described by a Vancouver industrialist as "a threat to our democratic liberties".

A. J. McDonell, president of the B. C. section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said the merger of the two powerful labor organizations meant business men would have to use "eternal vigilance."

He made the statement in an address before 200 delegates attending the 38th annual convention of the B. C. section.

Merger of the two labor bodies was agreed to at a meeting in San Francisco two months ago. The corresponding Canadian labor groups, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor, have agreed to the principle of a similar merger and now are drafting final plans to effect it.

DEPLORES PRESSURE

Mr. McDonell said the real objective of the labor organizations was to use pressure and influence on governments at all levels to implement their own theories and policies.

"The result will give a small segment of the population dictatorial power over the other 70 or 80 per cent of the people," he said.

He urged management to beat the unions to the punch "through an economic education of the public and your employees."

"Avoid the only means by which they can accomplish their aim, economic disturbances."

EMPEY HILL — The monthly meeting of the W.I. was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Khmerety.

Quite a number from here attended the Lay Association banquet held at Selby United Church on Thursday evening when Rev. W. K. Pace of Tweed, was the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker and Larry were Thursday tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Leavens, at Kingsford.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Akey entertained Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winter and Bert, and Mr. and Mrs. Morley Oliver, Allen and Grant to dinner on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Akey and Miss Mary Rendell were Thursday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Deine, of Napanee, and Mrs. N. Stapley of Belleville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stapley.

Misses Irene and Geraldine Mowers spent Wednesday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freeman spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. C. Marisette and Leonard.

Ashless Stoker Coal Industry's Answer to Oil

SYDNEY (CP) — Dominion Coal Company officials have proudly unveiled the coal industry's reply to oil, a revolutionary smokeless, ashless stoker furnace.

Harold C. M. Gordon, vice-president and general manager, said the company hopes that by promoting the furnace it can consolidate the present coal market and make gains from oil and other domestic fuels.

Competition has reduced domestic coal sales in the Maritimes by an estimated 500,000 tons annually.

Dosco claims the new furnace will make the coal shovel as out of date as the button hook, and that it will all but eliminate the removal of ashes.

The hot-air unit, about the size of a washing machine, sits beside the coal bin and feeds itself. Much ash is eliminated by efficient combustion, and that remaining sifts slowly out the side into a canister which the company claims can be emptied as seldom as once a month.

Management Consultant Firm Examines Works Department Griesinger Tells Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — Works Minister Griesinger told the Ontario legislature Tuesday night a management consultant firm was asked to look into his department to determine whether operations could be improved.

During consideration of estimates for his department, Mr. Griesinger said the firm of J. D. Woods and Gordon was asked to survey the department.

It was not an "investigation," he said. He expected the report by the end of the week.

Mr. Griesinger referred to some of the projects included in his department's $43,000,000 construction program, an increase of $14,000,000 over last year.

Construction includes a new science building at the Ontario Agricultural College and a new medical surgical building at the Ontario Veterinary College.

Provincial police district headquarters buildings will be constructed at Niagara Falls, Barrie, Port Arthur, Cochrane and in the Cornwall vicinity.

Mr. Griesinger said a new teachers college will be completed in Toronto by September and an immediate start will be made on a teacher's college at Hamilton.

Hon. George H. Challies, chairman of the Ontario hydro-electric power commission, reiterated a promise of last week to investigate any complaints of persons being treated unfairly in expropriation of land for the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Peter Manley (L — Stormont) said there was much dissatisfaction by farmers about prices paid for their land. Some owners of small cottages were being offered about $2,000 for homes which would cost them from $10,000 to $12,000 in new townsites, he said.

Mr. Challies, Progressive Conservative member for Grenville-Dundas and a minister without portfolio in the government, denied land owners were being treated unfairly. Both sides of any such story should be known, he said.

Attorney-General Porter said a board of review to be set up by the government will deal with matters relating to taking over of land for the seaway and power development.

Mr. Challies said the government had followed a request by a committee of representatives of seaway communities by setting up the board.

At another point, Premier Frost said almost the entire Ontario civil service will receive wage increases effective April 1.

The premier also said that the government hopes before the end of the year to incorporate in civil service salaries the annual cost-of-living bonus of $120 now being paid them.

He said the increases result from a system of annual increments his government introduced when it came into power in 1943. Prior to that time, no provision had been made for annual increases.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow introduced a bill which provides that municipalities can recover maintenance costs from the estates of residents of homes for the aged.

The bill provides that municipalities or boards of homes for the aged may take legal action when it is determined a deceased resident had money. About 80 per cent of residents of homes for the aged now pay part of the maintenance cost.

The bill, a revision of the Homes for the Aged Act, includes another new section which provides for care of an elderly person in private residences on the recommendation of the superintendent of the home. The province will pay 50 per cent of the cost or $30, depending on which is the lesser amount.

Hurting Defence Effort

OTTAWA (CP)—A charge that poor administration in the federal citizenship department is hurting Canada's defence effort was made Tuesday in the Commons estimates committee.

A Liberal member, A. A. MacNaughton, Montreal Mount Royal, said new Canadians who want to join the armed forces or work at a Montreal jet plane factory are unable to obtain the necessary citizenship papers because of a "terrible" backlog of citizenship applications in Montreal.

Citizenship Minister Pickersgill, whose departmental estimates of expenditures now are being studied by the committee, admitted the Montreal situation is "bad" and said it is "even worse" in Toronto.

'Hall of Fame' Produced At Minimum Cost

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — With television's costs still rising, other producers might give more attention to the technique of Albert McCleery of NBC's "Hall of Fame."

McCleery's theatre-in-the-round approach, with a minimum of scenery and props, is both economical and effective. It focuses attention on performers and play, and minimizes distractions in the background.

McCleery began use of the technique on TV in New York several years ago in a series entitled "Cameo Theatre."

In his current productions out of Hollywood McCleery has compromised with the conventional enough to avoid giving the viewer the feeling that something is missing. But he still uses only the minimum scenery and props necessary to create setting and mood.

Consequently, he produces "Hall of Fame" at lower cost than many shows of lower ratings and lesser stature. The mere moving of scenery and props is a major cost factor in TV programming.

At the same time; he turns out some of the best historical dramas on the air. The program serves as a class in history for youngsters and a good refresher course for adults.

"Hall of Fame," now in its fourth TV season, does not confine itself entirely to history. The sponsor commissioned Gian-Carlo Menotti to write the opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors," which it has presented at Christmas the last four years. It also has done three Shakespearean dramas, Hamlet, Richard II and Macbeth.

Actress Sarah Churchill acted as hostess and narrator for two seasons and returns Sunday night for a guest appearance.

Surveys indicate as many as one-fourth of home TV sets are turned on by noon, but it is mostly housewives who are watching at that hour.

Emanuel Katz, president of a firm that recently switched sponsorship from a tv radio program, advances the belief that a substantial part of daytime viewing is by pre-school youngsters, while their mothers are going about the chores elsewhere in the house, listening to radio.

However, surveys show an increasing percentage of TV sets turned on during daylight hours as more programs with well known talent are presented.

Law Will Give Farm Groups Sweeping Powers to Control Prices of Many Products

TORONTO (CP)—Sweeping powers for farm groups to control, direct or fix the prices of any farm products, or even to prohibit the sale of the products, were contained in legislation introduced in the Ontario legislature Tuesday.

A bill presented by Agriculture Minister Thomas provides for extension and clarification of the powers given farm producers groups and sets out two methods of marketing farm products.

Under 1, any group of producers of a crop may enter either marketing scheme if two-thirds of them vote in favor of it. The scheme would then apply to all producers in the area in which the vote was taken.

One scheme provides for the appointment of equal numbers of representatives of producers and buyers to a negotiating committee which can then set minimum prices and conditions of sale. Under this plan, 1 schemes covering 29 crops are already operating in Ontario.

The other method provides for a private or co-operative marketing organization, appointed by the farmers as their sole agency and under the guidance of the farm products marketing board. Three such schemes, covering four crops including hogs, onions and fresh peaches, are now functioning.

All operations, under either plan must meet with the approval of the Ontario farm products marketing board.

The bill will be given first reading Thursday, Mr. Thomas said it will give Ontario the finest marketing legislation of any province and emphasized that it would not interfere with private enterprise. He said a petition by 10 per cent of any participating group could call for a new vote at any time.

"Ontario has four times as many marketing schemes under this program as all the rest of Canada combined," Mr. Thomas said, "and this has been studied by a score of other countries as an ideal method which protects the primary producer, yet does not do that at the expense of the consumer."

The bill will mainly establish marketing schemes for "canning crops" where prices and sales are regulated to the processors—soy-beans, plums, peas, green and wax beans.

N.Z. Facing Grave Power Crisis Within 10 Years

By J. C. GRAHAM

Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand is eagerly watching experiments in the production of electricity from atomic power, because it is highly likely to face a grave power crisis within 10 years.

Until now New Zealand has depended largely on hydro-electric supplies, because the rivers are well adapted for harnessing for power. The demand has been increasing at an exceptionally rapid rate, however, and difficulty is being found in keeping pace with it.

The chief problem occurs in the north island, which has two-thirds of the country's population and which is developing industrially far faster than the south island.

A chain of large hydro-electric stations has been built along the Waikato river, chief river in the north island, but it is calculated that soon after 1960 the limit of such development will be reached.

The south island, with its large swift-flowing rivers and large high altitude lakes, offers almost infinite scope for hydro-electric works, but no economic method has been found of transmitting power across the wide and stormy Cook strait between the two islands. As far as can be seen at present any such scheme would be enormously costly and would involve very heavy power losses.

There is only small scope for coal or other fuel-burning stations owing to limited supplies, and full development of these resources would take care of only a year or so of the increase in demand. The other source of power being exploited is the supplies of superheated natural steam lying underground in the thermal region in the centre of the north island. Years of test boring have yielded very promising results and the first power station now is being designed.

Two of the country's leading scientists have given warnings, after a survey of all possible future electricity supplies, that the north island will be in a desperate position after 15 years in finding any new power. It could mean an end of the boom which has made the north island one of the fastest developing industrial areas in the Pacific.

The scientists declare that the best hope for the future is that atomic power stations will be sufficiently developed by that time that they can supply electricity at competitive costs.

WAMPOLE'S

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reading in the living room and it was still raining outside but not much, and I was suppose to stay in the house as long as it was raining any, and I wondered what ma would say if I asked her if I could go out, and I said, Ch ma, look, its hardly drizzeling.

I can hear it without looking, ma said.

Proving there was no use asking, even for luck, and I thought, Oh boy, if I ask her and she dont answer me, that means silence gives consent and I can go out.

And I said, Hay, ma, can I go out a while?

Not hardly hearing myself saying it, on account of saying it like a ventriloquist without hardly moving my mouth, and ma said, What's all that mumbling about?

Not saying whether I could go out or not being exactly silence and I thought, Heck, I better ask her still lower.

Which I did, asking her so low she couldn't of heard me with a millescope, and ma didn't say anything, and I thought, Oh boy silence.

And I walked out of the room easy, but ma heard me out in the hall putting on my slicker, and she said, Benny, what are you doing?

You said I could go out, ma, I said, and she said, When did I say say such thing for land sakes?

And I started to tell her about silence giving consent, and I changed my mind on find thoughts, thinking, Heck, it might be too hard to explain. And I said, Oh well, I guess maybe I misunderstood you ma.

I just guess you did, the idea, ma said.

Being the end of the subject and not making me feel too unlucky, on account of none of the other fellows being out anyways.

OPPOSITION CALLS

"In the face of this complete and total failure, I see nothing else for him, after having made a general confession, than to depart immediately from government leadership and public life and leave to others with more competence and better intentions the duty of correcting this serious problem immediately."

There was no immediate reaction to Mr. Dufresne's suggestion. The debate continues today on an opposition non-confidence motion calling for the overthrow of the government because of increasing unemployment.

Tuesday's debate also showed a difference of opinion between two CCF members on the taxation policies needed to meet the situation.

Ross Thatcher (CCF — Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) urged a "deep and substantial" cut in corporation incomes taxes to encourage business expansion.

Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) said tax reductions should go not to corporations but to individuals in the lower — income brackets.

He said private enterprise is a "straight gangster machine with an economic gun pointed at the head of the government." The only solution to unemployment was a government with power to exercise controls. Instead, the present government could say nothing to those who actually controlled the country's economy.

New Freedom from IRREGULARITY
Gentle, natural relief from common constipation —used by millions!
You've probably tried lots of laxatives. But do you know about Kellogg's All-Bran? It's the original natural laxative cereal pioneered by W. K. Kellogg nearly 40 years ago. All-Bran is a delicious dish that promotes comfortable elimination.
Relief from Constipation
The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage. All-Bran, is made from the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel and supplies natural food bulk. Just eat daily a one ounce serving for breakfast and drink plenty of water. It will improve your "Intestinal Tone" so no necessary to comfortable regularity.
Satisfaction Guaranteed or Double Your Money Back
All-Bran is a wholesome, good tasting cereal that has helped millions. We'll prove to you that Kellogg's All-Bran will give you gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or give you double your money back. But be sure you get Kellogg's, the one and only All-Bran. Kellogg's, London, Ontario.
Best liked by Millions

Mr. Thatcher, a Saskatchewan hardware merchant whose economic views often are at variance with official CCF party stands, said outside the chamber that his party does not support his view on reduction of the corporation tax.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) said the government has remained silent at a time when the unemployed are waiting for words of hope. Mr. St. Laurent should put forward measures to counter unemployment when he meets provincial premiers at a planned fiscal conference in April.

John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Haldimand) said the government could solve unemployment by assuring farmers a reasonable price for their products, reducing taxes and through strict administration of the anti-dumping regulations. He said there are unemployed farm laborers "all over this country."

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) denied allegations that the government was doing nothing. He said the St. Lawrence seaway, Nova Scotia's Canso causeway, British Columbia's Kitimat, Manitoba's Lynn lake and other developments are answers to these charges.

AT THE CAPITOL

MICKEY ROONEY'S NEWEST COMEDY

High comedy, slam-bang action and romance mix with international intrigue and atomic blasts to provoke thrills and guffaws in Republic's "The Atomic Kid," opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre with Mickey Rooney and Robert Strauss starred.

"The Atomic Kid" tells the story of a likeable little man who blunders into a military atomic bomb test while searching for uranium in the Nevada desert and lives to tell the tale. Held in a military hospital for scientific observation he can't enjoy the world-wide fame he has so unexpectedly gained but it does bring excitement and romance into his life.

Suspenseful intrigue develops when foreign agents attempt to kidnap Mickey in order to discover the secret of his immunity. Romance comes to Mickey in the form of his beautiful nurse, Elaine Davis, who in private life is Mrs. Mickey Rooney.

With Robert Strauss at his best, there is never a dull moment in "The Atomic Kid."

The second feature story popular John Wayne in the action packed drama "War of the Wildcats", a story of the oil boom in Oklahoma.

AT THE MCCARTHY

GOOD MOVIE PARTS KEEP MARJORIE FROM RETIRING

"When the good parts stop coming I'll quit," is the way Marjorie Main sets to rest the "retirement rumors" that recur with every new picture role she undertakes. And to her, one measure of the importance of that part is the scene-stealing potential of her co-stars, a situation which she found abundantly challenging in "Ricochet Romance," Universal-International's new comedy which opens Thursday at the McCarthy Theatre.

As a matter of fact, "Ricochet Romance" posed more healthy competition for the beloved "Ma" of the fabulous "Kettle" pictures that she has known in many years. Miss Main, who reached stardom herself through her attention-getting antics in

AT THE CAPITOL — John Wayne, popular star heads the cast in the big action spectacle "War of the Wildcats", with Martha Scott, Albert Rateau, George "Gabby" Hayes, Dale Robertson, Walter Coy and Grant Withers. On the screen at the Capitol having its first Belleville showing the sensational laugh riot "The Atomic Kid" starring Mickey Rooney, Robert Strauss (Hanley II) and Elaine Davis. Both hits open Thursday at the Capitol Theatre.

"The Egg and I", 1947 she was up to her neck in "complications" in "Ricochet Romance."

In this farce-ranch riot, she has to compete with the scene stealing talents of such theatrical tricksters as Chill Wills—whose voice has become the trademark of the "Francis" pictures—Alfonso Bedoya and Pedro Gonzales Gonzales—the movies' masters of Mexican malapropisms — and Rudy Vallee, probably the best-known stuffed shirt of the silver screen.

Miss Main, cast as cook Pansy Jones and Wills, who portrays the magic-mad manager of the "Flying W" dude ranch, are also aided and abetted in their riot on the range by Ruth Hampton, Benay Venuta and Darryl Hickman.

"Ricochet Romance" was directed by Charles Lamont, one of Hollywood's best known comedy directors. Robert Arthur produced.

Second feature is "Smoke Signal" in color by technicolor with Dana Andrews and Piper Laurie.

AT THE BELLE — Happiness vs. Security — Elizabeth Taylor, refusing Stewart Granger's offer of marriage, tells him she prefers security to happiness, in a dramatic scene from "Beau Brummell", M.G.M.'s new romantic adventure drama. Others in the stellar cast showing today and Thursday, at the Belle are Peter Ustinov remembered for his Nero of "Quo Vadis", and England's noted stage and screen actor, Robert Morley.

PERMIT GREEN TIES

DETROIT (AP) — Bus-driver sons of Ireland have received permission to be out of uniform at the wheel Thursday. That is St. Patrick's Day and on that day they may wear green, instead of black ties. Thomas H. O'Brien, president of Detroit's Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, wrote Mayor Albert E. Cobo that "it was very distressing to the Irishmen of Detroit" last year when bumen were forbidden to wear green ties on March 17.

The Parachutist from Lachute

A good example of the many men in the army his country in the Army is Company Sergeant-Major F. A. Lynch. Originally from Lachute, P.Q. he is now a parachutist in the famed Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. He is just one of the many men who helps to train and mould the best, alert soldiers who form Canada's reliable striking force — men who are making an outstanding contribution to Furthering our way of life.

"Hit the Silk!"

A term short and portentous are all on their minutes. Within minutes they are on the ground organized and ready for action.

The speed of modern airpower combined with the courage and training of Canada's paratroopers means added safety for us all. It means that we can rush troops to any part of the large territory which is ours — ours to enjoy and project.

Behind this ability to move defence forces quickly and effectively is a long line of planning and organization. Men, machines, weapons . . . a great fire-wire team — men of the Infantry, Engineers, Service Corps, Medical Corps, Artillery, Signals and Ordnance Corps — dedicated to one aim, to protect Canada and our great heritage of freedom.

The Army continues to need good men — men to train as paratroopers and tradesmen. There is need for doctors, dentists, and all the other skills and professions of civilian life. In the Army they will find excellent careers with good pay, pensions, opportunities for advancement and, above all, a chance to play a part in protecting this country and our free way of life.

To be eligible you must be 17 to 40 years of age, skilled tradesmen to 45. When applying bring birth certificate or other proof of age.
